Poets and novelists go into ecstacies over what they romantically call "beautiful spring," and "gentle spring," and while, no doubt, every one is glad to see winter release its icy grasp, "beautiful spring" is, after all, one of the most deadly seasons of the year. Sudden transitions from warmth to extreme cold, with piercing, chilling winds; from dry to sloppy, "muggy" weather, all combine to make the season a most trying one, even to the hardiest constitution, while to those with weak constitutions the season is one of positive danger. Undoubtedly the greatest danger at this season of the year is from cold in the head, which very few escape, and which, if not promptly and thoroughly treated, developes into catarrh, with all its disagreeable and loathsome effects. Catarrh, neglected, almost as certainly developes into consumption, annually destroying thousands of lives. At this trying season no household should be without a bottle of Nasal Balm. In cases of cold in the head it gives almost instant relief and effects a speedy cure, thus preventing the development of catarrh. Where the latter disease has already secured a hold it is equally efficacious, and with persistent use will cure the worst case. From the outset it sweetens the breath, stops the nauseous droppings into the throat and lungs, dispels those dull headaches that afflict the sufferer from catarrh. Nasal Balm is not advertised as a cure-all—it is an honest remedy which never fails to cure cold in the head or catarrh when the directions are faithfully followed, and thousands throughout the country have reason to bless its discovery. Nasal Balm may be had from all dealers or will be sent post-paid on receipt of price (50 cents, small, or $1, large size bottle,) by addressing Fulford & Co., Brockville, Ont.

Mother Annex to Her Suckling

Gently slumber, infant darling,
  Recline your head upon my breast,
Nestle close to thy fond mother,
  Angels guard thee, loved one, rest.

O, my little dear one, rest thee,
  Fond, anxious arms do thee entwine;
Enraptured love, life's dearest pleasure,
  Shall ever in true virtue shine.

I will cherish, love and keep thee,
  Fret not, though adverse the vote;
Let me cuddle and embrace thee,
  O, my fondling, grieve me not.

SUCKLING TO HER ANNEX MAMMA.

O, mother dear, let not my sorrows
  Sink deep into your loving heart;
Assuage my grief, calm down my throbbings,
  True comfort to your son impart.

Cast down with grief, bowed down with sorrow,
  Though nestled by a mother's arm,
These loving stars may yet shine o'er us
  To guard, protect and shield from harm.

Although the stripes hang sad and furled,
  Commercial Union's golden brow
No sympathy finds from three crosses,
  The Union Jack that guards us now.

Yet will the day of those fond wishes
  Our hands and hearts in one entwine,
To usher in the day of union
  When thou art mine and I am thine.

N.P. AND U.J. TO THE SUCKLING AND MAMMA

Dear youth, shun such delusive phantoms,
  You stars and stripes can never wave
On Freedom's soil; our fair Dominion
  Can never hold nor own a slave.

Though Hail Columbia may excite thee,
  Our maple leaf still waveth green;
True patriots, loyal hearts rejoicing,
  We yet shall sing "God Save the Queen."

Personal.

We extract the following despatch from Singapore from the Plymouth, Eng., Morning News of March 5th:—

"The Czarewitch landed here at four o'clock this afternoon. Salutes were fired, and the yards of the ships in the harbor were manned. Large numbers of the European community assembled on the pier, where the Prince was received by Sir Cecil Clementi-Smith, the Governor, and the other high officials, the band of the Northamptonshire Regiment, with the colors, being drawn up on the landing stage. The Czarewitch drove to Government House, the road being lined by crowds of people. He returned at five o'clock, and re-embarked with the same ceremony."

The Sir C. Clementi-Smith referred to above is a nephew of the Rev. V. Clementi, and a brother of the former curate of Peterborough.

BEGINNINGS OF THE GOSPEL.

An Interesting Lecture by Rev. Canon Mockridge in St. John's.

The Wednesday evening Lenten lecture was delivered in St. John's church last (Wednesday) evening by Rev. Canon Mockridge, of Holy Trinity Church, Toronto. There was a very good attendance, and after the Evening Service the lecturer of the evening took up his subject and dealt with it in a clear and simple, yet earnest and interesting manner.

A WONDERFUL BOOK.

Canon MOCKRIDGE, in commencing, said that certainly the most wonderful book that was ever written was the Holy Bible. They judged of the popularity and importance of a book largely by its circulation, and judged in that way the Bible was a most wonderful book, not only on account of its present great circulation, but this had been going on for hundreds of years and there seemed to be no end to the desire to read it. There was a wider circulation of the Holy Scriptures to-day than of any book ever written. He wished, he said, to call their attention especially to the four Gospels. They were written in such simplicity of style that children might read, understand and enjoy them, and that the most illerate might glean comfort from them, yet they were the foundation of more learning than any other works and men of the greatest learning had spent their lives in studying them. What was the reason that these books held their own so strongly and that men of gigantic intellects failed to get at the foundation of all contained in them? Men had also studied them with a view to upsetting them. Some said they were so much alike that they were copies one of the other, while others said that they were so dissimilar that they contradicted each other. These objections could not both be used against the Scriptures—the one answered the other and they proved the wonderful power of the Book itself. Turn the Scriptures over as they might, they would always, like the pyramid, point upwards to God.

He wished to refer to the beginnings of the Gospel as told by these four writers. They professed to give the life of a certain Person and to be biographies of that Person. Ordinary biographers began with the birth and parentage of the person whose life they described. Each one of the writers of the Gospel had a different idea of the beginning. Mark began by saying "the beginning of the gospel of Jesus Christ, the Son of God." He went on to tell of John the Baptist, and then immediately plunged into the life of Christ. Mark, a practical man, wanted to tell what Christ did for man and His teaching. Matthew took them back to the days of Abraham. He wrote the Gospel of "Jesus Christ, the son of David, the son of Abraham." His idea was that the wonderful life he was going to unfold commenced with the old Jewish dispensation, that the decrees of God went further back than the public life of Christ and that His work rested on the law and the prophets. If they studied the Old Testament as to Christ they would not find a more important event than the call of Abraham—from him a great nation was to arise and in him all nations were to be blest. The Jews kept their genealogies carefully, and there was given a list, in fourteen groups, of the genealogy from Abraham to Christ. Thus Christ was connected with God's design in calling Abraham, and Christ came into the world as a result of a design in the Divine mind. The gospel of Luke was the work of a scholar. It was a charming gospel, and contained much that the others had omitted and some of the most lovely teachings of Christ. What was his idea of the commencement? He gives the connecting links from Christ to Adam "which was the son of God." Jesus was the only person in all history for whom there had been set up a claim of lineal descent from Adam. The time when Adam was created, when in his innocence, he might indeed be called the son of God, and Christ, lineally descended from him, might also well be called the Son of God. When a fiendish crime was committed by a man, they asked, could it be possible that he was created in the image of God? Yet when they looked at the many beautiful things done by men they say, after all it is true that a being like that may be made in the image of God. And in man himself is the proof of his divine origin, and also the proof of his fall. The one shines out in all its glory, and the other is shown in all its baseness. Luke told that Christ was connected with the history of the race from the time it was created. The four gospels were in themselves a unique book and greatly to be prized. Although they were similar, yet each had a separate individuality. In John things told in other gospels were omitted, but a full account of the mind of Christ was given. And who was better qualified to do that than the loving disciple John? And what was his idea of the beginning of the gospel? "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. The same was in the beginning with God. All things were made by Him; and without Him was not anything made that was made." This gospel was a supplement to the others. It took them back to the bosom of the Father, to that mysterious time referred to in the beginning of the Bible itself, "In the beginning." Mark at once began the account of Christ's ministerial work, the others traced his genealogy to an early day, and in John they saw that earthly genealogy was after all as little compared with the fact that God was in Christ and Christ in God, and that their lives were blended together in the beginning. A similar line of thought might be taken in regard to other parts of these works. They as Christians ought to prize these books. The other parts of the Bible ought to be prized, but there was a charm, a beauty about the life of Christ, and they should study it and show in their lives that they had been with Christ. They should study that beautiful life, as it was unfolded in the four Gospels, and it would be a guide to their lives, as it would be their strength in death.

PATRONS OF INDUSTRY.

THE FARMERS OF THE COUNTRY ORGANIZING.

A New Society to Protect the Farmers Which is Rapidly Assuming Mighty Proportions—About 1,200 Members in the County of Peterborough in Six Weeks—A County Branch Organized—The Officers Elected.

Yesterday afternoon over five hundred farmers assembled in the spacious hall in the new market building for the purpose of organising a county branch of the society known as the Patrons of Industry. Mr. Richard Brock, a farmer from the county of Middlesex, who is provincial organizer of the newly founded society, and who was appointed special organizer for the county of Peterborough, has been working among the farmers of this county for a couple of weeks with remarkable results.

The organization is a secret one, and its detailed aims and objects are not made public. However, in general terms, the society has been brought into existence for the purpose of organizing the farmers to protect their interests against combines, to better their facilities for buying and selling, etc. The founders of the society, looking at the farmers as the only unorganized body in the community, formulated a constitution and by-laws, and took in hand the inauguration of a complete organization of the farming community throughout the country. Their success, judging from this county, has been phenomenal. On the 22nd of March, 1890, the society was founded, and since its inception there has been a steady and rapid increase in membership. The whole country is being organized from the County of Lambton to the remotest township in the Province of Quebec. The organization is founded on principles closely akin to those of the Farmers' Alliance in the United States. It is entirely non-political and non-sectarian. All farmers and laborers are eligible for membership.

On the 29th of January the work of organization was commenced in this county, and to-day in the neighborhood of twelve hundred farmers throughout Peterborough County are members. Twenty-six branches have been organized in the different townships, and the farmers are evincing an enthusiastic interest in the society.

At the meeting yesterday afternoon for the formation of a county branch, Mr. Brock, the organizer, presided, while the outside door was duly tyied and the market hall converted for the afternoon into a lodge, entrance into which could only be gained by the pass-word or voucher of some friend inside. Mr. Brock explained the constitution of the society and its aims and objects, and after satisfactorily arranging all preliminaries, the election of officers was proceeded with, resulting as follows:

PRESIDENT—John Lang, ex-M.P., of Otonabee.

VICE-PRESIDENT—Wm. Irwin, of Douro.

SECRETARY—F. W. Grills, of Otonabee.

TREASURER—M. Sullivan, of Douro.

SENTINEL—Augustus Waibbe, of Indian River.

The meeting was an enthusiastic one, frequent bursts of applause penetrating the walls and reaching the ears of the reporters waiting in the lobby. After the closing ceremonies the gathering united with patriotic fervor in singing the National Anthem.

SCOTTISH STARS.

The McLennan Royal Edinburgh Company at the Opera House.

It was decidedly to be regretted that there was only a small audience at the Opera House last evening to greet the McLennan Royal Edinburgh Concert Company, the talented artists from Auld Scotia who have been delighting Canadian audiences with their unusually excellent and brilliant programmes of song, music, and humor. To Scotchmen especially the programme was one which could not fail to enthuse and warm the cockles of the heart in which were treasured patriotic memories of the old land. Those who were present had an evening of unalloyed enjoyment and were most demonstrative in their manifestations of appreciation, every number being applauded to the echo and encores demanded, although the latter requests were not always acceded to. It is unnecessary to comment in extense upon the nineteen numbers which composed the programme, but sufficient it is to say that the eulogies and strong words of praise which heralded the visit were none too emphatic and will be heartily endorsed by all present. The company is composed of ladies and gentleman, every one of whom is an artist of exceptional talent and ability. Their names have become generally known by the press notices which preceded their appearance.

The company went to Orillia this morning.

Curling Chit-Chat.

Annual point game will be played on Friday afternoon and evening. Afternoon match will begin at 2 30 and it is particularly requested that as many as possible will play in the afternoon match.

Still Improving George-st.

For the past few days workingmen have been engaged making improvements in the front of Mr. J. C. Turnbull's dry goods establishment on George-st. The work has been completed and the result is very satisfactory. Large plate glass windows have been placed in the door side of the show windows, improving immensely the appearance of the store front and the window for exhibiting purposes.

Brevities.

—There was another blank at the police court this morning.

—A man was sent up to gaol for thirty days last evening by the magistrate for abusing his wife.

—The annual meeting of the Cricket Club is to be held this evening in the Olympic club rooms.

A Meeting of Fruit Growers.

On Wednesday next a meeting of the Peterborough Fruit Growers Association is to be held in the Council Chamber to which all persons, whether members or not, are invited to be present and take part in the discussion. A meeting will be held at ten o'clock in the morning and another at two o'clock in the afternoon. The object of the meeting is to secure the experience of all fruit growers in this district as to the most suitable kind of fruit that can be grown here and most suitable to the market, as to the kinds to be avoided and as to the best method of cultivation, etc. In addition to the experience of local men, Mr. Woolverton, editor of the Horticulturist, and Mr. Allen, of Toronto, will be present and speak on subjects of interest to fruit growers. The interested public is cordially invited.

ASHBURNHAM'S ASSESSMENT.

The Assessors Complete Their Labors and Return the Roll—Some of the Figures.

Messrs. J. Stephenson and F. Dover, assessors for the village of Ashburnham, have completed their labors and the rolls have been returned to Mr. John Wood, Village Clerk. The assessors have made good time in finishing their work, as this is several weeks in advance of the usual time of making the returns.

The figures show that the past year has been one in which the village has more than held its own. There is an increase in the total assessment, and in the number of ratepayers. The following figures from the recapitulation have been extracted and for the sake of comparison the corresponding totals for last year are also given:—

THE Y.M.C.A. BUILDING.

A Site for the Association Home Secured—The Building to be Erected.

The first steps towards the erection of a building for the Young Men's Christian Association of the town have been taken and it is expected that before long work will be begun. A site has been secured at the corner of George and Murray-sts., opposite the Central Park. The lot has 60 feet frontage on George-st. and runs back 104 feet on Murray-st.

The committee of the Y.M.C.A. which was appointed to attend to this matter, composed of Messrs. Geo. J. Early, G. M. Roger, J. W. Bennet and R. J. Colville, had a conference yesterday with the executors of Mrs. Nicholls' estate, Messrs. R. Hall and C. McGill, at which Mr. T. S. Cole, Travelling Secretary of the Y.M.C.A., was also present. It was at this meeting that the question of the site was decided and other steps taken towards the erection of the building.

The executors and the committee had plans before them, but none was decided upon. However, the building will cover the whole lot, as it will be necessary to do so to provide for the requirements of the Association. It will be either two or three storeys high, with a basement, and will contain a reading room, parlor, amusement room, library, lecture room, boys' room, gymnasium, baths, class rooms, etc.

It is expected that the building and equipment will cost about $22,000. In addition to the $15,000 of Mrs. Nicholls' bequest which is devoted to the building fund, $7,000 more will be required, and the Association is confident that friends of the work will provide that amount. The Association requires a building in which all departments of the work may be carried on and one which will be sufficient for years to come, and owing to the munificent bequest of Mrs. Nicholls the hope its officers have had that such a place would be provided is about to be realized.

Plans are being prepared for the building, which will be submitted to the executors and the committee. Mr. Cole will return next month and assist the Association in the preparations and in raising the additional sum required.

Telephonic.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—I was pleased to notice in your issue of last evening the announcement regarding the Ontario Telephone Company, which showed that the Company was making such great headway in the face of the tactics pursued by this "natural monopoly." It shows that the company were right in their estimate of the loyalty of the people of this town to support home enterprise. Of course in every town a few will be found who want "something for nothing," but the great majority, who like to pay for what they get, are loyally supporting the home company. On account of the superior service given, and from the fact of their breaking the monopoly prices and bringing the prices of instruments within the reach all, and from the enterprise shown by the home company in the face of such a monopoly, I think they are entitled to the support of all those who are interested in our town's welfare. In these local companies all the money that is made or spent remains in our town.

I was asked, nay urged, by the agent of the Bell Company a short time ago to allow him to place one of his instruments in my place of business, he stating that it would not cost me anything. I asked him how long a contract he would give me at that price and he said "till they had killed the Ontario Telephone Company." I asked him what the price would be when they had accomplished this feat. He said "he could not say, but you may bet that the Bell Company would not be out a cent in consequence of this opposition." Though I am not specially interested in any way in this company I feel the same interest towards it that I feel in any town enterprise, and for this reason I ask for a little space in valuable paper to express my appreciation in a humble way and to encourage the promoters of this enterprise, hoping that others may do the same.

I remain,
Yours truly,

Constipation,

If not remedied in season, is liable to become habitual and chronic. Drastic purgatives, by weakening the bowels, confirm, rather than cure, the evil. Ayer's Pills, being mild, effective, and strengthening in their action, are generally recommended by the faculty as the best of aperients.

"Having been subject, for years, to constipation, without being able to find much relief, I at last tried Ayer's Pills. I deem it both a duty and a pleasure to testify that I have derived great benefit from their use. For over two years past I have taken one of these pills every night before retiring. I would not willingly be without them."—G. W. Bowman, 26 East Main st., Carlisle, Pa.

"I have been taking Ayer's Pills and using them in my family since 1857, and cheerfully recommend them to all in need of a safe but effectual cathartic."—John M. Boggs, Louisville, Ky.

"For eight years I was afflicted with constipation, which at last became so bad that the doctors could do no more for me. Then I began to take Ayer's Pills, and soon the bowels recovered their natural and regular action, so that now I am in excellent health."—S. L. Loughbridge, Bryan, Texas.

"Having used Ayer's Pills, with good results, I fully indorse them for the purposes for which they are recommended."—T. Conners, M. D., Centre Bridge, Pa.

BEATRIX RANDOLPH.

BY JULIAN HAWTHORNE.

Certainly Beatrix needed a mother at this epoch of her career. The peculiar conditions under which she was making her entrance into the world rendered her especially defenseless. She was not only ignorant (as any girl brought up in the seclusion of home is likely to be) of the ways and wickedness of mankind, but the strict necessity of her incognito cut her off from the support and society of both her father and of all the other relatives and friends who should naturally be around her. She was not herself, and she was somebody wholly different from herself as well. Furthermore she was a singer, with all the sensitiveness and the liability to emotional impressions that the musical temperament implies. Upon the whole a young woman can select no career more dangerous than that upon which Beatrix had just entered, and the external circumstances which attended her entrance could scarcely have been more untoward.

Meanwhile the subject most constantly present to her thoughts, since it gave color to everything else, was her assumed character of the Marana. To be herself began to appear in the light of something criminal. Everything depended upon maintaining the deception. Nor could she disguise from herself that the men she met treated her with a sort of freedom to which she was quite unaccustomed. This perplexed and annoyed her, and Mrs. Bumax, when she appealed to her, only smiled and said she mustn't mind them. Finally she thought it would be a good idea to ask information of Mr. Jocelyn.

"Fellows bother you, do they?" said that gentleman in answer to her complaint, with a reassuring smile. "Well, ma'mselle, you know we mustn't be too particular about that. When we have been on the stage a little longer we shall learn to look upon all men as our brothers, and not mind a little fun. Besides, you know, you are the famous and invincible Marana, and are supposed to be able to settle all such Jack-a-dandies with one hand, so to speak!"

"I don't understand you," said Beatrix, with a slight flush.

"Well, my dear, the amount of it all is they mean no harm, and they've heard so many stories about the Marana's adventures that they feel justified in trying to find out what she's made of. The fact is, you know, she's said to be a little hazarde—dangerous—as soon ruin a man as look at him, and you must act out the character."

"Do you mean that I should pretend to be anything that is not—good?"

"Oh! no, no—not that, of course. Only a sort of give and take, live and let live style—that's what you want."

"If they think I am different from what I am, in any bad way," continued Beatrix, "I will either tell them who I am or give up the whole thing." Her voice trembled.

"Now, my good little prima donna, don't you say anything so foolish!" said Jocelyn, taking her hand in his and patting it. "Come, you know me don't you? and you know whether or not Hamilton Jocelyn would permit any one to insult you? Very well, then; you're as safe, if the worst comes to the worst, as if you were sealed up in the center of the pyramid of Cheops! But what I want you to learn is to have courage—to hold your own bravely, and not to be too squeamish about what the people you meet with say and do. The world always seems queer and a little disagreeable when one is first brought in contact with it—full of people not a bit like our quiet folks out in the country. But we can't change the world, can we? All we can do is to take things as they are, and make the best of it. If we are all right nothing can really hurt us. But we must have courage, we musn't be afraid, we mustn't talk of giving up! We must be a little woman of the world. Every woman must be who intends to accomplish anything, let alone to make such a reputation as lies before you. It's a little freemasonry we all have to learn, nothing more; and, as I said, though you won't love me—naughty child!—yet you can't help trusting your father's old friend: and as a matter of course you will come to me if you get into any real scrape. I shall be only too ready to assist you: but I don't want to seem officious either to you or to others, and I want you to fight your own way as much as possible at first. It will make it all the easier for you hereafter. Don't let yourself be put upon, of course, but don't altogether forget that you're the Marana either. If you manage it cleverly her name ought to be a help to you rather than the contrary."

"In what way?"

"Oh, the sharper the fight the sooner over, you know, and the more decisive," said Jocelyn, laughing. "Yes, it is an advantage in every way. If you were entered in the lists in your own name, with your father and all your friends to fall back on, you would be falling back all the time. You would be trusting to their strength instead of to your own. But since you're alone you'll discover your own force, and make it evident to the others into the bargain."

"But will not papa live in the hotel with me?"

"My gracious, no!" exclaimed Jocelyn, lifting his hands in half playful consternation. "In the eyes of the world, remember he's nothing but a respectable old gentleman in no sort of way related to you. To have him in attendance on you would be most—what shall I say?—inexpedient; and if it led to nothing else, it might lead to his true relationship being found out. No, you may see him occasionally, of course, but on the same footing as any other chance acquaintance. Ha, ha! You wouldn't want to compromise your own father, would you? not to speak of being compromised by him?"

"Well, I certainly am alone!" said Beatrix gravely.

"In appearance, yes; but so long as Hamilton Jocelyn is alive you'll have an unfailing resource."

"I should compromise you as well," said she, looking at him fixedly. He made a laughing gesture of depreciation.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

Women Franchise—No Money to be Borrowed From British Capitalists.

TORONTO, March 19.—The Legislature met for half an hour yesterday.

In reply to Mr. Waters, Mr. Mowat said it was not the intention of the Government to bring in at this session a bill to enable women to vote for members of the Legislative Assembly. As to any future session the Government had not agreed or formed any opinion on the subject.

Replying to Mr. Waters again, Mr. Mowat said it was not the intention of the Government during this session of this Parliament to introduce any bill or measure having for its object the borrowing of money from British capitalists at English money market rates and the loaning of the same to farmers who may have their farms mortgaged. They all mourned the condition of the farmer, but were of opinion that no such scheme was practicable.

Mr. Monk asked when was Thomas Murray appointed to the office of sheriff of the county of Renfrew? Does he still hold the office? If not, when and how did he cease to hold it?

Mr. Mowat, in reply, said Mr. Murray was appointed to the office Jan. 21, 1890. He does not now hold the office, having resigned on Feb. 16, 1891. The resignation was accepted.

Messrs. S. T. Wood, C. Armstrong and B. Kirke, representing the Single Tax Association, asked Mr. Hardy to adopt a system of royalties on the output of mines in the mining regulations which are now in process of incubation.

Dr. Bryce of the Provincial Board of Health and Dr. Rae of Oshawa wanted section 30 of the Public Health Act amended so as to make it compulsory on municipalities to adopt the best practicable method of waterworks. As it is now, the plans of waterworks are submitted to the board, but there is no obligation to adopt the board's suggestions.

Mr. W. K. Patteson and Ald. Maguire of St. Catharines invoked the aid of the Attorney-General to make legal a bylaw of that city granting $10,000 to a streetcar factory, the bylaw not receiving the requisite number of votes through a misunderstanding as to the number required.

Messrs. C. E. Britton of Gananoque and J. G. Judd of Toronto wanted to know what Mr. Hardy was going to do with regard to the jurisdiction, disputed between Dominion and Province, over the inland lake fisheries, and also what was the scope of the fish part of the Fish and Game Commission.

Frontenac's Registrar.

KINGSTON, March 18.—The appointement of Ald. J. D. Thompson to the registrarship of the county of Frontenac is announced.

A Serious Battle

The political battle is over, but the battle with disease must be constantly and unceasingly waged else the grim reaper will come out victorious, and loved ones will be gathered to their long homes. On all sides may be seen pale and listless girls who should be enjoying the health and glow of rosy youth. Everywhere we are met with women young in years, yet prematurely old, who suffer in silence almost untold agonies, the result of those ailments peculiar to the female system. To all such, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills come as a blessing. They restore wasted vitality, build up the nervous system, enrich the blood, and transform pale and sallow complexions into glowing, rosy cheeks that alone follow perfect health. In a word they are a certain cure for all those distressing complaints to which women and girls are peculiarly liable. A trial of these pills will convince the most sceptical of their wonderful merit. For suffering men Dr. William's Pink Pills are equally efficacious. For overwork, mental strain, loss of sleep, nervous debility, and all those diseases that lead to broken-down manhood, they are a certain specific, stimulating the brain, reinforcing the exhausted system and restoring shattered vitality. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are nature's restorative and should be used by every weak and debilitated person. For sale by all dealers or sent post paid on receipt of price (50 cents a box) by addressing the Dr. Williams Medicine Co. Brockville, Ont.

Our Hope Depends on Women.

The best physicians in Canada know well that women of all ranks and conditions suffer more or less from nervous troubles. The keen, practical eye can detect the nervous woman on the street, in the church, or in the home. Women who are thus afflicted with weak nerves and twitching muscels, know of their infirmity; and many of them endeavor to isolate themselves from society and the world. This nervousness, if unchecked and unheeded, will soon develop other serious troubles, the result of which are terrible to contemplate. Science has brought to such afflicted women that great nerve builder and strengthener, Paine's Celery Compound, which, if used, will surely banish every trace of nervousness, and strengthen every twitching muscel. It will build up a vigorous and strong constitution, and give a rosy glow of health to the pallid and faded cheek. Women of Canada, you owe a duty to your family, to the community, and to your country! Our future greatness as a nation depends upon your vigor and health. Paine's Celery Compound will supply your needs and enable you to enjoy life, and you will thus become a joy to all around you.

CHANGE OF BUSINESS

I beg to announce to my late customers that I have sold out my business to Messrs. Hilliard & Peplow, and would bespeak for them the same support as you have accorded me.

C. N. BROWN.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

For some time past we have thought that a strictly cash business in Flour, Feed and Provisions could be successfully carried on in Peterborough, and to test this question we have purchased the above business from Mr C. N. Brown, who will still continue as manager, in Flavelle's Old Stand, Simcoe-st.

In order to be successful we intend to make it the interest of every one to pay cash with order by selling at wholesale prices.

We will positively give no credit and cash customers will not have to keep up the losses made by others on the credit system.

We will keep a full supply of

and our customers need not fear that the quality of the goods will be lowered to make up for the reduction in prices.

We are simply giving them the benefit of the margin necessary to cover losses and interest charges incurred in the credit system.

Goods delivered to any part of the town or Ashburnham.

SHOT THE BAILIFF DOWN.

PROBABLY MURDER NEAR KINCARDINE LAST NIGHT.

A Farmer Opens Fire on a Bailiff Who Was About to Seize His Property—Two Bullets Lodged in His Breast—The Would-be Murderer in Custody.

THE DYNAMITE EXPLODED.

One Miner Loses an Eye, Another A Foot, Two Others Will Die.

HALIFAX, N.S., March 19.—A shocking accident occurred at Malaga gold mines, Queen's county, last evening. A miner named Croft was carrying about 15 pounds of dynamite in a kettle and had just got out of the shaft house when it exploded. The shaft house was completely demolished and the blacksmith shop wrecked. Croft was knocked senseless and received several bodily injuries. Three men named McGinnis, Moore and Bland who were in the blacksmith shop were seriously hurt, McGinnis not being expected to live. Moore had an eye knocked out and Bland a foot taken off. The cause of the explosion is unknown, but it is supposed a spark from Croft's lantern fell on the dynamite.

SOARED AMONG THE MAIDENS.

His Wings Were Those of Cupid and They Got Him in Trouble.

MILTON, March 18.—Hugh Foster, aged 3[illegible], of Islington was committed for trial today on the charge of bigamy. Foster was married on Oct. 1, 1873, at the residence of Frank Reid, Trafalgar township, to Maria Smith, who is still living. Rev Samuel C. Philpps, Methodist minister of Weston, deposed that on the 3rd inst. he married the prisoner to Annie C. Clarkson, the prisoner being described in the license as a "bachelor" and Miss Clarkson as a "spinster." Witness has known Miss Clarkson, who is a pretty young woman of 2[illegible], for 25 years. When asked by the mayor what he had to say in his defence the prisoner answered: "All I have to say is that I have not lived with Maria Smith for nearly two years, that when we parted I thought we arranged not to live with each other as man and wife any longer. She had taken up with another man named Andy Smith. No relation to her, but of the same name. That I did not take up with Miss Clarkson under secrecy."

Prisoner was prominent in religious and temperance circles here before removing to Islington.

ACCUSED HIS WIFE OF BIGAMY.

But Failing to Prove the Second Marriage the Case Fell Through.

PLATTSVILLE, March 19.—Considerable interest was manifested in the case of bigamy which was entered against Mrs. Hame (alias Blum) by her husband, Stephen Hame of Little Germany, which was heard before Jared Kilborn. Plaintiff, not having lived with his wife for nearly two years, accused her of marrying one John Blum, with whom she is living at present. As the defendant could not produce any positive evidence to show that a second marriage had been performed, relying merely upon the remarks made by the defendant in general conversation and some newspaper paragraphs, the charge could not be sustained and was therefore dismissed by the presiding magistrate.

The Czar and the Shah.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 19.—The Czar of Russia has presented the Shah of Persia with 3[illegible] Kirghis horses of the purest breed and a modern battery of artillery with four guns, which are being conveyed to Teheran under an escort of Cossacks. The increasing intimacy between the two sovereigns is looked on with much disfavor by other nations. The Shah is too willing to sell his territory to the Russians, and through Persia lies England's most direct route to India.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA.

THE CAPTAIN OF THE UTOPIA ARRESTED.

Parnell to Resign his Seat for Cork—The Latest Parisian Horror — Gladstone's Narrow Escape From Death—The Newfoundland Question in the Imperial Parliament.

GIBRALTAR, March 19.—Capt. McKeague of the Utopia has been arrested for wrongful accounts, improper conduct, negligence and mismanagement.

The accounts given by divers at work on the wrecked Utopia of the terrible sights which they have witnessed increase the appalling character of the catastrophe. The seamen say they found the hatches and the chartroom of the Utopia closely packed with the bodies of the unfortunate passengers, who had become wedged into an almost solid mass in their frantic rush to reach the decks after the steamer crashed into the ram of the ironclad. The positions of the bodies show there was a terrible struggle for life.

Owing to lack of accommodation in the naval hospital here many of the rescued have been compelled to encamp on the Glasier. The military are patrolling the spot for the purpose of securing any bodies that may be washed in by the waves.

The inhabitants of this place who witnessed the disaster are unstinted in their praise of the great gallantry displayed by the men of the British squadron, who hurried to the rescue of the endangered passengers in small boats on an angry sea, in the teeth of a heavy gale. Much praise is also bestowed on the men of the yacht Resolute, who manned a boat and saved 16 persons.

The two blue jackets of the British ironclad Immortalite who were drowned by their boats drifting on the rocks were buried today with full honors.

The inquiry into the disaster began to-day. Surgeon Sellar of the ill-fated steamer said the voyage had been uneventful before the disaster. Shortly after passing Europa Point at 6 o'clock in the evening he heard a passenger exclaim, "We are running into a man-of-war." Whilst the vessel was sinking Surgeon Sellar undressed himself, jumped overboard and was soon rescued. He heard the captain and mate ordering the boats lowered after the collision. He had implicit confidence in the captain.

The Utopia was in first-class condition, having recently been overhauled and put in order at an expense of £5000. Her crew, however, was totally inadequate to her requirements, numbering only 50, and this fact was doubtless greatly contributory to the enormous loss of life, for had there been a sufficient number of men on board some of the boats, if the vessel had any, could have been launched even in the short time intervening between the collision and the sinking of the ship. Inquiry as to whether the vessel was not short-handed will constitute one of the principal features of the investigation which will follow.

The two sailors who were drowned belonged to the Immortalite. Their names are James Crotton, able seaman, and George Hains, stoker.

The Dead Number 5[illegible].

GIBRALTAR, March 19.—The revised official count of the lost and saved passengers and crew of the ill-fated steamer Utopia shows there were 880 souls on board the steamer. Of this number the saved include 250 steerage passengers, two saloon passengers, three Italian interpreters and 23 of the crew, all the latter being Englishmen or men who had shipped at English ports.

Another British Ship Missing.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 19.—London advices say the British ship Malaysia, hence Aug. 6 for Queenstown, is posted as missing. Fear has existed here for some months that the Malaysia sank with all hands, numbering 26. She left here with the ship Ventura, loaded with wheat, but Sept. 20 the Ventura returned demoralized, having passed through a fearful hurricane.

Relics From a Wreck.

LONDON, March 19.—A number of barrels containing petroleum have been washed ashore at Beachy Head. They apparently came from a vessel recently wrecked. Smacks from New Haven have rescued many other barrels of petroleum, supposedly from the same vessel.

Attack on the Priests.

DUBLIN, March 19.—United Ireland says Ireland has had enough of Episcopal domination. Over and over again the bishops have become like wax in the hands of the English politicians, and warned by the failures of the past the Irish will no longer submit blindly to priestly guidance. The pretensions of Archbishop Logan, Primate of all Ireland, would deprive Catholics of their political rights.

Parnell is Dilatory.

CORK, March 19.—The delay of Parnell in responding to Maurice Healey's defiance, in which the latter announced he was ready to take up the former's challenge that they should both resign their seats in Parliament, has caused the Parnellites of this city to telegraph to Parnell urging him to state his intentions immediately.

It was stated in the lobby of the House of Commons to-day that Mr. Parnell had decided to resign his seat in Parliament in accordance with his challenge to Mr. Healey.

The Conservatives are preparing to contest the seats of Parnell and Healy should they resign. Parnell's dilemma amuses Dublin. Parnell stipulates that before resigning each side must provide two candidates.

The Freeman's Journal article is interpreted to mean Parnell declines to resign.

The Dublin Evening Telegraph declares it would be an indignity for Parnell to answer such an offensive letter as Healey's. If Mr. Healey wants to fight it says let him resign and he will soon find Parnell in Cork.

Polling at North Sligo.

DUBLIN, March 19.—The polling in the Parliamentary contest to take place at North Sligo for the seat made vacant by the death of Peter McDonald will take place on April 2.

Parnell's Veto.

LONDON, March 19.—The Chronicle declares that during the dock strike of 1889 Davitt and Healey urged the National League to subscribe £1000 to aid the strikers and Parnell vetoed the project.

Killed Wife, Child and Mother-in-Law.

PARIS, March 19.—M. Herbelot of the Boulevard Courcelles, believing his wife to be unfaithful, cut her throat last night, strangled the child sleeping beside her and stabbed his mother-in-law to death. He then ran into the back yard half clothed and surrendered himself to the gendarmes.

THE DAY MURDER.

Mrs. Quigley Confesses that She Aided in the Crime.

ROCHESTER, March 19.—Mrs. Quigley, sister of Arthur Hoyt Day, who was hanged at Welland, Ont., Dec. 16, 1890, for wife murder, and who was with him at Niagara Falls Sunday, July 27, when he pushed his wife over the precipice near the whirlpool and was a witness against him on his trial, died here to-day at 2 o'clock. On her deathbed she confessed to her mother that she had incited Arthur to the murder and had helped him to commit it by aiding him in pushing his wife over. She held Mrs. Day's dress skirt over her face and pushed on one shoulder while Day pushed on the other. The mother told the story to a special protective officer here, but this evening positively denied having done it to an associated press reporter.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

Legalization of Salvation Army Marriages in Ontario—The Speaker's Dinner.

TORONTO, March 19.—In the Legislature yesterday Premier Mowat, in moving the second reading of the bill "to further amend the law respecting the solemnization of marriages," made a brief explanation of its scope. The first provision makes valid every marriage duly solemnized according to the rites, usages and customs of the religious Society of Friends, commonly called Quakers, and is also retroactive. The second provision makes valid any marriage hereafter performed by any duly appointed commissioner or staff officer, being a man, of the Salvation Army. The Salvation Army, Mr. Mowat said, was practically a church, but did not call itself so. It has certain officers who occupy the position of the clergy and bishops in other churches, and it wanted the same authority to perform marriages as other denominations. There was no reason why it should not. It was larger now than several bodies already specifically authorized to perform the marriage ceremony. The commissioner occupied the position of a bishop or archbishop and the staff officers the position of the clergy in churches. There were 41 staff officers to 297 preaching stations, and the Army asked that these might have authority to marry. The third provision strikes out the word "pre-contract" wherever it occurs in the Act. The word in the phrase "pre-contract, affinity or consanguinity" is a relic of the days when marriages were performed in England without a clergyman, and is now liable to misconstruction. Mr. Mowat proposes to insert some word or phrase indicating that there is no legal obstacle so far as a prior marriage may be concerned. The bill was read a second time without further remark.

Among the bills introduced were one by the Minister of Education respecting truancy and to make more strict the laws relating to compulsory attendance at school; one by Mr. Evanturel to incorporate the village of Casselman; one by Mr. Monk to empower the Ottawa, Arnprior & Renfrew Railway Company to amalgamate with the Ottawa & Parry Sound Railway Company, and to increase the amount of the issue of bonds from $15,000 to $25,000 a mile.

Memorial From the Grange Organization.

The executive of the Dominion Grange, represented by H. Glendinning, North Ontario; R. Wilkie, Kent; J. Robertson, West Elgin; and D. Hepinstall, Huron, presented this memorial:

To the Honorable the Attorney-General and the Government of Ontario:

GENTLEMEN,—The Executive Committee, by direction of the Dominion Grange, respectfully beg to direct your attention to the necessity of devising some means for reducing the size of county councils in many of the counties in this province.

Being fully aware of the difficulty of proposing any scheme which would be entirely free from objectionable features, they have given much attention to the various methods which have been suggested.

And they would request that the municipal law be so amended as to provide that at the annual municipal election the ballot papers shall contain a blank for the voters to vote "yea" or "nay," and where a majority in the county vote yea the county council shall consist of the reeves only, each reeve having one additional vote for every deputy-reeve which the municipality would be entitled to under the present law.

Such an amendment would leave it with the ratepayers in each separate county to decide whether the council of that county should be reduced or not.

That the Public School Act, chap. 2[illegible], Revised Statutes of Ontario, sec. 117, sub-sec. 1, be amended by striking out of the first line the word "may" and substituting the word "shall."

The grange, from various reports which have obtained currency throughout the country, have been led to fear that it is the intention to so change the law that text books for the public schools shall be provided at the public expense. We would most respectfully express a hope that no such change is contemplated, as we believe that were the books furnished free sufficient care would not be taken to preserve them. And further, that when the schools are free it is not asking too much from parents to furnish their children with books, and that it would intensify the dissatisfaction which already exists to a considerable extent on the school book question.

We desire to express our disapproval of tolls upon either markets or roads, and cherish a hope that the Government will see its way to enact such legislation as will lead to the abolition of both ere long.

That the Act entitled an Act to Prevent the Spread of Noxious Weeds and of Diseases Affecting Fruit Trees, being chapter 202, Revised Statutes of Ontario, be amended as follows: By striking out of section 2 the words "resident within the local municipality," and inserting in lieu thereof the words "in actual occupation thereof;" sub-section 1 of section 2 be amended by adding, "but the provisions of this sub-section shall not apply in cases where it involves the destruction of the growing crop of grain."

That sub-section 2 of section 3 be amended by striking out of the first and second lines thereof the following words, "may and upon fifty or more ratepayers."

That sub-section 3 of section 4 be amended by adding thereto the following words, "but no such owner or occupant shall be liable to any penalty who has honestly endeavored to comply with the law."

That sub-section 4 of section 10 be amended by adding thereto the following words: "But no inspector or overseer of highways shall be liable to such penalty who has honestly endeavored to discharge his duty."

That the Ditches and Watercourses Act, chap. 220, revised statutes of Ontario, be amended by striking out the word "fifty" wherever it occurs in sub-section 2 of section 3, and inserting in lieu thereof the words "one hundred and fifty." Believing that the experimental work which is carried on at the Ontario Agricultural College is one of much importance to the farmers of Ontario, but from variations of soil, temperature, altitude, humidity of the atmosphere and other causes, the experiments carried on in any one particular place must necessarily be incomplete and misleading to other sections of the province differently situated, we would respectfully ask the consideration of the Government to the propriety of establishing several small experimental stations to ascertain the most suitable varieties of grasses, grain and roots for cultivation in the different localities.

Speaker Ballantyne gave his first dinner last evening.

HE KILLED HIS CHILD.

BUT A JURY SAY HE WAS INSANE WHEN HE DID SO.

Coutts, the Mount Forest Murderer, Found Not Guilty on the Ground of Insanity by a Jury at the Wellington Spring Assizes.

GUELPH, March 19.—William Coutts of Mount Forest, charged with the murder of his child, was found not guilty on the ground of insanity at the assizes to-day. On the 20th October, 1890, the body of a child was found in a cistern at Mount Forest, which proved to be the youngest child of the prisoner. It appears that he is a married man and had two children. He and his wife separated, the youngest child being left in his charge. Prior to the separation and afterwards Coutts wanted to give the child away. On or about the 1st of November he told his neighbors that he had given it to a farmer in the township of Normanby, and he shortly afterwards left the village, going to live with his mother. The child was found in the cistern some three weeks later and was recognised.

LIVELY TIME IN LAMBTON.

Burglars Rob a Store, are Pursued, Steal Their Captor's Horse and Buggy, but are Finally Caught.

WYOMING, March 19.—About 3 o'clock this morning A. Laing's store was entered by burglars, who blew the safe open but obtained no booty. The glass in the store windows was broken and other slight damage done by the force of the explosion. The burglars, two in number, ran off in the direction of the town line, where they made an attempt at Mr. John Hunter's to obtain a horse and buggy to aid their escape, but Mr. Hunter, hearing the noise at the stables, got out in time to prevent it.

The burglars were pursued by two citizens with a horse and buggy. They came up with the men at Watkins, 4 miles from here. On demanding their surrender the burglars turned the tables on the captors by drawing revolvers, and jumping into the rig drove rapidly away. Another rig having been obtained the pursuit was again taken up and this afternoon the two men were captured 3 miles below Courtright, handcuffed and taken before a magistrate, who committed them to Sarnia jail. A full set of burglars' tools was found in the snow near the place where they took the horse and buggy from those who were following.

Saltykoff's Lord George Wins the Lincolnshire Handicap.

LONDON, March 19.—To-day's Lincolnshire Handicap was not very profitable for English sports. They are all heavy losers over the victory of Lord George, who was only backed by patrons of the stable. There is no doubt that the horse had been reserved for the race. Persons in "the know" shrewdly kept their knowledge to themselves and benefited to a good amount. Col. North wagered heavily on his horse Nunthorpe, while the French school almost brought off a well-planned coup with Saraphine II.

The Lincolnshire Handicap is the first of the big events in England. The winner of the race, Lord George was a long shot in the winter betting: 30 to 1 could be had against him at any time. Last year he won twice out of 11 starts, and was second twice. His two victories were early in the spring at Newmarket, one was the Crawford Plate and the other the Flying Handicap Plate.

Ottawa Gossip.

OTTAWA, March 19.—It was stated this afternoon in political quarters that Mr. Colby has decided to retire from the Cabinet. A meeting of the Cabinet was held this afternoon.

It is well understood that Sir Charles Tupper, Sir John Thompson and Hon. George E. Foster will leave for Washington at an early date in connection with the reciprocity negotiations.

Hon. George E. Foster, Minister of Finance, does not credit the report that British Guiana has rejected the Canadian Government's proposals for a reciprocity treaty in favor of a similar arrangement with the United States.

Sentenced for Heresy.

CANTON, Ohio, March 19.—The official sentence of Bishop Leonard in the heresy trial of Rev. Howard MacQueary was received today. The bishop suspends Mr. MacQueary for six months, and if at the expiration of that time he has not retracted his heretical views Mr. MacQueary will be deposed from the priesthood.

Mr. MacQueary says he will not submit to the sentence, but will leave the church and preach for some other church.

A Montreal Stock Broker Missing.

MONTREAL, March 19.—J. R. Barclay of the firm of J. R. Barclay & Co., stock brokers and financial agents, Canada Chambers, 16 St. Sacrament-street, is missing from his seat on the Stock Exchange. His partners admit that he has left town, but they are unable to assign a reason. He is known to be short 2000 shares of Canadian Pacific, which advanced to-day to 77. He was one of the best-known Montreal brokers and has been an extensive operator for ten years.

Death in the Sardine Can.

CHATHAM, March 19.—The family of William Ball, Cross-street, partook of canned sardines at tea and Mrs. Ball was seized of a severe illness. Dr. Holmes was sent for and pronounced the symptoms those of poisoning. Mrs. Ball lay for hours in an insensible state without a perceptible pulse, but she recovered consciousness and is now out of danger. Mrs. Ball's attack was due to the canned goods.

Dyspepsia

Intense Suffering for 8 years — Restored to Perfect Health.

Few people have suffered more severely from dyspepsia than Mr. E. A. McMahon, a well known grocer of Staunton, Va. He says: "Before 1878 I was in excellent health, weighing over 135 pounds. In that year an ailment developed into acute dyspepsia, and soon I was reduced to 102 pounds, suffering burning sensations in the stomach, palpitation of the heart, nausea, and indigestion. I could not sleep, lost all heart in my work, had fits of melancholia, and for days at a time I would have welcomed death. I became morose, sullen and irritable, and for eight years life was a burden. I tried many physicians and many remedies. One day a workman employed by me suggested that I take Hood's Sarsaparilla, as it had cured his wife of dyspepsia. I did so, and before taking the whole of a bottle I began to feel like a new man. The terrible pains to which I had been subjected, ceased, the palpitation of the heart subsided, my stomach became easier, nausea disappeared, and my entire system began to tone up. With returning strength came activity of mind and body. Before the fifth bottle was taken I had regained my former weight and natural condition. I am today well and I ascribe it to taking Hood's Sarsaparilla."

OUR CANAL.

THE Liberal organ at Toronto has awakened to the fact that the Trent Valley Canal Commissioners have sent in their report and that it is favorable to the construction of the canal. It cannot chronicle the fact, however, without a fling at the canal, which it gives in its Ottawa news, as follows:—

"They recommend that the work giving continuous navigation from Balsam Lake to the Bay of Quinte should be gone on with first. When this work if completed—if it ever is—it will not be self-sustaining, but will be a perpetual charge on the public treasury."

This is in keeping with the objections that leading Liberals have made to the completion of the canal, and the policy that party has pursued regarding it. But did not the Globe notice this in the report of the Commissioners:—

"In the opinion of the commissioners a waterway would thereby be made which would not only greatly increase the value of the works already constructed, but would create and develop the industries along its route and open up the resources of the country through which it would pass to such an extent as to amply compensate for the expenditure necessary to be incurred although the work itself would not be expected to produce direct revenue."

This is a sufficient answer to the Liberal organ. The necessity for arguing regarding the practicability and utility of the canal is now past, for this report from the eminent professional men who were the commissioners has settled that, and at the coming session of Parliament the estimates will contain an appropriation for the work.

ALLEGED DISCRIMINATION.

THE National Policy is a wonderful thing. It discriminates against the United States and Great Britain, and it also discriminates in favor of one or both of those countries! No ordinary fiscal policy could accomplish that. If you do not think it does read these extracts:—

Globe, Mar. 16, 1891. We may thank our stars if after the insults recently heaped upon the States and our open discrimination against that country in the N.P. and elsewhere, we escape with nothing worse.	Globe, Mar. 16, 1891. The fact that British goods pay higher average duties than those of the United States was hammered into the public mind by British exporters and others who knew something of the N. P.

The N. P. discriminates in favor of one country only and that country is Canada. All others are treated alike.

YOUNG'S POINT.

Lumbering Operations—Telephone Line to Burleigh Falls—Other Notes.

SAW LOGS.—Mr. C. Young has purchased several thousand logs of all kinds this winter from jobbers on Stony Lake and Deer Bay and from farmers in this section, and when spring opens both the saw and shingle mill will be kept busy until fall.

GRIST MILL.—There is some talk of a first-class miller coming here and putting up a new grist mill to grind flour on the roller process and buying wheat, &c., from the farmers in this section. The opening is a good one.

THE RAILWAY.—What has become of the Peterborough Board of Trade resolution passed some time ago re a railway to the Point? Has the bottom fallen out?

INFORMERS.—Have we got such a mean wretch around here as to inform? It seems so, as Mr. Cochrane served Mr. McFarlane, the hotel-keeper, with a summons to attend Mr. Edmison, P. M. at court at Lakefield for selling on the morning of election day, March 5th. He was in ignorance of the law, but was told by a party here to close down and did so at 9 a.m. He was fined to the tune of $26 and costs. Mr. McFarlane, I must mention, keeps the law strictly on Saturday nights and Sunday. The License Inspector notified all the hotel-keepers to close on the election day for the Provincial. Why did he not do so for the Dominion?

TELEPHONE.—Jack Holmes, of the Burleigh Falls hotel, is having telephone poles laid from his hotel at Burleigh to here. The Bell Telephone Co. intend to place them in the ground in the spring and have connection by wire for this summer, which will be a great boon to John and the guests of his hotel. Next?

The Spring Medicine.

The popularity which Hood's Sarsaparilla has gained as a spring medicine is wonderful. It possesses just those elements of health-giving, blood-purifying and appetite-restoring which everybody seems to need at this season. Do not continue in a dull, tired, unsatisfactory condition when you may be so much benefited by Hood's Sarsaparilla. It purifies the blood and makes the weak strong.

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

The Newfoundland Fisheries Rights in the House of Lords.

LONDON, March 19.—In the House of Lords to-day Lord Knutsford, Colonial Secretary, introduced a bill to revive certain provisions controlling the Newfoundland fisheries rights of foreign powers. He hoped that in spite of the difficulties a compromise would be arranged whereby the colony's burdens would be lessened. He believed Newfoundland's protest was founded upon misapprehension. England thought arbitration was the best course, but the opposition of the colony considerably embarrassed the Government.

Lord Kimberley concurred in the remarks of Lord Knutsford.

Lord Salisbury supported Lord Knutsford. He said Newfoundland was now paying the penalty of errors made in past treaties.

The bill passed the first reading.

The bill revives the Crown's authority to instruct naval officers to enforce the treaties of Utrecht, Versailles and Paris securing fishing rights to France. A clause provides that if the Colonial Legislature supplies necessary powers to secure the performance of the treaties upon the international arrangements before the bill is passed the bill will be suspended.

The Daily News thinks the bill is an open confession of failure in Newfoundland.

An Avowed Murderer Acquitted.

ANGOULEME, March 19.—A case which has excited enormous interest in this district was tried here to-day at the Charente Assizes. A tradesman's assistant named Laroche, was indicted for the murder, in January last, of an advocate named Arthequier, at Confolens, under the following circumstances, as related by the prisoner himself and confirmed by numerous witnesses. While residing at Bordeaux Arthequier persecuted prisoner's sister with his attentions, and in the end succeeded in betraying her. The girl kept the secret of her shame as long as possible, but was at last obliged to reveal the truth to her brother. Laroche resolved either to obtain redress for his sister's wrongs or to avenge them. Having purchased a revolver he went to Confolens, whither Arthequier had removed, and endeavored to wring from him a promise to marry his sister. This demand being met with a flippant refusal, coupled with gibes and jeers at the situation of the unfortunate girl, Laroche flew into a passion and threatened the advocate with death. "Kill me if you like," Arthequier replied in a spirit of bravado. Laroche then fired three shots from his revolver, and Arthequier was mortally wounded, expiring without regaining consciousness. The trial terminated with the absolute acquittal of the prisoner. The decision was received with general manifestations of approval on the part of the audience.

Gladstone's Narrow Escape.

LONDON, March 19.—It has transpired that after leaving the theatre in Hastings in which he delivered his closing address last night, Mr. Gladstone had a narrow escape from serious injury if not from death. It appears that the coachman who was driving Mr. Gladstone's carriage lost control of his horses. It was only after some furious running and frequently coming into close proximity to dangerous obstacles that the animals were finally brought to a halt and the illustrious passenger released. The coachman, who, it seems, was intoxicated, was arrested and fined in the police court this morning.

Possible Strike on the Gould System.

ST. LOUIS, March 19.—A serious strike is threatened on the Gould system. A grievance committee from the Order of Railway Conductors has been in conference with the officers of the Missouri Pacific road for several days. Negotiations have reached a very critical stage, and the conductors say that if the strike does come the engineers, switchmen and brakemen will go out with them. The railroad officials refuse to say anything except that there is trouble. The conductors want some of the members of their order reinstated.

A Canadian Charged with Forgery.

NEW YORK, March 19.—Detective Carpenter of Montreal arrested Hamilton Young on Monday afternoon on a telegram from Montreal charging him with forgery. It is said that in 1883, Young, who then lived in Hamilton, Ont., where he was manager of the Hamilton Cotton Company, forged the names of various men to notes amounting to $10,000, which he had discounted at the Merchants' Bank in Montreal. Young, it is charged, then fled to Mexico and was believed to be there still. A citizen of Montreal, who was in Montreal recently, met Young down town and on his return home told the authorities about the circumstances. The telegram which caused the arrest was then sent. Young said that he would return to Hamilton without being extradited.

A Drop of Saliva causes Death.

NEW YORK, March 19.—Dr. Langes of West New York died of scarlet fever contracted under peculiar circumstances. A drop of saliva from the mouth of a scarlet fever patient struck him in the eye and inoculated him, and though every precaution was taken he could not stave off the disease.

Constipation,

IF not remedied in season, is liable to become habitual and chronic. Drastic purgatives, by weakening the bowels, confirm, rather than cure, the evil. Ayer's Pills, being mild, effective, and strengthening in their action, are generally recommended by the faculty as the best of aperients.

"Having been subject, for years, to constipation, without being able to find much relief, I at last tried Ayer's Pills. I deem it both a duty and a pleasure to testify that I have derived great benefit from their use. For over two years past I have taken one of these pills every night before retiring. I would not willingly be without them."—G. W. Bowman, 26 East Main st., Carlisle, Pa.

"I have been taking Ayer's Pills and using them in my family since 1857, and cheerfully recommend them to all in need of a safe but effectual cathartic."—John M. Boggs, Louisville, Ky.

"For eight years I was afflicted with constipation, which at last became so bad that the doctors could do no more for me. Then I began to take Ayer's Pills, and soon the bowels recovered their natural and regular action, so that now I am in excellent health."—S. L. Loughbridge, Bryan, Texas.

"Having used Ayer's Pills, with good results, I fully indorse them for the purposes for which they are recommended."—T. Conners, [illegible] Ridge, Pa.

Annual Meeting of the P.A.A.A.

The annual meeting of the P.A.A.A. is to held in the Olympic Club rooms on Tuesday evening, March 24th, at 8 o'clock. The attendance of all members and those interested in athletic sports is urgently requested by the Secretary, Mr. W. D. Parker.

Personal.

Miss K. Ford, of Rochester, left town yesterday for Duluth, Minn., to administer the estate of her brother, the late Wm. Ford, consisting of real estate in the city, 160 acres of land about twenty miles out, money in bank and a policy of life assurance. He was unmarried and Miss Ford and her sister, Mrs. T. Hurley, are the only surviving members of the family.

That tired feeling and dull, oppressive headache that so frequently accompany catarrh can be instantly removed by the use of Nasal Balm. Sold by all dealers.

Curling Chit-Chat.

The rink of juniors, skipped by J. Connal, played a game with Thos. Rutherford's rink. It was a close contest, but the tie at the last end was broken by Skip Rutherford getting one shot, giving him the game by one.

The annual point game will be commenced at the rink this afternoon and concluded this evening.

is about 10,000, and we would say at least one-half are troubled with some affection of the Throat and Lungs, as those complaints are, according to statistics, more numerous than others. We would advise all our readers not to neglect the opportunity to call on their druggist and get a bottle of Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs. Trial size free. Large bottle 50c and $1. Testing a Sediment from Mine.

The Blairton correspondent of the Campbellford Herald says:—"The company who have been operating the Ledyard mine north of Blairton, have sent away the 100 tons of iron ore to be tested, as before stated, and they now have a diamond drill at work at the mine to test the quality as well as to aid them to judge of the quantity of ore at a great depth. We learn, only second-hand from the purchaser of the mine, that the property has changed hands and that some five thousand dollars is paid over as a deposit."

THE BOARD OF TRADE.

THE SECOND ANNUAL MEETING WELL ATTENDED.

Reports of Secretary and Treasurer—Election of Officers—New Members—Other Matters.

The Board of Trade met on Thursday night, the business in hand being that of the annual meeting. There were present President Meldrum, Vice-President A. Hall, and Messrs. Hay, Wilson, Taylor, Hamilton, Dumble, Wynn, Ranney, Fair, Lewis, McKee, Phelan, Macdonald, LeBrun and Dobbin.

The Secretary, Mr. J. H. Burnham, read the minutes of last annual meeting, which were confirmed.

ANNUAL REPORT.

The Secretary read the second annual report as follows:

The year just closed has shown a marked improvement over the previous year in the attendance of members and in the active interest taken in the affairs of the town. At the last general meeting nearly 40 members were present. The reducing of the fee from $5.00 to $3 to has met with general approval. The Board decided to advertise the town by means of a circular folder. This was got up with great care and trouble and widely distributed, many copies going to England, Australia, India, Jamaica, and to all parts of the United States and Canada. Letters of inquiry have been received from time to time and have been considered and laid before the Manufacturing Committee of the Town Council.

This Board played an impootant part in the acquisition of the Edison Co. The Chairman of the Manufacturers Committee of the town has expressed to the Secretary of this Board his appreciation of the very valuable assistance given by this Board with regard to the promotion of the manufacturing interests of Peterborough. Communication was opened with the C.P.R. and G.T.R. in reference to the securing of better freight rates from England and the continent. The result was satisfactory. An estimate has been obtained from Mr. R. W. Ranney of the cost of a complete survey of the Otonabee between Lakefield and Peterborough.

Complaints were sent to the management of the railways as to unsufficient siding service. The matter relating to Sault Ste. Marie was thoroughly discussed. The Board was urged to look after the vital interests of the town in reference to it and a partial plan of procedure was adopted.

The Board sent a committee to the County Council asking its co-operation with other respective bodies along the line of the Trent Valley Canal in despatching a joint deputation to urge upon the Government completion of the work. This movement was interupted by the elections and awaits fulfilment.

Correspondence has been carried on with the G. T. R. and C. P. R. looking to the extension of the Young's Point and the North of a line of railway. The Board in this regard, as in many others, has afforded opportunity for discussion and consultation, which can scarcely be entered in a general report.

The Business Tax was introduced from the Town Council more particularly for the opinion of this Board. It was thoroughly canvassed whilst no conclusion was arrived at as to its local operation, a resolution was passed and sent to the Ontario Government, disapproving of any system of taxation whereby personal property which has not been paid for may escape assessment.

The question of collecting bad debts was brought up, but no conclusion was arrived at.

Correspondence has been carried on in relation to a scheme for providing an earlier mail service from Toronto, with the traffic manager of the C.P.R., but that railway could not comply, and it is a question if the G.T.R. could not carry out some such plan.

Correspondence has been maintained throughout the year in every direction giving information with regard to the town and inviting inquiries. This is chiefly in reference to car works and it is not at all improbable that before long Peterborough may have such an establishment.

The report was received and adopted.

The Treasurer's report was read, showing that the Board had expended nearly $300, and that the receipts had fairly met the expenses. The report was received and handed to Auditors T. H. Hay and Col. H. C. Rogers to report thereon, who reported satisfactorily.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

The election of officers for the ensuing year was taken up. Several nominations were made to fill the President's chair, and the result was that Mr. Meldrum was unanimously re-elected.

The complete list of officers stands as follows:

PRESIDENT—Mr. W. H. Meldrum.

VICE-PRESIDENT—Mr. R. Fair.

SECRETARY-TREASURER—Mr. J. H. Burnham.

COUNCIL.—Messrs. Innes, Mason, Stevenson (Jas.), Phelan, Hall (A.), Brooks, Stratton, Dumble, Dobbin, Hay, Hilliard, Taylor, Wilson, Lewis, Hamilton, McKee, Macdonald.

STANDING COMMITTEES.

Messrs. Dobbin, Hall and Hay were appointed a committee to strike the standing committees and report to the Board.

NEW MEMBERS.

The following gentlemen were nominated for membership: Messrs. J. K. Belcher, W. G. Bain, H. A. Mulhern, F. Matthews, Ed. Green, Geo. Hutchison, W. H. Manning, H. Thompson, H. C. Stabler, and R. Mulholland.

A SURVEY OF THE RIVER.

Mr. G. W. Ranney submitted an estimate of the probable cost of making a complete and full survey of the river from Peterborough to Lakefield. The Board passed a vote of thanks to Mr. Ranney for his trouble in preparing the information supplied in the report.

TRENT VALLEY CANAL.

Mr. R. Fair moved a resolution, seconded by Mr. Phelan, that the Board proceed to carry out their intention expressed at a previous meeting that they should send a deputation to Ottawa to press for the beginning of operations on construction of the Trent Valley Canal. The resolution was carried.

A vote of thanks was passed and ordered to be forwarded to the Town Council for the use of the Council Chamber during the year passed.

The Board then adjourned.

A Bridge and a Bonus.

The Empire of this morning in its notes of the Legislature says:—

"The river Trent is spanned by a bridge just at the border line between the counties of Peterborough and Northumberland. A deputation to-day waited upon the Government to endeavor to secure legislation that will make the county of Peterborough share the cost of maintaining the structure with the united counties of Durham and Northumberland. The deputation was composed of Warden Ferguson, of the united counties; Reeve Doyle, of Cramahe; Reeve Carlow, of Percy; Reeve Mason and Deputy Reeve Morrison, of Seymour; Reeve Gunyo, of Brighton; Reeve Preston, of Manvers; Reeve Prower, of Bowmanville; and Mr. J. M. Ferris, of Campbellford."

"Mr. Stratton, M.P.P., Mr. McKay, M.P.P., Mr. Blezard, M.P.P., and Mr. Mr. C. J. Pusey formed a delegation which asked the Government to grant a bonus to the Bancroft and Irondale railway, a line that runs some forty miles through what is claimed to be the richest part of the Haliburton and Peterborough mineral districts."

THE NEW CUSTOMS HOUSE.

West Peterborough's Representative Successfully Advocates Peterborough's Claims—The Plans to be Revised.

Mayor Stevenson, M.P., was at Ottawa yesterday and spent the day in visiting the different departments on business of interest to his constituents. His Worship interviewed the Minister of Public Works and impressed upon him the objections which have been made to the new custom house building as it is at present planned. The interview was not a fruitless one, for the Minister promised to remedy all the defects in the proposed building. The east wing will be carried up the full height of the main structure and built out to Charlotte-st., thus much enlarging the building and making it a most imposing ornament to the principal street of the greatest town in Canada.

The foundation of the building, which is already well advanced, will be altered according to these revised plans.

The work will be pushed to completion with all possible speed.

IS IT INFANTICIDE?

The Dead Body of an Infant Found in a Pail of Water—Suspicious Circumstances Lead to an Inquest.

This afternoon a coroner's jury is sitting in the Police Court room to enquire into the cause of the death of an infant child which was found yesterday afternoon dead in a pail of water at a west side residence. Nellie Whelan, a slim, rather good-looking girl of twenty years of age, the mother of the dead infant, is at present in the hospital and until the coroner's jury returns its verdict she will be under the shadow of a cloud of suspicion that she has been guilty of infanticide.

Between three and four o'clock yesterday afternoon a telephone message to the police station informed the officers that the dead body of an infant had been found in a pail of water at the residence of Mr. W. H. Moore and that the circumstances pointed strongly to a rash act on the part of the mother of the child. Chief Roszel and coroner Dr. Bell at once proceeded to investigate the case. On Saturday last Nellie Whelan, a girl who had been employed at hotels in town, went to work at Mr. W. H. Moore's as a domestic. Nothing unusual was noticed in the girl's manner until yesterday morning. She arose and prepared breakfast, but shortly afterwards said she was unwell and went to her bedroom. She remained in her room until between twelve and one o'clock when she came down and went on with her domestic duties. Her appearance was such that her mistress became alarmed and, upon a lady living near at hand coming in, suspicions led to an investigation. Upon looking in the unfortunate girl's room a pail was found beneath her bed in which, submerged in water, was the body of a new born female infant. The police were notified as already stated and to the Chief and the coroner the girl did deny that she was the mother of the dead child, but said it was still born. The circumstances being rather suspicious the police conveyed the girl to the hospital and took charge of the body of the babe. It was placed in a tiny coffin and taken to the police station, to await the post mortem examination.

The infant is a large, healthy, full-grown child and has not the appearance of having been still born. To the doctors it is a remarkable case, as the endurance and activity of the mother under such circumstances was almost incredible and difficult to understand. She refuses to tell the father of the child.

The inquest will probably adjourn this afternoon to allow the post mortem to be held. The question for the doctors to decide in the post mortem is whether the child was still born or not. The girl says that the child never breathed, but the medical men can soon decide this question if the little one's lungs were filled only once.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the greatest specific of the age for the cure of blood diseases, suppressions, irregularities, female weakness, etc. Give them a trial. Never fail.

Laid at Rest.

The funeral of the late Hugh Davidson took place from the family residence, "Vine Cottage," in Smith, yesterday afternoon. The funeral cortege that followed the remains to their last resting place in Little Lake Cemetery was an exceedingly large one and was highly respectable, many of the county's most prominent citizens attending to pay their last sad respects to an esteemed and universally respected citizen. The pall bearers were Messrs. R. M., Wm. and James Davidson, three brothers of the deceased, Geo. E. Elliott, brother-in-law, James Armstrong and Hiram Armstrong.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE CRICKET CLUB.

The Secretary's Annual Report—The Play of Last Season—The Batting and Bowling Averages—Officers Elected.

The annual meeting of the Cricket Club was held in the Olympic Club rooms last evening.

Although the grassy crease is still buried beneath a heavy mantle of snow and all the severities of a Canadian winter are still present, the wielders of the willow are preparing for the coming season, and looked forward with enthusiasm to the sport in the summer. There was a very good attendance of the cricketers, and the reports and records of last year's play which were submited will be read with interest by the many who play or take an interest in the gentlemen's game. Dr. Burnham, President, was in the chair and, after calling the meeting to order and the confirming of the minutes of the last annual meeting, the Secretary, Mr. Sam Ray, was called upon for his annual report, which he read as follows:—

THE SECRETARY'S REPORT.

To the President and Members of the Peterborough Cricket Club:

GENTLEMEN,—In reviewing the cricketing operations of the past year, I am compelled to report that the general average of the playing of the club for the past year has not been up to the creditable mark of other seasons, still, it was on the whole, very good. One chief reason which militated against the club's record in the field was the trouble that was experienced during the whole season in getting an eleven together. As a consequence we were sometimes compelled to enter a match with some half a dozen men, having to fill up the team with any material available, no matter how indifferent, and not infrequently we had to impress very immature colts into the service. These circumstances account largely in my opinion for the falling off in the average I am so reluctant to record. Another unfortunate trouble was the failure of men selected to turn up in matches, thus upsetting the best of calculation as to the result of these contests.

THE TEAM'S PLAY.

After dealing with some matter of club interest only the Secretary read the following schedule of the season's play:—

The club played during the season 13 matches and of these lost 3 and won 10. We lost (1) to Toronto on May 23 by 9 wickets, (2) the return to Toronto on the first innings by 3 wickets and (3) to "All Manitoba" by 41 runs. We won from (1) Toronto University by an innings and 23 runs, (2) from Lindsay by 10 wickets, (3) from Lindsay by 73 runs, (4) from Trinity College, Toronto, on first innings by 19 runs, (5) from Campbellford on first innings by 34 runs, (6) from Lakefield by 60 runs, (7) from Lakefield by 119 runs, (8) from Campbellford by an innings and 31 runs, (9) from Belleville by and innings and 97 runs, (10) from East Toronto by an innings and 11 runs. We also sent an eleven to play a return match with East Toronto but rain prevented the match.

BATTING AND BOWLING AVERAGES.

Appended to the report were the bowling and batting averages for last season. These were as follows:—

BEATRIX RANDOLPH.

BY JULIAN HAWTHORNE.

"Oh, don't be afraid of that! I'm known; everybody understands me! We can do no possible harm to each other. It's an understood thing that I stand godfather to all prime donne on their entry into New York society. You may safely refer to me as an old friend on all occasions. And, by the by, I've taken the liberty to do you a bit of service already. You need a companion, and I've been so lucky as to secure just the person. She's an English lady, daughter of a clergyman. I've known her for years; an excellent creature: really a lady of great refinement and experience, and precisely suited to your needs. She will take perfect care of you, and keep you posted about everything you ought to do and all that sort of thing. I have let her into the secret, the only other persons who know it being your father, Inigo, and myself. The idea is, of course, that she's been living with you on the continent, and all that sort of thing. Mme. Bemax, she'll be here to-morrow morning. You'll be certain to like her immensely."

"Well, what must be, must, I suppose," said Beatrix, folding her hands in her lap and looking down. "It does seem hopeless to think of going back now I have come so far. But if I had understood beforehand." * * * She paused, but went on after a moment. "I have been living in the midst of falsehoods, and it seems to me that that is more likely to take away courage than to give it."

"Pooh, pooh! things will very soon shake down, and then in everything but name you will be more your elf than you ever were before!" returned her father's old friend encouragingly.

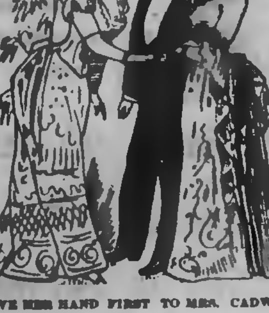
The next day Mme. Bemax was introduced, and was very genial, helpful and agreeable.

CHAPTER VI.

SOCIETY ENTERTAINS THE NEW DIVA.

The Cadwalader Dinsmores are people such as can exist (as a social fact) nowhere but in America, and, indeed, in New York. Mr. Dinsmore (called Wallie Dinsmore by every one who knows him) is a man of paramount though unobtrusive usefulness. He is—or for the sake of the unities let us say he was—a gentleman of medium size, plain exterior and remarkable quietness of speech and demeanor. He was like the heart of peace in the midst of the fashionable social whirlwind, the undemonstrative center of all demonstrations, the reposeful culmination of all activities. To say that he knew everybody and everything, not only that everybody else knew, but that everybody else would like to know, but imperfectly expressed his accomplishments. He lived in New York, but he was at home in all countries and in all societies, and occasionally was met with in all.

He was about forty-two years of age, but looked younger, having light hair and a subdued reddish complexion, and he seemed, when you considered his experience and serenity, indefinitely or in fact infinitely older. He had unexceptionable manners, was genial, kindly, gently humorous and insensibly entertaining. He never was detected making an effort, and he never forbore an effort to be obliging. He was as accurate as a pendulum, and as versatile as a continent. He could neither play, sing, act, make a speech, write a book, nor paint a picture: but no one knew better than he how all these things ought to be done, or was more sympathetically appreciative of others' attempts to do them. He smiled easily, but always as if he could not help it. His laugh was a low contagious chuckle, and seemed to suggest an unexpected charm and drollery in life. There was a manly, masculine look and quality about his plain face and ordinary figure, and in the tone and utterance of his voice. You felt that there was substance in him when required—that he was by no means a phantom of conventions and escapes—that, when everything else had been eliminated for him, a gentleman would remain.



GAVE HER HAND FIRST TO MRS. CADWALADER.

He was a great favorite with women and with children, and his relations with the former were just as cordial and simple as with the latter. If you dropped in to see him during a morning you were sure to find a number of men whom it was particularly worth while to meet, sitting about in the easy chairs and smoking Wallie's famous cigars and cigarettes. He had a fine old fashioned house down in West Twenty-third street and plenty of money, which he knew how to spend; that is, he was both generous and economical.

But the most remarkable thing about Wallie Dinsmore was that, instead of being in fact the bachelor uncle of society that he was in spirit, he was actually and conspicuously married. Mrs. Cadwalader Dinsmore (they never called her Mrs. Wallie) was a few years older than her husband and weighed about fifty pounds more than he. She was mighty and imposing, convincing and memorable. Upon her massive countenance, which had the texture and hue of the finest pink-and-white enamel, was fixed immutably a gracious smile, which served to condense, as it were, into manageable dimensions the else too ponderous acreage of her cheeks and to refine the contour of her scarlet lips. Her hair, of a dense yellow hue, without a thread of gray, was arranged in an inscrutable manner, upon what might be termed the cylindrical principle; it resembled a carving in varnished maple; it looked brittle.

As for her figure, Mrs. Cadwalader might have stood for the capstan of a three decker, round which the jovial seamen trip as they heave the mighty anchor. Her voice, meanwhile, was small, soft and caressing, and she regarded her interlocutor with a glance of indulgent coquetry, as if to mitigate the terror of her proportions, though it really rendered them only more alarming. Nor was her usual talk, as might have been expected, about devouring quarter beeves, or causing earthquakes, or obliterating populations, but about embroidered handkerchiefs, and summer zephyrs blowing on wild roses and the holiness of infants' slumber. Was she, then, a sardonic humorist, or a fool buried alive in flesh? No; she was a hard hearted, practical, shrewd woman: with sharp eyes, a politic disposition and unrelenting determination.

The fact that she was not of aristocratic or indeed discoverable lineage may have sharpened her claws, so to speak, and steeled her heart: she had had to fight her own way, and was a little too much alive to the value of the worldly objects she had striven for. The most telling success she had ever scored was, of course, her marriage with Wallie Dinsmore. How she contrived it is not known; but it must have been, in every sense, easier to embrace her fifteen years ago than now. Wallie was the most human of mankind, generously appreciative of everything except his own value. At any rate the thing took place, and Mrs. Cadwalader proved to be an admirable and substantial wife.

She made war upon none of his hobbies; she broke up none of his habits; she sacrificed none of his bachelor friends; she kept out of his way except when she could be of use to him, and then she was always ready. She made him pay, as the vernacular hath it, but she let it cost him nothing. In short, though she and her husband had almost no tastes or traditions in common, they were completely in harmony, had no children, and were a model of New York domestic virtue, happiness and prosperity. It is no small thing for a husband to be able to affirm that his wife has not had his study dusted for a week, nor launched even an oblique criticism at his African lemur.

Such as they were the Cadwalader Dinsmores made up their minds to extend the right hand of hospitality to Mlle. Marana. Mrs. Cadwalader called on her in person, and Wallie, as a matter of course, in the shape of his name written on a piece of pasteboard. The diva's acceptance having been secured the other invitations were issued, and the day arrived.

"You will have to put in an appearance," said Wallie to Geoffrey Bellingham during the previous week. "You built the opera house, and decency demands it."

"The more reason why not," the architect replied. "I should have to be introduced, and I don't care for it."

"You will have to come," the other repeated calmly. "Do you want the woman to be disrespectable?"

"It's none of my business."

MAKING GLAD THE WASTE (WAIST) PLACES.

"That's what I call making glad the waist places," said Smithson, as he put his arm around a lady's waist. But Lilly won't care much for this show of affection if Smithson does not get rid of that disagreeable catarrh of his. Won't somebody tell him that Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy will cure him.

By its mild, soothing, antiseptic, cleansing and healing properties, Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cures the worst cases. This infallible remedy does not, like the poisonous irritating snuffs, "creams" and strong caustic solutions with which the public have long been humbugged, simply palliate for a short time, or drive the disease to the lungs, as there is danger of doing in the use of such nostrums, but it produces perfect and permanent cures of the worst cases of Chronic Catarrh in the Head, as thousands can testify. "Cold in the Head" is cured with a few applications. Catarrhal Headache is relieved and cured as if by magic.

In perfect faith, the makers of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy—the World's Dispensary Medical Association, of Buffalo, N. Y., offers to pay $500 to any one suffering from Chronic Catarrh in the Head whom they cannot cure.

Now, if the conditions were reversed—if they asked you to pay $500 for a positive cure you might hesitate. Here are reputable men, with years of honorable dealing; thousands of dollars and a great name back of them and they say—"We can cure you because we've cured thousands like you—if we can't we'll pay you $500 for the knowledge that there's one whom we can't cure."

They believe in themselves. Isn't it worth a trial? Isn't any trial preferable to catarrh?

As good as new

—that's the condition of liver, stomach and bowels, when Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets have done their work. It's a work that isn't finished when you've stopped taking them, either. It's lasting. They cure, as well as relieve. And it's all done so mildly and gently! There's none of the violence that went with the old-time pill. One tiny, sugar-coated Pellet's a gentle laxative—three to four act as a cathartic. Sick Headache, Bilious Headache, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the stomach and bowels, are prevented, relieved, and cured. As a Liver Pill, they're unequaled. They're purely vegetable, perfectly harmless—the smallest, cheapest, and easiest to take.

KILLED IN A CONVENT.

MURDEROUS ROBBERS AT THE CAROLINE ISLANDS.

Two Friars and a Porter Killed and Many Others Wounded — Desperate Battle With the Marauders at Bay—The Priests Hacked With Knives.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 20.—Advices from the Caroline Islands report the attempted pillaging of the Catholic convent on the Island of Santa Rosa, the murder of two friars and a porter, and the wounding of several other friars.

While the friars were at supper about 7 o'clock on the evening of Jan. 15, one of them, Friar Zagara, had occasion to leave the dining room, and in the dimly-lighted hall he stumbled over the body of Thomas, a native, who acted as porter. Thomas was bleeding profusely from a long, deep gash in his throat and from several wounds on the body.

"Robbers," he gasped, as Friar Zagara raised the poor fellow's head. A moment later his head fell back. He was dead.

Friar Zagara shouted an alarm and the friars came trooping from the table. Friar Zagara excitedly explained the scene to his fellow-priests and they at once scattered to catch the murderers.

While Friars Gomez, Morales and Gonzales were searching on the second floor of the convent they came upon two men, who were ransacking the closets of the room. The robbers sprang at Gomez and Gonzales with uplifted knives, and before they could defend themselves the knives were buried to the hilts in their breasts. As Gomez was falling he was again stabbed by the murderer.

Morales ran down stairs with the robbers in close pursuit. When he was at about the middle of the stairs he suddenly threw up his hands, toppled over and fell dead. One of the robbers had thrown a sharp knife with such accurate aim that it had pierced the base of the skull and caused instant death.

By this time the alarm was given and several officers of the garrison near by came hurrying to the convent and met them with a crowd of natives. The two robbers tried to get to the side of the convent which looks on the river, open a window and jump out. They were foiled in this and then they jumped at the crowd of friars and tried to hack and hew them to death. They were finally overpowered and bound.

At this moment a man was seen running out of the kitchen of the convent with several others in hot pursuit. One of the pursuers was covered with blood. The native, for such he was, looked right and left and seeing the right side of the garden nearly full of his countrymen he made a dash in that direction, gained the river, sprang into it and was lost to sight. The soldiers have been unable to capture him and they claim that the natives did not stop him but opened the road for him to gain the river.

Lozano, Gonzales and the native porter were killed and about a dozen more or less wounded. The guard house where the robbers are imprisoned, is doubly guarded for fear an attempt may be made by the natives to free them.

Franciscan friars established the convent on Santa Rosa about 20 years ago and it has long been used as a distributing station for supplies for all the parishes on the island.

Skirmishes in Sligo.

DUBLIN, March 20.—The Parnellites were holding a meeting at Sligo to-day when they were attacked by anti-Parnellites, who stoned them, pelted them with mud and broke up the meeting. The anti-Parnellites also stoned the police who came to the assistance of the Parnellites, and a general scrimmage ensued. After the Parnellite party had retired their opponents held a meeting.

BREACH OF PROMISE CASE.

AN AMUSING SUIT TRIED AT THE GUELPH ASSIZES.

The Part an Auction Sale Played in the Affair—The Usual Love Letters and Kisses—The Fair Plaintiff Secures a Verdict For $500.

GUELPH, March 20.—At the assizes yesterday Maggie Gray, aged 29, daughter of Francis Gray of Erin, sued James Millar, a farmer of Esquesing, for breach of promise of marriage. Francis Gray, the father of the plaintiff, told how on Oct. 5, 1889, Millar asked for his daughter's hand. After being assured that Millar's parents were willing he gave his consent, together with a severe exhortation on the responsibilities of the married life. All went merry after this and Millar visited the young lady regularly every two or three weeks, as he expressed it as a fellow on a lover's business. The wedding was fixed for Jan. 28 and preparations were made by both parties; furniture was bought, people from a distance invited, dresses made and even some of the baking done.

On Jan. 10 Millar wrote Miss Gray the following endearing letter, beginning sweet enough and ending with the regulation kisses, but a suggestion as to backing out was innocently inserted between the sweets:

GEORGETOWN, Jan. 10, 1891.

Miss Maggie Gray:

DEAREST MARGARET,—No doubt you will be somewhat surprised to hear from me in this way Knowing what I told you in Georgetown the other day concerning Margie as bridesmaid, when it comes to the pinch she thinks she would rather not, as she thinks she has not enough nerve. Of course, it would require some one with lots of nerve, say nothing about the cheek; so I will get one of the boys and you can get one of your sisters or any one you choose. Perhaps I may see you before you get this, but I thought I would let you know in case anything came that I could not get away in time.

I will try and come up some night next week—Thursday or Friday—and have a talk with you about backing out; how would it suit?

I guess I'll quit, as I can talk more in one minute than I can write all night. Hoping this will find you all right, as it leaves me the same.

I remain yours, J. A. M.

Kisses * * * * * till I come.

Oh, how is your cold? Mine is no better; I am all shiverty, shiverty, shake, the man that could not get warm.

Do you mind that in Hillsburg that night?

Bye-bye.

Millar called on the 23rd, before she got the letter, however, and that was his last call. At this interview, according to Millar's story, she told him that her brother-in-law was going to have a sale on the 28th, and her sister and family wished to go to the sale; and that her father thought "an auction sale and a wedding was too much for one day in one family." Her sister was to be the bridesmaid, and she wanted the wedding to be on the 27th. His story was that he was so anxious to marry her on the 28th that he wanted them to go off alone, and be married on the 28th. But differently from most grooms, for whom it is said the wedding cannot be soon enough, the 27th was too soon for him. He, however, concealed this in his own breast, and, bidding her by-by, and again some left. But in his own mind he told the jury that the engagement was at an end. He then wrote her another letter, which, to make sure of, he registered. As the judge remarked, the endearment was all gone, and one would almost think one of his lady friends had written it, so frosty is his letter. This is a copy of it:

GEORGETOWN, Jan. 19, 1891.

Miss Maggie Gray:

DEAR FRIEND,—I have been thinking things over that passed between us the other evening concerning the 28th, and have come to the conclusion that if an auction sale is of more importance to you than what was to have come off, you can go to the sale and I will go my own road. If that is all you care for it you need not look to hear from me again.

No doubt it will be a little hard for you to give up, but I think you will soon see it was better for us to dissolve, so now you can consider our engagement broken. I am going away from home for a few months. So good-bye, from J.A.M.

Do not blame anyone but me for this, as I have rued my bargain.

On the receipt of this Miss Gray took to bed, and her father set out to see the delinquent and eased his mind by calling him a mean liar and some other terms and then they parted for good.

Millar himself, who was the next witness, kept the large crowd sufficiently interested and amused. He sprang a new story on the plaintiff, and while in his plea he had denied having refused to marry her now tried to justify his course. Much amusement was caused by the way in which he told how she made him dance to her music. He complained that she had all her own way, and that she refused to milk the cows, and while he, like all the fellows his way that had girls, wanted to show her off at the Toronto Exhibition she didn't want to be shown. She was even of such a retiring nature that she declined to go down and see his folks. He, however, stood all these, but the auction sale was too much, and he broke it off then. His cross-examination by Mr. Guthrie amused the spectators so much that order was frequently seriously disturbed. After much hesitation he declared he never was engaged. He said the expression "backing out" in his letter meant his sister backing out from being bridesmaid and not himself. He wanted always to do the square thing and he thought he had done so.

Mr. Laidlaw of Toronto, for the defendant, occupied an hour and a quarter reviewing the depressed state of the farmers, and pictured mortgage sales and claimed that the boy's feelings were as badly hurt as the girl's and that the jury ought to set off the one against the other.

The jury brought in a verdict for Miss Gray for $500 and costs.

Death Due to a Fall.

BRAMPTON, March 20.—William Hunter, aged 75 years, was in the act of taking water from a cistern when he suddenly fell forward and in striking the ice received injuries which caused instantaneous death. When found the body was completely submerged in water, but a medical examination brought out the fact that death was not caused by drowning, but resulted from a wound found on the head

Hamilton Man Fatally Injured.

DETROIT, March 20.—Edward Green, 28 years old, switchman in the Michigan Central yards, was engaged in making a coupling this morning when he was caught about the chest and badly crushed. His injuries are internal and likely to prove fatal. Green is a single man, his home is at Hamilton, Ont.

A Female Smuggler

NIAGARA FALLS, March 21.—Customs Officer J. J. Flynn seized a trunk filled with fine millinery the other day and is holding it pending the action of the department at Ottawa. The lady belongs to Halifax, N.S., and told Mr. Flynn that she had nothing dutiable in her trunk, but an investigation showed goods upon which nearly $125 in duty should be paid.

A BIGAMIST ARRESTED.

Wife No. 1 Traces Him to Chicago and Has Him Arrested.

CHICAGO, March 20.—James Kidd Reoch, a carpenter living at No. 128 North Desplaines-street, is under arrest at the Desplaines-street Station charged with bigamy. A woman named Catherine Julia Reoch appeared at the station yesterday and told Captain Hayes that Reoch was a bigamist; that she had been married to him 20 years ago in Toronto, Canada, but that eight years ago he had deserted her. She learned recently that he was living in Chicago and came at once to this city. She found his address in the city directory and went to the house night before last. She was amazed when she found that her husband had married again, and that a little girl six years old was the result of his last marriage. A wordy war ensued between wife No. 1 and wife No. 2, and the latter was compelled to leave the house. Yesterday she swore out a warrant charging the couple with bigamy, and last evening Officers Smith and Tracy placed them both under arrest. Wife No. 2 is a Scotch woman aged about 40. She says that she had no knowledge of her husband's former marriage, and that she intends to stick by him. Reoch is aged about 50.

LA GRIPPE IN THE WEST.

Thousands of Cases in Chicago Among Working People Seriously Interfere With Business—Detroit Also a Sufferer.

CHICAGO, Ill., March 20.—Chicago is in the grasp of the grip. The disease seems to be more prevalent than it was at any time last year. It strikes all classes of society. The residents of the fashionable avenues and the denizens in the tenements of the poor alike suffer from its ravages. Five hundred men employed on the west side street car system are laid off with the epidemic and the company is badly handicapped for help. The south side company has 125 men on the sick list. The north side company has about 75 men out, while many of those at work are suffering from the disease in a mild form.

The large downtown stores are having a like experience. In one store, employing 130 clerks, 40 are sick. Ten per cent. of the police force is laid up and 80 men in the fire department are off. Fifty out of 180 mail carriers in the postoffice are suffering. All of the hospitals are overcrowded. About 50 sufferers applied for admission to the county hospital yesterday and nearly as many the day before. This institution is full and many of the patients are compelled to accept accommodations on the floor.

There is scarcely a boarding house in this city, it is said, but has from 1 to 5 persons laid up with the disease. It has invaded the hotels and fully one-third of the guests are ill. To make matters worse for them, many of the managers and hotel employes are also sufferers, and there is such a dearth of help that some of the guests by their own request have been sent to the hospitals. There are large numbers of grip sufferers in private houses all over the city and the doctors are kept busy night and day.

DETROIT, Mich., March 20.—Detroit is again afflicted with the "grip" or some member of its family. Everywhere in this city are heard complaints of the disease, and in some cases whole families have been confined to their houses with it. A careful canvass of the leading physicians in the city justifies the statement that the prevailing wave of sickness has nearly as many victims as its forerunners.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

TORONTO, March 21.—The session of the Ontario Assembly was unimportant yesterday.

A deputation from the council of the Ontario College of Physicians and Surgeons, consisting of Drs. Bergin, M.P., J. Thorburn, A. F. Rogers of Ottawa, R. A. Pyne and Mr. Wallace Nesbitt waited upon the Government with reference to certain changes they want made in the Medical Act to render it more workable. Among other things they want further power to proceed against faith curers and Christian Scientists.

A large deputation from Owen Sound, Bruce and the County of Grey asked the Government for aid to construct a railway from Owen Sound to connect with the Stratford and Lake Huron Railway near Parkhead, in Bruce, a distance of about 12 miles.

The Minister of Education has issued an interesting and valuable report upon compulsory education in Canada, Great Britain, Germany and the United States. Appended is a summary of answers received from all the cities and towns in Ontario regarding the effects of truancy. In every case except one the answer was that compulsory attendance at school would tend to the reduction of juvenile offences. The exception was London, the mayor of which said compulsory education would make no difference, because all offences were committed after school hours.

Col. Gilmor, clerk of the House, entertained these gentlemen at dinner last night: Mr. Speaker, Col. Clarke, M.L.A.; Mr. Monk M.L.A.; Mr. Dack, M.L.A.; M. A. MacKay, M. L. A.; Mr. J. R. A Heinous Crime.

BRAMPTON, March 20.—John Lay, aged 18, a farm hand in the employ of John Might, was committed for trial by George Graham, J.P., yesterday, on a charge of criminally assaulting Maggie Conner, aged 17, also employed by Might. Lay prevented the girl from giving the alarm when the assault was committed by stuffing hay in her mouth.

A Little Girl Drowned.

LONDON, March 20.—Martha, the 6-year-old daughter of James Garvett, con. 7, Usborne, was crossing a log which spans a creek on the farm, when she slipped into the water and was drowned.

Murdered at Mesquite.

DALLAS, Tex., March 20.—At a dance at Mesquite last night in a quarrel over a trivial matter Ike Allen, cut Jim Weatherford's throat with a knife. Bud Weatherford, brother of Jim, then shot Allen who died in four hours. Bud was arrested to-day. Jim is alive, but is expected to die.

ASTON MANOR ELECTION.

THE UNIONIST CANDIDATE ELECTED YESTERDAY.

The Wreck of the Utopia—Fight Between the Factions in Sligo—Parnell's Bluff as Viewed by Michael Davitt—Raid by Paris Police.

LONDON, March 20.—An election for member of Parliament was held in Aston-Manor to-day to fill the vacancy caused by the death of George Kynoch (Conservative). Capt. Grice Hutchinson (Unionist), received 5310 votes to 2233 polled for W. Phipson Beale (Gladstonian).

The seat was rendered vacant by the death of the Conservative member, Mr. Kynoch. This constituency was formerly a Liberal one and was carried in 1885 for the Liberals by a majority of 1153 votes. In 1886, after the split of the Liberal party, the Conservative candidate, with the aid of the Liberal-Unionists, was elected by a majority of 788 votes, Mr. Kynoch (Con.) receiving 3495 votes to 2713 for Reid (Home Ruler). The constituency is very near to Birmingham, of which Mr. Chamberlain is the uncrowned king. So far as can be judged, Mr. Chamberlain is as popular and influential in Birmingham to-day as he was five years ago, and he is, if anything, more bitterly opposed to the Gladstonians and to Home Rule for Ireland than he was at that time. The result of this election, in which the candidates on both sides were pretty equally matched both as to popularity and as to influence, showed that the Gladstonians of Birmingham and its vicinity have not won back any of the dissentient Liberals who separated from the party in 1886.

The Sad Scenes Witnessed by Divers in the Sunken Utopia.

GIBRALTAR, March 20.—The bodies of 78 adults and three children, victims of the Utopia disaster, were interred together here to-day in a trench dug in ground specially blessed for the reception of the remains. All the clergy of Gibraltar, the town and Garrison officials and the officers of the British Channel Squadron were present.

One of the survivors says that just before the collision he was on deck with a crowd of emigrants. When the collision occurred there was a rush to the hatches, many trying to get below to save their property and to assist relatives to escape. The cabin passengers swarmed to the companionways, trying to escape, the water pouring through the rent in the steamer's side. The two crowds met and the hatches were choked to the top with a surging mass of human beings unable to advance or retreat.

It is officially stated 562 persons lost their lives by the disaster.

During the day divers from the British war vessels recovered eleven more bodies from the wreck. The bodies of many of the drowned were found so firmly clasped together that it was difficult to separate them. Captain McKeague has been remanded for a further hearing.

Capt. McKeague has not given his evidence yet. In addition to the charges against him already mentioned he is accused of feloniously slaying certain persons unknown. He was bailed in $400.

The bodies buried to-day were conveyed to the cemeteries in wagons covered with British and Italian flags.

At a meeting yesterday a subscription was organized and a relief committee was appointed.

The Anchor Line steamer Assyria has arrived here. She will take back to Italy the rescued who wish to return.

The Thunderer Says the Belgian Flag Cannot Wave Over the Nile Regions.

LONDON, March 20.—The Times publishes an article on Congo affairs calling attention to the prohibitory tariff and to the rumors in connection with the Kerkhove expedition which is now well on its way from Leopoldville with the intention of annexing the Nile Valley in King Leopold's name. The Times protests against the "overweening ambition" of the Congo Free State and says, "The Belgian flag cannot wave over the Nile regions. King Leopold ought to realize that such action will inevitably lead to a partition of the Congo Free State among the European powers whose possessions are clustering on its borders."

Parnell's Bluff.

LONDON, March 20.—Michael Davitt in an interview to-day contemptuously referred to what he termed Parnell's "bluff." Davitt said he did not intend to be a candidate in an election in the division of Cork City which Parnell now represents. Two reasons pressed him to make this decision. The first, he said, is that Mr. Parnell will not resign, for he knows he will be beaten should he come forward for re-election. The second reason is that I am not anxious to enter Parliament now or in the future, though I am unwilling to bind myself to remain in this frame of mind for all time. In North Sligo Mr. Parnell's candidate, Ald. Dillon, will be beaten by 2000 votes.

The Pall Mall Gazette, under the heading "Fire Escape Tactics, Mr. Parnell Climbs Down," says: "Mr. Parnell has made his first really weak move, consequently the Parnellites are greatly embarrassed and the patriots are jubilant now it is evident the challenge of Mr. Healey was a mere bluff."

Important Raid by the Police in Paris.

PARIS, March 20.—The police last night raided and searched the houses of a number of leading Boulangists. They also arrested Granger and Roche, members of the Chamber of Deputies, who belong to the patriotic league, and two anarchist leaders, Murphy and Caron, on charges of fomenting an insurrection and intending to incite a disturbance at a meeting in honor of Jules Ferry to be held to-morrow. Many revolutionary documents have been seized by the police and will be used at the trial of the accused. The police seized at Caron's residence a list containing the names of 1200 men, so arranged in groups as to form military companies.

Sheared the Lamb of its Fleece.

BUFFALO, March 20.—John C. Lamb, a Canadian farmer hailing from Delhi, Ont., called at police headquarters and told a story that caused Supt. Morganstern to smile. A few days ago, he said, a letter came to him from a firm in New York stating that for $200 they would give him $2000 in cash at any time he would come to New York and make the bargain. Mr. Lamb at once decided to go to New York. Accordingly he gathered $200 of hard-earned money and journeyed eastward. He met the sharks at New York, was taken [illegible] steerer's den, and the old game of exposing $2000 in greenbacks was gone through with. Lamb planked down his $200 on the understanding that the $2000 in counterfeit money was to be sent by express here. Lamb came to Buffalo and waited for his package, but it never came, and finally, realizing that he had been duped, went to Supt. Morganstern and related his tale of woe.

SATURDAY, MARCH 21, 1891.

ALLEGED IRREGULARITIES.

HAVING been again defeated, for the fourth consecutive time, the Liberal mouthpieces are striving to find excuses for their defeat and are making a great noise about alleged irregularities. They deal largely in generalities, and hedge their charges about with such expressions as "it is said" and "it is believed," hoping that some of their assertions will be believed. Much of the noise is made because judges have not gone contrary to the law to please the Liberals, and in others the irregularities are manufactured out of whole cloth and have an existence only in the imagination of the writers. One despatch is published stating that there was a concerted plan made for bribery purposes by Conservatives and that strangers, one for each of several places named, were sent out to carry out the plan. Peterborough is one of the places named, but this is one of the cases where the charge is entirely baseless and is trumped up, without having any foundation, to let the defeated party down lightly.

Take, as an example, one instance of the alleged irregularities. It was asserted, with much noise and bluster, that in South Wentworth fifteen ballots marked for the Liberal candidate had been placed in the envelope with the spoiled ballots, instead of with the rejected ballots, and therefore could not and were not counted in the recount. This story is spoiled by the facts, for the judge could and did examine all the ballots and could and did open the envelope with the spoiled ballots.

Of such material are the charges and assertions and hints made up that the Globe is placing before the people with large headings and double-leaded type with a view to prejudicing public opinion. If any wrong has been done there is a way to set it right and to punish the wrong doer, but "it is saids" and other baseless assertions will not have the desired effect.

AN OUTRAGE, SURELY.

A DESPATCH in the Globe regarding the South Wentworth recount says:

"A number of ballots were marked on the back by numbers corresponding to the numbers on the voters' list opposite the name of the voter. This would serve to identify the voter, and the counsel for Mr. Middleton claimed strongly that these ballots should be disallowed."

Whether ballots were so marked or not we do not know. If they were the act was wrong and contrary to the law. But is it not strange that the Liberals should so strongly object to a few ballots being marked in this way, and claim that they should not be counted, when under the Provincial law, which is under the control of the Mowat Government, all ballots are marked in that way and every vote can be traced? It is now acknowledged that when a ballot is so numbered the number would serve to identify the voter. Yet Mr. Mowat and his followers refuse to change the Ontario law and persist in retaining the numbered ballot system. In their case it is no accidental thing and no result of a deputy's mistake, but a deliberate act of the Government and its supporters to retain this unfair and unjust method, so that the voters may be coerced into voting for the Liberal candidates. If a few ballots numbered by mistake in a Dominion election is an outrage, it is surely a greater outrage when the Ontario Government compels the deputies to number all the ballots cast in an election; and if the numbering of the few ballots is such a wrong that they should not be counted, and that the electors who marked them should be disfranchised, what defence can be made for the Mowat Government which so framed the law that all the ballots in an election are numbered? It is by means of that law, and other means used for coercing electors, that Mr. Mowat is retained in office, and even then he does not receive a majority of the votes, but secures a majority in the House through his gerrymander of the constituencies.

THE Bobcaygeon Independent thinks that in the recent election "thousands voted without any true or just conception of what they were voting for." It further says that "every voter had to express his opinion whether he was in favor of protection or in favor of free trade," which shows that among those who were most in need of education regarding the issue was Mr. Smith himself.

THE Globe states that a ballot cast in the South Wentworth election had a plain dot above the cross. Can this be possible? Are the rights of the people and the Liberal hopes of office thus to be shattered by a plain dot? The pencil that made that plain dot should be found and given to Sir Richard Cartwright that he may use it to smite the wicked Government that did not prevent the plain dot being made.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is on the flood tide of popularity, which position it has reached by its own intrinsic, undoubted merit.

A FEW years ago the Liberals made a claim on behalf of Hon. George Brown as the "father of confederation." Now they are recalling that twenty-six years ago he "thundered against a union of Old Canada with Nova Scotia and New Brunswick," and by quoting from the Globe of that time are now attacking confederation. But of course they are loyal to the Dominion!

HASTINGS NOTES.

Correspondence of the Review.

ACCIDENT.—On Wednesday morning last Mr. Patrick Barry had the misfortune to have his leg broken by the kick of a horse. He is under medical treatment and improving.

ON THE ROAD.—Mr. Joe. Gillogly, the active and energetic tea merchant, is out on the road doing a good trade. He was at Peterborough this week and vicinity looking up business.

One Secret of Health and Happiness.

Poets and novelists go into ecstacies over what they romantically call "beautiful spring," and "gentle spring," and while, no doubt, every one is glad to see winter release its icy grasp, "beautiful spring" is, after all, one of the most deadly seasons of the year. Sudden transitions from warmth to extreme cold, with piercing, chilling winds; from dry to sloppy, "muggy" weather, all combine to make the season a most trying one, even to the hardiest constitution, while to those with weak constitutions the season is one of positive danger. Undoubtedly the greatest danger at this season of the year is from cold in the head, which very few escape, and which, if not promptly and thoroughly treated, developes into catarrh, with all its disagreeable and loathsome effects. Catarrh, neglected, almost as certainly developes into consumption, annually destroying thousands of lives. At this trying season no household should be without a bottle of Nasal Balm. In cases of cold in the head it gives almost instant relief and effects a speedy cure, thus preventing the development of catarrh. Where the latter disease has already secured a hold it is equally efficacious, and with persistent use will cure the worst case. From the outset it sweetens the breath, stops the nauseous droppings into the throat and lungs, dispels those dull headaches that afflict the sufferer from catarrh. Nasal Balm is not advertised as a cure-all—it is an honest remedy which never fails to cure cold in the head or catarrh when the directions are faithfully followed, and thousands throughout the country have reason to bless its discovery. Nasal Balm may be had from all dealers or will be sent post-paid on receipt of price (50 cents, small, or $1, large size bottle,) by addressing Fulford & Co., Brockville, Ont.

THE CITY AND SUBURBS.

Revival Services.

Rev. M. J. Bates, an evangelist set apart for that work by the Methodist Conference, will commence a series of revival services in the George-st. Methodist church to-morrow. A special service for young people will be held at three o'clock in the afternoon. The services will be continued during the week.

"Ayer's Medicines have been satisfactory to me throughout my practice, especially Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which has been used by many of my patients, one of whom says he knows it saved his life."—F. L. Morris, M. D., Brooklyn, N. Y.

A Recognition of Services.

In the south George-st. window of China Hall there was on exhibition to-day a handsome glass drinking service which is to be presented to the fire brigade by Messrs. Macfarlane Wilson and George Matthews in recognition of the prompt and successful energy exerted by the firemen in subduing the blaze in the cellar beneath these two gentlemen's places of business on the night of December 8th last. The service is entirely of glass and consists of two elegant decanters and two dozen wine glasses, and two large pitchers and two dozen large drinking glasses. On each piece of the service is neatly cast "P.F.B., Dec. 8th, 1890."

"Onward and Upward."

The Haddo House Association is a society over which the Countess of Aberdeen presides and the object of which is to protect and educate women. "Onward and Upward" is the journal of the Association and is edited by Lady Aberdeen. The magazine, however, while devoting some space to the society, contains much reading of general interest and articles of special interest to women. The tone of the magazine is indicated by the title page, which shows a shepherd ascending a rugged mountain carrying a lamb in his arms and followed by his flock. In the February number Lady Aberdeen begins, under the title "Through Canada with a Kodak," an account of her visit to Canada last year in company with Lord Aberdeen.

Some Foolish People

Allow a cough to run until it gets beyond the reach of medicine. They often say, "Oh, it will wear away," but in most cases it wears them away. Could they be induced to try the successful medicine called Kemp's Balsam, which is sold on a positive guarantee to cure, they would immediately see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Price 50c and $1. Trial size free. At all druggists.

A POST MORTEM TO BE MADE.

The Coroner's Jury Enquiring Into the Death of the Babe.

Yesterday afternoon Coroner Dr. Bell held an inquest in the police court room "to enquire as to how, when and by what means" the new born infant found on the previous day came to its death.

The following jury was empannelled:

JOHN P. METHERAL, foreman.

Walter Paterson	F. Foote
Rufus Stevenson	H. Newton
Thos. Brady	Alex. Gibson
Timothy Giroux	Sam. Campbell
Wm. Morgan	Wm. F. Green
Thos. McGrath	Jas. McComb
Geo. Stevenson	A. E. Ostrom
John Irwin	Geo. Davidson

After the jury had been duly sworn, Chief Roszel brought the small coffin containing the body of the dead infant from the cell below, and opened it in the court room. The jury viewed the remains, which were then removed again to the cells.

After the coroner had briefly outlined the facts known of the case as given in the REVIEW, he proceeded to take evidence.

The evidence of the two ladies who found the infant was substantially in accordance with the facts as stated yesterday. The girl was engaged at the house where the child was found on Friday evening. On Thursday when the family were at breakfast she told one of the children that she was unwell, and went to her room. Her mistress went up to the room during the morning and the girl came to the door and spoke to her, and she was not seen again until nearly one o'clock. They also told how, becoming suspicious, they examined the room and found the body of the infant. When the girl was leaving for the hospital her mistress said to her, "Is it possible that you put an end to that poor little creature?" and she replied, "No, I did not." No one had been in the room except the girl. The head and part of the body of the infant were submerged in the water in the pail when found.

The question as to the means by which the little one came to its death could not be gone into without expert evidence, the jury considered it necessary to have a post mortem examination held to ascertain if possible whether the child was born alive or not. If the babe was born dead at birth the girl will be exonerated and the inquest made unnecessary.

Dr. McGrath and Dr. Yelland were chosen by the jury to make the post mortem examination and it was decided to adjourn until Monday afternoon at three o'clock to receive the report before proceeding.

A Remedy for the Grippe.

A remedy recommended for patients afflicted with the grippe is Kemp's Balsam, which is especially adapted to diseases of the throat and lungs. Do not wait for the first symptoms of the disease, but get a bottle and keep it on hand for use the moment it is needed. If neglected, the grippe has a tendency to bring on pneumonia. All druggists sell the Balm. 1d66

A Honest and Fearless Physician.

Many physicians come out honestly and boldly in favor of Paine's Celery Compound, and are not afraid to let it be known that it is a remedy of great value to mankind. We give the opinion of Dr. J. W. Small, New York, Corresponding Secretary of the New York Medical Association. He says: "I have used Paine's Celery Compound with excellent success in a case of nervous prostration, complicated with severe facial neuralgia and insomnia. Its effects have been those of a nerve tonic and sedative. I consider it to be a valuable therapeutic agent."

This testimony, coming from one of New York's best known physicians, carries great weight, and should induce the doubting and suffering victim to have faith in the greatest remedy known to the medical faculty.

Each season has its own peculiar malady; but with the blood maintained in a state of uniform vigor and purity by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla little danger need be feared from meteorological influences. No other blood medicine is so safe and effective

Resolution of Condolence.

The following resolution of condolence was passed at the last meeting of St. Peter's Branch, No. 21, E.B.A.:—Whereas our bereaved brother, Mr. A. E. Lee, has recently sustained an overwhelming affliction in the loss of his beloved and estimable wife, whose virtues and superior womanly qualities were known to many of us personally; And whereas Bro. Lee has a special claim upon our sympathy in that he was practically the founder of the Peterborough Branch of this Association and he has ever been a faithful, active and conscientious member, striving energetically to carry out the grand principles of our Association while at the same time being an exemplary citizen, a loving husband and wise counsellor: Be it therefore resolved, that the most sincere sympathy and heartfelt condolence of St. Peter's Branch, No. 21, of the Emerald Beneficial Association, be hereby tendered to Bro. Lee in the hope that these words may afford him some consolation in his grief, and, to some small extent, at least, an expression of our keen feeling for him in his bereavement, and assure him that he has tried friends and true in the Association to which we all have the honor of belonging—who rejoice with them that rejoice and weep with them that weep. And that copies of this resolution be forwarded to the press for publication.

Signed on behalf of the Association,
C. E. ROACH,
WM. HOGAN,
G. H. GIROUX.

Anniversary.

What word fills the hearts of old and young alike with feelings of gladsome glee such as this, "Anniversary"? Always successful in the past, the anniversary services this year will probably be the most interesting in connection with Charlotte-st Methodist Sunday school. Rev. C. O. Johnston, one of the most popular Methodist divines, will preach the anniversary sermons tomorrow morning and evening. In the afternoon an attractive children's service will be held in the church, commencing at 2.30. Rev. Mr. Johnston and Rev. Mr. Locke will address the scholars and solos and sacred songs will be rendered by the children of the school. The scholars and teachers will occupy the centre of the church. On Monday evening "Influences" will be the subject of a lecture to be delivered by Rev. C. O. Johnston. The lecture is spoken of as grandly eloquent, entertaining and profitable. On Tuesday evening the children's entertainment will be given in the church. This will be one of the grandest entertainments yet given in connection with the school. The Sunday school has been found to be altogether too small and the special silver collections to-morrow go towards the funds of the school. In order to have the church crowded on Monday and Tuesday evenings tickets have been placed at a very low price. See advertisement in another column.

To Nervous Debilitated Men.

If you will send us your address, we will mail you our illustrated pamphlet explaining all about Dr. Dye's Celebrated Electro-Voltaic Belt and Appliances, and their charming effects upon the nervous debilitated system, and how they will quickly restore you to vigor, and manhood. Pamphlet free. If you are thus afflicted, we will send you a Belt and Appliances on a trial.

Brantford's Acquisition.

It is a good thing for a town when a live, energetic, pushing business man opens up his business place and proceeds to add to the facilities for trade. Brantford has secured another citizen in the person of Mr. Bernard Gough, of Gough Bros. of this town, who has gone west to open a store after the pattern set by Gough's the Universal Hustlers of the Clothing Trade. Mr. Mr. Gough has been educated in a good school for business and carries with him the go and energy that will soon make his store a well known and early identified land mark in Brantford. The clothing trade had only limited possibilities in Peterborough until Gough's took hold. Then things began to stir up, and the old routine was swept away to give place to the system that sells to rich and poor an article of clothing so good that all alike buy because of its intrinsic merits. That Mr. Gough will be successful there can be no doubt, and his many friends in town will be gratified to learn of his prosperity.

The University Boat Race.

LONDON, ENG., March 21—The Oxford crew won the boat race with Cambridge today.

The Lost Was Found.

One of the firm of Levine Bros., the Jews who operate the second hand store on Hunter-st., while taking a peddling trip through the country stopped one night at Mr. Crough's in Ennismore. In the morning he missed a package of dry goods valued at fifty dollars. He returned to town and reported his loss to the police. This morning Mr. Crough came to town and handed the missing package to the Chief, it having been found in a fence corner. Mr. Levine is rejoicing.

Brevities.

—There was only a fair market this morning.

—There was a blank at the police court this morning.

—The heavy snow storm of last night surprised many this morning.

—The Manufacturers Committee of the Town Council met last night and discussed several matters of interest.

—The medical men, Drs. Yelland and McGrath, made their post mortem examination of the dead infant in the police cells last night. Their report will be made known on Monday.

—There will be two special events in the town churches to-morrow—Sunday school anniversary services at the Charlotte-st. church and the Forester's sermon at St. Paul's in the evening.

The Dangers of Spring.

The political battle is over, but the battle with disease must be constantly and unceasingly waged else the grim reaper will come out victorious, and loved ones will be gathered to their long homes. On all sides may be seen pale and listless girls who should be enjoying the health and glow of rosy youth. Everywhere we are met with women young in years, yet prematurely old, who suffer in silence almost untold agonies, the result of those ailments peculiar to the female system. To all such, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills come as a blessing. They restore wasted vitality, build up the nervous system, enrich the blood, and transform pale and sallow complexions into glowing, rosy cheeks that alone follow perfect health. In a word they are a certain cure for all these distressing complaints to which women and girls are peculiarly liable. A trial of these pills will convince the most sceptical of their wonderful merit. For suffering men Dr William's Pink Pills are equally efficacious. For overwork, mental strain, loss of sleep, nervous debility, and all those diseases that lead to broken-down manhood, they are a certain specific, stimulating the brain, reinforcing the exhausted system and restoring shattered vitality. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are nature's restorative and should be used by every weak and debilitated person. For sale by all dealers or sent post paid on receipt of price (50 cents a box) by addressing the Dr. Williams Medicine Co. Brockville, Ont.

Constipation,

If not remedied in season, is liable to become habitual and chronic. Drastic purgatives, by weakening the bowels, confirm, rather than cure, the evil. Ayer's Pills, being mild, effective, and strengthening in their action, are generally recommended by the faculty as the best of aperients.

"Having been subject, for years, to constipation, without being able to find much relief, I at last tried Ayer's Pills. I deem it both a duty and a pleasure to testify that I have derived great benefit from their use. For over two years past I have taken one of these pills every night before retiring. I would not willingly be without them."—G. W. Bowman, 26 East Main st., Carlisle, Pa.

"I have been taking Ayer's Pills and using them in my family since 1857, and cheerfully recommend them to all in need of a safe but effectual cathartic."—John M. Boggs, Louisville, Ky.

"For eight years I was afflicted with constipation, which at last became so bad that the doctors could do no more for me. Then I began to take Ayer's Pills, and soon the bowels recovered their natural and regular action, so that now I am in excellent health."—S. L. Loughbridge, Bryan, Texas.

"Having used Ayer's Pills, with good results, I fully indorse them for the purposes for which they are recommended."—T. Conners, M. D., Centre Bridge, Pa.

SATURDAY, MARCH 21, 1891.

BEATRIX RANDOLPH.

BY JULIAN HAWTHORNE.

"It is. A woman is what her associates are. If respectable people don't receive her they are to blame if she cuts up."

"If she were a novice—but she's notorious!"

"You affect Pharisaeism in imitation of your Puritan ancestors. But this poor girl is neither a witch nor a Quaker. Her notoriety comes from her genius; the rest is mere hearsay, which it's none of your business to attend to. I intend that she shall leave New York without a spot on her reputation, and you must bear a hand. Otherwise you're not the fellow I took you for." Wallie knew Bellingham better and had more influence over him than any one else, and the end of it was that Bellingham consented to come.

There were less than twenty persons at the dinner. The dining room walls were of a soft Indian red hue, the wood work being mahogany and maple. The flowers on the table were yellow and blue. The room was lighted by tinted wax candles, each provided with a little colored shade. Everything looked cool, fresh and sweet. The host and hostess received their guests in the adjoining drawing room. By previous arrangement Mlle. Marana and Mrs. Bemax were the first to arrive. The diva was dressed in something white, of a lithe and feathery effect, giving the impression of a beautiful great bird. Her heart was up, for this was her first irrevocable step in her assumed personality. She was a [illegible], and having entered upon her course she had laid aside fear and irresolution.

Whatever she did she would do with her might. Such a vision of purity and loveliness as she was did not often enter a New York drawing room. She gave her hand first to Mrs. Cadwalader and then to Wallie. The latter grasped it cordially, and seemed about to say something, but suddenly checked himself, and looked at her with an odd, perplexed expression, like a man who is taken by surprise. Doubtless so much beauty would be a surprise to any one. After a moment's hesitation he said, "I'm glad to welcome you to this country, mademoiselle, I hope you will learn to feel like an American as much as you already look like one."

"Thank you; if it is American to feel happy then I am one," she answered, and it was observable as she spoke that this foreign lady's pronunciation was remarkably accurate. Wallie forbore to make the observation, however; he only took his chin between his thumb and forefinger with a quietly smiling look.

Mrs. Cadwalader said: "What delicious lace, Mademoiselle Marana! It is like frost work on ivory. Will you take a cup of tea?"

Mlle. Marana declined, and presently the other guests began to arrive.

There was Mr. Barcliffe, a wool merchant, but for social purposes an amateur composer. He was a small, slender, lively man, with gray hair and an immense gray mustache, like a great bar across the lower part of his face; he had the air of always standing on tiptoe to peep across this bar with a sportive, twinkling expression. There was Mr. Bidgood, a rosy, roistering, spherical personage, bald headed and short of breath; he smiled at you with a penetrating look, as if there were a private joke between you and himself which it would not do to mention.

There was Mr. Grasmere, tall, courtly and romantic, with a resonant voice and an occasional gleam from beneath his upper eyelids, as if his soul were kindling within him. He had been a lawyer by profession, but had married well, and was now the proprietor of an artistic weekly. There was Mr. Knight, a distinguished politician with fresh complexion, clear cut features, powerful black eyes and snow white hair; his bearing was covertly condescending, as though he were reluctant to have you realize how greatly he was your superior. There was Mr. Damon, also white haired and white bearded, a somewhat unsuccessful publisher, but gifted with a warm heart, a keen wit and a bitter tongue. There was a certain unconventional wrath and heat about him, mixed with laughter and mockery, and nothing seemed to delight him so much as to shock a fastidious person or to bully a humbug.

There was Mr. Plainter, a gentleman all profile and eyeglasses, with a grating voice, a retentive memory and an insatiable earnestness. He was president of the American branch of the Society for the Scientific Investigation of Supernatural Phenomena, and his normal condition was one of high argument and exposition. He spoke of himself as "we," and of the rest of the world as "you"—imparting to that pronoun an intonation significative of bigotry and prejudice. His neck projected forward, and his figure was thin and curved like the new moon. There was Mr. Beaufort, once a clergyman, now an actor, a large headed, small bodied man, with a big nose and deep set eyes, extremely graceful and deliberate in his attitudes and gestures, wearing in repose an expression of thoughtful melancholy, as if reflecting that he had been a clergyman, but brightening, when addressed, with a smile of almost excessive sweetness, as if remembering that he was an actor.

Such of these gentlemen as possessed wives were accompanied by them, but the latter were for the most part like the engravings of ladies in fashion papers—though their faces might be pretty, it was the dresses you looked at and recollected. When an American lady is distinguished at all she is apt to appear almost too much so. Not to mention the hostess of the evening, there were, for example, Mrs. March, of the Women's Political association, slim, erect, holding her elbows close to her sides, with a tight business mouth and yearning melancholy eyes; possessing an insufferable command of language, enhanced by a faculty of seeming to repress more than she uttered; Miss Korner, of German extraction, with short, sandy hair, pale, prominent eyes, a snub nose and protruding jaw; her volubility was as great as that of Mrs. March, and her rapidity greater; but whereas the former lady's conversation was mainly explanatory and argumentative, Miss Korner's was interrogatory and anecdotical; Mrs. Bright, a beauty, the wife of a wealthy brewer, holding herself as if she were on horseback, rushing at a topic or an enterprise as if it were a five barred gate, and forgetting it the next moment, headstrong, enthusiastic, blase; she had embraced Herbert Spencer during the last season, and reproduced him in jets and sparkles; Mrs. Musgrave, the dramatic reader. But why continue? The peculiarity of New York society is that no two people are alike; you have to focus yourself anew for every person you meet; whereas abroad the difficulty is to distinguish Mr. Smith from Mr. Brown and Mrs. Jones from Mrs. Robinson. People there seem to be born, bred and molded in platoons: the various social grades each has the same traditions, the same prospects, the same resources, the same topics of conversation, the same tailors, and the same faces.

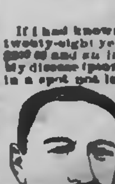
SCRATCHED 28 YEARS.

A Scaly, Itching Skin Disease with Endless Suffering Cured by Cuticura Remedies.

If I had known of the CUTICURA REMEDIES twenty-eight years ago, it would have saved me $200.00 and an immense amount of suffering. My disease (psoriasis) commenced on my head in a spot not larger than a cent. It spread rapidly all over my body, and got under my nails. The scales would drop off of me all the time, and my suffering was endless, and without relief. One thousand dollars would not tempt me to have this disease over again. I am a poor man, but feel rich to be relieved of what some of the doctors said was leprosy, some ringworm, psoriasis, etc. I cannot praise the CUTICURA REMEDIES too much.



They have made my skin as clear and free from scales as a baby's. All I used of them was $5 worth. If you had been here and said you would have cured me for $200.00, you would have had the money. I looked like the picture (No. 2, page 47) in your book, "How to Cure Skin Diseases," but now I am as clear as any person ever was. Through force of habit I rub my hands over my arms and legs to scratch once in a while, but to no purpose. I am all well. I scratched twenty-eight years, and it got to be a kind of second nature to me. I thank you a thousand times.

DENNIS DOWNING, Waterbury, Vt.

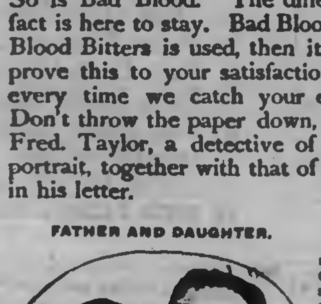
Facts are Stubborn Things

So is Bad Blood. The difference between them is that a fact is here to stay. Bad Blood can only stay until Burdock Blood Bitters is used, then it must go. It takes facts to prove this to your satisfaction, and we give them to you every time we catch your eye. Here is one of them. Don't throw the paper down, but read this letter from Mr. Fred. Taylor, a detective of Winnipeg. We present his portrait, together with that of his little daughter, mentioned in his letter.



FATHER AND DAUGHTER.

ONE OF THE GALLANT 90TH BATT.

DEAR SIRS,—Having felt out of order for some time, and having no energy or appetite, blotches on lips, tumor on neck—arising from impure blood, doctors doing me no good, I was induced to buy some B.B.B. I was very much against patent medicines at the time, having tried so many, but after using two bottles I began to get better, and at the fourth bottle was completely well and around again. I believe in B. B. B. now, I tell you. I send you a photo of myself and little daughter, Lilly. B. B. B. cured her of nasty blisters which came out on her lips. Yours thankfully,

F. TAYLOR,

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

Or the Newfoundland Kettle of Fish May Go the Way of the Boston Packets of Tea.

LONDON, March 20.—In the House of Commons to-day a despatch from St. John, N.B., was read. The despatch transmitted to the Imperial Government the resolutions adopted by the Colonial Legislature requesting England to delay any coercive legislation until the colony had been heard in its defence. The message is signed by the President of the Legislative Council and the Speaker of the House of Assembly of Newfoundland.

William Henry Smith, First Lord of the Treasury, commenting upon the despatch, said it touched upon a question of great importance, and upon behalf of the Government he was unwilling to give a hasty answer. As it was, Mr. Smith had been unable to confer with his colleagues, as the despatch had only been received to-day. It was entitled to the utmost consideration.

In the House of Commons to-day Sir James Fergusson, political secretary of the foreign office, said the draft of the House of Lords bill in regard to Newfoundland had not been sent to St. John's. The Government of Newfoundland was requested by the foreign office in November last to procure necessary legislation to empower England to carry out treaties with France. The present bill was proposed in consequence of the refusal of the Government of Newfoundland to accede to the request of the foreign office.

The Pall Mall Gazette says: "Unless something is done quickly to bring about rapprochement between the Colonies and the Colonial Office we may find the Newfoundland kettle of fish go the way of the Boston packets of tea."

The gravity of the Newfoundland question only begins to dawn on the country. In yesterday evening's debate in the House of Lords leaders on both sides avoided as far as possible touching probable complications endangering the peace of the empire, yet they could not avoid imparting an impression that developments are likely which may give rise to serious trouble.

Lord Salisbury, in the gravest of recent ministerial deliverances, weighing every word with care, admitted it was difficult to look without grave apprehension to the future in view of the strong feeling in France against the slightest relaxation even of the more extreme and unreasonable of her claims.

The debate has profoundly agitated the members of the House of Commons, and the tenor of communications exchanged by Morley and Gladstone points to strenuous opposition on behalf of the Newfoundland Government. Mr. Smith has promised a reply Monday, and it is prophesied that the Government will pause until the delegates of the Newfoundland Legislature who are coming to London have had time to be heard.

The Russian Arbitrator.

LONDON, March 20.—M. Martens of Russia has accepted the invitation to become a member of the Board of Arbitration in the Newfoundland dispute.

LAWRENCE BARRET DEAD.

The Great Actor Dies Suddenly in New York Last Night.

NEW YORK, March 20.—Lawrence Barrett, the tragedian, died this evening at 10.45 o'clock, at the Windsor Hotel. The demise was due to heart failure and the end was quite sudden, Mr. Barrett being unconscious but a short time before he died.

An Interesting Point Raised in a Toronto Man's Trial at Utica.

UTICA, March 20.—In the trial of James K. [illegible], alias [illegible], of Toronto, Ont., for smuggling Chinamen into this country, now in progress before U.S. District Judge Coxe in this city, Attorney Dengolis, assigned to defend the prisoner, raised an interesting point to-day. The Chinamen came to this country by a rowboat across Niagara River. The statute provides that it is a misdemeanor to aid or abet any Chinese person to enter the United States by land or to aid or abet any such to land from a vessel. Mr. Dengolis argued and the Government admitted that rowboat was not a vessel within the meaning of the statute. Mr. Dengolis argued that coming by rowboats could not be construed to mean coming by land. The effect of this construction of the statute would enable Chinamen to come to this country by rowboats.

The court held that for the present he would accept the broad interpretation excluding Chinamen to this country by whatever means, but promised to give the question further consideration and change his ruling if wrong.

Oxford is the Favorite.

LONDON, March 21.—The betting on the Oxford and Cambridge race, which takes place to-morrow, is 11 to 4 in favor of Oxford. Both crews took their last practice spins on the Thames yesterday. Though the boating authorities inclined toward the Oxford crew as being the most likely to win, here is a belief that the long odds quoted are not warranted by the performance of the rival eights. The race is from Putney to Mortlake, about four miles.

The first contest between the two Universities was at Henley in 1829 and the next in '36. No kind of a storm has prevented the contest from taking place any year since. Oxford won last year and has now won 26 races to 23 by Cambridge. In '77 the crews rowed a dead heat. Oxford won in '40 on a foul.

NEW YORK, March 20.—A cablegram to Mr. R. K. Fox from Sydney, New South Wales, yesterday, says: "John McLean, the champion oarsman of the world, and James Stanbury are to row over the Paramatta championship course on March 28 for £400 and the single scull championship of the world. Stanbury will go to America after the race to row William O'Connor, the American champion."

The Grand National Steeplechase.

LONDON, March 20.—This was the third day of the Lincoln spring meeting. The event of the program was the Grand National Steeplechase of 2000sovs. (inclusive of a trophy value 100sovs) by subscription of 20sovs each, second to receive 200sovs, and third 100sovs from the stake. Grand National Course about four miles and 856 yards. The race was won by Come Away, with Cloister second and Ilex third. Twenty-one started. The winners in previous years were: 1875, Pathfinder; 1876, Regal; 1877, Austerlitz; 1878, Shifnal; 1879, Liberator; 1880, Empress; 1881, Woodbrook; 1882, Seaman; 1883, Zoedone; 1884, Voluptuary; 1885, Roquefort; 1886, Old Joe; 1887, Gamecock; 1888, Playfair; 1889, Frigate; 1890, Ilex.

They Don't Recognize It.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—Secretary Spalding has decided that a registration in "The Canadian Horse Register" is not in itself sufficient to entitle Canadian horses, etc., to free entry under the provision of the tariff act for "pure bred animals of a recognized breed."

Found Dead by His Wife.

BEETON, March 20.—Gilbert Dunnam retired to rest last evening in his usual health, but shortly after his wife was aroused by his labored breathing. Before a doctor could be summoned he died. The cause of death is supposed to have been a fit of apoplexy.

Suddenly Stricken.

STRATFORD, March 20.—Philip Morrison, 27 years of age, died suddenly last night. He was engaged in shoveling coal in Aldford's coal yard yesterday and was apparently well when he left off work at 5 o'clock in the afternoon. At about 6 o'clock he was suddenly seized with illness and in a couple of hours expired.

TORONTO TRUTH'S

New Spring Bible Competition

No. 22.

In these latter days there have arisen many false schemes and many scores of imitations of TRUTH'S Competitions, but one after another have failed and utterly perished, yet TRUTH remains, and makes good all its promises. Its reputation is now too well established to risk damaging it, and as it has cost a very large amount of money and many years of care and labor to build up, the publisher could not afford to fail in carrying out all its agreements to the letter. There are twenty-one divisions of the largest list of bona fide prizes ever offered and ever actually given away by any publisher in the world. The total value of prizes in this Spring list is about [illegible]. The lists are so large it would cost altogether too much to give them in detail here. There are pianos, gold and silver watches, china tea and dinner sets, ladies' and gentlemen's bicycles, silver tea sets, silk dresses, books, money, and hundreds of other valuable rewards. You pay nothing for these prizes, as everyone concedes that full value is received for the dollar in securing TRUTH every week for three months. Send one dollar and answers to the five following questions. Where in the bible are these words first found: 1, GRAIN; 2, CORN; 3, WHEAT; 4, BARLEY; 5, RYE. If your answers are correct and your letters arrive in time you are almost sure to get a reward, as there are so many and everyone cannot always find correct answers to all these questions. All the five answers must be correct to get any prize, but you will get full value for the dollar in TRUTH if you don't get anything else. If you want to see the list of rewards before sending in your dollar, mail TRUTH ten cents and a copy will be sent you containing the list of prizes. But there have been very few dissatisfied prize-winners in previous competitions, considering that he has given away during the past eight years scores of thousands of prizes. Some people expect a piano for every dollar sent, and are mad if they don't get it. He wishes it were possible to give every subscriber a gold watch or a piano or both, but says it can't be done. Some publishers intimate they will, but nobody can do it for any length of time. Send one dollar and correct answers and you wont repent it; and bear in mind that it is not guaranteed that everybody whose answers are correct will get a prize, but that all the prizes in the twenty-one different lists will be given away. The competition remains open only until the last day of June next, inclusive, after which the prizes will be immediately distributed to the successful ones. Ten days will be allowed for letters to reach TRUTH from distant points after the 30th June. All, however, must be postmarked where mailed not later than 30th June, or any time between now and that date. Address S. Frank Wilson, "Truth" Office, Toronto, Ont., Canada.

MURDER AT STRATHROY.

FATALLY BEATEN IN A DISPUTE OVER A DRAIN.

Robert Murray of Metcalfe Kills His Relative as the Result of an Old Feud—The Victim a Neighbor of His Assailant—Remanded to Jail.

STRATHROY, March 21.—Yesterday afternoon a most melancholy affair occurred on the town line between Caradoc and Metcalfe, about six miles from this town, by which a young man lost his life at the hands of a neighbor and relative. An old feud had existed between Robert Murray of the 13th concession and William O'Rowe of lot 3 in the same concession over some Government drain that runs through their joint properties. On Saturday afternoon last, as Mr. Rowe was talking to Mr. Herring at the corner of the town line and 13th concession of Metcalfe, Robert Murray and his wife drove up on their way home from Strathroy, and with an oath Murray said to Rowe that if he did not get out of the way he would ride him down. This he did, running over Rowe and throwing him in the ditch. Blows followed, in which it is said that both used clubs, Rowe apparently getting the worst of it, and had to be helped to his home, some half-mile distant. Word was subsequently brought to Strathroy and a charge of aggravated assault sworn out against Murray, who was afterwards bailed out before P. M. Noble, himself in $400 and two other sureties of $100 each. At 1 o'clock this morning Rowe died from the result of his injuries and a second warrant was sworn out against Murray, charging him with murder. This afternoon an inquest was opened before Coroner Lindsay, Drs. A. S. Thompson, W. W. Hoare and A. Thompson being deputed to hold the post mortem. After inspecting the body and hearing some preliminary evidence they adjourned to meet at Strathroy on Wednesday next, when the result of the post mortem examination will be made known and full evidence taken.

A CANADIAN DESPERADO

Kills a Detective and Wounds Several Other Officers.

PITTSBURG, March 22.—Six weeks ago Laura Hill and three men entered Smith's jewelry store at Homestead, knocked down and bound the proprietor and got away with $2800 in cash and jewelry. The girl was arrested soon afterwards and was jailed at McKeesport. There she peached on her pals. Last night Detective Gilkinson of Pittsburg, Detective Pat Murphy and two policemen drove to Peter's Run, reaching the house of the leader in the robbery, A. B. Budd, alias Fitzsimmons. Gilkinson threw open the door and Budd shot him dead. A terrible duel then took place at short range between Murphy and Budd. Each emptied his revolver. Budd's wife brought him another and Murphy took Gilkinson's revolver and the fight continued in the smoke-darkened room. Murphy was shot in the forehead, breast and hip, but was not fatally wounded. Mrs Budd was shot in the arm and the two policemen were slightly wounded. Budd escaped. Mrs. Budd was arrested. Budd is a noted crook. He weighs only 140 pounds and is said to be a native of Brockville, Ont.

The Murderer Captured.

Fitzsimmons was arrested near Homestead, Pa., to-night. A satchel found near the scene of last night's murder contained a lot of valuable jewelry stolen at Homestead. A copy of the will of Robert Fitzsimmons, dated at Brockville, Ont., Dec. 10, 1880, was also found in the valise. This will shows that the murderer's father was a wealthy man, having about $40,000 in money to divide among his heirs, besides a large amount of real estate. The murderer is named in the will as Frederick Carrollton Fitzsimmons and is bequeathed $3000 in money and a good share of real estate.

HE ANNOYED HER.

An Irate Housekeeper Peppers Her Employer's Son With a Bullet.

STRATHROY, March 22.—A colored lad named Harry Brown quarrelled Saturday night with his father's housekeeper, a colored woman named Mary Smith. She ordered the boy out and it is said fired a couple of revolver shots at him, without hitting him, but it caused him to leave the house, after which he commenced throwing stones at the windows, when the woman fired again, hitting the boy in the leg. No arrest has been made yet.

EVENTS ACROSS THE SEA.

200 MEMBERS RETIRE FROM LONDON 'CHANGE.

Nearly Involved in a Duel—A Malay Murderer Pardoned—Gigantic Strike in Brussels—A Number of Steamers Wrecked and Many Lives Lost.

LONDON, March 22.—Discount was firm during the past week at 2¼ for three months and 2 for short. The reports of large drafts of gold going to Montevideo in connection with the loan of £10,000,000 negotiated by Uruguay tend to cause a hardening of the money rates. Business on the Stock Exchange was very inactive and there will be no revival until after the Easter holidays. The House will close from March 26 to March 31. In spite of the paucity of transactions prices generally improved. Rupee paper fluctuated and closed ⅝ lower on the week. In foreign securities the feature was the strength of Argentine nationals, the recovery ranging from ½ to 2¼.

The movements of English railway securities were slight, though the tendency was good. There was an average rise of ⅜. In American railroads the feeling was distinctly weak, no initiative being taken in dealings here.

Significant of the condition of business on the Stock Exchange is the fact that nearly 200 members with 300 clerks are about to retire, being unwilling or unable to renew their annual subscriptions.

Although business on the Paris bourse was limited during the week the tendency was toward firmness. The fortnightly settlement passed without a symptom of embarrassment arising from the Society des Depots et Comptes Courants collapse.

The Banque de Paris is negotiating a loan for China.

Ratification of a Treaty of Alliance Between Russia and France.

BERLIN, March 22.—Dispatches received by the Foreign Office from St. Petersburg convey some unwelcome information pointing to the conclusion of a formal treaty of alliance between France and Russia. Until recently the Czar had resisted all attempts of going beyond an entente with France. The draft of a treaty prepared in Paris in 1887 and approved by M. de Giers, the Grand Dukes Nicholas and Vladimir, and the other chiefs of the Imperial Council on the part of Russia, and which was then rejected by the Czar, but was again presented to him after the last elections in France had confirmed the permanency of the republican form of government in that country and was again rejected, has finally received his sanction. As an event of such immense international importance as this cannot be kept secret, it is expected that M. de Giers, Minister of Foreign Affairs, will cause some informal notification to reach the Governments of the Dreibund. As a corollary of the alliance the Czar, it is stated, has signed a decree bestowing on President Carnot the grand cordon of the order of St. Andrew, the highest Russian decoration and one limited to members of the Imperial family. This decoration has hitherto been conferred as an exceptional honor on sovereigns nearly connected with the Russian throne.

If the Foreign Office here has any precise knowledge regarding the terms of the reported Russo-French convention, highly placed officials have not been allowed to share it. The honor conferred on President Carnot is the open talk of the diplomatic circle. The announcement that it had been conferred has been telegraphed here under the sanction of the St. Petersburg authorities. No open dispatch can be obtained regarding the conclusion of the treaty.

SWEDISH SHIP WRECKED.

Fourteen of Her Crew Carried Down With Her.

LONDON, March 22.—The Swedish ship Senator Weber, Capt. Winck, which sailed from Cardiff March 9 for Rio Janeiro, was caught off the coast by the recent heavy gale which swept over England. She was dismasted and sprung a leak and when the gale subsided was found to be in a sinking condition. On the 11th inst. the Senator Weber foundered, carrying down with her 14 of her crew.

The steamer Abyssinia stranded at Saigon, but was afterward assisted off. The second officer and two of the crew were drowned. This may be the British steamer Abyssinia, Capt. Lee, which was last reported as having arrived at Hong Kong Feb. 21, from Vancouver.

How Gladstone Spent the Week.

LONDON, March 22.—Mr. Gladstone's public occupations during the last seven days have included a lecture on Homer to the boys at Eton, embellished with interesting passages of autobiography, a journey to Hastings under the guidance of Mr. Harcourt, Sir William's son, a speech of an hour and a half at Hastings, attendance at two dinners given by Lord and Lady Aberdeen at their house in Grosvenor-square to meet him, a reception of the women's deputation, sundry speeches in the House of Commons, and a long correspondence with the Chancellor of the Exchequer, embodying some corrections of errors in the Hastings speech, accompanied by a handsome apology for having made them. His health continues to be a political topic of the first importance. The truth appears to be that, when he has a considerable effort to make, like that at Hastings, he pulls himself together and speaks with much of his old vigor and animation. When this impulse, or inspiration, or, perhaps, stimulus of necessity is lacking, marked decrease of his former energy and vitality is perceptible.

Fortifying the Premier.

ROME, March 22.—The Chamber of Deputies, during the debate on the revised budget to-day, voted confidence in the Government. The vote stood 293 to 93. During the debate ex-Premier Crispi acquiesced in the proposed economies, but said he would leave the responsibility of effecting them to the Government, and would therefore vote against the Cabinet. The large majority received by the Government in the vote of confidence was unexpected and materially fortifies the position of Premier Rudini.

Wife Slavery Abolished.

LONDON, March 22.—The Jackson abduction case is the subject of comment in all the papers. The decision of the Court of Appeal giving the wife her liberty is generally applauded. The ancient law that made the wife the slave of the husband has been extinguished, and it is a cause for general congratulation that anachronism is forever buried.

Bombarding Another City.

BUENOS AYRES, March 22.—A report comes from Chilian sources that Antofagasta is being bombarded by the insurgents.

Newspaper Burnt Out.

JERSEY CITY, N.J., March 21.—The five-story building occupied by The Jersey City Argus was gutted by fire to-night. Loss $100,000. The paper is owned by William W. and Horace Farrier.

THREE OF A FAMILY KILLED.

Frightful Accident on the Canadian Pacific Near London—The Fatal Crossing

LONDON, March 22.—While driving into the city last evening Wesley Warner, a prominent farmer of London township, and his two daughters, 13 and 19 years of age, met a terrible death at a place called "O'Brien's Cut," about two miles west of here, on the Canadian Pacific Railway. The passenger train from the west which is due in London at 5.30 ran into their buggy, smashed it to pieces and killed both horses and mangled Mr. Warner and both daughters in a frightful manner. Their bodies were brought to the city.

HIS HEAD SPLIT BY A SAW.

Many Men Injured by the Gyrations of a Circular Saw.

MORRISBURG, March 22.—Mr. Peter Gobey, with a party of men, was sawing some wood with his circular saw in the yard behind Mr. Thomas Eastwood's carriage shop at North Williamsburg, when the boxing which held the arbor of the saw gave way, owing to the saw "pinching," and the saw left its position and with lightning speed tore its way across the iron table, behind which were Gobey and several others at work. It ran up Gobey's left arm and crossed his breast and right shoulder, inflicting terrible gashes in his arm and shoulder. Gobey may recover, but Ranson Hess, who was handing the wood to Gobey, had his head nearly split in two. It seems that the saw took the course of a semicircle and then struck him fair in the face and then, after passing over his head, plowed a deep furrow down his back. Hess is in a critical condition. The gash in his head was so deep that the base of the brain could be seen. Both men have families. The other men had a miraculous escape. The large balance wheel passed over one's shoulders and grazed those of another.

Killed by a Falling Roof.

BRECHIN, March 22.—Wellington and James Graham, brothers, were engaged moving some hay from the loft over a cowhouse at Dalrymple when the roof suddenly collapsed and Wellington was instantly killed. James was crushed through into the roothouse but escaped with some slight injuries. The floor through which he was crushed was damaged with the steam of the roots. The deceased, who was 30 years of age, was a brother of Mr. S. Graham of The Whitby Chronicle. He leaves a wife and four children.

Probably Fatally Hurt.

LONDON, March 22.—Frank Jamieson, employed at the Grand Trunk roundhouse with the boiler-makers, was in the act of holding a rivet while standing under a locomotive, when another engine was moved too far on the turntable, causing some planks to fall where he was standing, Jamieson thus getting the full force of the engine on his side. He was removed to his home. The doctor pronounced it a serious case, the victim being hurt internally.

SCARE IN THE WHITE HOUSE.

Was it an Attempt to Assassinate the President?

WASHINGTON, March 21.—The occupants of the White House had a genuine scare last night. Shortly after midnight they were startled by a crash of glass in the red parlor on the south front of the building. The special officers were summoned and proceeded to the scene. Under a sofa was discovered a desperate-looking man, with nothing on but trousers and under shirt and with an ugly-looking knife in his hand. The man made a desperate resistance. He fought like a tiger and it required several officers to subdue him. Strong ropes were secured and the fellow was soon bound hand and foot and forced into a small outbuilding until the patrol wagon arrived. When taken to the police station the man gave his name as Harry Martin and said he was a step-son of Senator Vance. It is supposed that he was suffering from delirium tremens.

Harry Martin, who created a sensation by breaking into the White House last night, has written a note to the President apologizing for his misconduct. The case will probably not be pressed when it comes up in court.

Irish Political Items.

The convention of Irish delegates at Newcastle has adopted resolutions of a lack of confidence in Parnell.

While Mr. David Sheehy, member of Parliament for Galway, was addressing a meeting in the Market-square of Sligo Saturday, Mr. Timothy Harrington and other Parnellites attempted to storm the platform used by the speakers. The mob immediately attacked Harrington. He was thrown upon the ground and severely handled in the free fight which ensued. Finally the police separated the combatants.

The priests of Drogheda denounced from the altar this morning the Parnell meeting announced to be held in the town in the afternoon. The result was a practical boycott of the meeting, only imported contingents being present. The mayor and sheriff refused to attend. Mr. Parnell repeated his usual statements.

Meetings were held this afternoon in several places in North Sligo. At all of these places Mr. Parnell was denounced from the pulpit in the morning. There was some rioting at Tireragh, which was suppressed by the police.

A federation meeting was held in Queenstown yesterday and was addressed by Messrs. Timothy and Maurice Healey and other members of Parliament. Mr. Timothy Healey in his speech asked where Mr. Parnell's impudent challenge was now. For two days they had been engaged in balloting, but had failed to make the four bread cover. He had understood that the delay had arisen from Mr. Parnell's going to Brighton to consult a lady. Mr. Parnell had not got permission from this Brighton banshee. Mr. Parnell's followers complained that the challenge was impolite. But his opponents did not address Mr. Parnell as a personage who ought to be sued and wooed. Mr. Parnell had broken a solemn pledge in a shameless manner. What could they not think of his stories about the Boulogne negotiations and Hawarden!

Will Remain in Canada.

HAMILTON, March 22.—Rich and Robinson, the Pittsburg defaulters who paid $40,000 to their creditors, with their wives have taken up quarters at the St. Nicholas Hotel. Their counsel, Mr. Teetzel, says they are going to open a large boot and shoe place here.

Caught Between the Bumpheads.

HAMILTON, March 21.—A newsboy named Robert Wood, living in Napier-street, attempted to clamber over the drawheads between the cars of a freight train at King-street crossing when the train started and his foot was nipped between the [illegible] ankle was badly crushed.

Hudson Gets Six Months.

UTICA, March 22.—The jury in the case of James Muldoon of Toronto, tried for smuggling Chinamen into this country, found him guilty of aiding and abetting in the smuggling and he was sentenced to six months in the Erie County Penitentiary.

SATURDAY'S BOAT RACE.

OXFORD HARDLY PRESSED FROM THE START.

It Looked For Some Time as if Cambridge Would be the Winners, But the Dark Blue Made a Final Spurt and Won by Quarter of a Length.

LONDON, March 21.—The 48th race between the eights of Oxford and Cambridge Universities was rowed yesterday and was won by Oxford. It was the most exciting event that has occurred on the Thames for many years.

The race was over the usual course, of about 4¼ miles, which starts at a point about 160 yards above Putney Bridge, near London, and finishes about the same distance above the Ship Inn at Mortlake.

Oxford captured the great advantage of position on the Middlesex side. This year the tide was high at London Bridge at about 1 p.m. and at Putney about an hour later. Four steamers and the umpire's launch followed the rival crews. The attendance as a whole did not equal that of former years owing to the early hour at which the race was rowed and to the prevalence of a sleet storm in the forenoon and bitter cold weather.

The crews were made up as follows:

The race was started at 11.00 a.m. Cambridge at first got away with the lead, pulling a shorter, smarter, somewhat quicker, more catchy stroke than Oxford, and at the Clasper's boathouse the Cambridge boat was ahead. Then Oxford bent to her work, pulling the long, dragging, powerful stroke peculiar to the oarsmen of that university, and Oxford was leading slightly at the Craven cottage, six furlongs from the start. At the Crabtree, 1 mile and 3 furlongs from the start, Oxford had the lead by a length. Cambridge soon spurted neatly and gallantly, pulling their shorter, quicker stroke with plenty of vim and with a good grip on the water, which surged the boat ahead in fine style. One mile and three and a half furlongs from the start the two boats were apparently on a level, "neck and neck," and both pulling evenly and strongly. It was then evident that a stubborn contest was in order, and those who had been laying heavy odds on Oxford began to feel sad, while a corresponding feeling of jubilation was experienced by the friends of Cambridge.

Nearing Hammersmith Bridge, one mile and six furlongs from the start, Cambridge again made a magnificent spurt, pulling finely, strongly together, and passed under that bridge a quarter of a length ahead, amid a scene of tremendous excitement.

Oxford, however, did not lose heart, but bent down and the more doggedly to their work, tugging sullenly, grittily at their oars and putting a splendid move on their boat. At the Doves, two miles from the start, Oxford led slightly, Cambridge still sticking to their work in magnificent style in spite of the creeping up of their dark blue opponents. The cheering and excitement was intense. At the oil mills, two miles one and a half furlongs from the start, the two boats were again level with each other. A grand, determined plucky struggle took place as the racing eights passed Chiswick, about two and one-half miles from the start. Oxford, when nearing Chiswick, was leading, but it was by a few feet only. Going towards Corney Reach the boats struck into smoother water, which assisted the lighter men in the Cambridge boat and beyond Thornycrofts they forged ahead, eventually leading Oxford by a quarter of a length. The stream, however, here began to favor Oxford, and at Barnes bridge, over three and a half miles from the start, Oxford was leading by half a length. Time 18 minutes 30 seconds. From that point Oxford had much the best station, getting almost clear from the light blues, though both crews were rowing in superb style. Gallantly, easily, without an outward sign of exhaustion, the contesting crews tugged at their oars with the utmost brilliancy and nerve. The struggle in the last quarter of a mile of the course was simply magnificent. Oxford had all the work she could do cut out for her as the boats rounded the Barnes bend of the river. Cambridge was rowing pluckily and with plenty of strength, but Oxford passed over the line first by a quarter of a length amid intense, almost indescribable excitement, winning the grandest race rowed on the River Thames in many years. Oxford's time was 22 minutes. The betting was nominally 2 to 1 on Oxford.

PROFESSIONAL ROWING.

John Teemer Makes a Deposit—O'Connor, Hanlan and Gaudaur.

BOSTON, March 22.—A certified draft for $200, payable to The Globe, was received last night from John Teemer of St. Louis, as a forfeit for a match race with Edward Hanlan for $1000 a side, to be rowed at the Point of Pines, near Boston, May 30, or any other place Hanlan may prefer, to be three miles and a turn. The challenge will remain open 10 days, and if not accepted by Hanlan is open to O'Connor and Gaudaur on the same conditions.

[Hanlan, who has been in New York the past two weeks, will probably accept provided terms can be agreed on. As stated frequently in The World O'Connor is not only willing but anxious for a race with the McKeesporter.]

An Interrogation Cost $40.

CORNWALL, March 22.—At the Assize Court here the suit of Robertson v. Williams for slander was tried. It was proven that defendant called plaintiff a low blackguard, following it up with the question: "Who stole Johnny Jock's whisky?" and "Who went preaching and praying around the back country and collecting money for a supposed church?" The jury awarded plaintiff $40 damages.

Swept Overboard.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., March 22.—The British steamship Lithington, from Liverpool, arrived here to-day. On the 4th inst. waves swept the second officer, Ernest Jenkins of North Shields, England, overboard.

Purify Your Blood

The importance of keeping the blood in a pure condition is universally known, and yet there are very few people who have perfectly pure blood. The taint of scrofula, salt rheum, or other foul humor is heredited and transmitted for generations, causing untold suffering, and we also accumulate poison and germs of disease from the air we breathe, the food we eat, or the water we drink. There is nothing more conclusively proven than the positive power of Hood's Sarsaparilla over all diseases of the blood. This medicine, when fairly tried, does expel every trace of scrofula or salt rheum, removes the taint which causes catarrh, neutralizes the acidity and cures rheumatism, drives out the germs of malaria, blood poisoning, etc. It also vitalizes and enriches the blood, thus overcoming that tired feeling, and building up the whole system. Thousands testify to the superiority of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier. Full information and statements of cures sent free.

THE MARITIME PROVINCES.

BECAUSE the electors of the Maritime Provinces, in the exercise of their rights, elected a majority of their representatives to support Sir John Macdonald's Government and oppose unrestricted reciprocity, they are having abuse heaped upon them by Liberal mouthpieces from Sir Richard Cartwright down. What a different song they sang a short time ago when, misled by Mr. Longley and others, they thought that these provinces would support their scheme. And four years ago when the smallest of them, Prince Edward Island, sent a solid Liberal delegation to Ottawa, they could not find words strong enough to voice their appreciation of that part of the Dominion. Now, however, they heap gross insults upon the Canadian people by the sea and try to arouse a bitter feeling against them in Ontario. Their attacks are well answered in the following extract from the Halifax Herald:—

"The Grit papers of Ontario, which never tire of describing Nova Scotia and New Brunswick as the 'mendicant provinces' of the Dominion, profess to believe that the great victory here was bought by promises of government works which were made to bribe the electors. So far from this being the case we do not know of a single promise which the Government made to influence the electors of a single constituency in these provinces. The great issue on which the campaign was fought and the victory won was that of unrestricted reciprocity. This question obscured all others. It was in the press and on the platform almost the sole topic of discussion. The electors gave a most emphatic verdict.

"We believe that the maritime provinces have saved the country in this great crisis through which we have passed, and, this being the case, it will be found that the representatives of these provinces, having participated in a great national victory, will be all the more scrupulous in the use of the power which is placed in their hands. Man for man, our representatives will compare favorably in intellectual ability or in their nice sense of personal honor, and in their devotion to public duty, with the best men that Ontario has or can produce. Our people rallied nobly when the integrity and independence of this dominion was threatened; but they do not look for any recompense or reward on that ground. The Wimanites and their Canadian allies know too well that in the sharp contest which took place in these provinces they were brought face to face with no mercenary troops. The best men of both the old parties united in a determined effort to protect Canadian interests.

"No amount of money could have carried this province for the Opposition; and the Opposition leaders who profess to believe that Nova Scotia and New Brunswick are disposed to use their victory as a means to secure large appropriations from the federal treasury, quite misunderstand the state of public feeling in these provinces. But nevertheless the insult offered to maritime constituencies by the disappointed Grit leaders of Ontario should induce our people to be all the more sensitive and the more scrupulous in pressing even their just claims for consideration upon the attention of their representatives in Parliament and in the Federal Government. We have the opportunity to teach the Grits in Ontario a valuable lesson in patience and self control, as we have already given them an example of patriotic devotion to national interests which is not unworthy of their imitation."

It Should Not Be So.

It is a singular fact, but nevertheless true, that the wealthier a man becomes the more complaints he has. We talk a great deal about the rate of mortality among the poorer classes, and seem to forget about the alarming amount of sickness prevalent in wealthy homes. There are whole classes of fashionable ailments unknown in the poorer districts; and where we find a condition of poverty, sickness is the exception, not the rule.

Nervous troubles, dyspepsia, indigestion, headache, sleeplessness and irritability are more prevalent among the wealthy than the poor.

There is not the least reason for this state of things enduring; it ought to be a sin to be sick, especially in the ranks of the higher classes, who have advantages for the enjoyment of a perfect physical life.

It is worthy of note, however, that the wealthy and better classes have the greatest faith in the grand health restorer—Paine's Celery Compound. Its great worth and value has been firmly established as a strengthener and flesh builder; it is a banisher of dyspepsia, and a regulator of the digestive system. It gives rest to the tired brain, and insures sweet natural sleep to all victims of insomnia. Try it, sufferer, if you wish release from your suffering and troubles.

BIRTH.

CULLEN.—At "Buttercup Valley," in Smith, on Saturday, March 14th, 1891, the wife of THOS. J. CULLEN, of a son.

DIED.

GAINER.—In Minden, on Wednesday, March the 18th, SAMUEL GAINER, aged [illegible] years.

HUGHES.—On Tuesday, March 17th, on lot 4, concession 4, in the township of Asaph. E. HUGHES, eldest son of Mrs. Charles Dudman, aged 19 years.

For the cure of colds, coughs, and all derangements of the respiratory organs, no other medicine is so reliable as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It relieves the asthmatic and consumptive, even in advanced stages of disease, and has saved innumerable lives.

NEWFOUNDLAND AFFAIRS.

G. W. Smalley Sums up the Matter in The N. Y. Tribune.

LONDON, March 22.—The Newfoundland troubles seem rather more numerous since arbitration was agreed to than before. It was bad enough to limit arbitration to lobsters, though, as the French positively refused to include anything else, Lord Salisbury can hardly be blamed. He took what he could get. The French, in fact, occupy ground very similar to Lord Salisbury's own in Behring sea matters. They decline to submit to arbitration points which, as they allege, are not in dispute, or not open to dispute. Telegrams indicate that Lord Knutsford's new bill is regarded in Newfoundland as a greater grievance still, but Lord Knutsford's bill is very simple. The colony was asked to enact a measure to enable treaties with France to be carried out. The colony refused. Thereupon Parliament is appealed to. It is hard to see how any Government could do less. Treaties must be observed. The Foreign Office and Parliament are reponsible if they are violated, and Newfoundland can hardly expect England to allow herself to be embroiled with France by sheer bad faith in treaty matters. In short, Newfoundlanders will have ultimately to make up their minds whether they wish to remain an English colony or not. If not, they have only to say so and may depart in peace, but if they decide to remain a colony they must accept the position. They cannot expect Imperial interests to be sacrificed to the claims of a single and really not very large part of the Empire. Meantime they have the consolation of Lord Salisbury's sympathetic remark that they are the sport of historic misfortune.

There is every disposition here, both in the Foreign Office and the Colonial Office, to do all that can be done for Newfoundland. If they seceded, French treaty rights would survive, and it might be not less easy for the French to enforce them as against Newfoundland than as against England.

The Pope and Science.

ROME, March 22.—The Pope has written a letter announcing the re-establishment of the donation for the astronomical observatory at the Vatican. His Holiness declares that he is solicitous for the progress of science and places the observatory in the same rank with other papal institutions.

Big Strike Near Liege.

BRUSSELS, March 22.—A general strike has taken place between the men employed in the collieries and steel works owned by the Cockerills. The managers of the concerns are apprehensive of trouble from the strikers and have applied to the authorities at Liege for a force of gendarmes to suppress any outbreaks.

Naphtha Cheaper.

LONDON, March 22.—The Chronicle's St. Petersburg correspondent says that the price of naphtha has fallen 20 per cent. owing to the tapping of a stream at Baku yielding 80,000 tons.

A Malay Murderer Respited.

LIVERPOOL, March 22.—Bhorgwar, the Malay sailor who was recently condemned to death for murdering Capt. Lyall of the ship Buckingham, on a voyage from Dundee to New York four months ago, has been respited, another seaman on the Buckingham having made an important statement in relation to the case.

Another Monte Carlo Victim.

BERLIN, March 22.—Albert Greenwald, a leading official of [illegible] and his relatives fear that he has been foully dealt with at Monte Carlo.

ROBBED THE MAILS.

A Dishonest Canadian Postoffice Clerk Thought to be in Buffalo.

WELLAND, Ont., March 22.—Owing to the mysterious disappearance lately of numerous packages of mail matter containing money from the Welland postoffice Inspector Burnham was detailed to investigate the matter. He arrived here Thursday morning and made some private enquiries regarding the working of the postoffice, leaving in the afternoon. Early this morning he made his appearance in company with Detective Winstanly and at once proceeded to the postoffice, which they found deserted, and Assistant Postmaster Bowes, who was in charge, missing. It is rumored that Bowes took the 5.20 Michigan Central train for Buffalo before the officers arrived. Detective Dawd has started for Buffalo in hopes of running the delinquent official down and bringing him back to Canada if possible.

Murdered by Christian Scientists.

DUBUQUE, Iowa, March 22.—Within the last week three children have died at Springville, Lynn county, under the care of Christian Scientists, and great excitement prevails there. The first two were children of Mr. and Mrs. John Doan. Mrs. Doan wanted a doctor. The grandfather would not allow it, but summoned two faith healers, Mrs. Pitcher of Anamosa and Mrs. Miller of Iowa Grove. After the death of the children a daughter of old man Doan sickened and died, and the faith healers fled to the nearest railroad station.

One Patient Leaps to His Death—$12,000 Loss Occasioned.

MONTREAL, March 22.—A fire broke out yesterday afternoon in the reservoir building of the Longue Point Lunatic Asylum and damage to the amount of $12,000 was done. Four men in the fourth story, finding all hope of escape cut off, leaped from the window and one of them, J. B. Lachapelle, was fatally injured. The others were injured in a minor degree. The loss is uninsured.

Alleged to Have Voted Once Too Often.

LONDON, March 22.—George Mishinnick of Petrolia was arrested this morning and brought here by Detective Graham. Mishinnick is charged with having cast more than one vote in the east riding of Middlesex. He will have a chance of telling the magistrate how he exercised his franchise.

Burglars at Watford.

WATFORD, March 22.—Burglars entered Swift Bros.' drygoods and Dodds Bros.' hardware and grocery last night. They took some ready-made clothing and other goods from Swift's and pocket knives, revolvers, boots, etc., from Dodds.

The 'Gator Will Stay.

At one time it seemed probable that the alligator, like the buffalo, would be exterminated. No laments over the fate of the ugly saurian have been heard—but he isn't going. So profitable is he for sale as a curiosity to northern visitors and as a grower of leather, that the industry of hatching alligator's eggs in incubators is now actively prosecuted in Florida.

An Unkind Remark.

Jack—"So you are going to marry Tom Chapman, Edith?"

Edith—"Yes. What do you think of me for accepting a man who is 40 years old?"

Ethel—"I think you are very wise. When two people of nearly the same age marry they are generally happy."

Pompeii's Advantage.

Mr. Godet (surveying the debris on Broadway)—"I wish I lived in Pompeii."

Mr. Stillman—"Why, that town is as dead as Philadelphia."

Mr. Godet—"I know it; but the streets there have only been torn up once in 2,000 years."

A Deserved Fate.

"March came in like a——" began the casual caller.

"Lamb him!" exclaimed the entire force, as one man.

And they did.

The patrol wagon bore his mangled body home.

JUVENILIA.

"I say, Eugene, you beat me, and I will howl. Then mamma will give me a cake, and I'll devide with you."

Fond mother: "Did you have a nice time at your little friend's?" Small son: "Not very. His mother was hangin' round most of th' day."

Spoke by the card. At a school of examination: "Tell me something about David." "David was a king, sir." "Quite right. But king of what?" "Of clubs, sir."

Little Tommy was making a dreadful racket, playing that he was a locomotive letting off steam, ringing a bell, etc. "Tommy," said his aunt, getting in front of him, "you must stop this noise." Tommy stood perfectly quiet for a minute and then said: "The engineer is waiting for the old cow to get off the track."—Texas Siftings.

Teacher: "'Missionary' comes from a Latin word and means 'one sent;' that is, one sent to the heathen to convert them. Now, children at the end of the class, I shall ask you what 'missionary' means." Teacher (ten minutes later): "So we will review the lesson. Dorothy, it's your turn. What does 'missionary' mean?" Dorothy: "One penny."

"Of course you must take your writing lesson. How in the world will you ever become a business man like your papa if you can't write?" Little Dick: "Oh, I've dot that all fixed with Birdie de Pretty. We've talked it all over." "What has little Birdie de Pretty to do with it, I should like to know?" "Why, she's doin' to be my typewriter."

PEOPLE.

The Duchess d'Uzes, who spent a fortune in bolstering up the Boulangist party, has been ill in Paris with fever and ague contracted during a recent sojourn in Rome.

Little Wallace Chapman, a 4-year-old Kansas City boy, has a most wonderful memory. He recently repeated, verbatim, a nineteen stanza poem after hearing it read aloud three times.

U. S. Senator Gorman is a most methodical man. He rises at 6 every morning, sits just 60 minutes at dinner, and never on any pretext permits an interruption of his meals [illegible] bathes at [illegible] and never uses tobacco or liquors.

Every tissue of the body, every bone, muscle and organ, is made stronger and more healthful by the use of Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Human Perversity.

"How long have young Swackhammer and Miss Packingaugh been engaged?"

"For about five years."

"Fond of each other?"

"Been sweethearts from childhood."

"In good circumstances?"

"The only children of wealthy parents."

"Health good?"

"Both sound as a dollar."

"Then why don't they marry?"

"Why, the old folks have got it down in their wills that they're to marry; there's $20,000 in bank that they'll get whenever they do; the plans are drawn for the house they're to live in, and the Swackhammer and Packinpaugh farms join. There hasn't been any opposition. That's all."

Unexpected Obstacle.

"I'm pretty good at tinkering with finances," softly chuckled the bank robber as he deposited his booty in a bag and turned to go. "What's to hinder me from going into politics?"

"Some other fellow may have a bigger bar'l," responded the watching detective, coming forward and submitting for his close inspection the muzzle of a 44-caliber gun.

THE CITY AND SUBURBS.

Journalistic.

We have received a souvenir number of the Montreal True Witness, published on March 17th, which is handsomely got up. The outer cover contains a fine illustration, "the Genius of Ireland," and there are a number of special art'cles and illustrations. The number is a very creditable one.

A League Again Proposed.

The Cobourg Post says:—Baseball appears to not have entirely died out in the Midland district, and from rumors it is likely there will be some amusement for the lovers of baseball the coming season. Peterborough and Port Hope will likely have a club, and it is considered a sure thing for two in Cobourg. With four such clubs as the above is a small league, baseball could be made quite interesting for this neighborhood, and productive of some rare sport. Both of the above towns have more or less good talent within their limits, and by doing an honest amateur business, we have no doubt, the coming season, the games by the above organization will be most interesting.

It is not the extremes of heat and cold so much as the sudden changes in temperature that cause certain climates to be unhealthful. When, however, the system is invigorated with Ayer's Sarsaparilla, these changes are rarely attended with injurious results.

Y.M.C.A. Notes.

We had the largest attendance at the young men's meeting on Saturday evening we have ever seen yet. Mr. James Goodwin won all hearts present by his manly and earnest address and good results followed in the after meeting.

The attendance was large at the Consecration meeting on Sabbath morning. All present were helped by the practical thoughts Mr. Albert Hamilton gave us on "Elisha's Defenders"

Mr. Isaac Richardson addressed the personal purity meeting on Sabbath afternoon. The good advice given our young men cannot fail to be helpful and profitable to them.

Rev. Mr. Torrance's address at the gospel and song service last evening was impressive and thoughtful and made a marked impression on all. Rev. Mr. Congrove, of Port Hope, followed with a few earnest words for the encouragement of the workers.

The Ladies Auxiliary will meet on Tuesday afternoon at 4 p.m. All ladies interested in our work invited.

Rev. Thos. Bone, of Welland canal mission, will address a meeting in Y.M.C.A. hall on the work among sailors, on Tuesday evening at 8 p.m. Public invited. Offering in aid of work among the sailors.

To Nervous Debilitated Men.

If you will send us your address, we will mail you our illustrated pamphlet explaining all about Dr. Dye's Celebrated Electro-Voltaic Belt and Appliances, and their charming effects upon the nervous debilitated system, and how they will quickly restore you to vigor, and manhood. Pamphlet free. If you are thus afflicted, we will send you a Belt and Appliances on trial.

THE VALUE OF A CHILD.

INTERESTING SUNDAY SCHOOL ANNIVERSARY SERVICES.

Rev. C. O. Johnston Preaches two Eloquent Discourses at the Charlotte-st. Methodist Church—The Duty of Teachers and Parents—An Open Meeting of the Sunday School.

"I am pleased to be with you, I am pleased to look into your faces and see the interest you take in the Sabbath school. I believe that if we were in search of the hope of the world, notwithstanding the many blessings and promises in the Divine Word, that we would find that hope in the Sabbath school." These were the few words of greeting that Rev. C. O. Johnston, of Napanee, extended after the opening hymn and prayer to the large congregation that crowded the Charlotte-st. church yesterday morning.

It was the anniversary of the Sunday school and the services yesterday were of a special character, appropriate to the occasion and exceedingly interesting. Rev. Mr. Johnston preached the special sermons both morning and evening. A comparatively young man, with a gift of speech and an originality of thought and expression, brightened with interesting illustrations, his discourses are of a very attractive and impressive character, at the same time clear and pointed in argument they are made powerful in convicting. He is one of the most popular preachers in Canadian Methodism.

The Morning Service.

At the morning service there was not a vacant seat in the sacred edifice, and during the discourse there was not an inattentive ear in the large congregation. The singing by the choir was excellent. An anthem, in which Miss Annie Fawcett and Mr. A. L. Davis took the solos, was rendered in pleasing voice. After the sermon Miss Fawcett and Mr. Davis sang a duet which was also well rendered. The sermon was one especially appropriate to the anniversary service, having for its theme the value of children to Christ, the value of Christ to children and the duty of parents and teachers towards the little ones. The discourse was a little longer than usual and in apology when announcing the closing hymn Rev. Mr. Johnston said, "Upon looking I find that I have spoken just twice as long as I intended, but this theme is one in which I feel an intense interest. However, Mrs. Johnston is not here and she cannot scold me, and as you are all strangers to me I know you will not." For the basis of his discourse the rev. gentleman chose the words:—

"For he had one only daughter, about twelve years of age, and she lay a dying."—Luke 8; xlii.

In an eloquent introduction the rev. gentleman drew a beautiful word picture of the circumstances and scenes which led up to the words of the text, setting forth the miracle of Christ, leaving the multitude, in healing the daughter of Jairus. In the course of the picture he deduced several lessons and then called attention to the bi-section of his discourse. First he spoke of as set forth in Jairus' painful solicitude for his child. [illegible] child's worth until death stalked into his home and with its bony hand clutched his child. Then it was that he missed her, then he knew the worth of the silvery laugh, the musical voice and missed the bright eyes, red lips and saw that her light had gone out. So with them. Some did not know how much their children were worth until deprived of them. They could see the value of a child to Christ when he left the multitude to go and raise up the daughter of Jairus. The multitude had mighty demands; there were old men whose chances were few; there were young men who would have made good disciples, but He left them all to raise up the child. Children were valuable because of what they were now. They were the children of God, not one of them belonging to Satan or to the heartless, perishing world. Every child, said the rev. gentleman, either in this school or in the town belongs to God. The nature in the child if allowed to grow up in selfishness would lead to worldliness and prodigality to God, but the heart was right. They could measure their Christianity with the love of the children and see if the child's affection was not more pure and its faith more unquestioned than the Christian's. They should value the children not only for what they were, but also for what they may become, either in their future on earth or in Heaven. John Wesley, whose centenary they had been commemorating, and every faithful and upright man and woman was only a type of what children might become. Parents, said the minister, put your child first. Not money first, fathers, child first. Not dress, first, mothers, character first. Some girls were dressed to be looked at and it was not wonderful if such grew up vain. Boys were brought up with nothing but business in view. They were taught nothing but how to get wealthy. But let it not be money, but character first. Teachers should value children and show their value by their punctuality, regularity and thorough preparation of the lesson, and by carrying the children in their heart before God. The child should also be taught to value itself. The Prince of Wales, it was said, had never looked over his shoulder, having been taught when a boy that a prince should never look backward. Every child was a prince and should never look down, but always look up. Every child was a princess born of God and should be true to the birth in God it had. Then the rev. gentleman took up the second part of his discourse,

THE VALUE OF CHRIST

to childhood, pointing out that Christ was the true life, and without Him there would only be physical life, which would perish, while with Him there would be an eternal life of joy, liberty and peace. Mohomadism, Buddhism, Confucianism, paganism, and all the dark isms never learned the value of children. It was Christianity that had made the life of the child so valuable and had gathered them into the Sunday school. The Sunday school teacher, he said, in order to give the truth aright to the children, must have Christ, and must lead the children to know God. They could expect difficulties as Christ had to experience them, but they were to surmount al doubtings and discouragements and take the children by the hand and do their duty by them. In closing, he said I leave this question with you, the value of the child, the value of Christ to the child, and will hope that your children and mine and all children represented here to-day may be associated with Christ in eternal life.

The Afternoon Service.

In the afternoon an open meeting of the Sunday school was held in the church and the service proved to be one of unusual interest. Mr. O. C. Rowse, Superintendent, conducted the meeting. The singing, which was spirited, was led by the Sunday school choir. The address of the afternoon was made by Mr. C. O. Johnston, who took for the subject of an interesting address to the children the "Bee." He spoke of three of these bes, "be kind, be good and be obedient" and drew lessons from these.

The Evening Service.

In the evening the church was again crowded and Rev. Mr. Johnston delivered a discourse which was a magnificent oratorical effort. The subject of the sermon was Samson's life and death and a most able and impressive exposition was listened to with wrapt attention. During the interesting service Lois Petit sang the Lord's Prayer to the air of Home Sweet Home and Fonie Doxsee also rendered a selection from the Canadian Hymnal. Both were pleasing numbers.

This evening Rev. Mr. Johnston gives a lecture in the Charlotte-st. church. It will be a song lecture, the rev. gentleman singing several times playing his own accompaniment on the guitar.

THE SPRING HILL FUND.

Donations So Far Received—Who Will Help to Increase it?

To the Editor of the Review.

DEAR SIR,—As no one has been appointed to act as treasurer for the Spring Hill disaster fund in Peterborough, I have taken upon myself to act in that capacity, and I regret to say the position has been almost a needless one, the collections have been so small. I give below a list of the contributions to date. The collections handed to me by Mrs. Seward are, at her request, credited to the Young Women's Christian Temperance Union. I should like to make the amount up to $100. Who will help me to do so?

Serious Result of a Fall.

This morning Mrs. Adams, wife of Constable Adams, met with a painful accident. She was crossing the yard in rear of her residence when she slipped and fell. The force of the fall was such that she broke her right arm at the wrist and injured her back. The extent of the latter injuries are not known.

A Long-felt Want.

W. J. Morrow has now commenced to do a strictly cash business after seeing the want of a first-class cash house in town. Persons wanting goods away down will do well to call. He will not be adding a large percentage to the cost of goods to pay for bad accounts as is and must be done by credit houses. All outstanding accounts must be settled at once. d69w13

The Little Windsor.

Mr. Wm. Cardwell, late of the Croft House, and who was proprietor of the Dominion hotel at Minden, has taken possession of the Little Windsor hotel on Brock-st. The Little Windsor has had a new brick stable and shed erected and is thoroughly equipped for the accommodation of farmers coming to town, for travellers or for lodgers. Mr. Cardwell is having it refitted and brightened up. He has had considerable experience in the business, and having a well equipped house he will no doubt receive a good share of patronage.

Nasal Balm has cured the worst cases of catarrh after all other remedies have failed. Give it a trial and be convinced that it will cure you. Sold by all dealers.

Revival Services.

Rev. M. J. Bates, Conference evangelist, began a series of revival services in the George-st. Methodist church yesterday. At the morning service he preached a practical sermon on some reasons why people did not accept salvation. In the afternoon he addressed the Sunday school, and preached again in the church in the evening. Mr. Bates is a pleasant speaker, with a fluent delivery. His style of preaching, as revealed in his discourses yesterday, is plain, pointed and earnest, and his manner impressive. Notwithstanding the bad state of the sidewalks there was a good congregation present. The services will be continued each evening during the week. A song service will be held from 7.45 until 8 o'clock, when the service proper will commence.

Personal.

Mr. Alf. Wood, representing the Toronto Mail, is in town.

Mr. M. J. Tierney has accepted a position in W. J. Morrow's grocery. He is thoroughly experienced in that line of business and his old friends will be glad to meet him again.

The Port Hope Guide says: "Miss Alma Brownscombe, of Peterborough, who has been on a visit to her cousin, Mr. W. H. Brownscombe, Ridout-st., for the past seven weeks, returned home on Friday, having had a pleasant time."

On Wednesday evening last a pleasant and sociable company assembled at the residence of Richard Croft, says the Cobourg Post, and assisted that gentleman and his estimable family in holding an enjoyable house warming. Besides a number of our townspeople and immediate neighbors, a party of fourteen came in from Peterborough, Lindsay and Port Hope. The festivities were kept up until after four next morning.

THE ORPHAN AND WIDOW

THE CLAIMS OF THESE TWO CLASSES ADVOCATED.

Anniversary Sermon to the Foresters—Court Peterborough Attend Service at St. Paul's Church—Able and Appropriate Sermon by Rev. E. F. Torrance.

Rev. E. F. Torrance preached an able and peculiarly appropriate sermon to the Foresters of Court Peterborough last evening at St. Paul's church. Another year has been brought to a close in the history of Court Peterborough, C. O. F., and the sermon was the anniversary commemoration. The brethren in goodly numbers congregated at the Forester's hall on Simcoe-st. and formed into procession and marched to St. Paul's church, where the front centre pews had been reserved. The sermon delivered by the pastor was one clear and forcible, and was listened to with interest and attention. The rev. gentleman chose for his text the words:—

"But if any provide not for his own, and especially for those of his own house, he hath denied the faith and is worse than an infidel."—I Timothy 5. viii.

The duty, said the preacher in opening, of making provision for the temporal well being of one's own family was a duty that was laid down clearly in the Word of God. There were some passages which some said seemed to make the acquisition of property inconsistent with the profession of a Christian, but these passages were all capable of an interpretation which would bring them within the scope of the general principles of Christianity. It was true that in numberless instances the acquisition of property was absolutely made the interest of the soul, but it was not necessary. It was quite possible to subordinate the acquisition of property to the well being of the soul. When speaking of the duty of making provision for one's family he did not mean that they should amass a large fortune to leave to one's child. Often rather than a blessing. How often they saw wealth that a father had spent years in accumulating squandered by his children in a few years. The father that trained his child to thrift, honesty and industry bequeathed to that child a more valuable fortune than silver or gold. Bequeathing of a fortune was different from a provision against want and this was what was intended when he said duty. The eighth commandment had to do with all matters of spending, saving and bequeathing, and the Shorter Catechism told them what was required and forbidden by that commandment. After referring to what was required and forbidden in the eighth commandment and dwelling upon the importance of the virtues of industry and frugality, he said the society before which he had been called upon to preach was one which aimed at enabling men to make more provision for the temporal well being of their family in case of death. It aimed at making the "orphans glad and the widow's heart sing for joy." It aimed at doing that work Job told them he had done during his days of prosperity. The rev. gentleman said he would ask them to consider with him the claims of the orphans and the widows. The first claim arose, he said, out of their helplessness. The words orphan and widow were synonymous with helplessness. There were cases of helplessness when men were reduced to penury by their own misdoings, by extravagance, reckless speculation or idleness, but they were different from the orphan or widow. In the mysterious course of God's providence one who had been the support was taken away, so that if no provision had been made,

THIS HAD BEEN FOUND A CURSE

THE ORPHAN AND THE WIDOW

were like a climbing plant when the tree round which it had been wont to climb was felled by the woodman's axe. Did he not, he asked, appeal to the experience of them when he said that sympathy always went out to the helpless and suffering, and this fact ought to lead them to provide the relief. It was a noble thing to help those who could not help themselves, and in this they could take Christ as their example. The second claim he put forth for the orphan and the widow was the terrible consequences which arose from their being in a state of penury. One sad consequence was the dwarfing of the intellect. The poor were so absorbed with their own wants that their faculties pined and perished, hope and imagination grew languid, and even their parental love became stagnated through dispair. They had not the means of intellectual culture, not having the means to purchase the books of the wise or walk with the wise. The third claim for the orphan and the widow was their liability to fall into vice. Theft and intemperance were two vices he pointed out that often resulted from poverty. The third claim he advanced was the removal of the possibility of their advancement in the world. He said their was no doubt that many a poor child was endowed with talents that would have entitled him to honor and to high position. Instances might be given of orphan children who by provision made by sympathising friends. The preacher referred to Moses, and the man who occupied the pulpit in one of the leading churches in Edinburgh, who had been taken from a cobbler's bench by a wealthy lady of the Free Church and fitted for the high position he now held. The fourth claim he set forth was the interest taken in the orphans and widows by the Lord. This he showed by quoting passages. The Lord, he said, regarded a favor bestowed upon one of His people as a favor bestowed upon Himself, and He was represented as saying in the hour of future judgment: "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren ye have done it unto me." Surely, then, he said, it must be highly pleasing to Him to have a favor bestowed upon the orphan or the widow, a class in which He felt so deep an interest. Now, said the preacher, let me conclude by telling you that there is something that counts more than providing for the orphan and widow, something without which such a provision cannot in the highest sense be made. I refer to your trusting in the Lord Jesus Christ, accepting Him as your personal Saviour, receiving a new heart and engaging actively in his service. Let me invite you to join the Christian brotherhood, a brotherhood formed by all the churches. Members of this brotherhood have the opportunity of providing not only for the temporal but the spiritual wants of the orphan and widow.

At the conclusion of the service the brethren reformed in procession and returned to their hall.

Constipation,

If not remedied in season, is liable to become habitual and chronic. Drastic purgatives, by weakening the bowels, confirm, rather than cure, the evil. Ayer's Pills, being mild, effective, and strengthening in their action, are generally recommended by the faculty as the best of aperients.

"Having been subject, for years, to constipation, without being able to find much relief, I at last tried Ayer's Pills. I deem it both a duty and a pleasure to testify that I have derived great benefit from their use. For over two years past I have taken one of these pills every night before retiring. I would not willingly be without them."—G. W. Bowman, 26 East Main st., Carlisle, Pa.

"I have been taking Ayer's Pills and using them in my family since 1857, and cheerfully recommend them to all in need of a safe but effectual cathartic."—John M. Boggs, Louisville, Ky.

"For eight years I was afflicted with constipation, which at last became so bad that the doctors could do no more for me. Then I began to take Ayer's Pills, and soon the bowels recovered their natural and regular action, so that now I am in excellent health."—S. L. Loughbridge, Bryan, Texas.

BEATRIX RANDOLPH.

BY JULIAN HAWTHORNE.

But in New York we have not settled down yet; our people have what may be called a New York look; but there is no New York type—the former being a trick of facial expression merely; the latter a matter of feature and structure. But we are preparing to people a hemisphere, while the European nations have to pack themselves together like sardines in a box, or pickles in a jar, mathematically, economically and irrevocably, and by natural selection have long since lost their elbows and idiosyncrasies. We are all elbows on this side of the water, especially since we have ceased any longer to be all flats and shoulders.

In addition to the guests above mentioned there were several of our older acquaintances—Gen. Inigo, Hamilton Jocelyn and Bellingham. When dinner was announced Wallie Dinsmore took in Mlle. Marana and seated her at his right hand, and it turned out that Bellingham sat next below her, much to his displeasure. He told himself that he owed Wallie one. On the other side of him sat Mrs. Bright, whom, indeed, he had taken into the table. The other gentleman thought that Bellingham had nothing to complain of. Mrs. Bright, who could interest herself about almost anything, provided it did not last more than an hour or so, noticed that her companion was good looking, and determined to exploit him on the subject of architecture. She had read Ruskin's "Stones of Venice," and had seen classic and mediæval antiquities abroad.

Accordingly she rode at him with great dash and courage, and at first he answered her graciously enough. Before long, however, he perceived that she did not know the meaning of her own information, and then he became laconic. Young Mrs. Bright, on the other hand, was not accustomed to rebuffs, and Bellingham's reticence only stimulated her enterprise. She sparkled on like cataract in a rainbow, determined that he should fall in love with her at any rate. Meanwhile his other ear was being visited occasionally by the low and varied music of a voice the freshest and most melodious, he thought, he had ever listened to.

At times, too, as the dishes were passed, the lovely speaker would lean toward him, so that her soft white plumage brushed his shoulder. The Marana and Wallie were having a most entertaining conversation. It was not about architecture, and yet Bellingham felt attracted by it. Wallie was smiling and chuckling, and ever and anon making some pithy or arch remark. The diva seemed to be attempting to describe the mental visions which certain kinds of music called up for her. At last she said, "The end is like 'the awful rose of dawn,' and it seems to keep unfolding more and more, but the twilight darkens between, and you can only feel that the great flower blooms at last in the morning of the other world."

At the same moment Mrs. Bright was saying to Bellingham: "In that way, don't you see, the second and third boxes would have just as good a view of the stage as the first, and yet the parquet wouldn't lose anything. Now, isn't that a nice plan?"

Either Bellingham had not heard her or else he didn't think it worth while to answer. He turned to the young diva and said, "That must be Beethoven."

Wallie's eyebrows went up. He had been quietly watching Bellingham, and had been much amused by his evident distraction and final surrender. He asked Mr. Knight, in the second seat on his left, whether it were true that Grant intended to found a college of politics in Mexico, and left the young people to arrange themselves as they liked.

Mrs. Bright turned pale, took up a silver pepper box, and overwhelmed her croquette de volaille with red pepper. Blinded by her indignation, she was on the point of putting a piece of the highly condimented viand in her mouth, when Gen. Inigo, who was on her left, and who had been assimilating his nourishment with knife, fork and forefinger, and vast enjoyment of champing and deglutition, hurriedly set down the glass of sherry he was raising to his lips, and with great good nature arrested the young lady's hand by laying his own fat paw upon it. "My dear madam," he exclaimed with his unctuous Hebraic drawl, "would you commit suicide at a table like this?"

"Oh, I'm awfully obliged," returned Mrs. Bright, really feeling so on more accounts than one, though she had never before been able to endure that horrid free and easy impresario. She overcame her repugnance, and recouped herself for Bellingham's scant courtesy by extracting whole hogsheads of it from the ample reservoirs of her other neighbor. After all it amounted to the same thing. So a woman receives attention, it is small odds whence it comes.

Bellingham and the diva meantime had taken a short cut to a mutual understanding, and would have been astonished, had they stopped to think about it, at the vistas of sympathetic feeling that were opening up before them. Sunshine arose on their way; and they rambled onward at their will. To talk with the prima donna on a subject that attracted her was like drawing harmonies from some exquisite instrument. She responded to the lightest touch, and you could see the promise and invitation of music in her face before you spoke. Bellingham forgot that this was the woman whose adventures and audacities everybody had been discussing for weeks past; she was to him a delicious outlet for a part of his nature which he had heretofore repressed even when by himself; so the seed first discovers itself in the earth, and the flower in the sunlight.

When, half an hour ago, he had been presented to Mlle. Marana in the drawing room he had felt that she was beautiful, but remembered that she must be repellent, and had passed on without a second look. She, on the other hand, had been sensitive to his hostility, told herself that he looked cross and frigid, and thought it fortunate that he was an architect instead of a singer, liable to appear with her on the stage. But now, under the mingled persuasion of happy accident and the genial stimulus of lights, company and the table, their averted regards had unawares turned to accord which might prove temporary, but was certainly delightful. It was strange to both of them, but with the sort of strangeness that seems like a sweet familiarity till now forgotten. Now they would let air and warmth into the secret chambers of their spiritual riddles in each other's face.

At the end of the table Mrs. Cadwalader was prospering blithesomely with Mr. Grasmere on one hand and Mr. Barclyffe on the other. The conversation was of an æsthetic cast—would the Wagnerian method of musical composition prevail, and if so, would not music ultimately be chargeable with infringing on the preserves of the other arts? Mr. Barclyffe, propping up his mustache occasionally with his napkin, was of opinion that music was the soul and reconciliation of all the arts, and that a knowledge of music would henceforth be indispensable to enable the painter, the sculptor and the poet to do their work intelligently. "As to architecture," added he, "we all know that in its higher manifestations it has been termed frozen music." "Some of Wagner's music that I have heard," retorted Mr. Grasmere, "was dry enough to be called harmonized hay lofts."

CHANGE OF BUSINESS

I beg to announce to my late customers that I have sold out my business to Messrs. Hilliard & Peplow, and would bespeak for them the same support as you have accorded me.
C. N. BROWN.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

For some time past we have thought that a strictly cash business in Flour, Feed and Provisions could be successfully carried on in Peterborough, and to test this question we have purchased the above business from Mr C. N. Brown, who will still continue as manager, in Fitzgelle's Old Stand, Simcoe-st.

In order to be successful we intend to make it the interest of every one to pay cash with order by selling at wholesale prices.

We will positively give no credit and cash customers will not have to keep up the losses made by others on the credit system.

We will keep a full supply of

FLOUR, FEED, CHOP, Etc.,

and our customers need not fear that the quality of the goods will be lowered to make up for the reduction in prices.

We are simply giving them the benefit of the margin necessary to cover losses and interest charges incurred in the credit system

MURDER AT BELLEVILLE.

A LABORER STABS HIS WIFE TO THE HEART.

A Butcher Knife the Weapon Used—A Quarrel Resulting From the Man's Drunken Habits the Cause—The Murderer Arrested—Says He Does not Regret the Deed.

BELLEVILLE, March 23.—A horrible murder was perpetrated here this afternoon about 5 o'clock. A laborer named James Kane, who lived in South John-street, killed his wife with a blow from a butcher-knife, which penetrated her heart, causing instant death. It was the woman's dying shriek which led to the discovery of the crime before the murderer had time to escape. Two men who heard the awful cry rushed to the house and opening the door saw the woman lying dead on the floor and her slayer standing over his victim with the gory knife in his hand. An alarm was at once given, the police were sent for and Sergt. McCrudden took the assassin into custody. He submitted quietly and was at once taken to the cells.

"Had to Die Some Time."

When asked if he was not sorry for what he had done he said, "Not very sorry," that he had to die some time. The couple, who were between 50 and 60 years of age, had been married for about 10 years, the man being the woman's second husband. Her first husband, whose name was Skinner and by whom she had a large family, was drowned here two years before her second marriage. Kane and his wife had for some time lived unhappily owing to the man's drinking habits, which doubtless caused the tragedy. No details are known, as the murderer and his victim were alone, but it is probable that they had quarrelled on that account. Kane was not drunk when he struck the fatal blow, as he was seen up street half an hour before but he had been drinking. He maintains a stolid demeanor and refuses to talk. An inquest is being held to-night.

HUNTINGDON ELECTION.

The Liberal Candidate Elected by a Large Majority.

MONTREAL, March 23.—At the election in Huntingdon to-day Scriver (Lib.) was elected by considerable majority over McCormick (Con.). Mr. Scriver has represented the constituency since 1851. He was elected by acclamation in 1869 and 1872, had a majority of 398 in 1874; was elected by acclamation in 1878 and in 1887 and had 615 majority in 1883.

Mr. Scriver was one of the 13 who voted for the disallowance of the Jesuit Estate Act.

Election returns from all the polls in the county give Scriver a majority of 261. The contest was a keen one and the result was awaited with deep interest by an immense assemblage of electors, some of whom drove over 15 miles to get the news. Mr. Scriver made an excellent speech and was escorted to his hotel by the crowd, headed by a brass band, amid much enthusiasm.

A SERIES OF FATALITIES.

A Series of Fatalities in Ontario Towns Yesterday.

PARIS, March 23.—At Paris station this morning, James Rattan, 20 years of age, belonging to Brantford, who was distributing bills for Montgomery & Co. of that city, was standing on the side track waiting for the express to pass when a freight train, while shunting, struck him. The cars passed over his chest, breaking his back and causing death instantly.

Boy Killed on the Track.

DUTTON, March 23.—Richard McRae, aged 15, attempted to cross the track and placed one hand on the post and one on the buffer of a car, and was in the act of springing across the track when the engine, with eight cars ahead of it, struck the loaded car and caught the boy by the knee between the post and the buffer. The flesh was horribly lacerated, both above and below the knee. He only lived a few hours. He was the youngest son of Alex. McRae, constable. Four years ago another son was accidentally shot at the Wallacetown fair and who has been a helpless cripple ever since.

Killed at a G. T. R. Crossing.

DORCHESTER, March 23.—Mrs. Bone, aged 79 years, was struck by No. 5 Grand Trunk express to-day about noon and was instantly killed. The accident happened at a crossing a quarter of a mile from this station while she was returning from a visit to her grandson.

O'Reilly (inspector of prisons, etc., from 20th April, 1881, to 12th July, 1890) $1663; retiring allowance to John Bradshaw (housekeeper Crown Lands Department for many years) $1000; gratuity to family of the late Alexander Marling (Deputy Minister of Education) $6700; retiring allowance to Miss Hagarty, late of the Normal School, Toronto, $650.

The Attorney-General yesterday introduced a bill to amend the law respecting barristers and solicitors in certain cases. It provides that when a minister of justice is not a member of the Ontario bar he may be admitted by virtue of his office. It also provides that all barristers registered before July, 1891, may be registered as solicitors upon passing an examination, instead of by the usual three years' course of study in an office.

Mr. Lewis Springer of Hamilton has been appointed to the registrarship of Wentworth, rendered vacant last November by the death of Mr. J. M. Williams. Mr. Springer was born in Hamilton, 1835, was one of the chief promoters of the Hamilton street railway system and has been identified with other business enterprises there. He was returned to Parliament for South Wentworth in 1882, but was not a candidate at the next election. The office of registrar is worth about $3000.

Parnell's Latest Stratagem.

CORK, March 23.—Maurice Healey, when questioned to-day about Parnell's letter to the Leadership Committee, said he had not seen the letter, but if the resignation was genuine he (Healey) would instantly meet it.

Michael Davitt to-day said Parnell's phrase in his letter to the Cork Leadership Committee, saying "As soon as Healey has submitted himself to the judgment of and has gone to his constituents," is a repetition of the Boulogne trick. Davitt added: "Parnell wishes to make Healey be the first to resign, and he (Parnell) would be guided by the result of Healey's fate."

The Lord Mayor Abolishes the Century-Old Office of City Barber.

LONDON, March 23.—The parsimony of Lord Mayor Savory has excited the indignation and contempt of the citizens. His latest effort at retrenchment is the dismissal of the City Barber, whose office has been in existence for centuries and has been supposed to be as enduring as the Crown itself, and who was paid out of the Lord Mayor's personal funds.

To add to the clamor His Honor has been discovered furtively visiting the establishment of a talked about female barber.

The Oporto Insurrection.

OPORTO, March 23.—The court martial in the case of the soldiers concerned in the revolt of January last has rendered its decision. Capt. Leitao, the principal leader, is sentenced to six years' imprisonment and ten years' banishment in Africa. The other leaders receive more lenient sentences, averaging three years' imprisonment and three years' banishment. Of 300 others accused one-half are liberated, and the other half received smaller sentences.

Both Mother and Son.

WOODSTOCK, March 23.—Alexander McKenzie of West Zorra died last night after an attack of illness which had lasted some time. He had gone to Florida for his health, but not finding any benefit had returned home to die. His mother, stricken by the all too common trouble now-a-days of heart failure, fell dead about an hour after her son's demise.

AT THE CREMATORY DOOR.

A Woman Prepares Herself For the Oven and Swallows Acid.

NEW YORK, March 23.—The body of a woman well dressed and wearing a handsome Astrachan cloak, black dress and turban decorated with feathers, was found lying on the ground under a tree near the Fresh Pond Crematory at 6 o'clock on Saturday evening by Constable Holsworth and was removed to the morgue at Ridgewood.

The body was that of a refined looking woman of about 45 years of age, and an examination of her clothing disclosed in her pocket an envelope addressed, "Mr. R. C. Riordan, Riverside Flats, or Dayton & Montgomery's, Flatbush-avenue, Brooklyn, L.I. The letter was as follows:

Mr. R. C. Riordan.

Kind friend, please take charge of my body. Let it not be removed from Fresh Pond. Your wife has some money of mine for all necessary expenses and the cremation receipts. Scatter my ashes at the crematory out of doors. Let there be no coffin, no service, and I shall be found when my outer garments are removed prepared for cremation.

Let there be as little fuss as need be about my death. There is no mystery about it and no need of an inquest. I have taken prussic acid. I am sick, alone, homeless, desolate. Life is worthless to me and of no use to any one.

Forty-six years in April. ANNIE S. WHITING.

At her side, when found, was a bottle containing prussic acid, the contents of which she had swallowed almost to the dregs.

Mr. and Mrs. Riordan were seen at their residence yesterday afternoon, at the Riverside Flats, in Furman-street. They are professional nurses, and said they had known the dead woman, Miss Whiting, for eight years. She had been a graduate as a trained nurse from the Long Island College Hospital since 1883.

No cause is assigned for the suicide.

Considerable talk has been occasioned at Police Headquarters and also among the public concerning the death of John Morgan, a man of about 70 years of age. Morgan was arrested by Policeman Flinn in Lombard-street for vagrancy. The accused was an old soldier who resided on that thoroughfare. The veteran complained of being ill and by order of Inspector Stephen he was sent upstairs. The jail physician was notified to look after the old man and he was sent down, more for the reason of trying to bring him around than for any other. With this idea in view instructions were given to have him placed in the hospital. But notwithstanding the very greatest efforts on his behalf the old man breathed his last two hours later.

A meeting of delegates from the different county law associations throughout the province was held at the Rossin House Saturday, in response to a circular issued by the Law Association of the county of Ontario calling for united action in the selection of candidates for the office of bencher, in order to secure proper representation of the profession outside of Toronto. About 18 were present, the chair being occupied by Mr. J. E. Farewell of Whitby and Mr. L. T. Heyd of Brantford acting as secretary. The delegates chose this ticket and by a formal resolution recommended it to the profession: H. H. Strathy, Barrie; W. Douglas, Chatham; J. Idington, Stratford; J. McGee and W. R. Meredith, London; C. McDougall, St. Thomas; Hon. A. S. Hardy, Brantford; A. Bruce, F. Mackelcan, E. Martin, J. V. Teetzel, Hamilton; E. Edwards, Peterboro; W. R. Riddell, Peterboro; D. DEAD IN A SNOWBANK.

The Body Had Been Badly Torn by Wolves—Was it "Capt. Goldie"?

BURK'S FALLS, March 23.—Section Foreman John T. Hawkins of Ballantyne township came across a dead body buried in the snow. He brought it to the camp and searched the pockets of some clothes he had on and found some papers, on which was printed, "Arrow Office, Burk's Falls." Also a book with pictures of apples and other fruit and an envelope with the letters which, as far as could be made out, was "Goldie." The body had been torn by wolves and is now in a frozen state at Camp No. 2, Ballantyne.

The remains are supposed to be those of Capt. G. C. Goldie, well known in Burk's Falls and Magnetawan.

There Will Be No Compromise.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March.—President Von de Ahe returned to-day from Cincinnati, where he had been looking after the interests of the American Association. When asked how he stood on the proposed compromise with the League he replied: "There will be no compromise. What have we to gain by it? I am opposed to having anything further to do with the league, for it never has any dealings with anybody without giving the other party the worst of it."

Powers to Manage the Rochesters.

ROCHESTER, March 23.—The terms of Thomas F. Powers of last year's Baltimore club were accepted to-night by the Rochester club. Powers will manage, captain and play first base for the Rochesters.

Sporting Miscellany.

NEW YORK, March 23.—The failure of the New Jersey Legislature to pass a bill to allow betting on the race tracks has caused considerable discussion about the racing outlook of New Jersey. It is claimed by some that there will be no racing on the summer tracks, and that Monmouth Park, Linden and Elizabeth will be closed up during the season. This would be a great disappointment to racegoers and would cause a loss of money to all classes of people doing business in New Jersey.

Some claim that the Monmouth Park meeting will be run off anyhow. About Linden it is very doubtful

President M. F. Dwyer of the Elizabeth Jockey Club was with his brother, Mr. J. P. Dwyer, at the Brooklyn Jockey Club office on Saturday. Talking of the outlook Mr. M. F. Dwyer said: "The prospects of racing in New Jersey are anything but encouraging, and what the future of racing will be in that state it is hard to say. The meeting at Elizabeth will open April 15. That is certain and the programs are now being prepared. About betting I can't say anything, but the races will take place."

TIMOTHY HEALY THOUGHT TO BE BLINDED FOR LIFE.

Roughs at Cork Drive Fragments of His Glasses Into His Eyes—The Newfoundland Debate in the Commons Postponed—Merciful Sentences Passed Upon Insurgents.

LONDON, March 23.—The British Government have decided not to take up the bill to enforce the modus vivendi in Newfoundland until April 23, thus giving time for further negotiations.

LONDON, March 23.—The correspondence between the governments of Newfoundland and Great Britain on the proposed fishery convention between Newfoundland and the United States is published. The despatches show that Lord Knutsford Imperial Secretary, at first assented to Newfoundland negotiating directly with the United States Government. Sir Charles Tupper and Sir John Macdonald protested that Canada should be included in any arrangement that might be made, and Lord Knutsford later decided that Newfoundland had no power to negotiate. He stated that Mr. Bond, the Colonial Secretary of Newfoundland, went to Washington and had unofficial interviews with Mr. Blaine, the result of which was the drafting of a convention by the British Minister. The Governor-General of Canada declared Canada viewed the signing of this convention with alarm and protested against it. Governor O'Brien of Newfoundland urged prompt signing of the convention, but Lord Knutsford adhered to his decision and stated that Mr. Bond had remodelled the convention after several interviews with Mr. Blaine.

PARNELL AT SLIGO.

He Has Put His Back to the Wall and Will Die Fighting.

SLIGO, March 23.—Mr. Parnell in a speech here to-day quoted General Gordon's opinion that tenants should be brought out by compulsory expropriation at a small sum and should be allowed to keep their holdings in perfect security and practically rent free. Eight or ten million pounds, he said, would be more than ample to compensate landlords for any losses they might sustain. This would be a small sum to accomplish a nobler work than the emancipation of the slaves in the Southern States of America. Mr. Parnell, in referring to the seceders from his ranks, said he preferred Valentine Dillon to a good proportion of the traitors who had deserted the party because Dillon would not run away if the Grand Old Man made faces at him. He would put his back to the wall and die fighting rather than march out with all the honors of war, which the seceders did not do when they hastily retreated from room 15. If the strife had been removed from the heated atmosphere of room 15 and the evil influence of the National Liberal Club some way would have been found out of the difficulty without the present deplorable schism.

At many other meetings Mr. Parnell's difficulty in obtaining a hearing has been so great that the services of the police have frequently been required.

The election agent of Valentine Dillon, the Parnellite Parliamentary candidate for North Sligo, has applied to the magistrates for protection against what he terms "organized mobs."

CORK, March 23.—Timothy Healey, M.P., had a rough experience here to-day. He had attended the assizes, being interested in a case in which his brother Maurice had obtained damages for libel against a member of the Parnellite party. Upon leaving the court Timothy Healey was surrounded by a howling mob, who followed him along the street and made a number of attempts to assault him. The crowd finally became so violent that Healey took refuge in the dressing room of the Victoria Hotel, but soon a man suddenly rushed into the room, turned out the light and then struck Healey a powerful blow in the face, smashing his eyeglasses into pieces. When assistance arrived and the room was again lighted Healey was found to have been badly injured, as he had received numerous cuts from the broken pieces of his eyeglasses, and the blood was pouring down his face in streams. He was removed to a room and as he appeared to be suffering intense pain a number of physicians were summoned. Three doctors are now in attendance on the injured man. They have examined the wounds in his eye and express the fear that Healey may lose his sight.

Healey's assailant is O'Brien Dalton, who was connected with the Tipperary conspiracy. He first upbraided Healey for an insulting speech made while Dalton was in prison. The glass injured the [illegible] of Healey's left eye and made an incised wound an inch below the eyelid. It is feared inflammation will ensue. Healey's sight, it now appears, is not injured.

Ninety-one of the Victims Buried in Quicklime Yesterday.

GIBRALTAR, March 23.—The funeral of 91 victims of the Utopia disaster took place today. A heavy rainstorm prevailed during the ceremonies. The bodies were placed in rough coffins and buried in a huge ditch, which was filled in with quicklime to prevent infection. Divers who have been down in the sunken vessel report that there are unmistakable indications of the terrible struggles of the victims. Many bodies have been found with the head out of the port holes and the hands grasping the screws at the sides of the ports. Evidently they were trying to pull themselves through the opening. In many cases several bodies were found entangled, their hands tightly clasping each other or the arms intertwined. In several cases it was necessary to cut the hands or arms off before the bodies could be separated.

The local Board of Health has decided that all bodies coming ashore hereafter shall be sewn in tarpaulin bags, weighted and buried in the straits.

In the course of the coroner's inquest it was brought up in favor of Captain McKeague that he had 22 years' experience on the sea and had never before met with an accident.

GIBRALTAR, March 23.—A court martial to ascertain what responsibility, if any, rests on the British warship Anson for the sinking of the steamer Utopia was opened here to-day. The bodies of 30 more victims of the disaster were recovered to-day. They were in a very bad condition and it was decided to bury them at once.

Makes the Weak Strong

The marked benefit which people in run down or weakened state of health derive from Hood's Sarsaparilla, conclusively proves the claim that this medicine "makes the weak strong." It does not act like a stimulant, imparting fictitious strength from which there must follow a reaction of greater weakness than before, but in the most natural way Hood's Sarsaparilla overcomes creates an appetite, purifies the blood, and, in short, gives great bodily, nerve, mental and digestive strength.

That Tired Feeling

"I derived very much benefit from Hood's Sarsaparilla, which I took for general debility. It built me right up, and gave me an excellent appetite." ED. JENKINS, Mt. Savage, Md.

Fagged Out

"Last spring I was completely fagged out. My strength left me and I felt sick and miserable all the time, so that I could hardly attend to my business. I took one bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it cured me. There is nothing like it." R. C. BEGOLE, Editor Enterprise, Belleville, Mich.

Worn Out

"Hood's Sarsaparilla restored me to good health. Indeed, I might say truthfully it saved my life. To one feeling tired and worn out I would earnestly recommend a trial of Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. PHEBE MOSHER, 29 Brooks Street, East Boston, Mass.

THE EIGHT HOUR MOVEMENT.

THE movement to have eight hours established as the standard for a day's work is being pushed forward and has certainly advanced rapidly. The Eight Hour League of Canada is a new organization and in its manifesto it compresses into a small space the principal arguments in favor of the change as follows:—

"The immense increase of machinery has a tendency to displace manual labor. It has been estimated that 18,000 workingmen are thrown out of employment every year by improvements in machinery. While improved facilities in production have added enormously to the wealth of countries in the aggregate, still the amount of produce of a country which goes to the workers is out of all proportion to that which goes to the non-producer or owners of the instruments of production. Ever-increasing competition among the dispossessed for opportunities of labor inevitably tends to cheapen labor and to reduce wages, thus decreasing the consumptive powers of the people. If there were one million of unemployed men in the United States (and it is estimated there is even more than that number, not counting criminals,) this means a loss of three million dollars a day to the consumptive powers of the country.

"Increased consumptive powers are a necessity in order that capital, machinery and productive capacity may be profitably employed.

"That all may work who are willing to work, a general shortening of the hours of labor has become an absolute necessity. This is acknowledged on all hands and in all civilized countries.

"What is known as the eight hour movement is fast assuming vast proportions the world over.

"Is Canada to lag behind in this movement?

"We think not. It is the movement of enlightened intelligence against brute force and ignorance. Believing that there is a wide-spread feeling in this country, as in all other countries, in favor of an eight-hour working day, not only among the working classes, but among all classes of the community, the Eight Hour League has been formed, in order to bring together into one organization the combined force of this growing conviction. This is the more necessary, as we believe that this particular reform is one of the very first importance, in its bearings on the vast social problems of the day, and a necessary first step in the direction of an ultimate solution of those problems.

"The object of the league is to disseminate literature dealing especially with this question, and in every legitimate way to promote the growth of an enlightened public opinion in favor of this much-needed reform."

The reference to "brute force and ignorance" is unnecessary, for such expressions do a good cause no good. At the same time the arguments presented are strong, and the League can do much by disseminating proper literature on the question. There have been many schemes advocated as a means for accomplishing the object the League has in view, namely bettering the condition of those who are employed, but the for shortening of the hours of labor has the merit of being practical and easily applied, and would do a great deal towards providing employment and improving the position of all who labor. Such movements cannot accomplish the object desired in a day, but the advancement made in convincing the people of the desirability of making this change is such as should be very encouraging.

THE NORTH PERTH CASE.

THE discussion in the Legislature in regard to the by-election in North Perth brought out a trick on the part of the Ontario Government in keeping with their methods of retaining office. The seat had been rendered vacant by the unseating of the Liberal member, and a new election was to follow. The voters' lists in the city of Stratford were in course of preparation, and were prepared some time before the election was held. But the Government candidate feared the result of the addition of the new voters who would be brought in under the new lists, and they were shut out by the Government. The trial took place on Dec. 8th and 9th, and on the 16th the certificate of the judges was received. On the 18th the writ for the election was issued, just in time to shut out the new voters' lists, for they were completed two days later.

The circumstances show clearly that the writ was hurried forward for the purpose of disfranchising a number of electors. The law provides that the writ should not be issued for eight days after the certificate is received, to allow time for an appeal to be entered. This was not done. Further, the writ, although issued on the 18th, was not forwarded until the 21st. And in the East Durham case the certificate was received on Dec. 4th, some days before the North Perth certificate was received, yet the writ for the East Durham election was not issued until Dec. 29th.

The circumstances prove that the haste was unnecessary and inexpedient, and that it was for the purpose of of disfranchising electors in Stratford. This despicable trick was, however, in keeping with the Mowat Government's course in making all things work together for its own advantage and in stifling the voice of the electors in order to maintain itself in office.

If you decide from what you have heard or read, that you will take Hood's Sarsaparilla, do not be induced to buy any substitute instead.

WAYS OF WOMEN FAIR.

THE FADS, FANCIES AND FASHIONS OF THE GENTLER SEX.

Gowns Lively and Gowns Severe—A Very Costly Effect in Gowns Produced at a Low Price—Beauties in Buttons—A Queer Talisman.

Women are shorter now than at any time in the last ten years, all because of the low-heeled English walking shoe.

There is a woman living at Manhattan, Kan., that has written over 2,000 songs. Eight hundred of them appeared in 1890.

The Austrian gentleman's pet fad is to have his lady love's features carved on the bowl of a meerschaum pipe, so that he can worship beauty and tobacco at the same time.

Mme. Minnie Hauk carries with her as a talisman a piece of rope cut from the noose that choked a murderer in the Tombs about five years ago.

Miss Alice Fletcher, of Pittsburg, who has made a life-study of archæology among the Indians, has inherited from her friend, Mrs. Mary C. Shaw, recently deceased, an annuity of $1500 for life to be used in the interests of her researches.

The first sewing-machine was patented in England in the year 1790. One of these old machines is on exhibition in England. America, however, can claim the credit of perfecting the sewing machine and making it a commercial success.

It is most remarkable that though music is part of the education of most women, and with all their aptitude for the art and ability in interpretation, the sex has never produced a great composer and comparatively few compositions that have attained any great popularity.

A justice of the peace in Lyon county, Nebraska, has a novel way of performing the marriage ceremony. It is as follows: "Stand up. Take hold of hands. I do hereby declare you man and wife from now unto eternity, so help me God, and in conclusion will charge you a couple of dollars."

One of the handsomest women at the late Woman's Congress was Mrs. Annie Nathan Meyer. She was scarcely 24 years of age when she became the first woman to take an examination at Columbia College, New York. She founded Barnard College, which takes the Columbia College degrees. Mrs. Meyer is a sister of Emma Lazarus, the poetess.

A Montreal newspaper reports a "fashionable" wedding in that city, at which the bride carried her pet canary bird fastened to her shoulder by a golden chain attached to one of its little legs, and it is interesting to record that "the sweet little warbler burst into song at the very moment that the solemn rites of the church conferred upon its mistress the happiness of bridehood."

Gowns of two varieties are seen upon the streets—gowns lively and gowns severe. The former are furbelowed as to the bodice and flounced as to the skirt, and are set off with natural flowers of the gaudiest variety. The latter are plain to the last degree of monotony in the waist and are so contracted in the skirt that the wearers justly complain that they run the risk of getting knees in their skirts.

Poker is the favorite occupation of ladies at present. Not the naughty game with shady association and erratic "jack pot," nor the manipulation of the kitchen implement called by that name. Parlor poker is an artistic occupation which consists in etching on wood with a red hot point. Exquisite shadings and delicate effects are obtained in this manner, the point being kept hot by means of a spray of benzoline thrown on the point from an India rubber bulb. This is an antique art revived, for long ago bold strokes with an ordinary poker made red hot were used to trace similar designs, and was then distinguished by the name of pyrography.

The venerable journalist, Mlle. Julie Gouraud, editor of the Journal des Jeunes Personnes and founder of a school of literature for young girls, has recently died at the age of 81. She has been the editor of that paper for twenty-five years, and managed it so cleverly that it has been worth a large fortune to those who run it. She has also written several books in a delightful playful vein, and as far removed from the commonplace as was possible when contributing to the literature which young girls in France are allowed to read. In spite of her clever work, Mlle. Julie did not die wealthy, for she gave away most of her income to the unfortunate.

LIFE IN A HAREM.

A Turkish Lady Describes Some of Its Queer Features.

The Turkish girl of the period has been for a long time looking with deep disaffection on customs which leave her powerless and make her, so to speak, an alien in her father's house. Till very lately, however, she was in too great a minority to act. In nearly every great harem there are at the most three Turkish girls to perhaps 100 Circassians, among whom are frequently included the ladies of the house, and, in fact, the mothers of those Turkish girls, their father's mother, and their grandfather's mother were all Circassians also.

Such being the case, the Turkish girl ought to count herself as more than half Circassian, but against this she has a very comfortable theory (taken from no less a person than the prophet himself), which, in a country where a woman is counted as a slave, explains that children belong essentially to their father, and can only count their descent from him; so, armed with this, she will look on the Circassians with a hardly disguised contempt rather amusing to witness, as in reality the Circassians are the mistresses of the harem, where they reign supreme, says a writer in the Nineteenth Century. In sober truth we count for very little in our homes, where we are, however, treated with more respect than any other of its inmates; but though our father's wives will rise when we enter a room, will give us the pre-eminence everywhere, and who will never name us without adding the title hanum (lady), we know well that we have less influence in our father's house than the lowest slave.

To a European lady a slave is a servant, a creature who works, and who from the fact of being bought is to be pitied, but who ranks even lower in her estimation than her cook or her chambermaid. I would not for worlds state this to a Christian slave, because by the fact of being a Mohammedan a slave holds herself superior to any Christian lady in existence, and will look down on her with as much contempt as the other would show toward her servant. A slave will work, but she will never consider herself abased by it; to her the period during which she works being considered as a sort of probation which must inevitably end one day in her marriage. An English lady once asked me if she should shake hands with a slave. I told her it would be a mere act of courtesy which depended on her own wishes, but I did not tell her that if she had not done it the slave would have been seriously offended.

Electrical Progress.

Owing to the difficulties that have so often been found with the closed type of engines for electric light machinery, the English admiralty has abolished them in recent ships and substituted open engines of the compound type.

A self-acting electrical balance has recently been invented. The object to be weighed is to be placed in the pan, which closes the circuit, starts a motor and moves the weight out on the beam of the balance. When the equipoise is established the circuit is broken.

Electricity has found a use in the stable in a new idea for grooming horses. The power furnished by an electric motor is taken by a flexible tube to a brush that revolves rapidly. With this brush a man can groom a horse better in five minutes than in a much longer time by hand.

Mighty Words of Truth.

A Persian poet has said:—"There is not a single dispensation of Providence which, if properly viewed, will not afford an excellent lesson. Never repine at the good fortune of others, for many are there who wish to be raised to your station."

You may not possess fame, wealth, position or honor in the world, but Providence may have bestowed upon you health, happiness and contentment, which the wealthy and those of high station often look for in vain. People of high position, wealth and fame generally have themselves to blame for any lack of health and contentment. In the hurry and worry after gold, fame and honor, their health is neglected, and ailments and troubles brought on which endanger and shorten life. They are victims of nervousness, insomnia, irritability, headache, morbidness, bad circulation and dyspepsia in its worst forms. For them there is no royal pathway to health; they must take the same simple, yet effectual, remedy which their less favoured fellows use,—Paine's Celery Compound. It is a universal and infallible remedy, and will benefit all who use it. Reader, if you are one of the wealthy and noted in your community and long for health, joy and happiness, Paine's Celery Compound will give it. This remarkable preparation is as necessary for your troubles as is the rain for the dry and parched fields of the farmer.

REVIEWS.

THE COSMOPOLITAN.—No more completely illustrated copy of the Cosmopolitan has ever gone out than that for April. Miss Elizabeth Bisland, always a bright and attractive writer, is fairly fascinating in her description of dancing, the eldest of the arts, and the illustrations charmingly interpret the article itself. The executive mansion, the "White House," and one of the first points to be visited by those who go to Washington, is described by Mr. George Grantham Bain, the Washington correspondent, while the interior is illustrated with many views taken specially for the Cosmopolitan by permission of the President. Perhaps the feature which will appeal most strongly to literary people is Brander Matthews' article on the Women Writers of America. Mrs. Cruger, Amelie Rives, and all the best known modern writers, come in for a touch of criticism. The Nicaragua Canal is described and illustrated by Harvey, and the Japanese theatre by Miss Scidmore. Samples are given of the work of Meissonier, and Frederic Villiers tells the curious story of a war correspondent's life. The frontispiece is a portrait of General Sherman, drawn by Gribayedoff, and Sherman and Bismarck come in for the major part of Murat Halstead's Review of Current Events. New York Tenements Set On Fire.

NEW YORK, March 23.—An attempt was made by an incendiary yesterday to burn the premises [illegible] and Twenty-first-street, a five-story double tenement of brick, owned by Charles Coleman. Twenty families live there, two on a floor. Another case was at 212 East Sixty-First-street. A policeman saw smoke coming out of the cellar at 2 a.m. Several colored families in the house were aroused. It was found that fire had been kindled in a coal bin and also in a pile of wood in another part of the cellar. A fire was discovered yesterday afternoon in the cellar of a tenement, 348 One Hundred and Tenth-avenue. It was near some ash barrels and incendiary. A tenant located the fire in time to save the building and its occupants.

The Brooklyn incendiaries are still at work. Last night a fire was found to have been kindled under the stairway in the basement of the tenement, 929 Myrtle-avenue, occupied by several families. It was in a storeroom which is generally kept locked. The lock had been broken.

The Brooklyn firebug has been captured. He is Henry G. Miller, aged 21, of Sash street. The prisoner made a full confession. It was he who set fire to 146 High-street Saturday night. Miller's father says the young man is insane.

They were asphyxiated by escaping gas. They are said to have been lovers, but the woman married Russell after a lover's quarrel with Hatton.

THE CITY AND SUBURBS.

A Progressive Institution.

The sessional announcement appears in this issue of McGill University, Montreal. A number of new chairs have been instituted, and laboratories, workshops, apparatus and other improvements have been added to this celebrated university, affording fresh advantages to students. Copies of circulars can be had on application to J. W. Brakenridge, acting-secretary.

Death Rate For February.

The mortuary statistics for the month of February are to hand and show that during last month Peterborough's death ratio per thousand was 1.07, there having been ten deaths, six males and four females. In other places the death rate was as follows: Toronto, 1.63; Hamilton, 1.58; Ottawa, 1.82; London, .87; Winnipeg, 1.60; Kingston, 1.60; Brantford, .96; St. Thomas, 1.60; Guelph, .85; Belleville, 1.14; Woodstock, .75; Chatham, 1.48.

Bad Not Like Dudes.

There was a lively row in a George-st. bar-room last night. A little before eight o'clock five stalwart fellows from the country went into the bar of the Grand Central hotel with the avowed intention of "cleaning the house out." In this they were disappointed. One of the trio incensed at the sight of eye-glasses on another drinker, smashed his glass on the floor and was going to annihilate "the dudes." A number of young men from town did not run away and a free fight ensued. The police were telephoned for and Constable McGinty arrived and took one of the five to the police station. Dan Shanaghan was his name, and he was fined $5 this morning by the magistrate.

Opening Service in Holy Week.

The first evening service of Holy week in St. John's church was held last night at eight o'clock. The service was conducted by Rev. J. C. Davidson assisted by Messrs. W. M. Loucks and W. D. Parker. The sermon was preached by Rev. C. B. Kenrick, the basis of the discourse being the seventh beatitude, "Blessed are the peace makers for they shall be called the children of God," the words being applied primarily to Jesus, the Great Peacemaker. Rev. Mr. Kenrick also presided at the organ and the singing was led by the choir of St. Andrew's Brotherhood who were present in full force. The beautiful "Story of the Cross" was sung after the sermon, the solos being taken by Miss Davidson and Mr. Drouge. There will be the same service at St. John's every evening this week commencing at eight o'clock. Rev. Mr. Warren, of Lakefield delivers the last of the series of Lenten lectures on Wednesday evening next.

AN ENTERTAINING EVENT.

Rev. C. O. Johnston Lectures on Influences —The Sunday School Anniversary.

The second event in the commemoration of the anniversary of the Sunday school of the Charlotte-st. Methodist church took place last evening when Rev. C. O. Johnston, the gifted divine who delighted the congregation on Sunday, delivered a lecture in the church on the subject, "Influences." Notwithstanding the incessant rain of the day had not ceased with the coming of darkness, and that the walking in many places was a wade through water and slush, there was a large audience present to enjoy the lecture. Rev. S. J. Shorey, the pastor, gracefully performed the duties of chairman, and, after opening with a short prayer, introduced the lecturer.

The rev. gentleman had a subject which afforded scope for that originality and attractive style of speaking which was noticeable in his discourse, on Sunday, and he made a happy and profitable use of his opportunity. His lecture was about an hour and a half in duration, and during that time not for one moment did he lose the close attention of his audience. He laid down much sound logic, interjected numerous amusing stories and odd snatches of scenes from every day life as illustrations, and drove home every statement with instances from experience or biography. His manner of telling a story or relating an incident was good, and more than once his hearers enjoyed a good laugh. Influences he described as hands striking across the cords of our nature and making harmony out of discord, according as they found the instrument. He referred to the mighty power, the perpetual thraldom in which influence held men, and then proceeded to speak of the influence of sight, associations, drinking, eating, reading, the little matters, of the domestic or house kingdom, of imagination. He passed over the influences of the church, the club room, companionship, and fashion, and summed them all up in the home influence. It was the home that built up the character of the boy and prepared him for the storms of life. Here the speaker showed his powers as a descriptive orator in picturing the storm at sea. His reference to the home influences was exceedingly affecting, while many of his illustrations, and especially that of the Methodist and Presbyterian styles of singing, were highly amusing. His lecture was an interesting and instructive deliverance, and, as he said, was more of the suggestive and illustrative than argumentative.

The meeting closed with the doxology.

This evening the anniversary entertainment of the children of the school will be given and will be of unusual interest. An excellent programme has been prepared and all previous anniversary events are to be eclipsed.

Lacrosse and Baseball.

The annual meeting of the Lacrosse Club will be held in the Olympic Club rooms this evening at 7.30 o'clock, when the presence of all interested in Canada's national game is requested. The Baseball Club will also meet in advance of the P.A.A.A. and a good attendance of baseballists is also urgently requested.

The Triple Links.

At the regular meeting of Otonabee Lodge, I.O.O.F., held last evening a committee was appointed to make arrangements for the commemoration of the anniversary of the lodge which falls on April 26th.

Hiawatha Encampment, I.O.O.F., is to hold a parlor concert on the evening of April 17th. An enjoyable evening is anticipated.

A Valuable Gift Acknowledged.

At a meeting of the Canadian Institute held in Toronto on Saturday evening a vote of thanks was passed to Rev. V. Clementi, of Peterborough, in acknowledgment of his gift to the Institute of "The Nests and Eggs of Birds of Ohio." The work was a valuable one in two large quarto volumes, the illustrations of which were painted by hand on fine drawing paper. The books were valued at $250.

He Voted for Mr. Stevenson.

On Friday last Mr. Chas. Wensley, of Campbellford, and formerly of Peterborough, was presented, by the Conservatives of that village, with a handsome silver medal, upon one side of which was engraved the following: "Presented to Mr. Chas. Wensley by a few Conservative friends, Campbellford," and upon the opposite side were the words, "East Northumberland, West Peterborough and West Hastings." Mr. Wensley, it appears, voted in these three constituencies on the 5th March, and in each case for the successful candidate.

Some Foolish People

Allow a cough to run until it gets beyond the reach of medicine. They often say, "Oh, it will wear away," but in most cases it wears them away. Could they be induced to try the successful medicine called Kemp's Balsam, which is sold on a positive guarantee to cure, they would immediately see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Price 50c and $1. Trial size free. At all druggists.

Death of Mr. John Tully.

Another one of the old and highly respected residents of this district has passed away in the person of Mr. John Tully. A few months ago the deceased gentleman, who was father of Mr. J. D. Tully, of town, was stricken with an illness which proved to be the cause of death. He was an Englishman by birth and was born in 1820, being 71 years of age when he died. He came to Canada in 1854 and settled in Lindsay. Some 22 years ago he came here and has resided in Smith or town ever since. The deceased was a Presbyterian in religion and was a member of St. Andrew's church. He leaves a widow and two daughters and one son to mourn his loss. The funeral takes place from the family residence on McDonnel-st. to-morrow afternoon at 2.30.

The Census is Secret.

The census will be taken next month, and there are two points in connection with it which an exchange emphasizes. The first is the secrecy of the census; and the second, the fact that it will not in any way affect taxes. We wish, says the exchange the people everywhere to understand that the enumerator who collects the information is sworn to secrecy, and the information given by one person is never seen by any one except the enumerator and the Government statistical officers. Ladies often do not give right answers, or they suppress information because they are afraid their next door neighbor will see it. They need not be. Then again, people will not give information about their property or belongings because they are afraid their taxes will be increased. The census has nothing to do with the taxes, and municipal or other tax officers are not allowed to see the census returns.

For the cure of colds, coughs, and all derangements of the respiratory organs, no other medicine is so reliable as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It relieves the asthmatic and consumptive, even in advanced stages of disease, and has saved innumerable lives.

THE MOTHER EXONERATED.

The Coroner's Jury Return a Verdict that the Dead Infant was Still Born.

The coroner's inquest to inquire into the death of the infant child which was adjourned from Saturday last was resumed yesterday afternoon in the Police Court room.

Dr. McGrath testified regarding the post mortem examination he had made assisted by Dr. Yelland. He described the child and said there were no external marks of violence. The finger nails were not fully developed and the hair of the head only imperfectly so. Upon opening the chest the lungs were found in the upper or back part and the heart in the anterior or lower part of the chest and the diaphragm arched. The lungs were hard, firm and resisting. The lungs and heart after being taken out sank in water. The two lungs together and separately sank in water as also did portions of them. After describing the dissection of the abdomen, in answer to a question he said his conclusion was that the child had never breathed. He had no doubt of this. The test that had been made, in regard to the lungs, was the most reliable known. In arriving at the conclusion that respiration had not taken place he had not relied entirely upon the condition, position and test of the lungs. The child had not come to maturity.

Dr. Yelland was next called and he corroborated the evidence in regard to the post mortem as given by Dr. McGrath. He was also quite satisfied that the child had never breathed.

The County Crown Attorney said it was quite clear on the evidence of the doctors who had performed the post mortem that the child never breathed. As it never breathed he did not think it necessary to take any more evidence.

The coroner agreed with this and said there was nothing for the jury to do but to bring in a verdict in accordance with the evidence, that was that the child was still born.

After about a two minute retirement the jury returned a verdict that the child was still born. The girl is therefore exonerated from the suspicion of infanticide.

THE FLOOD CAME.

The Water in the Creek Rises and Causes Fears, but Little Damage.

The steady, warm rain of yesterday melted the snow and ice piled up on the streets at a rapid rate, the snow piles disappearing as quickly as they had come. Those residing along the banks of the creek looked upon this wholesale thaw with fearful anticipation, and they had their fears realized, the water rising higher than it has for several years.

Swollen by the influx of hundreds of little rivulets, the creek rose rapidly and last night it had overflowed its banks in several places and threatened destruction to the bridges. At the corner of Murray and Bethune-sts. the water reached the bridge and the Grand Trunk authorities fearing its destruction shunted four loaded cars and stood them on the bridge. The railway company and Street Inspector Pope had gangs of men at work all night doing their best to keep the creek open and lessen the body of the swollen torrent. At the Brock-st. bridge the water also rose and flooded the street and men were working here also to keep the passage under the structure clear.

Houses along the banks of the creek in these localities were flooded and the Rathbun Co. had to move much of its material out of the reach of the water. One resident retired to rest, never thinking of water or flood, but he had slept but little when a loud knocking below caused pictures of burglars to rise before him. He secured a light and a club and proceeded down stairs to investigate. No burglars or intruders in human form were found, and he discovered that his cellar had filled with water and the knocking and pounding was caused by the floating barrels and boxes in his cellar which were bumping against the kitchen floor.

Towards morning the water in the creek began to lower and to-day the little stream is again within its banks. No extensive damages are reported. Men are still at work clearing the ice from the creek.

The Snow Balls will Soon be Gone.

A young boy is spending the day behind the iron bars of the police cells to-day and his sorrowful mood and gloomy abode should be a warning to other lads. On Friday last this boy threw a snow ball and struck the young daughter of Mr. Finch Miller in the eye, making a painful wound. The youth was captured and will appear before the magistrate this afternoon.

Fruit Growers Meeting To-morrow.

The local fruit growers are looking forward to an interesting and successful meeting Wednesday afternoon in the Council Chamber. The subject, which is an important one, has been taken up and considerable enthusiasm is shown by those having the details of the work in hand. Not only will men who have for years been raising fruit in this vicinity relate their experience but others who stand high in the industry will relate facts that are of value to the fruit growers at large. The rubbing of ideas together in this way always brings to the surface knowledge gained by experience, and by which all may profit. Among those from a distance who will be present are Mr. A. McD. Allan, of Toronto, who was one of the commissioners sent by Canada in charge of the exhibit of fruit at the Colonial and Indian Exhibition, held in London. He was for two years president of the Ontario Fruit Growers Association and is an eminent and successful authority on fruit growing. Mr. Wolverton, secretary of the Ontario Association, will also be present. Mr. Craig, of the Ottawa Experimental Farm, and who to-day delivers an address at the Farmers' Institute at Lakefield, has consented to stay over and speak at the Fruit Growers meeting. Mr. Thos. Beall, of Lindsay, a very well known and successful fruit raiser and florist, is expected to add his testimony. Altogether there will be practical men enough at the meeting to sow around facts that they have been years in accumulating and which are of value to the gardener, fruit raiser and florist. If you are interested come to the meeting. Come any way and perhaps it may lead to your taking hold of this interesting and profitable branch of horticulture.

Nasal Balm has cured the worst cases of catarrh after other remedies have failed. Give it a trial, it will cure you. Sold by all dealers.

A Horse's Dive Into the Water—The South Victoria Election.

Correspondence of the Review.

A HORSE TAKES A DIVE.—The Rev. Wm. Anderson, of the Presbyterian church here, in company with Mr. David Kennedy, of South Verulam, started from here on Sunday with a horse and rig to go to Dunsford, which is one of Mr. Anderson's appointments, and all went well till they came to Little Bob bridge, where their horse stumbled, took a lunge to one side, struck the railing with such force on the east side of the bridge that he carried it away, and then took a dive into the river from the bridge, a height of about 15 feet. Fortunately the two gentlemen jumped out on the bridge, and as they stood there watching that horse taking a dive from the bridge like a school boy on a summer evening, the look of surprise on their faces can be better imagined than described. But the horse took it quite coolly, and as he could find bottom he stood looking around to see who was going to drive him out. Several were soon on the scene, and the owner of the horse made his way to the cutter and drove it out on terra firma once more. No damage beyond the breaking of the cutter was done, and persons wonder how the feat was accomplished so well.

SOUTH VICTORIA.—Last Thursday was the Conservatives' day of rejoicing. After Tuesday last the recount was a thing of the past and our courteous member of South Victoria, Mr. Fairbairn, had the seat beyond a doubt. Last Thursday was their rejoicing day and they came pouring into Lindsay from the north, south, east and west, with flag, pennon and standard, and formed in grand array, and ere long they were debouching from Lindsay towards the east on their way to Bobcaygeon, and on the move with pennon, flag and banner, moving in the golden sunlight with peal of drum and clash of cymbal. About mid-day they arrive at Dunsford where a reinforcement from Bobcaygeon the tried and true Conservatives to the backbone met them, and then the cheer that arose was clear and high and the sound waves move off to the north, south, east and west, on calm, mild air. They form in regular order and the whole cavalcade moves on till they reach the Town Hall in Bobcaygeon at 3 p. m. where Mr. Fairbairn addressed the assemblage, and then that gallant array was dismissed with a cheer of victory.

Electrical Utilization of Insects.

An electric apparatus supplies a strong light which attracts the insects and moths; a suction fan worked by the electric current draws them in when they approach the light, and carries them into a small mill, also worked by the electric current, where they are ground up and mixed with flour and thus converted into poultry food of excellent quality. Constipation,

IF not remedied in season, is liable to become habitual and chronic. Drastic purgatives, by weakening the bowels, confirm, rather than cure, the evil. Ayer's Pills, being mild, effective, and strengthening in their action, are generally recommended by the faculty as the best of aperients.

"Having been subject, for years, to constipation, without being able to find much relief, I at last tried Ayer's Pills. I deem it both a duty and a pleasure to testify that I have derived great benefit from their use. For over two years past I have taken one of these pills every night before retiring. I would not willingly be without them." — G. W. Bowman, 26 East Main st., Carlisle, Pa.

"I have been taking Ayer's Pills and using them in my family since 1857, and cheerfully recommend them to all in need of a safe but effectual cathartic." — John M. Boggs, Louisville, Ky.

"For eight years I was afflicted with constipation, which at last became so bad that the doctors could do no more for me. Then I began to take Ayer's Pills, and soon the bowels recovered their natural and regular action, so that now I am in excellent health." — S. L. Loughbridge, Bryan, Texas.

"Having used Ayer's Pills, with good results, I fully indorse them for the purposes for which they are recommended." — T. Conners, M. D., Centre Bridge, Pa.

TUESDAY, MARCH 24, 1891.

BEATRIX RANDOLPH.

BY JULIAN HAWTHORNE.

This epigram was overheard by Mr. Damon at the center of the table, and he immediately called out, "There's a protrait of Grasmere down at the club that is said to have been painted to the tune the old cow died of." Hereupon Mr Bidgood burst into a hearty laugh, and observed that the old cow probably died from feeding on the harmonious hay loft. Mr. Grasmere, who was probably of Scotch extraction, drew himself up to his full height and said to Mrs. Cadwalader, with a gleam from beneath his eyelids, that such men as the last two speakers did more than vice or ignorance to delay civilization. Mrs. Cad walader smiled with scarlet lips, and said in her small, caressing voice, "The proprietor of the 'Professional Amateur,' cannot believe that civilization is delayed."

If there was any further danger of a breach of the peace it was averted by the action of Wallie, who now arose in his place and proposed the health of the guest of the evening. "Though our guest to-night," he said, "she is a host in herself; and if she was born in a foreign land, we all know that some of the truest Americans have never set foot in the United States." The toast having been drunk with much cordiality, Wallie added, "I didn't learn that speech by heart, ladies and gentleman, but that is where it came from."

When the applause had subsided there was a pause, and the prima donna, perceived with a beating heart that everybody's eyes were fixed upon her, as if expecting a reply. She cast a dismayed look at Bellingham, but his eyes were cast down, and an expression of coldness had suddenly overspread his face. She drew a long breath, and rose, with a soft rustle of her white dress, and glanced down the table. She heard the clapping of hands, and saw Joselyn smiling and nodding encouragingly, and Inigo hammering the table and beaming unctuously. The thought passed through her mind, "I am not myself; they are applauding some one else." Instead of disconcerting her, this thought gave her self possession.

"Ladies and gentlemen," she began, "I did not learn a speech; where I came from we did not make them. Some time I shall sing you my thanks. But I feel now how kind you are. A little while ago I knew nothing of you, and now we are friends! Your belief in me will help me to deserve it. All this seems hardly real to me—as if it were not possible. It is not I who speak to you, but the music, that is the reason of my being here. And yet I should like to have you like me for myself—else I should feel very lonely. I have only my music to take the place of my mother and my father. It is a great deal, I know, but not quite everything. And I cannot help feeling almost as if it stood between me and you. It is a disguise that I must wear, and I know that the disguise is better than what is beneath it."

Here her eye happened to encounter Joselyn's. He was gazing at her apparently in much anxiety, and his lips seemed to be forming some voiceless words. The prima donna did not know what he meant, but she stopped and reflected that she was thinking aloud instead of making a speech, and that what she was thinking had more reference to the blue-eyed man with the brown beard who sat on her right than to any one else in the room; whereupon a blush rose to her face, she murmured something hardly articulate, and sat down. Everybody smiled and seemed to be much pleased.

"My God, what an actress!" muttered Mr. Beaufort to his neighbor, Mrs. March "The delicious audacity of that last sentence was inimitable!"

"She must be very clever," returned the lady, veiling her business mouth with the bouquet she carried; "but how very noticeable her foreign accent is!"

"Ach! well, my dear, it has been a long time before I could come to dalk so as one would not know I was German," put in Miss Korner charitably. "Mademoiselle shpeak very well for a beginner."

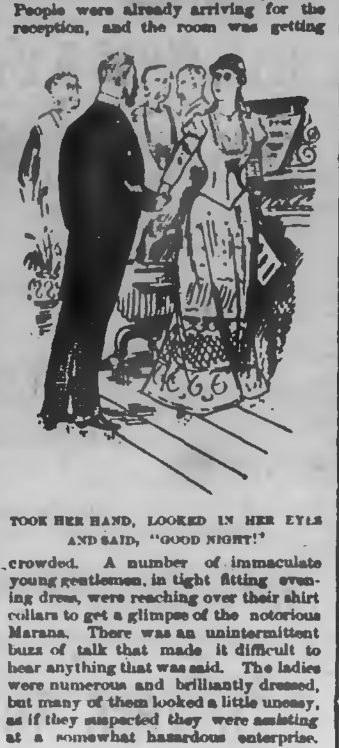
"They say the Russians are a very superstitious people," remarked Mr. Plainter, putting up his eye glasses; "I must remember to ask Miss Marana whether she has ever investigated any of the phenomena. She looks like a medium herself; I should like to investigate, under rigorously scientific tests, the range and quality of her abnormal capacities."

"Since meeting Mlle. Marana," said Mr. Knight, addressing Wallie, but graciously pitching his voice so as to be overheard by the diva, "I no longer marvel at Russian despotism. I should be a slave myself were I her countryman—nay, my slavery has begun even as it is!"

"By George! old fellow," whispered Joselyn aside to the general, "hanged if I didn't think for a moment the girl was going to give us away!"

"Don't you believe it," the general mumbled in reply. "She ain't going to give us away, nor give herself away, neither—not to you, anyhow, and don't you forget it!"

The dinner came to an end, the ladies withdrew, and the gentlemen presently followed them to the drawing room. People were already arriving for the reception, and the room was getting crowded. A number of immaculate young gentlemen, in tight fitting evening dress, were reaching over their shirt collars to get a glimpse of the notorious Marana. There was an unintermittent buzz of talk that made it difficult to hear anything that was said. The ladies were numerous and brilliantly dressed, but many of them looked a little uneasy, as if they suspected they were assisting at a somewhat hazardous enterprise. The prima donna wore on her breast a locket set with diamonds that had belonged to her mother.



TOOK HER HAND, LOOKED IN HER EYES AND SAID, "GOOD NIGHT!"

(To be Continued.)

MURDER HIDES MURDER.

Did Mary Tobin's Assassins Strangle Her Father, Too?

OIL CITY, Pa., March 24.—Readers of this article may recall the mysterious drowning of Miss Fanny Tobin, which took place in the East River about two years ago.

Her former home was at Franklin, Venango County, where she was a teacher in the public schools. Subsequently she went to New York to pursue special studies. She was both accomplished and beautiful and at the time of her death was engaged to be married, her disappearance taking place almost on the eve of the expected marriage.

The mystery surrounding her death has never been solved, but that there was foul play connected with it has never been doubted by the relatives and friends in this section.

To-day the citizens of Franklin and vicinity were shocked and mystified by news of the murder of N. P. Tobin, father of the young lady mentioned. He was fifty-two years of age, conducted a merchant tailoring establishment and was prominently known in the business and religious circles of Franklin. Yesterday his wife and two children went into the country, and he was at home last night alone.

At 5 o'clock this morning the fire department was called to his residence, which was discovered to be in flames. In the ruins of the building two hours later was found the dead and badly burned body of Tobin, dressed with exception of coat and hat and lying face downward on the parlor floor.

That he expected to drive into the country early for his wife and children accounted for his being dressed. Marks found on his throat clearly indicated that he had been choked to death. The murderers then set fire to the house to hide their crime. Tobin was a powerful and active man and his assailants must have been several in number. A brace and two bits, evidently used in gaining entrance to the house, were found.

The accepted theory is that the murder was committed by tramps. Another and more startling theory, but one which is accorded some credit, is that Tobin obtained information regarding those who caused his daughter's death; that this fact had become known to the guilty party or parties, and that whoever was responsible for the death of Mary Tobin also planned the murder of her father.

Detectives have been at work continuously on the drowning mystery, and Tobin is reported to have said recently that a loop would soon coil in the right place.

Tobin was a man of strong character as well as physique.

When he came to this country from England his special mission was to fight Ben Hogan, the then notorious fighter and bad man of the oil regions. Tobin soon became converted and his life from that time became one of philanthropy and good works. He frequently took poor boys from the streets and supplied them with clothes, looked after poor families and held meetings among the prisoners in jail. Twenty special officers are searching clues to his assassins.

Early Sunday morning, May 12, 1889, Thomas W. Armour, janitor of the Clifton boat house, discovered what he thought was a log of wood floating in the water a short distance from the boat house, but which proved to be the body of a woman. Getting into a boat he secured the body and notified Coroner Hughes. There were no marks of violence on the body, which was considerably decomposed.

The next day the body was identified as that of Miss Mary E. Tobin of Franklin Pa., who had been formerly employed as assistant to Dr. Samuel A. Robinson, a physician of West New Brighton, S.I., in whose house, up to Saturday, April 13, she resided. On that date she left Dr. Robinson's employ. She was understood then to be engaged to Dr. William Bryan, a former assistant of Dr. Robinson, with whom she was last seen alive on the following Monday evening, April 15. The inquest developed the fact that she was to start that evening for her Pennsylvania home. She did not go to Pennsylvania but remained among the missing until her dead body was found by the boatsman. Newspaper reporters took a conspicuous part in the detective agencies employed to solve the mystery, but failed. The Coroner's jury found that the girl was accidentally drowned, and there the subject has rested. It was then and is now the general belief that Mary Tobin was dead when her body was deposited in the water. The mystery of her death has not yet been, perhaps never will be, explained.

High Prices for Whalebone.

NEW YORK, March 23.—There is a remarkable scarcity of whalebone in the market at present and in consequence the poorest qualities are being disposed of at prices heretofore hardly ever realized for the best that the hardy New Bedford man could procure. What little bone of first quality that is placed upon the market is sold at prices which will astonish persons not familiar with the trade. A well known Pearl-street firm disposed of several thousand pounds several days ago at $5.30 a pound and a similar figure has been realized by dealers in Europe.

The New Minister at Tangier.

LONDON, March 23.—Colonel Sir C. B. Evan-Smith, British political agent and consul-general at Zanzibar, has been appointed British Minister at Tangier, Morocco. He will be succeeded at Zanzibar by Mr. Portall.

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING
EPPS'S COCOA
BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette

CHANGE OF BUSINESS
I beg to announce to my late customers that I have sold out my business to Messrs. Hilliard & Peplow, and would bespeak for them the same support as you have accorded me.
C. N. BROWN.

ANNOUNCEMENT.
For some time past we have thought that a strictly cash business in Flour, Feed and Provisions could be successfully carried on in Peterborough, and to test this question we have purchased the above business from Mr C. N. Brown, who will still continue as manager, in Fitzwell's Old Stand, Simcoe-st.
In order to be successful we intend to make it the interest of every one to pay cash with order by selling at wholesale prices.
We will positively give no credit and cash customers will not have to keep up the losses made by others on the credit system.
We will keep a full supply of
FLOUR, FEED, CHOP, Etc.,
and our customers need not fear that the quality of the goods will be lowered to make up for the reduction in prices.
We are simply giving them the benefit of the margin necessary to cover losses and interest charges incurred in the credit system.
Goods delivered to any part of the town or Ashburnham.

KANE'S AWFUL CRIME.

PARTICULARS OF THE BELLEVILLE MURDER.

A Callous Prisoner—He Also Intended to [illegible]—The Murder Undoubtedly Premeditated—History of the Assassin—An Inquest Opened.

BELLEVILLE, March 24.—The murder of Mrs. James Kane by her husband last night proves by the evidence taken at the inquest to have been a deliberately planned crime. The knife used by the murderer was obtained in the kitchen of the Queen's Hotel, where it had been used as a carving knife and had been carefully concealed by Kane until he made the attack upon his wife. Mrs. Kane has at intervals been compelled to live with her children in consequence of the treatment she received at the hands of him who in years gone by vowed that he would be her protector. It was at the house whence her son Alfred was removing that the awful tragedy occurred. At a few minutes before 8 o'clock, Kane left the Queen's Hotel and proceeded, in company with another man, to the barber shop of James Skinner (his step-son) in Front-street. Here he inquired of Mr. Skinner if his mother was in, and being told that she was assisting in helping Alfred Skinner to remove, Kane at once started for Albert Skinner's house, situated at the southern end of Church-street, near the bay. At this time Mrs. Skinner and Mrs. Kane were in the house alone. As Kane entered the house Mrs. Skinner was going out. She heard Kane say to Mrs. Kane that "he had something for her." Mrs. Skinner heard a struggle and ran out upon the sidewalk and meeting her husband told him she was afraid that Kane was committing a murder. Skinner rushed into the house, and seeing his mother struggling and also seeing a knife in his step-father's hand knocked him down with a blow of the fist. Mrs. Skinner also rushed into the house by the kitchen door and Mrs. Kane seized her by the arm, but in a few seconds she fell to the floor dead.

Whilst being held down to the floor Kane was told by Skinner that he had killed his wife. The murderer answered that if she was not dead it was not his fault, as he intended to finish her. Kane also told Skinner that he would murder him if he could get the chance. Skinner asked Kane if he was drunk, or if liquor had made him do the deed. He answered that he was not; that he knew what he was doing. His appearance justified his remarks, for although he had been drinking lightly he was in no way intoxicated. Before being removed to the station Kane was informed of the death of his wife, and answered that he was proud of the job which he had committed. He also stated that he would have killed his step-son Alfred had he had an opportunity. Whilst being conveyed to the police station the murderer told the sergeant that he was proud of the act which he had performed, and that he had done it through her boys. When searched at the station, all that was found in his possession was a razor and a cotton pocket handkerchief.

The instrument used for the commission of the foul crime was a large butcher knife. It is a dangerous-looking weapon, having a blade about 14 inches in length and ground down to a very fine point. When picked up from the floor it was covered with blood. It had been used in the kitchen of the hotel for carving purposes. With blade and handle it was about 16 inches in length, and was a formidable looking instrument.

James Kane is 58 years of age, having been born in Dublin, Ireland. Whilst in the Old Country he served in the regular army and had seen active serve. No children have been born to them, but Mrs. Kane had a large family by her first husband. He is about 5 feet 6 inches in height, of medium build, partly bald, with grey mustache and short beard. Last fall he was the victim of a serious runaway accident, and it is said that since he recovered he has acted in a morose manner.

The Pittsburg Murderer is Not a Brockville Man.

BROCKVILLE, March 24.—At Pittsburg, for the murder of Detective Gilkinson, the burglar and all-round crook under arrest has been known both as T. [illegible] Dodd and Frederick C. Fitzsimmons. From the discovery in the vaults of a will made at Brockville, Ont., the conclusion was reached that his real name is Fitzsimmons, but as Frederick C. Fitzsimmons is at his home in this place the man arrested in Pittsburg must be some one else.

ONTARIO LGISLATURE.

THE BUDGET SPEECH DELIVERED YESTERDAY.

Mr. Harcourt's Maiden Effort—The License Fund and the Municipalities—How the Provincial Monies Will Be Expended.

TORONTO, March 24.—Provincial Treasurer Harcourt made his annual statement yesterday in the House of Assembly.

The total receipts for 1890 amounted to $4,[illegible],154, or $44,747 more than was estimated. The largest items of the receipts remained unchanged. In four years $1,268,000 had been drawn from interest on capital and investments, and it was satisfactory to know that there was so stable an asset. There was a large deficit in the estimated receipts from the Central Prison, but there was $80,000 worth of unsold brick and other articles to make it up.

The receipts from licenses occupied Mr. Harcourt for some time. The receipts last year were $312,007, the largest ever received by the Province in any one year. The receipts of the Province, the number of licenses and the number of places in which the Scott Act was in force were

	Prov. Receipts.	Licenses.	Scott Act
1886-7	$316,000	3000	39
1887-8	301,000	1985	35
1888-9	292,000	2465	17
1889-90	307,281	[illegible]	9

It was said that the Province appropriated an unjust share of the license receipts. There was no ground for such a statement. The Provincial revenue had increased but so had the municipal revenue from licenses in an equal proportion. The amount paid to municipalities in 1886-7 was $153,609; in 1887-8, $186,000; in 1888-9, $190,000, and in 1889-90, $207,000. Or, while the Provincial revenue from that source had increased 42 per cent., the municipal revenue had increased 36 per cent.

Mr. Harcourt broadly suggested that the municipalities had the remedy in their own hands. They could by bylaws increase the fees by from $100 to $140 and the whole of this increase would go to the municipalities. A large number of municipalities complained about the amount of the fees they received, but not one of them had increased their fees to these maximum amounts. The 39 municipalities which petitioned the Government for a fairer proportion would have increased their revenue by $12,739 by these additional means. Moreover, any municipality by a popular vote could increase the fees, although in this case the increase would be equally shared with the province. The municipality received a large proportion of the revenue and yet the province had to pay the whole cost of enforcing the law.

The $92,000 received from the sale of the Toronto Lunatic Asylum land had been applied to the erection of cottages at the Mimico branch. Up to last year $246,983 had been devoted to this purpose. Seven cottages were now completed and it was proposed to add two more. The land at the asylum had become too valuable for gardens and was sold, but the province had received a valuable quid pro quo in the extra accommodation for patients at Mimico.

Taking up the expenditure for the past year Mr. Harcourt said the total estimated expenditure was $3,887,[illegible] and the actual receipts $3,[illegible]. The latter therefore exceeded the estimated expenditure by $44,747. The estimated expenditure [illegible] actual expenditure was $1,[illegible], leaving $178,149 unexpended. The actual receipts therefore exceeded the actual expenditure by $14,000. The expenditure on the maintenance of public institutions is steadily growing. In 1889 it was $720,899 and in 1890 it was $760,905, an increase of $40,000 over last year. The efficient management of these institutions requires 64 per cent. of the subsidy and one-fifth of the entire supply bill. They must expect that their duty to the public would require further expenditure in a few years. It was not likely they would continue to occupy the Toronto Asylum much longer. The annual cost of the patients was $131 per head. Mr. Harcourt read statistics from a number of American asylums to show that this was economical, only one out of 70 falling below.

Statements were submitted showing the amounts payable annually for certificates for "Aid to railways" and "Annuities." In 1891 $[illegible],174 is payable for railway aid certificates and $[illegible] for annuities. These amounts rapidly decrease until in 1908 the only certificate remaining unpaid is that of the Port Arthur, Duluth & Western Railway. The amounts payable this year are $4613 for railway aid certificates and $53,200 for annuities. The total amount payable for railway aid certificates is $1,404,610 and $1,534,300 for annuities. The last certificate falls due July 1, 1930. Mr. Harcourt added parenthetically that the railway certificates would probably be replaced by a new issue.

With regard to the disputed Provincial accounts with the Dominion the Treasurer said that at an early day they would be settled by arbitration. He gave some details regarding their history.

Mr. Harcourt then presented this statement of assets and liabilities.

1. Direct Investments:
Dominion 5 per cent. bonds....	$210,000 00
Drainage 5 per cent. debentures and drainage works..........	547,000 00
		$[illegible]
2. Capital held and debts due by the Dominion to Ontario bearing interest.
U.C. Grammar School Fund (3 Vict., Cap. 10)...	312,769 04
U.C. Building Fund (12 Vict. Act, 1854)..........	1,472,391 41
Land Improvement Fund (see Award)............	124,685 18
Ontario share of Library (see Award)............	105,541 00
Balance of unpaid subsidy and other credits..........	1,880,819 87
	$3,848,303 90
Ontario's share of Common School fund according to population of 1881..........	1,449,939 81
		4,[illegible]
3. Bank Balances:
Current accounts..........		44,791 9
Total..........		$[illegible]

The liabilities of the province at present payable Mr. Harcourt placed at only $3,[illegible], including $[illegible] for balance due municipalities re land improvement fund interest and $[illegible] being Quebec's share of collections for common school fund in 1890. The surplus of assets after deducting liabilities presently payable is placed at $5,[illegible].

He said that in the liabilities the railway aid certificates were not included, because they were not a present liability. They were not concerned with them now because it was not intended to meet them out of the present assets. The certificates were to be paid out of future receipts. They were inconsiderable and insignificant.

Mr. Harcourt placed the surplus at $5,[illegible]. There was another asset, he said, which was not included, the unpaid balance due the province for crown lands amounting to 3½ millions. If his opponents capitalized the railway certificates as a liability, why he would have to capitalize the subsidies and the receipts from crown lands as assets. He would also include the money spent on public buildings, and all this would increase the assets by millions.

The Treasurer in conclusion submitted a statement of the estimated receipts for 1891, following closely the actual receipts for 1890. The total receipts expected amount to $4,[illegible] and the total estimated [illegible] supplementary estimates of $[illegible], to $3,[illegible], leaving a balance of $[illegible] unprovided for. Mr. Harcourt got over the difficulty by remarking that the estimated receipts were pared down so closely that they were sure to be largely in excess of the amount anticipated.

Mr. H. E. Clarke said that it might have been expected that a new treasurer would have adopted a new system of bookkeeping. Mr. Harcourt had never before taken any prominent part in the discussion of finance, but had always posed as a superior person or a candid friend of the Government. The surplus was a myth.

Mr. Hardy: "Don't give us that chestnut."

Mr. Clarke: "Well, it is as mythical as the modesty presiding over the Crown Lands Department. [Laughter.] The sale of timber every year decreases the surplus, but lo! the surplus grows just the same. Money is borrowed every year and still the surplus increases. If the members opposite continue in power long enough the surplus will assume monumental proportions."

A plain answer to the questions what is revenue, what is the expenditure, what is the difference would inform the people of the province where they stood. The subsidy gives over $1,000,000 a year. To claim this as an item of interest is pure humbug. The common school fund, placed at $1,449,939, is really a liability to the Dominion.

Speaking of subsidies, Mr. Clarke said he was in favor of doing away with them altogether. The system placed responsibility for expenditure of the subsidy upon those who had no control over it. The province should collect a tax from the people instead. Stop the subsidies and if Quebec chooses to pay $400,000 in settlement of her Jesuits claims, Ontario will not have to bear the greatest part of the burden. The gentlemen opposite pretend to be free traders. They can't have free trade without direct taxation. They would have a splendid chance of educating the people to accept direct taxation by practising it in the province.

The revenue from the Crown Lands Department since 1868 has been $8,287,616. The average cut of timber for the past five years has been 7,000,000 feet. The product of the forest is the greatest asset of the province. When that asset is wasted at the rate of $1,000,000 a year it is time to sound a note of warning. Not many years ago Maine, New Hampshire, New York and Pennsylvania were covered with forests of white pine and now have not a stick left. A similar fate awaits, very soon, Ontario's greatest asset if the Government continues to waste it as it is now doing.

Talking of the receipts from licenses, Mr. Clarke said there was danger of the Government depending too much on the liquor sellers. It would puzzle a Philadelphia lawyer to know whether the liquor traffic supported the Government or the Government the liquor traffic. For his part, he believed the whole revenue from licenses should go to the municipality.

Of the $3,500,000 of receipts Mr. Clarke claimed that only $2,600,000 was legitimate, the remainder being really derived by converting capital into revenue.

The province spent over $3,000,000 a year on education. There was a danger that too much attention was being paid to higher education and not enough to elementary education. The grant to high schools was out of proportion to that to public schools. The grant to high schools amounted to $9 per head of attendance, while that to public schools amounted to only $1 per head of attendance. The system was turning out yearly too great a number of young men educated for a profession.

Mr. Sol. White introduced a bill yesterday, or rather attempted to introduce a bill, with the comprehensive title, "A bill to encourage the breeding and improvement of trotting and pacing horses and for the prevention of fraudulent entries and practices in contests of speed." Mr. Meredith raised a laugh by suggesting that the Attorney-General would second it. Mr. Mowat, however, merely smiled. The speaker hesitated in reading the bill and then it transpired that it was irregular because no notice of it had been given. Mr. White will introduce it again to-day, having given the requisite notice.

Mr. White says the bill is aimed principally at "ringers" in horse races. It prohibits the entry of a horse, colt or filly under an assumed name or pedigree in any contest for a purse or prize that is to be decided by speed. The name shall not be changed after it has once been entered for a contest unless as provided by the rules of the association under which the contest is held. The public performance of a horse in a previous contest shall determine the class to which it belongs. The penalty for offence under the act is a fine of not less than $10 or more than $100 or in default six months' imprisonment.

Mr. Davis presented a petition from the county [illegible] defining the rights and liabilities of persons using bicycles upon public roads and streets.

Mr. G. B. Smith presented a petition from the council of York praying for an amendment to the municipal act, sect. 136, chap. 184, R.S.O. 1887, so as to dispense with the unnecessary labor imposed on municipal clerks of making a complete copy of the list of voters for each polling subdivision. In the majority of municipalities not more than one-half of the qualified voters appear at the polls (in York township not over one-quarter).

FRENCH SUICIDES.

Average 23 a Day—Various Modes of Exit to the Wherefore Whither.

PARIS, March 24.—Some statistics just issued by the French Ministry of Justice reveal the astounding fact that during last year there were no fewer than 8451 cases of suicide in France, being at the rate of about 23 per day. The largest number occurred among persons in easy circumstances, and not among the poor, the former supplying half the total, and the latter between 1200 and 1300. Domestic troubles, physical suffering and insanity seem to have driven most of the people who form the subject of these statistics to put an end to their lives. Unrequited love was the cause in about 300 cases. In regard to the means of self-destruction employed, 3689 hanged themselves, 2343 died by drowning, about 1600 blew out their brains, while 443 had recourse to charcoal. Strange to say, the month of May yields the largest number of suicides. In January there were 604; February, 487; March, 715; April, 889; May, 994; June, 851; July, 835; August, 788; September, 673; October, 608; November, 587; December, 574.

A French Nobleman Shot.

VIENNA, March 24.—The Marquis Lebrun de Semeral, a French nobleman possessing an estate at Bokany, near Szegedin in Hungary, was driving from the railway station to his chateau, with his bailiff, a man named Gabinot, and the wife of the latter, when a volley of shots were fired at the carriage from behind a wall. The Marquis de Semeral was severely wounded in the side and back, and M. Gabinot and his wife also sustained serious injuries. It is believed that motives of private vengeance are at the bottom of this murderous outrage, and the perpetrators are suspected to be hired bravoes.

In Jail for Street Preaching.

LONDON, March 23.—A curious incident in Ireland is the committal to Wexford Jail of two Protestant clergymen, the Rev. Mr. Hallowes and the Rev. Mr. Harrison, on the charge of preaching in the street. This preaching has been obnoxious to the Catholics of Arklow, who constitute nearly all the population and at whom the sermons seemed to be aimed. The police and soldiers have been called on to protect the ministers and riots have occurred. They were summoned for obstructing the road and sentenced to pay a fine of £1, but preferred to go to jail for 14 days instead. They went to prison singing "Hallelujah."

UNCLE WAS "PA."

And He Married Another Woman While His Wife Was Still Living.

WINDSOR, March 24.—Alexander Cooke moved from some western state and settled in Lambton county about 16 months ago. He was accompanied by a family of nine children, whom he represented belonged to his deceased brother. Soon after coming to Canada he married a Miss Brooks, the eldest boy of the imported family witnessing the marriage ceremony. After living together for a year or more Mrs. Cooke discovered something which led her to believe the children, who had all been carefully trained to call Cooke "uncle," were not nephews and nieces but sons and daughters. She asked some of the older children if her suppositions were not correct and was informed they were and that their mother was still living and undivorced. Mrs. Cooke then left her husband and went to Detroit with her brother-in-law, A. E. Jamieson. Cooke skipped back to the United States. The oldest boy who had witnessed the ceremony was arrested as a conspirator, but since his arrest friends of all interested parties have been doing considerable corresponding with the result that all met in Windsor yesterday and settled the affair, Mrs. Cooke the second to receive $400 per annum as long as she remains single.

NEWFOUNDLAND AGAIN.

BRITISH MERCHANTS INTERVIEW THE GOVERNMENT.

The Leader of the Government in the House of Commons Says Arbitration Or War the Only Alternatives For A Settlement of Existing Disputes.

LONDON, March 24.—A deputation of merchants engaged in trade with Newfoundland visited William Henry Smith, the Government leader in the House of Commons, today. Mr. Smith in addressing them repudiated any desire on the part of the Government to coerce the people of Newfoundland. The British Government, he said, was bound by treaties, and when the other party held views so strongly as France did there was no alternative for arbitration but war. If the Newfoundlanders thought the terms of arbitration were injurious to their interests the Government was prepared to hear their views in the matter. But it must be remembered the conditions of the arbitration were imparted to the colony before they were agreed to by the Imperial Government, which, being responsible for the peace of the empire, must be responsible for the conditions under which it endeavored to procure the settlement of an extremely difficult subject. In regard to objections, omissions and admissions of the treaty a basis of arbitration must be agreed upon between the parties. The French contention could not be ignored. We must ascertain whether their view is right or wrong. One gentleman had objected to limitation of the arbitration. He himself desired it should be extended to include all points of difference, but the Government had every hope that as the arbitration proceeded a decision might be arrived at regarding the most important points of difference. When once the rights of the respective parties were ascertained it might be possible to enter into negotiations to settle the difficulties which had [illegible] more than a century. The Government contemplated the probability of arriving at a decision as to other rights which admitted had been painful subjects to Newfoundlanders and had undoubtedly much impeded the developing of the resources of the colony. Referring to the necessity for the modus vivendi in view of the approach of the fishing season he said a most inflammatory document had been circulated on the west coast of Newfoundland and was likely to seriously imperil the peace. This showed the urgency of the case and the danger to which the colony was exposed to by resistance to an arrangement directed solely to securing the interests of Newfoundlanders. It was perfectly true that it re-enacted old powers, but [illegible] ing terrible consequences which would result from a breach thereof. The Imperial Government was compelled, much against its will, to ensure the performance of the treaty obligations by the local legislature. The Government did not desire to interfere in internal economy of the colony, but while the treaty remained unrevised it must be respected by all the Queen's subjects wherever they might be. It had been a source of great sorrow that repeated requests to the Newfoundland Government had failed of their object. Successive governments in England had done their best to mitigate the undeniable grievance harassing all existing conditions in Newfoundland. He could only hope that good counsels would prevail and that the colony would take steps to obviate the necessity of action on the part of the Imperial Government.

Crofters on Lewis Island Take Possession of Their Old Holdings.

EDINBURGH, March 24.—Despatches from Stornoway state that last night a band of 100 crofters of Lewis Island marched from one point of the island to the other, crossing on their march 3 lochs, arriving this morning at Orissay Park Forest, from which they had been evicted in order to make room for a deer preserve. The crofters upon their arrival at the forest entrenched themselves in the ruins which represented their former homes, the buildings having been torn down by the proprietor of the land. They have formed a camp and announce they intend to cultivate the land formerly held by them, and that they are prepared to resist by force any attempt to oust them.

EXECUTED THE GOVERNOR.

Prompt Justice Meted Out to an Inhuman Madagascar Governor.

PARIS, March 24.—Prompt vengeance has fallen upon Ramiasatra, Governor of Beleneua, Madagascar, who recently massacred 278 persons, including men, women and children belonging to the leading families. Despatches just received state that Ramiasatra with his brother, who is supposed to have instigated the massacre, have been executed on the spot where the wholesale killing took place under the Governor's directions.

THIS TIME AT HAMILTON.

Boy, Revolver, Didn't Know 'Twas Loaded, Other Boy Dying.

HAMILTON, March 24.—Henry Burrows, aged 12, who lives with his parents at 103 Robert-street, was shot this evening with a revolver in the hands of a boy companion named Catlin. Young Catlin playfully pointed the loaded revolver at Burrows, when the weapon was discharged and the bullet entered Burrows' neck below the chin. The injured lad was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital and after considerable probing the bullet was extracted. The doctors have but slight hope for the recovery of Burrows.

DESERVES THE ROPE.

A Demented Woman Brutally Outraged by a Clinton Man.

William Dempsey of Clinton was tried and committed to Goderich jail for committing rape on the wife of Sam Barr, a respectable farmer of the 16th con. Goderich township, 1½ miles from Clinton. The woman has been crazy for a number of years, and the indignation there is very strong against the prisoner. Barr, it is said, caught the man in the act, and besides giving him a good thrashing held him at the point of a revolver all night long until he was able to obtain assistance from the neighbors, who at once sent for Constable Whiddon of Clinton and had Dempsey arrested.

Inundated by a Lagoon.

PANAMA, March 24.—The [illegible] America of Guatemala reports that the Coatzaquque lagoon has [illegible] and inundated half the town of [illegible]. Many lives have been lost and much property destroyed or damaged.

King of Medicines

A Cure "Almost Miraculous."

"When I was 14 years of age I had a severe attack of rheumatism, and after I recovered had to go on crutches. A year later, scrofula, in the form of white swellings, appeared on various parts of my body, and for 11 years I was an invalid, being confined to my bed 6 years. In that time ten or eleven sores appeared and broke, causing me great pain and suffering. I feared I never should get well.

"Early in 1886 I went to Chicago to visit a sister, but was confined to my bed most of the time I was there. In July I read a book, 'A Day with a Circus,' in which were statements of cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla. I was so impressed with the success of this medicine that I decided to try it. To my great gratification the sores soon decreased, and I began to feel better and in a short time I was up and out of doors. I continued to take Hood's Sarsaparilla for about a year, when, having used six bottles, I had become so fully released from the disease that I went to work for the Flint & Walling Mfg. Co., and since then on account of sickness. I believe the disease is expelled from my system, I always feel well, am in good spirits and have a good appetite. I am now 27 years of age and can walk as well as any one, except that one limb is a little shorter than the other, owing to the loss of bone, and the sores formerly on my right leg. To my friends my recovery seems almost miraculous, and I think Hood's Sarsaparilla is the king of medicines." WILLIAM A. LEHR, 9 N. Railroad St., Kendallville, Ind.

One Secret of Health and Happiness.

Poets and novelists go into ecstacies over what they romantically call "beautiful spring," and "gentle spring," and while, no doubt, every one is glad to see winter release its icy grasp, "beautiful spring" is, after all, one of the most deadly seasons of the year. Sudden transitions from warmth to extreme cold, with piercing, chilling winds; from dry to sloppy, "muggy" weather, all combine to make the season a most trying one, even to the hardiest constitution, while to those with weak constitutions the season is one of positive danger. Undoubtedly the greatest danger at this season of the year is from cold in the head, which very few escape, and which, if not promptly and thoroughly treated, develops into catarrh, with all its disagreeable and loathsome effects. Catarrh, neglected, almost as certainly develops into consumption, annually destroying thousands of lives. At this trying season no household should be without a bottle of Nasal Balm. In cases of cold in the head it gives almost instant relief and effects a speedy cure, thus preventing the development of catarrh. Where the latter disease has already secured a hold it is equally efficacious, and with persistent use will cure the worst case. From the outset it sweetens the breath, stops the nauseous droppings into the throat and lungs, dispels those dull headaches that afflict the sufferer from catarrh. Nasal Balm is not advertised as a cure-all—it is an honest remedy which never fails to cure cold in the head or catarrh when the directions are faithfully followed, and thousands throughout the country have reason to bless its discovery. Nasal Balm may be had from all dealers or will be sent post-paid on receipt of price (50 cents, small, or $1, large size bottles,) by addressing Fulford & Co. Brockville, Ont.

The Swollen Creek.

During yesterday the water was within bounds but with the cold which came with darkness the water began to rise and soon a little stream had swollen to a torrent and again overflowed its banks. Brock-st. and Murray-st. were flooded from Aylmer to Bethune-st. and the residences in that locality surrounded. Gangs of men were kept hard at work trying to open the ice and keep the stream clear. Towards morning the water began to fall and to-day it is down with the bank of the stream again. Men are still working at the bridges breaking ice.

The Finest in the World.

At A Mercer & Co.'s tailoring and gents' furnishing establishment, corner of George and Hunter-sts, there is on exhibition probably the finest display of neckwear in gent's ties and scarfs that has ever been seen in Peterborough. This firm have received a large consignment of goods direct from Welch, Margetson & Co., London, Eng., who are the most celebrated and best manufacturers of gents furnishings in the world. This is the first season that their goods have been offered in Peterborough and Mercer & Co. is the only firm who have the goods for sale. All the latest styles in scarfs and neckties, in varied colors and goods, are on exhibition in the George-st. window and are worthy of inspection. The introduction of the goods of these celebrated English makers will allow purchasers to have the most stylish and nobbiest thing in neckwear or gent's furnishings made in the world and at a price which is not in advance of other goods. See these goods before buying elsewhere. 1d

"I would not take $100 for my bottle of Nasal Balm if I could not get another," is the verdict of one sufferer who was speedily cured of cold in head. Such strong testimony ought to convince you that it is worth trying.

A NEWSPAPER MAN KILLED.

Ernest Hardenstein Shot in a Quarrel Over the New Orleans Lynching.

VICKSBURG, Miss., March 24.—Ernest Hardenstein, business manager of a weekly publication, was shot this evening and killed by John G. Cashman, editor and proprietor of The Evening Post. The tragedy grew out of the lynching of the Italians in New Orleans. Hardenstein criticized Cashman's editorial treatment of the lynching and Cashman, in a card published this afternoon, denounced Hardenstein's statement as a wilful lie.

The two met in Washington-street this evening and after a brief altercation Hardenstein attacked Cashman with a stick. Cashman drew his revolver and fired two shots in rapid succession, one of them piercing Hardenstein's heart. The other flew wide of the mark and narrowly missed killing George Yoste, who was in the jewelry store nearby.

Hardenstein was 37 years of age and had been employed on nearly all the leading newspapers of the South. He was city editor of The Vicksburg Evening Post up to March 1, when he was obliged to give up the position, as his relations with Cashman were not agreeable. These circumstances added bitterness to the controversy over the lynching.

Cashman is one of the best known newspaper men in the state. He is an ex-Confederate soldier and lost one eye in the seige of Vicksburg. He is under arrest.

SCRATCHED 28 YEARS.

A Scaly, Itching Skin Disease with Endless Suffering Cured by Cuticura Remedies.

If I had known of the CUTICURA REMEDIES twenty-eight years ago, it would have saved me $200.00 and an immense amount of suffering. My disease (psoriasis) commenced on my head in a spot not larger than a cent. It spread rapidly all over my body, and got under my nails. The scales would drop off of me all the time, and my suffering was endless, and without relief. One thousand dollars would not tempt me to have this disease over again. I am a poor man, but feel rich to be relieved of what some of the doctors said was leprosy, some ringworm, psoriasis, etc. I cannot praise the CUTICURA REMEDIES too much. They have made my skin as clear and free from scales as a baby's. All I used of them was $5 worth. If you had been here and said you would have cured me for $200.00, you would have had the money. I looked like the picture (No. 2, page 47) in your book, "How to Cure Skin Diseases," but now I am as clear as any person ever was. Through force of habit I rub my hands over my arms and legs to scratch once in a while, but to no purpose. I am all well. I scratched twenty-eight years, and it got to be a kind of second nature to me. I thank you a thousand times.

DROWNED IN A DRAIN.

BRUCE ROBERTS FALLS INTO A DRAIN AND IS DROWNED.

A Mother Loses Her Only Child—A Sad and Shocking Accident on Aylmer-st.—All Efforts to Resuscitate are Vain.

A shocking drowning accident which robbed a mother of her only child occurred on Aylmer-st. about three o'clock this afternoon, when little Bruce Roberts, the six-year-old son of Mrs. Roberts, who lives on Union-st., slipped into the swollen torrent rushing through the street drain and was drowned.

The recent rains and continued thaw have swollen the streams in all the street culverts to rushing rivers and on Aylmer-st. the wide open drain to-day was a regular torrent rushing at a tremendous speed to the main sewer. Little Bruce Roberts with a couple of companions was playing in the street along the banks of the drain when the little fellow slipped and fell into the rushing stream. Although the water was only about a foot in depth, the current was so swift that the boy could not gain a footing, but was swept along Aylmer-st. from near the corner of London down as far as McDonnel-st. before any person could reach him. His companions saw him fall, and in an instant he was whirled away down the stream. A number of corporation men who were working at the next corner heard the little fellow's comrades' cry and as quickly as possible followed the drowning boy and pulled his body from the stream just as it turned on to McDonnel-st., where the culvert was also open. The boy when rescued was apparently lifeless. He was carried into a house near at hand and Dr. Scott summoned. For over an hour the doctor and several sympathetic neighbors worked hard to resuscitate him, but all in vain, he was dead.

The mother of the lad does not live with her husband and has had a good many trials in this life. She was working in Ashburnham and had left the boy in safety as she thought, and had taken the precaution to warn him not to go near the water. When she was sent for and saw her little son stretched stiff in death her grief was heartrending to witness.

The sympathy of the the community will be with her in her sad affliction.

For the cure of colds, coughs, and all derangements of the respiratory organs, no other medicine is so reliable as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It relieves the asthmatic and consumptive, even in advanced stages of disease, and has saved innumerable lives.

PREPARING FOR SUMMER

WITH SPRING COMES THE ORGANIZATION FOR SPORTS.

Annual Meeting of the P.A.A.A.—The Director's Report—The Lacrosse Men Have an Enthusiastic Meeting and Elect Officers—Baseball.

With the gentle zephyrs of spring comes the awakening among the enthusiasts of outdoor sports and the preparation for the summer's operations on the crease, in the field or on the diamond. Last night saw such an awakening among those interested in local sports, and, with proper support, the coming season promises to be an active and interesting one.

Annual Meeting of the P.A.A.A.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Athletic Association was held last evening in the Olympic Club rooms. There was a very good attendance and before the meeting adjourned a spirit of enthusiasm was infused into the members that promises to make the coming season one of the best in the history of the organization. Formed and kept in existence for the purpose of affording the young men facilities for enjoying healthful and much-needed outside recreation and physical exercise the Association should receive the support of citizens generally. The burden of the active work has usually fallen upon the shoulders of a few, but, while all cannot be active members, those who can afford to do so should support the organization by honorary membership or contribution. An effort is now to be made to increase the Association funds by a concert and this event, which will be made a delightful treat of varied talent, should be patronized by a crowded house. The funds are needed and in the excellent programme an evening of unalloyed pleasure will be given.

Mr. R. B. Rogers the President, was in the chair at the meeting and, after the minutes of last meeting had been disposed of, Mr. W. D. Parker, the Secretary, read the following

ANNUAL REPORT:

In submitting the sixth annual report of the Peterborough Amateur Athletic Association for the season of 1890, the directors feel that in the main it passed satisfactorily in the various branches of sport connected with it.

Cricket quite held its own compared with the records of previous years, showing 10 wins and only 3 defeats. A decidedly encouraging feature in this department of sport is the increasing interest taken in it by the junior element, and the better form shown by them in all round play.

Baseball showed to better advantage in 1890 than probably ever before in the history of the association. The games played were of a pre-eminently pleasant nature and resulted in 9 won and 4 lost. It is also worthy of note that the nines contended against were of superior metal to those of former years.

The bicycle club had an average good season, though the year with them was not a very eventful one. Their fortnightly games were fairly well attended by the public, though we believe it could be improved upon if an increased effort were made to make the games prominent and somewhat more varied programmes offered.

In the departments of football, lawn tennis and snow shoeing there was so little done that no detailed comment is necessary. In each of these different branches of sport there are great opportunities for development if only the members of the Association will use them, and this we sincerely hope will be the case during the coming season.

It was deemed advisable by the Association last year to admit lacrosse to the usual privileges accorded to its different branches of sport and considering the short time that it has been with us there is no reason for complaint at the result. The coming season, it is expected will see a great impetus given to the lacrosse department in membership and other ways, and there is ground for belief that a district, altogether better suited to the needs of Peterborough than that at present in existence will be formed into which our organization can enter. The directors unwillingly call your attention to the low state into which our finances have fallen and the absolute necessity for doing something at once to retrieve them. If every member of the Association resolutely put his shoulder to the wheel in true sportsmanlike manner there is no doubt but that all our present debt will speedily be wiped out and a tremendous stimulus consequently given to the Association.

W. D. PARKER,
Secretary.

The report was adopted.

GENERAL BUSINESS.

After some discussion it was decided to continue the Association on the same basis of organization as last year.

Dr. Halliday was elected Honorary President.

Mr. George A. Schofield was elected as representative of the football club on the directorate, Mr. J. L. Gower the lawn tennis, and Mr. W. D. Parker the snow shoe club.

Messrs. R. B. Rogers, Dr. Burnham, Dr. Brennan, F. R. Bell, W. D. Parker, J. L. Gower, Geo. A. Schofield, C. H. Allison and F. D. Mackay were appointed a committee to make arrangements for a concert to be given in the opera house.

The meeting then adjourned.

At a meeting of the committee after adjournment it was decided to hold the concert about the middle of April, and the best local and foreign talent will be secured for the event.

THE LACROSSE CLUB.

A Rousing Meeting and Officers Elected—Bright Prospects.

Prior to the meeting of the P. A. A. A. a meeting of the lacrosse club was held in the club rooms. There was a large attendance of lacrosse men and a rousing spirit of enthusiasm prevailed. In fact from present prospects our national game will be a leading sport again in Peterborough this year. Several of the old reliables will again be in the field, and some new blood is expected, which will make a strong team. The boys are going in to win this season, and with the material they have success will be theirs. A new district will probably be organized, and good matches with outside teams will make an active season.

The officers elected for this season are as follows:

HON. PRES.—H. LeBrun.
PRES.—W. A. Sanderson.
VICE-PRES.—W. Rudkins.
SEC.-TREAS.—W. Phelan.
CAPTAIN.—Jos. Begley.
COMMITTEE.—J. Daly, J. McCabe, W. E. Lech.
FIELD CAPTAIN.—W. Rudkins.
DIRECTORS.—W. A. Sanderson, W. E. Lech.
DELEGATE TO CANADIAN LACROSSE ASSOCIATION.—J. Phelan.

The Diamond Dusters.

The meeting of the baseball club, which was also to have been held last evening was postponed. The organization meeting will be held shortly, and a good nine it is expected will represent Peterborough this season.

That tired feeling and dull, oppressive headache that so frequently accompany catarrh can be instantly removed by the use of Nasal Balm. Sold by all dealers.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used by millions of mothers for children teething for over fifty years with perfect success. It relieves the little sufferer at once, produces natural, quiet sleep by freeing the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste, soothes the child, softens the gums, allays pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

THE CROWNING SUCCESS.

The Children's Entertainment in Connection with the Charlotte-st. S. S. Anniversary.

Last evening the Charlotte-st. Methodist church was filled with a large audience, the occasion being the children's entertainment in connection with the Sunday school festival. The Superintendent of the school, Mr. O. C. Bowes, presided, and S. J. Shorey, the pastor of the church, occupied a seat on the platform. After the hymn, "Oh Where Are the Reapers," was heartily sung by the children, the Rev. S. J. Shorey offered prayer and the Superintendent addressed a few words to the parents and friends thanking them for their presence and their kind sympathy and encouragement. The Sunday school during the year had been very prosperous, he said, the attendance increasing, until now there was an average attendance of about 275, and steps would have to be taken shortly to provide greater accommodation.

The programme was a very pleasing one, and during its rendition the children maintained the best of order and gave the greatest attention. Those who contributed can feel justly proud of their success, for each acquitted herself or himself with credit. Mr. John Bates, superintendent of the Simcoe-st. Methodist Sunday school in Oshawa, was present, but owing to the length of the programme declined to make an address. Financially the event was a success, $75 being netted for the treasury of the school. The evening was a success and all were pleased.

Masonic.

This evening Rt. Wor. Bro. Wm. Millar, of Omemee, D.D.G.M. of Ontario District No. 12, will pay an official visit to Corinthian Lodge No. 101 A. F. & A. M. Rt. Wor. Bro. Millar's late visit to Peterborough is referred to with pleasure by the members of the craft who were present on that occasion, and no doubt there will be a good turnout of the brethren this evening.

It is not the extremes of heat and cold so much as the sudden changes in temperature that cause certain climates to be unhealthful. When, however, the system is invigorated with Ayer's Sarsaparilla, these changes are rarely attended with injurious results.

Holy Week Services.

There were two services at St. John's yesterday, at 10 a.m. and 8 p.m. respectively. The evening service was on the same lines as that described in our columns yesterday. The prayers, lessons, etc., were taken by Rev. J. C. Davidson, Rev. C. B. Kenrick preaching and presiding at the organ. The subject of the sermon was the last of the beatitudes, "Blessed are they which are persecuted for righteousness sake, for theirs is the Kingdom of Heaven." The text was interpreted with particular reference to the Saviour's sufferings. The Brotherhood choir again led the singing. Miss Davidson sang the first solo in "The Story of the Cross, and Mr. James Browne the second. Both were most devotionally rendered. This evening Rev. Geo. Warren, of Lakefield, will preach, and on Good Friday evening Rev. R. J. Moore, of Toronto, will deliver the sermon. To-morrow morning there will be a celebration of the Holy communion at 7.30, Thursday in Holy week being the day of its institution. The services on Good Friday will be at 10 a.m. and 11 a.m., 3 p.m. and 8 p.m.

The Dangers of Spring.

The political battle is over, but the battle with disease must be constantly and unceasingly waged else the grim reaper will come out victorious, and loved ones will be gathered to their long homes. On all sides may be seen pale and listless girls who should be enjoying the health and glow of rosy youth. Everywhere we are met with women young in years, yet prematurely old, who suffer in silence almost untold agonies, the result of those ailments peculiar to the female system. To all such, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills come as a blessing. They restore wasted vitality, build up the nervous system, enrich the blood, and transform pale and sallow complexions into glowing, rosy cheeks that alone follow perfect health. In a word they are a certain cure for all those distressing complaints to which women) and girls are peculiarly liable. A trial of these pills will convince the most sceptical of their wonderful merit.. For suffering men Dr William's Pink Pills are equally efficacious. For overwork, mental strain, loss of sleep, nervous debility, and all those diseases that lead to broken-down manhood, they are a certain specific, stimulating the brain, reinforcing the exhausted system and restoring shattered vitality. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are nature's restorative and should be used by every weak and debilitated person. FARMERS IN COUNCIL.

AN INSTITUTE MEETING HELD AT LAKEFIELD.

The Beet Sugar Industry—The Production of Milk—The Raising of Small Fruits—Ranching in North Peterborough—Plant Food and Fertilizers.

A meeting of the West Riding Farmers' Institute was held in Lakefield yesterday. There was a small attendance at the morning session.

BEET ROOT SUGAR.

The PRESIDENT, Mr. Dawson Kennedy, occupied the chair. In opening the meeting he referred to the beet root sugar industry and the projected factory. Seed had been sent out from the Agricultural College and the roots had been tested, and the result showed that the beets grown here were better than grown in France, Germany, Belgium or any other country except Alberta in the Northwest. He pointed out the great increase in the consumption of sugar, and referred to the benefit to the soil in raising these beets. Their value was double the value of other root crops. The United States, he said, had passed an act to give a bounty of $2 per 100 lbs. for all beet root sugar manufactured in the country. In addition to this, the State of Nebraska had given a bounty of $1 per 100 lbs. and several counties had pledged themselves to aid in building factories. The price proposed for beets was $4.25 per ton. It used to take 13 lbs of beets to make a pound of granulated sugar, but under the improved methods it only took 8½ lbs. of beets.

A committee was appointed to consider the question of asking the Governments to aid in the establishment of a beet root sugar factory, the committee consisting of Messrs. H. C. Garbutt, G. W. Mann, Jos Trennum and the representatives of the Examiner and REVIEW.

ADVANTAGES OF MEMBERSHIP.

The PRESIDENT called attention to the fact that all members of the Institute would receive the bulletins issued from the Agricultural College and from the Experimental Farm.

MILK PRODUCTION.

Mr. G. W. MANN, Smith, said that in producing milk the first requisite was education and then preparation. He had been in the cheese business from his youth. The first factory in this section was established in 1866 by Mr. John Walton. His (Mr. Mann's) father went into the business in 1868. In the first year the output was $700 and in the second years $1,200, all from his own cows. He preferred to have a few calves about April 1st to raise, and the balance in time to have the milk ready when the factory opened. A cow that came in in July or August, and gave a good flow of milk at the time when the price of cheese was highest, would pay as well as having the cows come in very early. They still stuck to the old way of feeding, roots, chop, and hay. Cows should have every care when they come in. If they were shut in, they should be partially watered before being let out. They milked on to the new year and kept the butter until the market was right. They had been very successful in producing milk. The cows should be kept in good flesh all the time, and to let cattle run down now would injure the production of milk.

Mr. J. I. HOBSON said that some who studied dairying advocated milking during the whole year. They said that there was a natural second flow of milk, but his experience did not bear that out. He agreed with Mr. Mann that eight months was about long enough to milk.

Mr. JOS. TRENNUM said that the last two years they had milked their cows as long as the milk was good, some of them very near the twelve months. They fed liberally, four or even more times a day. They used to feed cut straw and chaff and shorts. They had a silo now, and fed corn and a little bran and pea chop mixed—about a gallon a day—and hay. They had come to the conclusion that it was better not to raise calves. With the milk that a calf would require they could raise two pigs, which would be worth more than the calf. Of course, they would not have a good time if they milked all the year round. Last year they put 125 tons of corn in the silo. Including rent for the ground, the cost of the silo and all expenditure, it cost them 75 cents a ton. It would be well to feed clover with the ensilage. Straw and ensilage did very well for fodder. They must feed something with the corn or ensilage.

The Institute then adjourned for dinner.

Afternoon Session.

The meeting was resumed at two o'clock, Mr. Kennedy presiding.

ONTARIO ASKED FOR AID.

Mr. JOS. TRENNUM moved, seconded by Mr. G. W. MANN—Whereas the growth of the sugar beet would be to advantage to agriculture in Ontario, and as a beet root sugar factory would provide a market for the beets, besides being a benefit in other ways, this Farmers Institute of West Peterborough asks the Government of Ontario to encourage and aid the establishment of such an industry.

The resolution was carried

THE DOMINION ALSO.

Mr. H. C GARBUTT moved, seconded by Mr. JOS. TRENNUM—That, as the establishment of beet root sugar factories would be of great benefit to those engaged in agriculture, and be an important addition to the industries of the country, this West Peterborough Farmers' Institute asks the Dominion Government to assist the promoters in establishing such an industry.

In moving this resolution, Mr. GARBUTT said that the promoters of the factory were prepared to furnish the seed.

The PRESIDENT said that the promoters would furnish twenty-pound packages at 15 cents a pound, and it would then be distributed to those who wished it. Mr. Carlow, of Percy, sowed four pounds to the acre, and he found the beets were excellent for feeding cattle. There would be instructions with the seed.

This resolution was also adopted.

SEED ORDERED.

Mr. JOHN STOTHART moved, seconded by Mr. H. C. GARBUTT—That this Institute send for two packages, of twenty pounds each, of sugar beet seed.—Carried.

SMALL FRUITS.

Mr. JOHN CRAIG, of the Ottawa Experimental Farm, took up the subject of "Small Fruits." The term was applied to the shrub and not to the fruit itself. It included the berries and grapes. There were no class of fruits which had such a diversified adaptability and that would give such satisfactory returns. They should not be planted in too small a space The soil should be warm, deep, well-drained and well manured. Spring was the best time for planting, and the rows should be three and a half feet apart and fifteen inches apart in the row. One of the principal points was to get the right varieties along side of each other for fertilizing purposes. They should be cultivated carefully. In the first year the runners should be cut off until August, and after that trained along the line of the row. In the fall straw should be placed between the rows and drawn over the row, and in the spring the straw should be left between the rows as a mulch. Probably the best four varieties were the Crescent, the Capt. Jack, the Bubach and Wilson. They should plant two rows of unisexual plants and one of bisexual. With raspberries, they should be four feet apart in the row and the rows six feet apart. The canes should be cut out each year. Good varieties of red were Hansel for early, Malborough, medium, and Cuthbert, late; and of black-caps, Hilburn and Gregg. Strawberries and raspberries were the most profitable small fruit. Blackberries required a deep, rich and rather damp soil and heavy mulching. Good varieties were the Snider, Agarwam and Stone's Hardy. An important point with currants was the pruning of the three-year-old wood. It was easily propagated by taking off a slip and planting it. Red and White Dutch was a good variety. Good varieties of gooseberries were Downing, Howden and Smith's Improved. This should be a favorable locality for grapes. It wanted a peculiarly warm situation and well drained soil. It should be planted deep and manured liberally after bearing, and unleached ashes was a good manure. Train to give vines heat and light, and the fan system was the best for training. In the fall, the vines must be laid down and covered after being pruned. Good varieties of black grapes were Moore's Early, Warden and cottage; of white, The Lady; and of the red, the Lindley and Delaware. Average yields of small fruit were, 4,000 quarts of strawberries to the acre, 5,000 of blackberries, 3 000 raspberries, and 1,500 and 2,000 currants. He strongly advised the fruit-growers to organize for mutual benefit.

RANCHING IN THIS COUNTY.

Mr. GEO. HILLIARD spoke on "Ranching in this County." He said that he had observed the effects of the beef, pork and grain of the western States upon agriculture in the eastern States, and he had come to the conclusion that here the farmer should depend less on grain and more on stock raising and dairying. In the northern part of this county there was much land that could be obtained cheaply and that would be excellent grazing land. There was land in Harvey that was admirably adapted for that purpose, and in Cavendish also. Several farmers in this section had secured land in the north for cattle. The silo was now an established success, and with the advantages they possessed they were in a position to compete in dairy products, especially cheese and butter. He suggested that a good plan would be for five or six to combine in obtaining grazing land in the north and clearing it together and keeping their cattle on it in the summer.

The PRESIDENT said that while the Dominion had much to be proud of in its export trade, in the export of butter they should be ashamed, the quantity was so small. The farmers should give a vote of thanks for the dairy schools which Prof. Robertson was establishing under the Dominion Government.

Mr. HILLIARD said that one advantage of these northern lands for summer grazing, was that they were within one day's drive of them from any part of the county.

SOILS AND PLANT FOOD.

Mr. F. J. SHUTT, chemist of the Ottawa Experimental Farm, Ottawa, was the next speaker. He was pleased to hear the resolutions passed regarding the sugar beet, as they had taken a deep interest in this matter at Ottawa. They had sent out seed to all parts of Ontario and the results were very satisfactory. It was a very important matter to get the best seed. The methods of cultivation were important. They should be grown close together and underground, so that there would be no green part at the top. He emphasized the necessity of mixed farming, so as not to exhaust the soil, and also the need of having pure water for stock. Care should be taken to locate wells away from the barnyard or any source of pollution. The principle of ensilage in a nutshell was to have the silo air tight, and the corn should be allowed to come pretty well on to maturity. He then took up the subject of plant food. Plants took their food from two places, the soil and the air, carbonic acid gas, with which they had nothing to do, as they could not effect it. In addition to this plants were made up of certain mineral constituents and water. The mineral matter came from the soil and was fed through the roots and must be soluble for their use. He explained the origin and composition of soil and took up the subject of manures. By taking the plants away they exhausted the plant food, and manure was anything that would supply the loss of plant food, potash, phosphoric acid and nitrogen. A manure that contained all three were complete fertilizers and those that contained only one of them were special fertilizers. Fertilizers might be divided in two classes, natural and artificial. Natural fertilizers were those that occurred in nature, such as peat and swamp muck, which were rich in nitrogen. Marl was valuable because it supplied lime. There were soils that contained sufficient lime, but there were a great many that marl would benefit. Barnyard manure was a natural fertilizer and the one generally used. It was a complete fertilizer and contained the plant foods in an available state. If the liquid manure was washed out they had material of little value left. It was a good thing to use plenty of straw for bedding, and a good absorbent to use in the stable was gypsum, to retain the nitrogen. While the manure should not be leached out, it should not become too dry. For clay soils the manure might be drawn out in the winter, but on sandy soil it should be placed out in the spring. He dealt also briefly with several artificial fertilizers.

POINTS ON FERTILIZERS.

Mr. J. I. HOBSON, Chairman of the Ontario Agricultural College Board, was then called on. He said that to make manure the barnyard should not be too large. On his own farm he had a manure shed 60 by 30 feet, but he had come to the conclusion that it was better to keep it outside, because under cover he could not keep the manure with the requisite moisture. When made outside, the heaps should be of such a shape that the rain would not wash through. A good way to save the liquid manure to absorb it in dry muck. Some absorbent should be used, and cut straw was a very good material for that. As to the application of manure, they had to be guided largely by local conditions. His practice was to draw manure in the winter on those level places that were suitable for such a plan. About half the manure he drew out after harvest and ploughed it in about two inches deep, and he had the manure ready for the roots. His experience with artificial fertilizers had not been satisfactory, and for the present at any rate he thought they should depend on the barnyard manure. He used salt on root crops—he thought mangolds should not be grown without it—and on wheat and barley, and he had been paid for all he had used.

Mr. C. QUINN said that he had seen much benefit from using ashes and land plaster.

After further discussion the Institute adjourned until evening.

Constipation,

If not remedied in season, is liable to become habitual and chronic. Drastic purgatives, by weakening the bowels, confirm, rather than cure, the evil. Ayer's Pills, being mild, effective, and strengthening in their action, are generally recommended by the faculty as the best of aperients.

"Having been subject, for years, to constipation, without being able to find much relief, I at last tried Ayer's Pills. I deem it both a duty and a pleasure to testify that I have derived great benefit from their use. For over two years past I have taken one of these pills every night before retiring. I would not willingly be without them."—G. W. Bowman, 26 East Main st., Carlisle, Pa.

"I have been taking Ayer's Pills and using them in my family since 1857, and cheerfully recommend them to all in need of a safe but effectual cathartic."—John M. Boggs, Louisville, Ky.

"For eight years I was afflicted with constipation, which at last became so bad that the doctors could do no more for me. Then I began to take Ayer's Pills, and soon the bowels recovered their natural and regular action, so that now I am in excellent health."—S. L. Loughbridge, Bryan, Texas.

"Having used Ayer's Pills, with good results, I fully indorse them for the purposes for which they are recommended."—T. Conners, M. D., Centre Bridge, Pa.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 25, 1891.

BEATRIX RANDOLPH.

BY JULIAN HAWTHORNE.

"Say, Witman," said one of the young gentlemen above mentioned to another, "did you notice the locket?"

"Haven't been able to get up to her yet, confound it! Does she speak English?"

"Pretty well, I believe; I spoke French with her. Full of the devil!"

"What about the locket?"

"Given to her by the czar of Russia, before he came into the business."

"By Jove! Say, does a fellow have to be introduced, or can you go right up and talk to her?"

"Oh, sail in! She won't mind. These women always like to be taken by storm!" So Mr. Witman struggled forward to try his luck as a stormer.

Bellingham, after wandering about restlessly in the crowd trying to keep his back turned toward the diva, and finding himself, nevertheless, constantly brought up within a few feet of her, at length made up his mind to go home. But just as he was on the point of bidding adieu to Mrs. Cadwalader some one struck a chord on the piano, a hush fell upon the assembly, and it became evident that the Marana was going to sing. And there she stood at the piano, the pure loveliness of her countenance looking across the crowd, and looking at him. He folded his arms and stood still, and no one but he knew that she sang to him.

When the song was over there was a great stir of admiration and surprise and comment; for though everybody had expected something very good, nobody seemed to have anticipated that it would be good precisely in the way it was; and they all tried to express what they thought in suitable language, with indifferent results. It takes the world some time to formulate its opinion accurately about a new thing. As for Bellingham, whatever he may have thought, he expressed nothing. He simply pushed his way through the throng that surrounded the singer, took her hand, looked in her eyes and said, "Good night!" Strange to say this unceremonious behavior seemed to satisfy her; a glow of pleasure mounted to her face, and thereafter she appeared light hearted and content. Bellingham went away immediately afterward, and without saying good night to any one else.

At the end of the evening Jocelyn sauntered up to Wallie, and putting both hands on his host's shoulders said, "Well, old man, what do you think of her?"

"I think a great deal," Wallie replied. "You saw her abroad, didn't you?"

"No, the general did. Why?"

"Nothing," said Wallie, quietly fixing his gray eyes upon the other's dismayed visage, "except that I saw Mlle. Marana last year in Vienna, and I think her greatly improved."

CHAPTER VII.

HER FRIENDS, HER ENEMIES, AND HER LOVERS.

Within the next few days everybody in New York could quote a more or less authoritative opinion as to the merits of Mlle Marana; for the guests at the Dinsmores' dinner and reception had been so selected that their various reports could reach all sections of polite society. The verdict on the part of both sexes was almost universally favorable, and every one consequently made preparations to extend further invitations to her. The only noteworthy dissentient voice was that of Mrs. Bright, who affirmed that the great prima donna was underbred and presuming. Even this critic, however, admitted that she had redeeming traits.

"In her proper place she is very well. She is a professional singer; and, though she is very professional she is really a very good singer, too."

Mr. Barclyffe, the amateur composer, contributed an able article to a leading journal, in which he attempted to assign Mlle. Marana her place among the great singers of the last forty years.

"To the culture, the vivacity, and the subtlety of the present," he wrote, "our Russian guest unites the training, the knowledge, and the solidity of the past. Rooted in the soil of the best traditions of her predecessors, the flower of her genius blossoms in the new sunshine of today. The grandeur and dignity of her method are vivified and sweetened by rare personal charms of manner, and by that seeming artlessness of execution which is the finest triumph of art. Her appearance among us is another proof, not only of the reputation which we of the western world have attained of being the final tribunal in matters of musical taste and judgment, but of the great fact that real genius is always unique.

"Mlle. Marana recalls no other singer; she is herself! and to say this is (as those who have heard her will testify) to pay her the highest compliment. She does not accentuate an epoch—she makes one. Of her dramatic capacities we have yet to judge, but simple and unassuming as is her bearing in private society it is easy for the initiated to discern in the grace, effectiveness and precision of her gestures and carriage the results of that long training upon the stage and command of its resources which alone can make the poetry of movement a second nature. Our only misgiving is," added the writer, "that the ordinary repertoire of operas may fail to afford Mlle. Marana an adequate opportunity for the manifestation of her powers. While yielding to none in our reverence and admiration for the operatic production of the great composers, from Mozart to Wagner we may be permitted to wish that some new work might be forthcoming, essentially modern in its scope and quality, and thereby answering more completely to the requirements of modern culture. It would indeed be a matter of congratulation were such a work to claim an American origin!"

Those who know the authorship of this article made merry over the peroration, and inquired archly whether Barclyffe had at last found somebody capable of appreciating his musical accomplishments. But by the majority it was accepted with becoming docility; and the impresario, it is needless to say, was enchanted with it. The allusions to the Marana's familiarity with the stage were especially grateful to him.

"I'll just tell you how it is," he said to Jocelyn; "you play off a little game on the public; and you feel nervous because there's one or two weak points in it Well, sir, Jupiter! those weak points are just the very ones the public swallows the quickest. Now, here's this girl—she can sing; we all know that; but she's a born American, and she's never been on the stage. Well, sir, there was old Lucretia March at the dinner, who said she could hardly understand her on account of her Russian accent; and now Barclyffe comes out and swears she must have been born behind the footlights! The next thing'll be we shall have some woman turning up and vowing the Marana has run off with her husband and a hundred thousand dollars!"

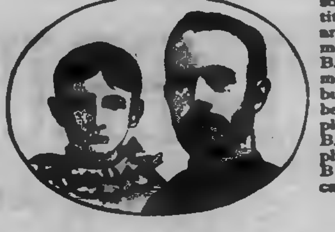
Facts are Stubborn Things

So is Bad Blood. The difference between them is that a fact is here to stay. Bad Blood can only stay until Burdock Blood Bitters is used, then it must go. It takes facts to prove this to your satisfaction, and we give them to you every time we catch your eye. Here is one of them. Don't throw the paper down, but read this letter from Mr. Fred. Taylor, a detective of Winnipeg. We present his portrait, together with that of his little daughter, mentioned in his letter.

FATHER AND DAUGHTER.



ONE OF THE GALLANT 90TH BATT.

DEAR SIRS,—Having felt out of order, for some time, and having no energy or appetite, blotches on legs, tumor on neck—arising from impure blood, doctors doing me no good, I was induced to buy some B.B.B. I was very much against patent medicines at the time, having tried so many, but after using two bottles I began to get better, and at the fourth bottle was completely well and around again. I believe in B. B. B. now, I tell you. I send you a photo of myself and little daughter, Lilly. B. B. B. cured her of nasty blisters which came out on her lips. Yours thankfully,

F. TAYLOR,

9 St. Stephen St., Winnipeg, Man.

AN OCEAN TRAGEDY.

A VESSEL'S CREW ADRIFT IN A FLOATING COFFIN.

For Three Months the Crew of the Bark Humboldt of California Down With Scurvy Were Adrift at Sea—Several of the Sailors Dead, Others Dying.

LONDON, March 25.—The steamer Don has landed at Plymouth the crew of the German bark Humboldt, who when rescued had suffered terrible hardships and were in a dying condition. The Humboldt sailed from Altata, Mexico, on the Gulf of California, in September last, bound for Falmouth. On the voyage the crew were stricken with scurvy and became so weak they were almost helpless. Their teeth loosened and their skins became swollen and livid. When spoken by the Don the Humboldt was disabled and sinking and all her boats had been smashed. Two of her crew were already dead. The survivors were so exhausted that they had to be hoisted aboard the Don. They had been ill for three months.

A SHOCKING AFFAIR.

A Man Dies From Shock on Seeing His Companion Torn to Pieces.

NEW WESTMINSTER, March 23.—A shocking story has reached New Westminster from Popum. An Indian named Pierre, employed as sawyer at Knight Bros.' mill, while working at his post fell against the circular saw. In an instant he was cut up in a horrible manner; one leg was severed close to the trunk; the intestines were torn out, and the body was otherwise terribly mutilated. Death was instantaneous. Another Indian, named Jim, a strong, healthy fellow, saw the accident and its results, and fell down deathly sick at the sight, and remained almost unconscious until early the next morning, when he died.

Air Swelled His Body Like a Balloon.

NEW YORK, March 25.—There is a queer medical case at Gouverneur Hospital. It is that of a man who at noon yesterday weighed about 120 pounds and for a person of his size was much emaciated. At 4 o'clock last night he was so puffed up that he looked as if he weighed twice as much. It took the hospital surgeons over an hour to convince his daughters that the man was really their father. Air is the cause of this transformation. The victim of this inflation in size is Paul Shonebein, a German laborer. While at work yesterday on a pile of timber some of the boards fell upon him, breaking his ribs. One of the broken ribs penetrated his lungs letting the air out and into the tissues under the skin. This caused a general puffing out of the skin all over his body from head to heels, until he was totally unrecognizable.

As to Shonebein's chances for recovery, the doctors say if he does not have congestion of the lungs he will recover and gradually grow smaller until he gets down to his natural size. They consider the case a most interesting one.

United After 11 Years.

LETHBRIDGE, March 25.—A very affecting scene took place in the Lethbridge House last Tuesday morning. The wife of one of our miners, an Italian named Rossetti, arrived from the south on Monday night's train, having come direct from Italy. While taking breakfast next morning her husband came to the hotel, and on making enquiries of the manager found to his extreme delight that the lady in question was his wife. Mr. Rooke informed the lady that her husband was in the office, when she instantly left the dining-room, rushed out into the office and swooned away in her husband's arms. The happy pair, reunited after an 11 years' separation, then repaired together to the dining-room for breakfast, where they presented a sight described as the acme of happiness.

NEWS OF THE OLD WORLD

THE CROFTERS ON LEWIS ISLAND PROMISE TROUBLE.

Sensational Reports Concerning the Renewal of the Dynamite Warfare in London—Labor Troubles Feared in Spain—The Queen's Arrival at Grasse.

EDINBURGH, March 25.—The 100 rebellious Lewis Island crofters who have entrenched themselves in the Orinsay Park Forest, from which they were evicted by the owner of the land in order to enable him to convert the forest into a hunting reserve, were to-day engaged in rebuilding their demolished homes and strengthening their entrenchments. Several of the party have been out hunting, and the crofters are feasting upon an abundance of game, fat deer forming the principal part of the bill of fare. Orinsay Park Forest is a fine, densely-wooded tract covering about 26 square miles. Previous to the eviction of the crofters the land was covered with numerous well-cultivated farms. A large force of police is already en route to the forest with instructions to drive the crofters out of their entrenched camp at any and all costs. If the crofters resist, as they have announced they will, there is a possibility of bloody work within a day or so. The sympathy of the people in general is with the crofters.

The Utopia Commander Censured.

GIBRALTAR, March 25.—A diver reports that the damage to the Utopia is slighter than was at first supposed. The Anson's ram ripped the steamer's plates from amidships aft for about 20 feet. The Utopia lies on the Anson's anchor. Twenty-five more bodies were recovered to-day and were buried at sea. The diver says he believes there are still many bodies in the wreck. The Marine Court, which enquired into the Utopia disaster, decided to-day that Captain McKeague, commander of the Utopia, was guilty of grave errors of judgment.

In the Police Court later in the day Capt. McKeague was discharged from custody, the magistrate deciding that the charges of "wrongful acts, improper conduct, negligence and mismanagement could not be pressed in view of the verdict of the coroner's jury and the finding of the Marine Court.

The Queen at Grasse.

GRASSE, March 25.—Queen Victoria has arrived here. She was met at the depot by the mayor and prefect, who presented her with a basket of flowers. The town was decorated with flags. The band of the 112th Regiment played the British National Anthem. The tracks along the route to the hotel were crowded with people, who saluted the Queen enthusiastically. The royal visitor appeared to be in excellent health. She repeatedly bowed her acknowledgments to the people.

Clan-Na-Gael Agents in London.

LONDON, March 25.—There has recently been considerable activity among the Irish secret societies in consequence of the split in the ranks of the Nationalists. The matter has been engaging the serious attention of the Government, as it is known American agents of the Clan-Na-Gael and other American Fenians are at present in London. A close watch is being kept at all ports and it is possible that the near future may develop sensational plots akin to those of the dynamite period.

The Franco-Russian Alliance.

PARIS, March 25.—The Russian Ambassador will to-morrow formally present President Carnot with the grand cordon of the order of St. Andrew, Russian decorations which the Czar, by a recently signed decree, conferred upon the President of the French Republic. This ceremony, according to impressions prevailing in Berlin, is supposed to point to the actual conclusion of a treaty of alliance between France and Russia.

Replying to a question on the subject in the House of Commons yesterday Mr. William Henry Smith, First Lord of the Treasury, said that he was unable to state definitely what would be the personnel of the labor commission owing to delays in receiving replies from the gentlemen nominated to sit on the commission. Nor was he able to state in detail the subjects that would be referred to the commission for investigation.

The Niagara Falls Suicide.

NIAGARA FALLS, March 25.—The man who committed suicide on March 17 by leaping over the falls from Prospect Point is now known to be John L. Halik of Chicago, who left that city on his way to Bohemia, where he was to take charge of his father's estate. He was a brother of St. J. Halik, clerk of the police court of the second district of Chicago. His identity has been established by a letter to his brother, containing a money order for £125 and checks for his baggage. His despondency is thought to have been the result of parting from friends in Chicago for a long journey. The body has not been recovered.

He had taken a sheet from the bed and tore it into strips. He then mounted upon a stool and fastened one end of a strap to the top of the door and [illegible]

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

A Dull Day in the House—A Number of Deputations Heard.

TORONTO, March 25.—Yesterday was a dull day in the Ontario Legislature.

Mr. Sol. White moved for copies of all orders in council with reference to the withdrawal from sale of mining lands since Jan. 1, 1890, and of all returns or recommendations upon which such orders in council were passed. Also, a statement in detail showing the persons by whom applications for grants of mining lands have been made since the first of January, 1889, with the lots or tracts in respect of which such applications were made, and the disposal made of such application. Also, a list of every lot or tract of mining land which has been sold or disposed of since the first day of January, 1889, with the names of the person or persons to whom, and the prices at which the same were disposed of, and of the amounts, if any, remaining unpaid on account of such purchases, with the names of the persons by whom the same are owing. In doing so Mr. White pointed out that, though Michigan and Ontario were similarly situated as regards minerals, the yield of the state was twelve times greater than that of the province. There must be some reason for this stagnation in Ontario and it should be remedied. The report suggests that the Government should aid in the construction of a railway to Whitefish Lake, where there are very rich deposits of ore. He was amused to read in the report a dissertation by one of the commissioners (Mr. Charlton) upon trade relations with the United States, which was more fitted to the Dominion House.

Mr. Hardy said the order in council withdrawing the land from sale could be brought down, but a statement containing all the applications since January, 1889, would be a very serious matter and would involve bringing down hundreds and perhaps thousands of names of applicants all over the country. In many cases there were perhaps dozens of applicants for the same tract. It would be useless to bring down such a mass of information unless some explicit reason was assigned. The request would occupy men for some time with the books, but the books could not be spared because they were in daily use. He therefore suggested that the motion should stand, and in the meantime Mr. White could make it more specific. The suggestion was accepted.

Mr. Wood (Hastings) rose to move his resolution respecting the payment of officials by fees, but at the request of the Government let it stand until next Wednesday, when the discussion will take place.

Mr. Waters occupied the House for some time with his bills to amend the Municipal Act, both of which were read a second time and referred to the Municipal Committee. The first bill abolishes statute labor and fixes a sum not exceeding $1 a day in commutation. The second bill reduces the qualification for voting in townships, towns and villages to $100 and in cities to $200. It also prohibits the diversion of money levied for a sinking fund, to paying the current expenditure and provides for an infringement of the law that those who voted for such diversion shall be personally liable and be disqualified from holding any municipal office for 5 years.

Notices of Motions.

Mr. Stratton, bill to amend the Public Parks Act. [illegible]

Mr. Meek, bill to amend the Municipal Act, (also) enquiry, Is it the intention of the Government to take steps for the purpose of extending the benefits of the Torrens system of land transfer to other counties of O[redacted] terms as the system was [redacted] the city of Toronto and county of York?

Mr. Tooley, resolution, that in the opinion of this House it is advisable and would be in the interest of the province, that supplies that may be required for the public institutions of the province should be supplied by public competition in lieu of the course at present carried out.

Mr. Ross brought in a bill respecting colleges in affiliation with Toronto University. It extends until 1896 the power of Victoria University to confer degrees because Victoria's new building in Toronto is not yet ready. It also provides that the senate and regents of Victoria may meet outside of Cobourg.

A deputation consisting of Messrs. J. Sharp, M.L.A., A. P. Cockburn, Gravenhurst; D. F. Burk, Burk's Falls, and 20 others waited upon the Government yesterday to ask a bonus of $10,000 to build a tramway from Burk's Falls station on the G.T.R. to the head of navigation on the Magnetawan River, a distance of about one mile.

A deputation representing the municipality of Shuniah will appear before the Private Bills Committee to-day in support of the bill to ratify tax sales of land. They contend that titles to property obtained by sales for taxes are so easily upset upon technical points that purchasers are kept in uncertainty for years, and that as a consequence desirable improvements are held back. Shuniah adjoins Port Arthur and is rich in minerals. Considerable tracts of land are held by residents of other parts of the province for speculative purposes, but in some cases they refuse to pay the taxes and when the land is sold for default it practically has to lie unimproved for years pending the title being made good by the usual statutory limitation. By this time the purchaser often becomes disgusted and the land goes through a second condemnation for taxes. The law as it is they contend, enables mere mineral land speculators to refuse to pay their taxes for three years, then if it is sold and any discovery should make the property of value they can resort to informalities such as "insufficient advertising," "improper notice of sale" and the like for a verdict of the courts upsetting the title. The municipality therefore asks the Legislature to pass an act ratifying tax titles at the end of a certain specified period after the sale. The bill in question places one year after the sale as the limit in which proceedings can be taken to upset a tax title. After that date a tax title would hold. What the advocates of the bill desire is to have titles quieted and made good in the shortest possible way, after the manner of Mr. Crooks' bill of some years ago, one of the most useful pieces of legislation since Confederation.

It contains valuable articles on the best methods of tree-growing and actual results obtained by three of the most experienced tree planters in Ontario; extracts from Dr. Mayr's report to the German Government on the condition of the North American forests, translated especially for this report; complete statistics gathered from New York and Michigan States and Ontario concerning the effects obtained from windbreak protection; instructive correspondence from all parts of Ontario respecting the forestry experience of different settlers; articles contributed by Professor Fernow, Washington, on Forestry, and by Dr. Bryce, Toronto, on Forests in Relation to National Health.

Died of a Rare Disease.

PHILADELPHIA, March 25.—Mary Smith of No. 1836 Columbia-avenue died at the Pennsylvania Hospital of a rare disease known to specialists as anthrax. She was a wool sorter in a factory and a bad taint from the wool passed into her system from a small sore on one of her arms.

THE TIPPERARY TRIALS.

JOHN MORLEY TESTIFIES TO POLICE BRUTALITY.

He Says He Saw Policemen Unmercifully Club Two of the Prisoners Without Any Justification—Secretary Balfour on the Condition of Ireland.

CORK, March 24.—In this city to-day was begun the trial of Michael O'Brien, Dalton and other persons charged with having engaged in rioting on the occasion of the trial at Tipperary of William O'Brien, John Dillon and others on the charge of conspiracy, and for which offence the two gentlemen named were convicted and are now serving their sentences. Besides the charge of rioting the accused are charged with having assaulted Colonel Cadell, who commanded the police at Tipperary during the trial. It is believed that the transfer yesterday from Galway Jail of Messrs. O'Brien and Dillon is connected with this case, as both will be called on to give evidence, the rioting having occurred previous to their departure from Ireland during the course of the conspiracy trials.

John Morley, who was present at the time of the trouble, has been summoned to testify.

In presenting the case for the Crown Mr. Carson argued that the riot was a preconceived one and that it was political in its nature. He also asserted that Mr. Morley was present on the occasion for party purposes.

To-day at the trial here of Michael O'Brien, Dalton and others, charged with riotous conduct and assault at the time of the trial at Tipperary of William O'Brien and John Dillon, John Morley deposed that the police upon the day of the alleged riot, without justification, charged upon and batoned the people. Mr. Morley said he saw the police strike Messrs. Harrison and Keating several murderous blows.

Mr. Morley declared there was no violence to provoke the police and that judging from the English standard the crowd was harmless.

Decline of the Boycott—Flogging for Mutilation of Cattle.

LONDON, March 25.—Chief Secretary Balfour was interviewed to-day relative to the situation in Ireland. He said that the past few months had witnessed a marked improvement in the cessation of boycotting and most other forms of outrage, and that the Government was perfectly willing to have its record compared with that of the Gladstonian administration. The county of Kerry, for instance, had been one of the centres of outrage. In 1887 there had been 228 persons boycotted in Kerry, but only five cases of the kind had been known to the police this year. Murder and murderous assaults were also less frequent. Unfortunately certain crimes more difficult to detect and of a very dastardly character, such as the malicious burning and mutilation of animals, were still frequent, but vigorous efforts were being made to bring the perpetrators to justice. Lord Chief Justice O'Brien had suggested the penalty of flogging for such crimes, but the Chief Secretary was not prepared to say whether he would indorse such a suggestion.

Mr. Balfour spoke approvingly of the efficiency shown by the Irish Constabulary in preventing the two factions of the Irish party from doing each other serious violence, and added that the police would continue to do their full duty without respect of persons or partisan feeling.

EMIGRATION SEASON OPENED.

A Large Body of Well-to-Do Farmers to Leave England.

LONDON, March 24.—The Allan liner Parisian, which sails from Liverpool on Thursday, opens the emigration season. The Parisian carries the finest body of emigrants for Alberta, Assiniboia and Manitoba that ever left this country, including well-to-do farmers from the best agricultural districts of England and Scotland. The general emigration prospects for the season, however, are not very bright. Experts say that Canada is feeling, and will for some time feel, the effects of her recent laxity in promoting immigration, due to the agitation of the laboring classes in Canada. The reports of the British tenant farmers' delegates who visited Canada last year are being widely circulated, and are directing much attention to Canada's wonderful resources. Unfortunately this interest comes too late to greatly affect this season's emigration.

The British treasury is expected to accede to the proposal of the Commons Colonization Committee, that £150,000 sterling be loaned to the Province of British Columbia at a low rate of interest for the settlement of 1250 Scotch crofters in the San Juan district on Vancouver Island.

Interim Grants Will Not Be Voted.

WINNIPEG, March 25.—Several amendments were offered in concurrence yesterday in the Legislature, but were defeated by a vote of 11 to 21. One of the amendments was to the effect that the proportion of school grant be paid the Catholic schools pending the decision on the constitutionality of the Public School Act now before the courts.

Dyspepsia

Intense Suffering for 8 years—Restored to Perfect Health.

Few people have suffered more severely from dyspepsia than Mr. E. A. McMahon, a well known grocer of Staunton, Va. He says: "Before 1878 I was in excellent health, weighing over 200 pounds. In that year an ailment developed into acute dyspepsia, and soon I was reduced to 162 pounds, suffering burning sensations in the stomach, palpitation of the heart, nausea, and indigestion.

Intense

I could not sleep, lost all heart in my work, had fits of melancholia, and for days at a time I would have welcomed death. I became morose, sullen and irritable, and for eight years life was a burden. I tried many physicians and many remedies. One day a workman employed by me suggested that I take Hood's Sarsaparilla, as it had cured his wife of dyspepsia.

Suffering

I did so, and before taking the whole of a bottle I began to feel like a new man. The terrible pains to which I had been subjected, ceased, the palpitation of the heart subsided, my stomach became easier, nausea disappeared, and my entire system began to tone up. With returning strength came activity of mind and body. Before the fifth bottle was taken

The Daily Review.

THURSDAY, MARCH 26, 1891.

Bridge Building and the N.P.

To the Editor of the Review.

DEAR SIR,—In Tuesday's issue of the Examiner appears a letter signed "A Working Man," of which the evidence of it having been penned by some dyspeptic Grit rankling under the overwhelming defeat administered to his party by the working men of the town of Peterborough is so palpable, calls for some expression of opinion from the bona fide working men of the town, who are able to speak for themselves, and resent any usurpation of authority to speak in their name by any party heeler, and who consider the rot doled out to them in that letter, as an insult to their intelligence.

The whole purpose of this so-called workingman's letter appears to be to give vent to a little spleen on the head of the proprietor of the Bridge Works, by publishing to the world what should be considered as the private business of that gentleman, that he has been compelled to lay off for probably a short while, some forty men, a thing that is of frequent occurrence in every manufacturing establishment, in this and every other country; but shirking to state, what is clearly evident to every other workingman in the town, that the present depression in the manufacturing industries of the country is caused by the confident assertions of the Grit party and press that they were going to carry the country, and give us reciprocity with the United States, so that investors naturally withheld their orders, in order to take advantage of the slaughter prices at which Americans would place their goods on the Canadian markets. This, and the keen competition, which was predicted by the advocates of the N.P. at its inception in the campaign of 1878, and which, owing to the protection afforded from American slaughtering, and the consequent building up of our own industries, is being more and more felt every day, causing a distribution of the work over the whole country—and all this vituperative wrath is evidently being wreaked out on this gentleman because he had the courage of his convictions and came out boldly in support of the party that he knew to be, and was able to prove by facts and figures, to be the best for the interests of the country, the manufacturer and the working man.

But, sir, the working men of this town are able to look a little beyond the narrow channel mapped out for them by this so-called working man, and, since bridge works are the particular industry under discussion, they will ask how many bridge works were there in Canada before the N.P. came into effect? None! Oh, no. We showed our great friendship for our American neighbors by allowing them to build all our bridges for us, as witness the Otonabee bridge in our own town, and not a cent of the money of the ratepayers of this country, who paid for these bridges, was returned to them in the shape of wages, as it is at the present time when all the bridges needed in the country are built here by the eight different bridge works that have sprung into existence during the last twelve years, thus giving employment to the workingmen of Canada, that would, under free trade or unrestricted reciprocity, have gone to the workmen of the U.S.

In conclusion, Mr. Editor, I think I can safely say that I voice the sentiments of all true workingmen in the town of Peterborough in saying that if Mr. Law has found it necessary to lay off a part of his large staff of men until such time as he finds trade revived enough to warrant him in running full blast again, that no working man will credit it either to any fault of his or to the policy of the Government in whose support he committed the heinous crime (in the eyes of "A Workingman") of pleading its cause "on the stump," but we will remember the many days of work he has afforded us during the seven years he has been amongst us, and will say, if his work has got this small under the policy of the present Government, may we long be preserved from that of the Opposition, for then we would get nothing, and may his tall chimney—that ghostly apparition which haunts the Grit party wherever it raises its proud head in this fair land—long continue to send fourth its messages speaking of plenty to the working men of Peterborough and proving a mockery to all the pessimistic utterances and predictions of the party that would hand over to the foreign nation the just heritage of the working men of this country.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your valuable space.

Yours truly,
A BONA FIDE WORKING MAN.

LACROSSE AT HAMILTON.

The Times Finds that the C.L.A. Will Scarcely Locate There This Year.

HAMILTON, March 25.—Mr. F. C. Mills, who has taken as active an interest in lacrosse as any man in Hamilton and who has done much to keep it going during the past two seasons, was seen by a Times reporter this morning. He expressed the opinion that Hamilton would not be able to put a team in the Canadian Lacrosse Association this year. "We will have two teams anyway, probably three, the Hamilton Lacrosse Club, the Y.M.C.A. Club and one to be started in the West End," he said, "but none will be strong enough for the C.L.A. Several of our best players would be barred from playing in an association club on the ground of professionalism. Some of them have run foot races for insignificant money prizes, but having done so would be considered professionals, under the strict interpretation of the word. I wrote to the secretary of the C.L.A. on this subject some time ago, but have received no reply yet. By next year we will probably be in a position to put a strong team in the C.L.A., but this year we will, I think, have to be content with developing players."

WASHINGTON, March 25.—Assistant Secretary Spaulding, in reply to a question from the Port Huron collector, has decided that a piano owned by a Canadian who intended to teach music in Michigan is not dutiable. As the owner had not previously taught music in Canada her piano could not be regarded as an instrument of her profession.

A Railway Gentleman Speaks.

"For many years past," says a gentleman employed by one of our largest railway institutions, "I have lost considerable time, and suffered from fever and general weakness. My illness generally came on about spring time—a time joyous to many, but always dreaded by me. About the end of the winter of 1890, I was advised by one of my office companions to use Paine's Celery Compound, which I was assured would cleanse my system, and build it up so that I could safely pass through the season and avoid my usual time of sickness. I procured the Compound at once from my druggist, and received an assurance from him which corroborated my friend's statement. I used, before the spring was over, four bottles, which made me a different man. I increased in weight, my appetite was full and natural, and my physical and mental activity was greater than ever before. This spring I intend to use more of Paine's Celery Compound, and would advise all my fellow men to do likewise if they value good health, and wish to avoide sickness."

Surely this convincing testimony will have some weight with all who wish to be thoroughly cleansed and made strong for the extreme hot weather of the coming summer.

Oh, What a Cough.

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease consumption. Ask yourself if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. d15ed-6m

No douche or instrument is required to apply Nasal Balm. It is easy to use, pleasant and agreeable in its effects. Use nothing else for catarrh and cold in head.

Clark's Lightning

Liniment will relieve the painful torture of Rheumatism in the joints or muscles. It should be well rubbed in with the hand, and the part covered with a piece of flannel. The pain will cease with the first application, and its continued use will effect a marvelous cure. This remedy needs but a trial to convince the most skeptical that it is a wonderful preparation. Sold by all druggists; price fifty cents. Clark Chemical Co., Toronto.

UNDOUBTEDLY THE MAN.

The Pittsburg Murderer a Former Resident of Brockville.

BROCKVILLE, March 25.—The despatch sent to the Pittsburg police to the effect that the man Budd arrested there for the murder of Detective Gilkinson could not be Frederick C. Fitzsimmons, of this town, as the latter was at his home here, was evidently bogus. There is no question but that Budd is Fitzsimmons, as the papers found in a satchel in his possession indicated.

Fitzsimmons is the fifth son of the late Robert Fitzsimmons, one of Brockville's pioneers and whose name is revered for his many virtues. He is about 34 or 35 years of age and was widely known both here and throughout the counties. Though well educated, agreeable in manner and a general favorite with his acquaintances, he, early in life, evinced traits which gave his relatives much sorrow. Some 16 or 18 years ago he left Brockville for the west, and after holding a clerkship in Toronto for a time disappeared completely. From that hour very little was heard from him by his former associates here.

Some weeks ago, a former Brockvillian who is now employed in a drygoods store in New York or Brooklyn met him in the latter city and informed him of his father's death, which had occurred several months before. About two weeks ago he suddenly returned home, incited to do so, as is supposed, by news of his father's death. He announced to friends and relatives that he was engaged in the jewelry business in one of the western states, claimed to have done well and in support of his statement made presents of considerable value in the shape of gold watches, etc. By the provisions of his father's will he secured $3000 in cash, and real estate worth nearly if not quite that amount and early last week left town. Nothing further was heard of him until the report came of his arrest for murder.

A VERDICT OF MURDER.

The Metcalfe Farmers' Fight Investigated at Strathroy.

STRATHROY, March 24.—The coroner's jury at the inquest on the body of William O. Rowe of Metcalfe, who was killed in a scuffle with Robert Murray on the 9th concession of Caradoc Saturday last, this evening returned a verdict to the effect that Murray did "wilfully, maliciously and with malice aforethought" kill the deceased. From the evidence it appeared that when Murray drove up to where the deceased was standing the latter said if prisoner would get out of the wagon he would soon fix him, and he also called Mrs. Murray a liar and said that she wasn't a decent woman. Murray then got out of the wagon and commenced disputing. Rowe struck at prisoner with a club, after which Murray possessed himself of a club and beat Rowe over the head.

NEW FAST STEAMSHIPS.

An Important Change in the Company—Announced Fast Passenger Service.

MONTREAL, March 25.—Mr. H. Montagu Allan and Mr. J. S. Allan of the Allan steamship line have arrived in England on business connected with a new steamship project. It is proposed to form a new company, of which the Naval Construction and Armament Company of Barrow-in-Furness, presided over by the Marquis of Hartington, and the Allan Line Company will be the chief promoters. The intention is to have the new company take over the existing Allan line steamers and run them principally as freight steamers. The new line will be under control of the Allans, and will be neutral as between the Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific Railways. The new company is working to secure the Government subsidy. Three or four fast steamers will be built similar to those running to New York, and it is expected that the traffic to and from the Northwest will be then directed towards Montreal, the natural route. Montreal will be the summer port and either Halifax or St. John the winter port. The steamers will be built by the Naval Construction and Armament Company.

Drowned in Sight of His Chums.

BRAMPTON, March 25.—Tuesday evening while three lads named Walter and Herbert Roblin and Harvey Sprentnall were crossing a swollen creek on John Proctor's farm, Walter Roblin fell and was rapidly carried down the stream. His chums ran along the bank encouraging him to catch hold of the bushes. He cried for help, then raised his hands and disappeared. The body was recovered this morning.

His Aim Was Defective.

WINDSOR, March 25.—After a quarrel with hired man John Cullen, William Quigley, a farmer living in Mersea township, grabbed a loaded shotgun and pointing it at Cullen who was only 10 feet distant, pulled the trigger. Cullen dropped on his knees and the entire charge passed over his head, boring a big hole in the ground. Quigley was arrested and sent to Sandwich jail.

Big Catch of Seals.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., March 24.—The sealing steamer Neptune arrived here last night with a catch of 32 000 seals. She reports that 10 other vessels have secured 150,000 seals.

Rheumatism,

BEING due to the presence of uric acid in the blood, is most effectually cured by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Be sure you get Ayer's and no other, and take it till the poisonous acid is thoroughly expelled from the system. We challenge attention to this testimony:—

"About two years ago, after suffering for nearly two years from rheumatic gout, being able to walk only with great discomfort, and having tried various remedies, including mineral waters, without relief, I saw by an advertisement in a Chicago paper that a man had been relieved of this distressing complaint, after long suffering, by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I then decided to make a trial of this medicine, and took it regularly for eight months, and am pleased to state that it has effected a complete cure. I have since had no return of the disease."—Mrs. R. Irving Dodge, 110 West 125th st., New York.

"One year ago I was taken ill with inflammatory rheumatism, being confined to my house six months. I came out of the sickness very much debilitated, with no appetite, and my system disordered in every way. I commenced using Ayer's Sarsaparilla and began to improve at once, gaining in strength and soon recovering my usual health. I cannot say too much in praise of this well-known medicine."—Mrs. L. A. Stark, Nashua, N. H.

A PRINCIPAL SURPRISED.

Mr. W. H. Walkie, of the North Ward School, the Recipient of an Address and Presentation.

Mr. W. H. Walkie, the Principal of the North Ward school, was pleasantly surprised yesterday by the pupils of his class. The pleasant ties of friendship and respect which should always characterize the relations of scholar to master, had given birth to a desire among the pupils to evidence in some tangible manner their feelings for their teacher. They accordingly quietly planned a surprise and had a kindly-worded address prepared. Accompanied by a handsome leather covered writing desk, filled with necessary writing material, this address was presented to him yesterday under happy circumstances.

Miss J. Hall read the address while Master E. Dixon made the presentation. The address read as follows:—

To Mr. W. H. Walkie:

DEAR TEACHER,—In meeting together we, the scholars of your room, desire to express our appreciation of your sympathy with us, sound principles, faithful discharge of duty and impartiality towards us all.

Knowing we have often failed to obey, improve and to do our best in assisting you in good work, purpose and design to teach the grand principles of right and truth, also to train and develop every faculty of our minds, so as to enable us to do wise, nobly and well our part in the work of life.

We wish you in the future every success. In earnest of our good will, we ask your acceptance of this writing-desk, which we hope will be a memento, not for its intrinsic value, but as a slight recognition of your kindness.

Signed on behalf of your pupils,

E. E. HAYMAN	W. CLUXTON
E. H. KINGDON	G. MCCLENNAN
J. HALL	E. DIXON
J. HAYWARD	G. BROWN.

Mr. Walkie expressed his feelings of gratitude in a suitable reply.

Acknowledgment.

The Committee of the Peterborough Protestant Home gratefully acknowledge the sum of $25.00, the kind donation of the Central Bridge Works.

It is not the extremes of heat and cold so much as the sudden changes in temperature that cause certain climates to be unhealthful. When, however, the system is invigorated with Ayer's Sarsaparilla, these changes are rarely attended with injurious results.

The Last of the Series.

The last lecture of the Wednesday evening course for 1891 was delivered in St. John's last night by Rev. G. Warren, of Lakefield. A good congregation was present and the service was solemn and impressive. Mr. Warren's subject was "The Gift, the Giver, the Giving." God the Father, said the speaker, was the great giver, and God the Son the great gift to which he would direct their attention. By references to commercial and professional life Mr. Warren showed the danger we were in of regarding ourselves as the producers and givers, yet all our efforts, actions and their fruits came directly from God. The great characteristic of God as revealed in Holy Scripture was love manifesting itself in giving blessings freely to all who would accept them, and everyone who would be like God must have this same God-like disposition to give generously and freely. Giving was one of the deepest characteristics of Christianity and was following in the footsteps of Jesus, who gave freely to all both things of the body and of the soul.

That tired feeling and dull, oppressive headache that so frequently accompany catarrh can be instantly removed by the use of Nasal Balm. Sold by all dealers.

Stand Your Ground.

When you make up your mind to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, do not be induced to buy some other preparation instead. Clerks claim that "ours is as good as Hood's" and all that, but the peculiar merit of Hood's Sarsaparilla cannot be equalled. Therefore have nothing to do with substitutes and insist upon having Hood's Sarsaparilla, the best blood purifier and building-up medicine.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

A special meeting of the "Junior Branch" will be held to-morrow morning at 10 a.m. Miss Code will give an address to the lads.

To-morrow evening the monthly reception will be given to the young men of our town from 8 to 10 p.m. St. Paul's Y.P.S.C.E. have kindly undertaken to be their hosts. Instrumental and vocal music, etc., will be given and refreshments served. Rev. Mr. Torrance will give a short address on the "Elements of Success in Life." All young men welcomed, especially strangers.

Good-Friday.

To-morrow is a day which will be kept in many different ways according to people's different characters and ideas. To some it will be—as of old—a solemn holy day. To others it will simply be a holiday, enjoyable or not according to the weather and the opportunities for rest and enjoyment. There seems no reason why either of these ideas should be excluded from the day. It, no doubt, commemorates a very solemn event—the most solemn in the world's history—and therefore the majority of thoughtful persons will be inclined to devote a portion of the day to once more reading over and considering the awful Tragedy of the first Good Friday. At the same time we have to recognise the reasonable demands of labor and confinement for the rest and recreation which comes all too seldom, and we shall all rejoice to see this rest and recreation gladly given by employer, more gladly received by employee. There will be little disposition towards revelry or merry-making, but much towards enjoyment of a quiet, restful character not out of harmony with the spirit of Good Friday and the message which it brings.

Brevities.

—To morrow being Good Friday the REVIEW will not be issued.

—The Otonabee Canoe Club is called to meet on April 7th.

—Owing to alterations being made in the chancel of St. Luke's church the services this week will be held in the school house.

—The pastor's reception is to be held in the Murray-st. Baptist church this evening. It is expected to be a successful social event.

—Bernard O'Neil gave the police a little impertinence last evening, and after spending the night in the cells it cost him $2 to regain his liberty.

—The officers of St. John's church beg to extend a special invitation to Christians of every name, non-church-goers and strangers, to join with them at the services in St. John's and the Mission building to-morrow. All seats will be free.

A Long-Felt Want.

W. J. Morrow has now commenced to do a strictly cash business after seeing the want of a first-class cash house in town. Persons wanting goods away down will do well to call. He will not be adding a large percentage to the cost of goods to pay for bad accounts as is and must be done by credit houses. All outstanding accounts must be settled at once.

"I would not take $250 for my bottle of Nasal Balm if I could not get another," is the verdict of one sufferer who was speedily cured of cold in head. Such strong testimony ought to convince you that it is worth trying.

THE GROWING OF FRUIT.

FIRST MEETING OF THE PETERBOROUGH ASSOCIATION.

Practical Hints on the Selection of Varieties—How to Plant—The Preparation and Management of an Orchard—Marketing Apples.

A meeting of fruit growers was held in the Council Chamber this morning under the auspices of the Peterborough Fruit Growers Association. Mr. Geo. Hilliard presided. There was a small attendance at the morning session.

APPLE GROWING AND SHIPPING.

Mr. E. B. EDWARDS read a paper written by Mr. Wade, of Brighton. The best varieties for the English market at present, he said, were:—Early varieties, Duchess, shipped in small boxes, Alexander, in barrels or boxes; late autumn, Ribston pippin, Blenheim pippin, Wealthy, and Snow when clean. The Colvert had done well this season; the tree was hardy and a good bearer. Of other fall varieties the St. Lawrence was a hardy bearer, but subject to spot. Rhode Island Greening, the King, 20 oz. Pippin, were hardy but light bearers. The Cayuga Red Streak was a good shipper, but the tree was short lived. Late winter varieties were the Northern Spy, Golden Russets, English Russets, Ben Davis, Baldwin, Phoenix, Mann, Seeks and Talman Sweets were the best varieties for this section. The fruit should be placed in a fruit house or cold storage, and should be dried before being repacked. He put them up for shipping in three grades, branding each grade and putting his name on the first and second. He put brown straw paper in the bottom, and shook down the apples as he put them in. All varieties should be shipped in their season, fall varieties in the fall, etc. He laid straw on the bottom of the car and laid board strips over it and laid the barrels on the side. He put straw between the barrels and the side of the car. Canadian apples were the best on the continent and were preferred on the English market. They must raise the best varieties and ship the best, and the trade would grow. The trees should be thirty feet apart.

A GENERAL DISCUSSION.

Mr. A. McD. ALLEN, of Goderich, dwelt upon the importance of cultivating the orchard and keeping up the fertility of the soil by applying fertilizers.

Mr. S. PAYNE said he had been successful with Famouse. He applied ashes and stable manure to the orchard and found it beneficial.

Mr. ALLEN said that the natural manures, woodashes and stable manure, were the best fertilizers. Artificial manures acted, he found, like a tonic, instead of really enriching the soil. They were robbing heir land by exporting ashes. Ashes had the effect of keeping the trees clean. There was nothing better for gardens or flowers than wood ashes. He thought that there was little difference in hard and soft wood ashes, though he would give the preference to the hardwood ashes. Coal ashes were of little or no use as a fertilizer, but acted as a mulch for clay land.

Mr. L. WOOLVERTON, editor of the Canadian Horticulturist, said that they would be perfectly safe in paying 25 cents a bushel for wood ashes.

Mr. A. ROBINSON, of Springville, said he had been successful with the Greening, Northern Spy, and Wealthy. His land was a clay.

Mr. ALLEN referred to the importance of keeping the trees a good distance apart. Trees like the King or Greening should be 40 feet apart, and upward growing trees like the Spy and St. Lawrence 30 feet.

Mr. WM. COLLINS said he had had good success with the Spy and Ribston Pippin, but his best success with the Summer Queen.

Mr. ALLAN, in reply to a question, said the Ben Davis was a good looking apple and a hardy tree, but was a poor eating apple.

Mr. F. STINSON said that the Ben Davis would keep late and could be placed on the market when other apples were out of season.

Mr. F. EDWARDS said he had been bothered with cut worm, but had killed them by spraying with Paris green. The Ontario was a fine apple and a plentiful bearer.

Mr. Allen considered the Ontario the winter apple of the future. It was a reliable bearer and a good shipper.

Mr. F. STINSON said that for this section there was no better winter apple than the Northern Spy. The Ben Davis was a thrifty bearer, and if they had as thrifty an apple with a better quality it would be a good thing. He had planted different kinds of pear trees. The Clapp's Favorite he had found successful. The Keefer was not for dessert but was a good keeper.

Mr. J. GILES said he had succeeded with the Ben Davis, Golden Russet, Mann and Walbridge apples, and he commended the Ben Davis. The Wagner was subject to borers. He thought the Flemish Beauty a poor pear.

Mr. G. M. ROGER said that with them the Bellflower was a success, and the Snow was a favorite. Ashes would protect from spots. He had abandoned ashes for field or garden purposes as they clogged the soil.

Mr. ALLEN said that on light or loamy soil they would see the benefit of ashes. On heavy clay it was not needed.

Mr. WOOLVERTON said that in this section girdling the grape would be beneficial in getting them to ripen. There was no injury to the vine, for they girdled the wood they intended to remove by pruning. The spraying of vines and trees with copperas was receiving much attention. It destroyed the fungus on the vines and leaves. As to pears, the Flemish Beauty did well in some places, but he had discarded it. His most successful pears were the Bartlett and Clapp's Favorite. The latter should be picked early. For black knot, cutting it out carefully was a sure remedy. Making a paste of paint and coal oil and carefully painting the knot was a remedy.

After further general discussion the meeting adjourned until after noon.

Afternoon Session.

There was a very good attendance at the afternoon session.

SUGGESTIONS AS TO ORGANIZATION.

Mr. E. B. EDWARDS read a paper on the objects of the Peterborough Fruit Growers' Association. There were several hundred fruit growers in the county, and they desired to bring them together for the interchange of ideas. The soil in this section was admirably adapted for apple growing and more should be produced. Each purchase heretofore made had been in the nature of an experiment, but by the Association they could avoid the chances that had been taken. They could also learn much regarding the management of the orchard and packing. There were several ways that might be adopted for selling. They might sell in the orchard, by which they would avoid trouble, but would have an additional middleman. By the Association they could secure a return as to the crop and always keep posted regarding prices. It might be possible to arrange something akin to the cheese board. Another way to sell was through commission merchants. They might also sell by direct shipment. With proper management and care in packing the Peterborough brand might be forced to the top of the market. They might engage some qualified person to go around and do the packing so as to have it uniform, or they might adopt a combined system of cold storage. By organization they could secure better freight rates and could also sell to better advantage. A canning factory or evaporator would be necessary to dispose of the inferior fruit.

BLACK KNOT.

Mr. T. W. GIBBS read a paper on the so-called black knot. The knot was green at the beginning, he said, and as soon as they saw a green knot they should cut it out and burn it. It was caused by an insect excrement mixing with the exuding gum of the tree and producing fungi, and the black knot was an effect and not the cause of the trouble. He described the way the grub worked and pointed out that where the excrescence was found it should be cut out, so as to cut out the grub, and burned.

Mr. F. EDWARDS said he had followed the method of cutting out the knot and burning it and his trees were free from the trouble.

Mr. GIBBS said that if any of them had an old Talman Sweet or other unprofitable tree, they could get a good bearing tree in a few years by grafting with Northern Spy.

Mr. WOLVERTON said that the Talman Sweet was one of the best stock trees for top grafting.

THE ORCHARD'S COMMERCIAL ASPECT.

Mr. ALLEN took up the "Commercial Aspect of the Orchard." He pointed out some of the elements of success. The ground should be thoroughly underdrained, and the subsoil as well as the surface cultivated. When planting they should make the holes large enough to receive the roots without bending. Care should be taken not to plant too deep. The roots should be packed around well and water should only be used when the weather is very dry. A medium-sized tree having a better root power and with more satisfactory growth was better than a large tree. It was important to mulch after planting, and continual cultivation was a necessity. It was not wise to crop much except when the orchard was young, as they wanted to have good healthy wood so that the tree would continue to bear well. Trees should be pruned from the beginning, for the larger the limb removed the more damage would be done to the tree. In training the limbs a good rule was to train the outgoing branches inward, and the reverse, because they wanted to let in the sun. Green shoot trimming or pinching was the proper way with young trees, and with older trees regular pruning should be done, so that large branches need not be sacrificed. In cultivating, care should be taken not to maim the roots; if necessary, they should fork the ground around the roots. The following list of apples he had made with a view to climate and commercial value, and named according to time of ripening:—Yellow Transparent, Dutchess, Indian Rareripe, Gravenstein, Calvert, Wealthy, King, Peewaukie, Ontario, Golden Russett, and Blenheim Pippin, the last selling well, but a shy bearer. Of pears, there were Clapp's Favorite, which should be picked early, Tyson, Flemish Beauty, if suited to this district, Bell Lucrative, Sheldon, Beurre Hardy, Seckel, Beurre D'Anjou, Oswego Beurre, Kesier for cooking or canning, Lawrence and Winter Nelis. Of plums, Moore's Arctic, Lombard, Imperial Gage, McLaughlin, Yellow Egg for canning or cooking, Weaver, German Prune, and Coe's Golden Drop, the last a late plum. Of cherries, Early Richmond, Olivet, and English Morello. Of grapes, Lady (for the amateur), the Worden in neighborhood around, the Brighton, Delaware, Concord, Niagara (if could be grown here), Moore's Diamond and Witder. In the past a great mistake had been made, especially with apples, in planting too many varieties. It was better to have a few good varieties, and to have the different kinds by themselves. The spreading trees should be 40 feet apart and the upright growers 30 feet. It was better to err on the side of giving more room than necessary, than to overcrowd. Whatever they were growing, they should always aim at producing the best. The production of the best quality of fruit would increase the consumption of fruit and enlarge the market. As to the value of the tree, a point often overlooked, an apple tree coming into bearing was worth at least $25. From an orchard a crop of more value per acre would be produced than could be grown in any any other way. In answer to a question, he said that the Yellow Bellflower was a good apple, but not for export. The Mann was an excellent keeper, but was not a high quality apple. They might as well prune now, but should paint the wound. The Magog Red Streak was a hardy apple, but was not of high quality.

UNDERDRAINING.

Mr. BEALL, of Lindsay, in beginning, said he recently saw a valuable tree with a large cavity where a limb had been removed, and he believed it could be preserved by filling the cavity with cement. He emphasized the importance of underdraining, and the drains must be low enough so that the lowest roots should not reach them—at least five feet deep, and close enough together to drain the whole crop. The expense of draining with deep drains would be cheaper than with shallow drains, for a deep drain would serve for a wider area, and besides it was so much better for the orchard.

POINTS FROM EXPERIENCE.

Mr. EDWARDS read a paper on the orchard planted by his father, in which the ground was well prepared, and the trees had been successful. They had too many varieties, and the most successful was the Blenheim Orange. Other good varieties were the Dutchess, St. Lawrence and Fameuse, the Red Astrachan for summer, and the Northern Spy, Canada Red, and Golden Russett.

MISTAKES IN FRUIT CULTURE.

Mr. WOLVERTON said that one mistake made by farmers was in undervaluing the orchard, as he believed it would pay to grow apples to feed stock. He referred to the importance of underdraining, cultivation, and applying fertilizers. Apples required a large supply of potash, as they took off about 15 lbs. of potash to the acre, and they could put on successfully 40 to 50 bushels of ashes to the acre. Of bone meal they might, in addition, apply 100 lbs. to the acre, and 100 lbs. of sulphate of ammonia. Ashes contained 100 lbs. of potash, 50 lbs. of phosphorus, and 70 lbs. of lime to the 1000 lbs., which at market value was worth $10. Coal ashes were good as a mulch for heavy land. There were trees on his place 100 years old, and the healthiest trees were those that had not been pruned. The butchery some orchards were subjected to, cutting off limbs and leaving stumps, was wrong. They painted over every large cut, though large cuts should be avoided. The objects in view were trimming the tree, not leaving too much wood and thinning the fruit. The oyster-shell bark louse could be destroyed by lye and water, or Washing soda and water with a little soft soap. Kerosene emulsion was a good thing. It was made thus: Take half pound of hard soap or a pint of soft and make a strong suds. Have it boiling and pour in a quart of coal oil, which would mix and make an emulsion. Dilute with nine times as much water and apply. In harvesting apples he emptied the apples into barrels as picked. When ready to pack they emptied two barrels on a sloping packing table, picked out the best and packed. He used pressure in packing—a book lever press. Crown grafting was a simple plan and useful for old trees. To do this, cut off the branch square. The cion was bevelled on one side and several were inserted under the bark. Then tie a strip of manilla paper around, raised half an inch over the cut, and fill in the basin thus formed with mud. This was for old trees only. The cions should be cut while dormant, before they begin to push. Heavy pruning in summer would check the vigor of the tree. They should study the nature of a tree in pruning, and follow its natural habits. A simple trellis for grape vines was arranged by placing posts about twenty feet apart, held up by guy wires, and with two or three fine wires strung on them.

A MANAGING COMMITTEE.

On motion of Mr. E. B. EDWARDS, the following committee of management for the Association was appointed, composed of Messrs. George Hilliard, G. M. Roger, B. R. Matthews, E. B. Edwards, Fred. Stinson, Geo. E. Elliott, James McKibbin, Wm. Collins and John Best.

VOTE OF THANKS.

Mr. E. B. EDWARDS moved, seconded by Mr. WM. COLLINS, a vote of thanks to Messrs. Wolverton, Allen and Beall for their presence and the instruction they had given. The resolution was adopted and the thanks acknowledged.

The meeting then adjourned.

THURSDAY, MARCH 26, 1891

BEATRIX RANDOLPH.

BY JULIAN HAWTHORNE.

"Are you aware, Moses," inquired his friend, "that Wallie Dinsmore has seen the real woman in Vienna, and knows this one to be a fraud?"

The general set down the cocktail with which he was about to celebrate his good fortune. "Are you lying, or what's the matter?" he demanded brusquely.

"I had it from the man himself, you old blackguard," rejoined the other composedly.

"Does he know who this one is?"

"If he doesn't he probably will before long."

The general reflected. At last he said: "Well, I ain't scared. What should he make a row for? It ain't going to hurt him, and what's more, he's taken up the girl himself. It may tickle him to find out the facts, but he ain't a fellow to talk. If it was you, now, I might want to buy you off; but he's another sort." And Gen. Inigo tossed off his cocktail with renewed serenity.

"I'll bet you you're mistaken," said Jocelyn.

"I don't bet with you, my good friend," replied the impresario, shaking his head and chuckling sardonically. "I'll tell you what I will do, though," he added, after a moment. He took from his pocket a check book and a Mackinnon pen, and wrote a check, which he showed to Jocelyn. It was $10,000, and was drawn to Jocelyn's order.

"You can have that check," said Inigo, "and be fingering the bank notes in half an hour from now, on one condition."

"Go on," said Jocelyn.

"On condition that you take yourself out of the whole business; and leave me to deal with the girl direct. It's a damned shame, by Jupiter, that you should be putting 30 per cent. of her money into your pocket every time she sings, and making her think I pay her that much less than I do. I'll buy you out for $10,000, cash down, to-day, and take the risk of her bursting up, and everything else. I'm talking money that's what I'm doing; and there it is! Will you do it?"

"You may go to the devil!" said Jocelyn, pushing back the check book, though not without an effort. "I'll have you to know that money's not the only thing I'm after. I've got my own views about the girl, and I'll manage the business my own way."

The impresario detached the check from the book, and having rolled it into an allumette lit his cigar with it. "That's all right," said he, crushing the burnt remnant under his foot, "only don't you talk to me no more about betting! I know a man when I clap eyes on him, and I know a woman, too, and I guess you'll have time to grow to be a bigger rascal than you are before you [illegible] prima donna! She's meat for your betters, my boy, and they're not far to look for!"

Jocelyn contrived to maintain a contemptuously indifferent demeanor, but it is certain that whoever made money out of the impresario was obliged to [illegible] one way or another.

Meanwhile Miss Beatrix Randolph, or the Italiana, as all the world now called her, was in more cheerful spirits than she had been before her reception at the Dinsmores. She liked the Dinsmores: she was inclined to like almost everybody. She tried to take a charitable view even of the young gentlemen in high shirt collars who complimented her so badly, and said things which she knew were witty only because they laughed at them. She reflected that she knew nothing of the freemasonry of modern society, and that probably the young gentlemen intended only to be polite and entertaining. Mrs. Bemax, when appealed to on the subject, said they—Mr. Witman and the rest of them—were wealthy and well connected, and that it was desirable for a lady connected with the stage to cultivate their acquaintance.

"A little social relaxation is an excellent thing for you, my dear mademoiselle," declared this worthy lady, "and a capital way to get rid of that little frigidity and stiffness you have brought with you from the country. Ladies connected with the stage have to work hard, but, en revanche, they are allowed more freedom in social intercourse than other people. It will be quite proper for you to let Mr. Witman drive you home from rehearsal in his brougham if I am along, or even without me at a pinch. All the others do it. You will not let him take any liberties, of course, but don't betray any timidity; he wouldn't understand it."

"It is one thing for me to do as I like," replied mademoiselle, "and another thing for me to let other people do as they like. I don't mean to be stiff, but there is no reason why I should be bothered either."

"It will be no bother when you are used to it," Mrs. Bemax replied; but at the time she did not advocate her view any farther.

The finishing touches were being put to the theatre, and Geoffrey Bellingham was constantly on hand to oversee the work, consequently he and the prima donna must needs meet occasionally. He said very little to her; and was generally very busy when she might have entered into conversation with him; but she had an impression that he kept his eyes upon her often when she was not looking at him; and his appearance at the theatre was generally coincident with the hour of her rehearsals. One day after she had been singing a grand scene very effectively she happened to catch his eye in the stage box, where he stood leaning against the curtained partition, abstractedly knotting and unknotting a piece of tape. His gaze was so earnest, and at the same time so melancholy, that the prima donna, obeying an impulse that was partly curiosity, but partly something else, went round to the box when the scene was over, and met him as he was coming out.

"How unhappy you looked!" she said. "Was anything wrong?"

He stared at her for a moment, and said friendlily, "Oh, you're a great artiste!"

"I mean to be," she answered smiling. "A great actress, too! I should like to see you when you are yourself."

"I am myself now," replied Mlle. Marana. Then she remembered that she was not telling the whole truth, and blushed and looked down.

"Then you must be a remarkable woman! But you probably don't know that you always appear to me like a fresh and innocent American girl. I can't see anything foreign or—stagey in your talk or manners. Extremes meet, I suppose, and, like Paul, you are all things to all men."

This speech made the young diva feel that the world was very wide and very cruel, and the tears came into her eyes. She was alone; there was no one to answer for her or to protect her. She would not have minded so much what most people thought of her, but it would have been a great comfort to her if this man, at any rate, had by some divine faculty of vision been able to see through the disguise that veiled her from the world. He did see through it; but he did not believe what he saw. He thought that his discovery was her deception, and the more she was frank and simple, the more she was her real self, the less would he believe in her. It was a dilemma between intuition and reason; and, with a man of the world, reason, in such cases, is apt to have the best of it.

It would have been easy for the prima donna to have enlightened him, and under certain circumstances she might have been tempted to do so. But now it was a matter of pride to her, if nothing else, to say no word that could lead him to infer that his sympathy was anything to her one way or the other. But she was at liberty to resent an insult, and she felt that to do so would help her to preserve her composure.

"You probably don't know, sir," she said, imitating his phrase, "that to call even an opera singer the extreme opposite of fresh and innocent is not polite. I am not so contemptible a thing to all men as I seem to be to you!"

TAM-O-SHANTER'S RIDE.

"Yes," said he thoughtfully, puffing ring after ring of smoke into the air above his head, "Tam-o-Shanter's ride through the midnight wind with the uncanny witches pursuing him, was a strange fancy of Burns'. It always reminds me of a certain time in my life when I seemed pursued by every demon of disease. Indigestion, dyspepsia, almost constant sick headache, weak lungs, boils and ulcers, everything seemed to ail me, and my physicians had finally given me up as a sure victim of consumption.

You know, in Burns' story, just as the foremost witch was seizing Tam's horse by the tail, he reached the middle of the magic stream—and his pursuers vanished. Well, just as I was giving up in despair, a friend sent me a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which I took. In an incredibly short time my disease entirely vanished. To-day I am as strong as any man in the room—thanks to the 'Golden Medical Discovery.'"

Consumption is Lung-scrofula. For Scrofula, in its myriad forms, and for all Liver, Blood and Lung diseases, the "Discovery" is an unequaled remedy. It's the only guaranteed one. If it doesn't benefit or cure, you get your money back. It's the cheapest, Liver, Blood and Lung remedy, sold by druggists, because you only pay for the good you get.

Can you ask more?

"Golden Medical Discovery" strengthens Weak Lungs, and cures Spitting of Blood, Shortness of Breath, Bronchitis, Severe Coughs, and kindred affections. Don't be fooled into taking something else, said to be "just as good," that the dealer may make a larger profit. There's nothing at all like the "Discovery." It contains no alcohol to inebriate; no syrup or sugar to derange digestion. As peculiar in its curative effects as in its composition. Equally good for adults or children.

SHILOH'S CONSUMPTION CURE.

The success of this Great Cough Cure is without a parallel in the history of medicine. All druggists are authorized to sell it on a positive guarantee, a test that no other cure can successfully stand. That it may become known, the Proprietors, at an enormous expense, are placing a Sample Bottle Free into every home in the United States and Canada. If you have a Cough, Sore Throat, or Bronchitis, use it, for it will cure you. If your child has the Croup or Whooping Cough, use it promptly, and relief is sure. If you dread that insidious disease Consumption, use it. Ask your Druggist for SHILOH'S CURE, Price 10 cts., 50 cts. and $1.00. If your Lungs are sore or Back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster, Price 25 cts.

LOWEST PRICES FOR CASH.

CHANGE OF BUSINESS

I beg to announce to my late customers that I have sold out my business to Messrs. Hilliard & Peplow, and would bespeak for them the same support as you have accorded me.

C. N. BROWN.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

For some time past we have thought that a strictly cash business in Flour, Feed and Provisions could be successfully carried on in Peterborough, and to test this question we have purchased the above business from Mr C. N. Brown, who will still continue as manager, in Flavelle's Old Stand, Simcoe-st.

In order to be successful we intend to make it the interest of every one to pay cash with order by selling at wholesale prices.

We will positively give no credit and cash customers will not have to keep up the losses made by others on the credit system.

We will keep a full supply of

FLOUR, FEED, CHOP, Etc.,

and our customers need not fear that the quality of the goods will be lowered to make up for the reduction in prices.

We are simply giving them the benefit of the margin necessary to cover losses and interest charges incurred in the credit system.

Goods delivered to any part of the town or Ashburnham.

Hilliard & Peplow.

A NEW RAILWAY DEAL.

THE CANADIAN PACIFIC TO ENTER NEW YORK.

Van Horne Perfects an Arrangement With the Vanderbilts—The St. Lawrence River to be Bridged at Brockville and New York to Be Reached Over the West Shore.

BUFFALO, March 29.—The New York Sunday Herald says: A desperate but very quiet struggle between the Canadian Pacific Railway and the Vanderbilts came to an end Saturday and peace was formally declared. For six months President W. C. Van Horne of the Canadian Pacific has been trying to beg, borrow or buy a railroad that would give his trains an entrance to New York. He has priced half a dozen lines and talked seriously of building one for himself if he could not find a bargain. But the fight is over now. President Chauncey M. Depew and the vice-president, H. Walter Webb, met Mr. Van Horne at the Grand Central Station yesterday and made an agreement with him by which they will give him his entrance into New York. His freight cars will come over the St. Lawrence at Brockville and the Vanderbilts will bring them to this city over their Rome, Watertown and Ogdensburg and West Shore roads. The Canadian Pacific is to build a bridge across the St. Lawrence at Brockville and then it will have the privilege of running a passenger car or as many of them as it likes directly into the Grand Central station.

Mr. Van Horne besides having his eye on this city has long sought a foothold in Boston and Philadelphia. Many people think that he would like to make a deal with the Lehigh Valley Railway for the latter city and with the Boston and Maine for Boston.

The agreement made yesterday will have an important bearing probably on the "Soo" freight line. This line uses the Central Vermont and the Ontario & Western. It will doubtless use the West Shore exclusively now.

DR. CROSBY DEAD.

The Great Educator and Preacher Passes Away at New York from Pneumonia—His Life History.

NEW YORK, March 29.—Dr. Howard Crosby died at 3.48 this afternoon. The death of Dr. Crosby loses to New York one of her greatest educators and preachers. He was a native of New York, a son of William Bedlow Crosby, the philanthropist, and was born in 1826. He was graduated at the University of New York in 1844. In 1859 he was called to the chair of Greek at Rutger's, but two years later he entered the ministry of the Presbyterian Church and in 1863 became pastor of the Fourth-avenue Presbyterian Church in New York city, which place he has held to this time. He has also been chancellor of the University of New York and a member of its council. In 1859 he received the degree of D.D. from Harvard and in 1871 that of LL.D. from Columbia. In 1873 he was chosen Moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of the United States. In addition to his work as an educator and clergyman Dr. Crosby has taken a lively interest and exerted a beneficent influence in public affairs, particularly in advocating temperance as distinguished from total abstinence. In 1877 he was instrumental in founding the Society for the Prevention of Crime and has been prominent in independent political movements in New York city. He has also been actively interested in the welfare of the Indians and was one of the heartiest promoters of the scheme for an international copyright law. His published literary works include "Lands of the Moslem," "Œdipus Tyrannus of Sophocles," "Scholia on the New Testament," "Social Hints," "Life of Jesus," "Bible Companion," "Healthy Christian," "Thoughts on the Pentateuch," "The Christian Preacher," "The Humanity of Christ" and "Commentary on the New Testament." He has also written largely for periodicals, and was a member of the American committee to revise the New Testament.

Preferred Death to an Old Husband.

HAZELTON, Pa., March 29.—Millie Capece, aged 16 years, committed suicide at her home in Freelandville this afternoon by shooting herself through the heart with a revolver. The girl's parents wanted her to marry an aged suitor and Millie, who was in love with a young man, a neighbor, took the matter so much to heart that in desperation she took her life.

THE NEWS OF EUROPE.

RUSSIA HELD RESPONSIBLE FOR THE ASSASSINATION.

Funeral of the Murdered Bulgarian Finance Minister—Discussing the Recent Warlike Rumors—The Other Powers Posted as to the Czar's Movements.

BERLIN, March 29.—Semi-official organs are advised to ignore the renewed war alarm and not to notice reports coming from various sources which indicate early aggressive action on the part of France and Russia. Persons high in political circles refuse to say more than that the intention of Russia to abandon her attitude of reserve has been for some time known to the chiefs of the dreibund, and that nothing can happen for which they are unprepared.

The recent indiscreet prediction of Signor Crispi, ex-Italian premier, that war was certain to occur during the current year, has elicited from the official papers at Vienna a comment to the effect that Signor Crispi is no longer in the secret of great events and has become incompetent to prophesy, and that what he says ought not to disturb the tranquillity of Europe. This sort of denial, however, is not reassuring, as the fallen statesman is known to possess still ample information regarding everything relating to both the political and military powers of Europe.

The Cologne Gazette to-day asserts that it is the intention of the Czar to initiate and develop an offensive policy on the old lines by claiming supremacy.

It is believed in Bulgaria that the murder yesterday of M. Baltcheff, Bulgarian Minister of Finance, is the opening of a game of secret intrigue, preceding open conflict. The conferring by President Carnot of the Grand Cross of the Legion of Honor upon Baron de Mourenheim, the Russian Ambassador at Paris, is merely a part of the general effusion of the alliance and of the endearments exchanged between France and Russia.

The Czar to-day decorated M. Briois, military attache of the French Legation, personally presenting him with an order set with brilliants and also giving him a rare malachite vase and a portrait of himself and the Czarina. M. Briois will shortly return to Paris. He is fully conversant with Russia's projects for the mobilization of her forces, and upon his return to Paris some scheme for simultaneous action will be agreed upon by the French War Office. It is for this reason that the Czar has conferred upon him a distinction never before accorded a military attache.

The candidate of the Freisinnige party for the Reichstag in Geestemunde, finding no support, has withdrawn, leaving the contest to Prince Bismarck and the Socialists' candidate. Nobody doubts that the prince will receive a great majority. The warmth of his reception at Altona, and the extent of the preparations throughout the country for the celebration of the 76th anniversary of his birth, on Wednesday, prove the unabated popularity of the prince. The committee here have arranged for a torchlight procession, in which over 3000 of the ex-Chancellor's adherents design to appear. The [illegible] the prince with a silver table service of immense value, designed by the artist Heyden.

Are These the Murderers?

VIENNA, March 29.—Benderoff, who forced Prince Alexander to resign the Bulgarian throne, was lately at Bucharest passing under an assumed name. He there had an interview with Karaveloff and left Bucharest on Thursday, departing in company with two other men for Belgrade. It was noticed that the party were well provided with money. It is supposed that it was Benderoff and his companions who shot M. Baltcheff, the Bulgarian Minister of Finance, on Friday last.

Murder on the High Seas.

LIVERPOOL, March 29.—Yesterday at Liverpool Assizes before Mr. Justice Day Bhagwat Jasiwarra, a colored seaman, was charged with the murder of Captain Lyall, master of the ship Buckingham, in October last, during a voyage from Dundee to New York. Prisoner was ship's cook. In consequence of insubordination the captain struck him on the face, afterwards taking him to the storeroom, where the captain's dead body was found with several stabs. Prisoner before threatened deceased, who was described as a kind-hearted man. Prisoner was found guilty and sentenced to death.

London Money Market.

LONDON, March 29.—There was a fair demand for discount during the past week at 2⅝ for 3 months and 3⅛ for shorts. Quarterly payments of loans to cover the holidays and Stock Exchange requirements for the settlement kept up terms. On the Stock Exchange business was almost nil but tone was good. There is a general expectation of activity after Easter and once the Argentine Republic gloom is dispelled things generally will begin to mend.

A Blaze on the City of New York.

LIVERPOOL, March 29.—An outbreak of fire occurred last night in the hold of the Inman Line steamship City of New York which arrived in the Mersey on Thursday from New York. The flames are supposed to have originated among a number of bales of cotton. Little damage was done and the vessel will sail Wednesday for New York.

Birchall's Example Not Enough.

LONDON, March 29.—Notwithstanding the lesson of the Birchall murder, the business of collecting premiums from young men who wish to learn farming in Canada is flourishing this spring almost as much as last year. Representative Canadians have published warnings against the practice and advise parents that an outfit, a little money and a good letter of introduction is all their children need.

Anarchists and Dynamite.

BRUSSELS, March 29.—The police of Seraing have arrested three Anarchists who were caught conveying 300 pounds of dynamite in a cart after dark. Precautionary measures have been redoubled in the mining districts.

Foreign Brevities.

The News says that the verdict in the Tipperary riot case is a serious defeat for coercion and for Mr. Balfour. The jury was composed of 11 Protestants and one Catholic.

Acceding to the wishes of his American friends Lord Wolseley will write an article on memories of General Sherman for the May issue of The United Service Magazine.

FITZSIMMONS IN CLOVER.

Ladies Who Long for a Look Try to Tempt the Murderer—Did He Kill Farmer Umberger?

PITTSBURG, March 29.—Something of a sensation was created here to-day by the charge that Fitzsimmons of Brockville, Ont., the desperado who murdered Detective Gilkinson last Saturday, was the real murderer of Farmer Umberger, for which crime David and Joseph Nicely are to be executed at Somerset, Pa., next Thursday. John Myers, a reputable citizen of Homestead, says Fitzsimmons was recognized as one of the two peddlers who were seen in the neighborhood of Umberger homestead the next night after the murder and robbery, and who are believed to have been the murderers of the old farmer. The Nicelys were convicted on purely circumstantial evidence and have steadily protested their innocence.

Fitzsimmons is being lionized by male and female visitors to the jail and the morbid sensation-seekers are trying various means to tempt the accomplished desperado into giving them at least a view of himself. The season's delicacies, in the way of choice foods, are being sent to him in abundance, and his cell yesterday fairly blossomed with sweet-smelling flowers. Fitzsimmons, however, resisted all these delicate overtures and refused to come out to the great iron door to be observed by the persons manifesting such an interest in him.

The Live Stock Trade.

MONTREAL, March 29.—Mr. Smith, Deputy Minister of Marine, was in the city on Thursday, and called upon several of the live stock exporters in reference to the bill which is now being drafted by the Government to regulate the shipping of live stock from Canada. It is understood that certain regulations will be made regarding the space the animals are to occupy, and also in reference to the fittings, and an inspector is to be appointed to see that the regulations are carried out. The Canadian Pacific Railway has issued a new live stock tariff, from western points to eastern Canada. The tariff went into effect last week and shows a reduction of about 20 per cent. compared with the tariff it supersedes. It has been adopted with a view of encouraging the stock-raising industry in Manitoba and the Territories.

She Wore Trousers.

QUANAH, Tex., March 29.—As the state rangers were on Wednesday in search of J. F. Morris, a murderer who had escaped, they discovered two persons in the Pease River breaks. Upon search being made of their persons for weapons it was found one of them was a woman in man's attire. Last evening the Montague owners of stolen horses arrived and identified the thieves. They also recognized the female prisoner as Pearl Starr, daughter of the notorious Bell Starr, and reputed daughter of the noted desperado, Cole Younger. Pearl Starr is a good-looking girl of 18, with large blue eyes. The lady wore a typical cowboy [illegible] with her sombrero and high-heeled boots.

Poisoned by Herbs.

STIRLING, March 29.—Yesterday at the residence of Mr. William Warren, near Stirling, the family and some friends who were visiting them had a very narrow escape from poisoning. Mr. Warren dug up, as he thought, some horse-radish and had it ground up for table use in the usual way. After the family and friends partook of it they became very ill and a doctor was at once sent for. An examination proved that another herb had been dug up and ground with the horse-radish. Prompt remedies, applied by the doctor, saved them from death by poisoning.

Blown Into Eternity.

QUEBEC, March 29.—Two men named Dufour and Bonneville were at work blasting for foundation piers over the River Metabetchouan, Lake St. John. One of the blasts not going off on time, they went to examine, when it suddenly exploded, carrying Dufour some 12 feet into the air. He was instantly killed. Bonneville was pitched about three feet and escaped comparatively uninjured.

A Centenarian's Death.

GANANOQUE, March 29.—The death of John S. Johnson is announced at Lansdowne in his 100th year. By his second wife, whom he survived only a few days, he had seven children, who are still living with the exception of one. This is one of the cases where we might say that husband and wife lived and died together. For 60 years they journeyed hand in hand.

Engine and Cable Cars in Collision.

CHICAGO, March 29.—A Baltimore & Ohio switch engine pulling a heavily loaded train of freight cars was in collision with a State-street cable train at the Sixteenth-street crossing last evening. The grip car and first trailer were demolished and 60 passengers had a narrow escape from a terrible death. The engine struck the car in the middle, and the 15 occupants were hurled through the air. All escaped injury, however.

Four Pullman coaches comprising the rear portion of the eastern express on the Pennsylvania Railroad jumped the track at Devon station yesterday and toppled over. Miss Goddard of St. Louis had several ribs broken and C. V. Kidd, New York, D. H. Roberts, New York, and George T. Crain, St. Louis, received slight flesh wounds.

Freight Wreck.

ASHLAND, Pa., March 29.—While a freight train on the Philadelphia & Reading road was ascending the grade from Locust Summit last night the locomotive jumped the track near Barry station and rolled down the embankment, carrying with it 22 freight cars. Engineer Andrew Wilfay and Fireman John Oches and Frank Myers and a passenger engineer, who was riding to his home at Tamaqua, were instantly killed and several others injured.

A LIVELY TIME IN SLIGO.

MANY PERSONS INJURED BY FLYING MISSILES.

Police Armed with Bayonets Prevent an Attack Upon the McCarthyites with Blackthorns—The Clergy Unite in Denouncing the Parnellite Candidate at Mass.

DUBLIN, March 29.—Mr. Parnell made a triumphal entry into Sligo yesterday. He was escorted by fifty car loads of supporters from the rural districts, armed with blackthorns. He was received with jeers by the townspeople. Mr. Davitt and his supporters afterwards made a counter-display. Three hundred police and a squadron of cavalry were in readiness to prevent any collision between the opposing factions. Previous to the arrival at Sligo of Mr. Davitt, a fight with blackthorn sticks took place on the steps of the town hall. Subsequently Mr. Parnell complained that he had been assaulted during the progress of the affray by one of the residents of the town.

The voting classes here are unmistakably hostile to Parnell. The struggle which took place on the steps of the town hall, in which Mr. Parnell claimed to have been assaulted, was a contest between the two factions for possession of the hall. Each side fought fiercely, but the Parnellites, being assisted by the police, finally overcame their opponents and victoriously entered the building. When his friends succeeded in getting inside the building, Mr. Parnell made a speech in which he described a "cowardly attack" which had been made on him by a townsman named McHugh, who, Mr. Parnell claimed, had threatened to "swab the streets with his body." The remainder of the speech was a mass of vituperation of the seceders from his ranks.

On returning to his hotel Parnell made an attempt to deliver a speech from one of the windows, but was compelled to desist, owing to the hooting and pelting of a body of McCarthyites, who drowned the speaker's voice.

A Typical Sunday.

Sunday was the liveliest day so far in the North Sligo election campaign. By 8 o'clock this morning the streets were alive with people listening to the music of several bands.

Parnell met with a hostile reception at Strandhill, where he found it impossible to hold a meeting owing to the piercing yells of his opponents, and was finally compelled to retreat to Sligo.

The bishop of the diocese, together with the priests of the whole district, denounced Parnell to their congregations at mass this morning.

Meanwhile the anti-Parnellites, Messrs. Sexton and Collery, Maurice Healy and Michael Davitt, and their party started at 9 o'clock in the morning for the Tireragh district, addressing small gatherings on their way till Templeboy was reached. Here hostile camps had been formed. The Parnellites gathered on the brow of a hill, filled with blackthorns and other weapons, threatening to move toward their opponents, but the police interfered, and with a line of bayonets awed the antagonists, and the storm subsided amid muttered threats and [illegible].

All now moved in the direction of Dromore West, where after a similar scene the Parnellites pelted their opponents vigorously with stones until they were chased and clubbed by the police. Michael Davitt led his adherents, all ducking their heads and some covering themselves with rugs to avoid the fusilade of stones. Mr. Pinkerton, M.P. for Galway, had his head cut and several others were injured.

The Poor Reporters Suffered.

The fusilade of stones continued until the party was a half mile from Easkey. A car with a couple of newspaper men, following 160 yards behind the Davitt party, was attacked by Parnellites and the occupants were thrown to the ground and were so seriously injured that they were obliged to stop at a village to have their wounds dressed. On learning who the wounded men were their assailants expressed contrition.

On trying to enter Easkey the anti-Parnellites found the road barred by a formidable array of Parnellites, and on the advice of the police they retreated in the direction of Sligo, amid another shower of stones and other missiles. The party reached Sligo in the evening, where they addressed a large meeting and vowed vengeance.

Michael O'Brien Dalton has written to Timothy Healy apologizing for the assault he made on the latter at Cork on the 23rd.

A telegram from Balkina reports that Dr. Tanner was seriously assaulted by a hostile mob to-day being knocked down and dragged prostrate through the mud.

Mr. Morrough, M.P., for the southeast division of Cork in a speech at Youghal to-day challenged his colleague Dr. Kenny to seek a re-election with him.

NOT GUILTY.

Verdict of the Jury in the Case of Michael O'Brien Dalton and Others.

CORK, March 29.—The trial of Mr. Michael O'B. Dalton and others charged with rioting and assaulting the police at the time of the trial of Messrs. O'Brien and Dillon at Tipperary was given to the jury, who after a short deliberation returned and announced that they were unable to agree upon a verdict in the case of Mr. Dalton, but rendered a verdict of "not guilty" as to the other prisoners.

The Soudan Campaign.

CAIRO, March 29.—It is the general opinion in well-informed circles that the capture of Tokar is only part of a larger scheme, as, taken alone, it involves a considerable increase in the Soudan military establishments and furnishes additional points for attack. The next stage indicated is the capture of Berber, which will then serve as a basis for an advance on Khartoum in a future campaign. In short, the capture of Tokar may be the first step towards the reconquest of the Soudan—a measure which is becoming inevitable, in consequence of the Italian progress towards the Nile, and is called for for the relief of the peaceable inhabitants from the terrible cruelties inflicted under dervish rule. The season is getting late for further operations on any large scale this spring.

A Clergyman Sent to Penal Servitude.

LONDON, March 29.—At Hertfordshire Assizes William Gregory Tyler, 30, described as a clerk in holy orders, pleaded guilty to forging a certificate of character with intent to obtain money by false pretences from the rector of [illegible], to forging a certificate purporting to be a marriage certificate between himself and a young woman named Emily Ada Hall and, further, to obtaining money by false pretences from the vicar of Little Amwell. Baron Pollock sentenced him to six years' penal servitude.

Ate Fifty-One Eggs in Nine Minutes.

ELIZABETH, March 29.—John Kennedy, a milkman of this city, has won a wager by swallowing fifty-one fried eggs in nine minutes and a quarter. He also ate seventeen hard boiled eggs, shells included, in six minutes. Kennedy now claims to be the champion egg eater in New Jersey.

Purify The importance of keeping the blood in a pure condition is universally known, and yet there are very few people who have perfectly pure blood. The taint of scrofula, salt rheum, or other foul humor is heredited and transmitted for generations, causing untold suffering, and we also accumulate poison and germs of disease from the air we breathe, the food we eat, or the water we drink. There is nothing more conclusively proven than the positive power of Hood's Sarsaparilla over all diseases of the blood. Your This medicine, when fairly tried, does expel every trace of scrofula or salt rheum, removes the taint which causes catarrh, neutralizes the acidity and cures rheumatism, drives out the germs of malaria, blood poisoning, etc. It also vitalizes and enriches the blood, thus overcoming that tired feeling, and building up the whole system. Blood Thousands testify to the superiority of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier. FINANCES OF ONTARIO.

INSTEAD of the financial statement of the Province showing any improvement over past years, as should be the case, the present Treasurer in making his first statement had to present figures showing a large deficit. The receipts during the year amounted to $3,428,154 and the expenditure to $3,896,324, leaving a deficit of over $473,000.

Not only is there a deficit, but the sums received from the sale of timber and mineral lands have been treated as ordinary receipts, so that, in addition to going behind nearly half a million dollars, the Province has less capital in the form of these lands than it had at the beginning of the year.

As has been usual with the Treasurer in the Mowat Government for some years, a parade is made of a statement purporting to show a surplus of assets over liabilities. Mr. Harcourt has in one respect taken a departure from the course adopted by his predecessors, for he submitted to the House a statement of outstanding railway certificates and annuities—annuities upon which money had been borrowed—which have to be paid. The railway aid certificates to be met aggregate $1,494,000 and the annuities $1,834,000, a total of $3,329,430. When, however, he took up the liabilities of the Province, the Treasurer did not include this amount or any part of it as a liability, and by that means was enabled to present a statement of very small liabilities. On the other hand he capitalized a part of the Dominion subsidy and thus swelled the assets. By this peculiar system, peculiar to the Government of Ontario, a surplus was made to appear on paper.

However these assets and liabilities may be treated in the Treasurer's statement, the fact is that last year the Government had a heavy deficit, and that since the Mowat Government took office it has expended millions more than it has received. It has drawn upon the actual surplus the Province did have until the investment account has disappeared from the Public Accounts.

The Government does not promise any amendment, and the Treasurer speaks of increased expenditures. The estimated receipts and expenditure for this year show that the Government expects another large deficit at the end of 1891. And so it goes on and has been going on, despite repeated warnings, but as the late Treasurer pointed out that the Government was satisfied so long as it got through the present all right and did not intend to consider the future, no improvement need be looked for until the people decide to take the matter into their hands and bring about a greatly needed change.

The Best Result.

Every ingredient employed in producing Hood's Sarsaparilla is strictly pure, and is the best of its kind it is possible to buy. All the roots and herbs are carefully selected, personally examined, and only the best retained. So that from the time of purchase until Hood's Sarsaparilla is prepared, everything is carefully watched with a view to attaining the best results. Why don't you try it?

THE IMPERIAL CITY.

Peterborough's Excellent Situation and Bright Prospects.

To the Editor of the Review.

The land agents are moving around lively of late owing to the demand for houses to rent and the increased demand for property. The vast proportions of the new Edison Works and the growing certainty that next season will see the commencement of the Trent Valley Canal between Lakefield and Peterborough confirm people in the belief that this year is the beginning of a new era in the history of the town. Some of our old citizens who were slow of conviction now realize that this is destined to be one of the cities of the Dominion—that her period of slow development is over, and that henceforth her career will be upward and onward.

Nature has done much for the town, and those men were far seeing who in 1818 first planted a town site on the spot so clearly marked for a centre of population and industry. With no rival within thirty miles in any direction, with an agricultural country which in regularity of average production is not inferior to any section of the Province, with an active and progressive people, and a site dry, healthy and lovely, what can impede her natural growth?

Few towns in Canada are so happily situated. Our river, a noble stream, offers us all but unlimited power, and that all the year round. No flood brings destruction, no stagnant water breeds disease. Nine miles to the north the river opens into a chain of lakes which for beauty, sport and sanitary purposes are inferior to no waters on the continent, while from our very door we have sixty miles of navigation on the river and the far famed and picturesque waters of Rice Lake.

Twenty-five years ago our town was somewhat rough and dreary. To-day her streets, dry and well graded, are lined with drooping elms and handsome maples. The visitor to one of the citizens speak of comfort and elegance. Stately churches crown the hills, noble schools and other public buildings, including two splendid hospitals, tell of the public spirit and benevolence of the people. Railways radiate from the town in every direction, and her manufactured goods supply half a continent. As many hills as encompassed ancient Rome offer sites of beauty and health to her citizens, and when the day of her glory comes no city in Canada will offer so imposing a picture as Peterborough by the Otonabee. At present the stately, ornate and substantial court house and gaol and St. John's picturesque and beautiful church crown one hill. On the opposite one is St. Peter's, with graceful spire and burnished cross, and the handsome church and tower of St. Andrew's. Opposite St. Peter's in Ashburnham Armour's hill is crowned with St. Joseph's Hospital, a pretty gothic structure, which, when the evening sun lights up its many windows, looks like the palace of the sun god himself. To the north of the town on another hill are the Barnardo Home, the handsome new School and the Nicholls Hospital—all fine buildings, the latter striking and suggestive of many deeds of mercy. The Smithtown hill is fast being crowned with stately residences, and will ere long become the fashionable and handsome residential part of the city; and the whole western outskirt of the town is the high but gently sloping land which is beautiful for situation and destined to become a very fashionable and beautiful part of the city of the future. Ours is the City of Seven Hills—the Imperial City of the Dominion—and it takes no great flight of imagination to picture her, as some day she will be, the most imposing and beautiful city of Canada. Far seeing men are beginning to realize her future and from every side are coming those who feel not only that it is a pleasant home to live in, but a safe place to invest in. At present real estate is low, but there is an upward tendency which we expect to see turn into a strong and bouyant movement.

Peterborough has never boomed, but steadily she has progressed and developed until she is known abroad as "the best town in Canada." We wait developments, but from the present appearances we will not be at all surprised if in five or six years her population will reach 20,000. One duty is ours always—to preserve in the future that careful watchfulness over the public interests which have characterized our little local government. Let our moneys be prudently and well spent, let our public work be well done and on a liberal scale to meet the requirements of the future, and let there be such vigilance in abating the evils incident to crowded communities as will secure to us a pleasant and healthful home. Then with Nature on our side, fortune our patrimony, and our own effort, we will realize the fact that we live in "no mean city."

Yours truly,
D.

HE WAS AN INNOCENT VICTIM.

Details of the Murder of the Bulgarian Minister of Finance.

SOFIA, March 29.—The police of this city are actively investigating the assassination of M. Baltcheff, the Minister of Finance, who was shot and killed yesterday evening by a man armed with a revolver, the supposition being that the murderer mistook M. Baltcheff for M. Stambuloff, the Bulgarian Premier, with whom the Minister of Finance was walking at the time he was fired upon. As a result of the police investigation 38 persons have been arrested. The prisoners include M. Karaveloff. All the persons taken into custody are members of the party which M. Karaveloff represents.

Details of the murder show that, as is customary, a gendarme followed MM. Baltcheff and Stambuloff on their walk. Coming to a dark portion of the road the gendarme noticed four strangers who were following the ministers and acting in a rather suspicious manner. Almost as soon as they were seen the strangers began firing. Their bullets missed M. Stambuloff, who had fallen a little to the rear of M. Baltcheff and had a very narrow escape. M. Baltcheff was struck in the breast by two bullets. He only uttered two cries before he died. The gendarme at once fired at the assassins, but missed his mark. He then rushed at one of the men and cut him on the shoulder with a sword, but failed to disable him, and the four strangers escaped in the darkness.

Among the prisoners taken into custody to-day is a Greek who recently purchased a revolver here, and who, it is thought, is the man who fired the fatal shots.

The Sensation of the Day.

Public opinion in London holds Russia responsible for the crime on the ground that Russian intrigue contrived the kidnapping of Prince Alexander, and was proven to be at the bottom of the Panitza conspiracy against the life of Prince Ferdinand. Stambuloff is acknowledged to be one of the ablest men in Europe. His genius and energy have created Bulgaria and made it the most respectable of the Balkan states, with the possible exception of Roumania. He has made it a military power which not even Russia can despise, has maintained the finances in excellent condition and compelled Turkey to yield to Bulgarian demands in the face of menace from Russia. Bulgaria is the most decently administered state in Eastern Europe and Greece, which a few years ago hardly recognized its existence, now regards Bulgaria as a formidable rival for the future possession of Macedonia. While Stambuloff lives, it does not matter how many princes Russia may kidnap or assassinate, Bulgaria lives. Stambuloff's death now would be what the death of Bismarck would have been in Germany 15 years ago, or of Cavour when Victor Emmanuel was not yet in sight of the promised land of United Italy. Therefore his murder would be of the greatest service to Russia, and also in accord with many dark precedents of Russian history. As it is, the plot, like that of Panitza, has miscarried, and Stambuloff still lives to hunt down the assassins of his fellow-minister.

The men arrested on suspicion of being concerned in the murder of Minister Baltcheff are detained, but an examination has shown that the actual assassin has not yet been captured.

The funeral of Minister Baltcheff took place to-day and was a pompous affair. Among the mourners were Prince Ferdinand and Princess Clementine, who returned to this city for the purpose of attending the funeral.

A GHASTLY WITNESS.

Part of Emma Pitzenmeyer's Vertebra Produced in Court—How Doctors Differ.

MEDIA, PA., March 29.—The defence in the trial of Caroline Schmidt, charged with the murder of her sister, Emma Pitzenmeyer, added to the sensational character of the case to-day by producing in court the neck and shoulders of the dead girl and with this they attempted to prove their theory of suicide by medical experts. The testimony failed to strengthen the defence materially.

A Citizen of Vancouver Speaks.

A gentleman, well known in the city of Vancouver, and a large speculator in real estate, speaks plainly regarding the value of Paine's Celery Compound; he says: "After settling in the city of Vancouver, I went into the real estate business. All at that time were excited, and I must confess, were neglecting more weighty and important matters in the race for wealth and fortune. I was one of them at the time, and in the rush of business and investment and re-selling, I neglected the laws of nature, and brought on myself a condition of nervous prostration, sleeplessness and general debility, which forced me to remain at home, a helpless and broken down man. Before deciding to call in a medical adviser, I remembered that some of my friends in Toronto, where I had lived for years, had used with grand results, Paine's Celery Compound. I immediately decided to try it myself, and very briefly and gratefully will give you the result. In less than two months I became as strong and as active as ever before. I secured sound sleep, good appetite, great mental vigor, and my nervousness was swept away, and I am now as steady as a rock. Your great remedy certainly deserves all the praise and publicity I can give it without at present giving the public my name."

OBITUARY.

Sudden Death of Mrs. Strain.

Yesterday morning Mrs. Sarah Strain, wife of Mr. Patrick Strain, was found dead in her bed, having passed away during the night from heart failure. The deceased lady had been unwell on Saturday, but her daughter who was attending her left her on Saturday night apparently much recovered. She retired as usual and did not awaken her husband who, when he awoke was terribly shocked to find that his wife had passed away. The deceased lady was an old resident of this vicinity and was 76 years of age when so suddenly summoned across the dark vale. The funeral takes place from the family residence on Murray-st. to-morrow afternoon at two o'clock.

Death of Mrs. John Tully.

The death occurred yesterday of Mrs. Eleanor Tully, wife of the late John Tully whose remains were laid at rest in the Little Lake Cemetery on Wednesday last. The deceased lady had been sinking gradually, and yesterday morning took a change for the worse and never rallied. She was 71 years of age, the same age as her late husband, and was highly respected by her many friends as an estimable Christian lady. She leaves three children—two daughters, Mrs. Peter King and Miss Tully and one son, Mr. J. D. Tully, of town. The funeral takes place to-morrow from the family residence, 344 McDonnel-st. at 2.30 o'clock.

A Very Sudden Death.

Mr. James Hair, who lived a short distance from town in Otonabee, died very suddenly on Sunday morning. He was in town on Saturday afternoon and was in his usual health. After returning home he ate a hearty supper and was in good spirits. He retired as usual, and shortly after midnight Mrs. Hair was awakened by hearing her husband choking. She summoned assistance and a messenger was sent to town for a physician, but Mr. Hair expired in a few minutes. The physician, when he arrived, pronounced the cause of death to be apoplexy. Mr. Hair, who was born on the farm upon which he lived until his death, was fifty-nine years of age. He leaves a wife and four daughters, two of whom are married, to mourn his very sudden death. His family and relatives will receive sincere sympathy in their affliction. The funeral will take place on Tuesday at one o'clock and proceed to the Little Lake cemetery.

An Army "Big Go."

There is to be a big time at the Salvation Army barracks this evening. Brigadier Margets and his bride, who were married in Toronto on Friday last, are to be here and will be given a grand hallelujah welcome. A banquet is to be held first and a grand jubilee meeting at eight o'clock.

The Revival Work.

The revival services which were held in the George-st. church last week by Rev. Mr. Bates were fraught with much blessing and good results. The meetings were of a most interesting and soul-stirring character. They will be continued this week. Afternoon meetings for young people and an evening meeting to which all are invited.

Probably there are more cases of cold in head and catarrh during March than any other month in the year. As a precautionary measure keep Nasal Balm in the house. It never fails.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used by millions of mothers for children teething for over fifty years with perfect success. It relieves the little sufferer at once, produces natural, quiet sleep by freeing the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste, soothes the child, softens the gums, allays pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

FRIENDS' FOND FAREWELL.

A Number of the Members of St. Andrew's Congregation Manifest Their Appreciation of the Pastorate of Rev. Alex. Bell.

Rev. Alex. Bell, the late pastor of St. Andrew's church, was pleasantly surprised on Thursday morning last. The rev. gentleman, whose ill health made it necessary for him to resign his pastorate, is still confined to his bed, and the happy surprise which came to him was a bright beam in his time of suffering.

A number of Mr. Bell's congregation feeling deeply the loss they had sustained through his resignation, wished to give expression to their appreciation of years of faithful and kind services as pastor before he had left Peterborough. They accordingly had an expression of these feelings penned in an address and, accompanied by a handsome clock, they sent their farewell greetings to the manse. The clock was a handsome marble time-piece, ornamented with gold. Neatly inscribed on the front were the words:—

Presented to Rev. Alex.
Bell
On his leaving St.
Andrew's Church,
1891.

The clock, accompanied by the address, was sent to the manse, Rev. Mr. Bell's illness making a formal presentation almost impossible. The address read as follows:—

To the Rev. Alex. Bell, St. Andrew's Manse, Peterborough, Ont.

DEAR MR. BELL,—A number of the members and adherents of your late congregation, desiring to mark their personal appreciation of your services as their pastor and to give expression to the good will which they bear to you and your family, ask your acceptance of the accompanying clock as a slight memento of the esteem in which you and they are held by them, and of their sympathy in the trying circumstances in which it has pleased an all-wise Providence to place you.

With an earnest prayer that the great Ruler of all may in His infinite wisdom be pleased to speedily restore you to perfect health and spare you for many years of work in His vineyard to the saving of many souls.

We beg to subscribe ourselves, on behalf of the contributors, your sincere friends and well-wishers,

MAGGIE LUNDY,
BELLA LUNDY,
JANE CROFT,
ADA L. H. GRUBBE,
FRANCES S. CARNEGIE.

Peterborough, Ont., March 26th, 1891.

REV. MR. BELL'S REPLY.

Rev. Mr. Bell has written the following reply:—

MY DEAR FRIENDS,—When your beautiful and valuable present with the accompanying address was so quietly handed into the Manse I was much surprised, not at your kindness, for of that I have had ample experience already, but that you should add to your many other kind attentions this very useful and enduring token of your good-will. It is a great consolation to me and a cause of much thankfulness to know that, while acting as your pastor, my services were appreciated by you, while my faults and infirmities seem to be forgotten, and that, notwithstanding my official separation from you now, you still retain for me a place in you memory, and a share in your regard warm enough and strong enough to find expression in this very pleasing and substantial way.

I am not conscious that I can claim anything on the ground of deserving, yet I gladly and cheerfully accept your generous gift, not for its commercial value, but because it is the united expression of your approval and lasting regard, and will be to me a very precious and abiding memorial of those whom through years I have learned to love and to trust as friends and to esteem very highly for their upright and consistent Christian lives.

For your sympathy and the many kindnesses received while laid by and waiting under present affliction, and your expressed hope for my speedy recovery, I feel very grateful.

You are good enough to speak of my family in affectionate terms and to include them in your kind solicitude for me, and they all join with me in reciprocating your esteem and good wishes for the future and in most sincerely thanking you, not only for the present kindness, but also for all other past consideration, and markedly for your good offices in December last, which I have not had any fitting opportunity of acknowledging hitherto.

I may never again have the privilege of leading your united worship, but the common throne before which we were accustomed to bow is still open—pray for me. My desire for you is that God may, out of the riches of his abundant mercy, grant you all needful blessing and grace to perfect you in all things according to His will, and that, when the pendulum has swung your last moments by, and the answering tick proclaims them gone forever, your souls set free may find their way up the pathway of immortal light—

To yonder gates of azure and gold
And through them to rest,
And the joys of the blest,
And the riches of glory untold.

That elegant drawing room suite that has been in A. Clegg's window for the last few days disappeared from the window on Saturday and is being shipped to Kingston to-day, together with the furniture and drapery for five other rooms. Some fine fac simile water color pictures and some Swiss lace for window drapery were quite an attraction on Saturday evening. 1d74

"I would not take $100 for my bottle of Nasal Balm if I could not get another," is the verdict of one sufferer who was speedily cured of cold in head. Such strong testimony ought to convince you that it is worth trying.

THE FESTIVAL OF EASTER

INSPIRING FESTIVAL SERVICES IN THE TOWN CHURCHES.

A Magnificent Response to the Appeal at St. John's to Reduce the Church Debt—Large Congregations—Appropriate Music at St. Peter's Cathedral—The Special Services.

Yesterday was Easter Sunday, the day of the most joyful festival in the Anglican and Roman Catholic churches. The morning broke bright and cheerful, and with the warm sun and the balmy softness of gentle spring in the air it was an ideal Easter day. The shining brightness of the morning was most appropriate being emblematical to those whose hearts were full of rejoicing of the first Easter morning when the Saviour of Mankind burst the barriers of the tomb and rose triumphant from the dead. The Easter festival which commemorates the resurrection of Christ is always a season of great rejoicing and special services are held in the English and Roman Catholic churches. The fine weather tended to make the attendance at these services unusually large, all the services in the different churches being attended by immense congregations.

At St. John's.

At St. John's church yesterday the usual Easter services were held and they were of the most inspiring and interesting character. An appeal had been made by the Rector to the congregation to make a special effort to reduce the church debt, the aim being to raise $1,500 in the Easter offerings to go towards lightening the debt burden on the parish. This appeal and the magnificent response will make the Easter season of 1891 one of special rejoicing in the history of the church. At the services of the day the splendid sum of $1,706.62 was offered. This magnificent response to his appeal must be gratifying to the rector and is also a matter for congratulation to the congregation.

The musical portions of the services all day were attractive and beautiful. The hymns were all appropriate, while the anthems rendered were also Easter selections. The choir acquitted themselves with great credit, the singing being especially prepared and excellently rendered. Dr. Davies, the talented organist, had made a special effort for the occasion and, as was to be expected under his leadership, the music was of a high order. The programmes of the morning and evening services were published on Saturday.

The church had been beautified with flowers, the chancel, altar and pulpit being decorated with delicate foliage and attractive flowers, among the later being several beautiful Easter lilies.

At the morning service there was a large congregation and the service was entered into with spirit and reverential joy by the congregation. Rev. C. B. Kenrick delivered an able discourse appropriate to the festival.

In the afternoon a children's service was held at 3.30. The children of the Sunday school and many of their parents and friends were present at the interesting service. After the opening service, Rev. Mr. Kenrick gave a short, pleasing talk to the little ones on the resurrection of the Saviour and the duty of laying up a treasure in heaven. An offertory was taken up, and many of the children laid upon the plates the savings of the last six weeks during which all sorts of self-denial had been practised. This they contributed as their mite towards reducing the church debt. The handsome sum of $116.66 was the result.

In the evening the aisles had to be seated with chairs to accommodate the immense crowd which sought an entrance to the church. The service was an impressive one, and, as already mentioned, greatly beautified by the excellent singing of the choir. The rector, Rev. J. C. Davidson, conducted the service, and Mr. W. D. Parker read the lessons.

THE OFFERTORIES AND SERMON.

The rector delivered the sermon, but before beginning his discourse he gave a statement of the offertories of the day. At the 8 30 service in the morning $95.20 was collected, at 11 o'clock $1,367.80 was taken in special envelopes, and $18 48 in the general way, making a total for the 11 o'clock service of $1,386.28. At the children's service in the afternoon $116.66 was the amount of the offertory, of which the South Ward division contributed $28.57. After making the statement the rector said it was unnecessary to say that it would be gratifying to all, and behind the mere statistical statement there was the privilege of scanning the individual contributions which was reserved for two or three. When they saw men and women with incomes of five or six dollars a week placing on the offertory plate ten dollars, they raised their hearts with thankfulness to God. Some might feel like shrinking from taking such money, but they could praise God that in this century of supposed laxity He was able to make his people hardy and strong to deny themselves for Him. When they saw those whom God had endowed with larger means, upon which there were demands continually being made, laying down one hundred or fifty dollars as free gifts to God, they also raised their hearts in expressions of gratitude to Him. The offertory was one given from many homes, probably every family with which the church was in connection was represented. God Almighty had answered the weekly prayers of the last two years. They should take heart and fresh courage from the great blessing, which would draw the people and clergy even nearer together than in the past, and he hoped they would continue to realize their position as members of the common brotherhood with Jesus Christ.

The rector took for the basis of an impressive sermon the words:—

"For if we believe that Jesus died and rose again, even so them also which sleep in Jesus will God bring with Him.—I Thess. 4, xiv.

The rev. gentleman dwelt upon the three resurrections—the Resurrection of the past when Christ rose from the dead, the present resurrection of rising to newness of life, and the future resurrection spoken of in the text. Beautifully he spoke of the hope given to the thoughtful man and the mourner by the promise of the text, and contrasted the life of the man with this hope with that of him whose future was dark and unpromising.

After the service many remained to hear the offertory of the evening announced, so as to know to what figure the total for the day had reached. At the end of an hour which was filled up with hymns and organ selections the final result was announced when the whole congregation rose and expressed their gratitude by the hearty singing of the "Old Hundredth Psalm."

At St. Luke's.

The Easter festival was celebrated at St. Luke's church, Ashburnham. The sacred edifice had been beautifully decorated, while its interior appearance had been greatly enhanced by the improvements of the past few days. The chancel had been nicely papered, the work being done with artistic effect. Rev. J. W. McCleary, the rector, conducted the services and preached discourses appropriate to the day. The singing was also good. At the evening service Miss Lillie Jackson sang a solo in pleasing voice during the offertory.

Easter at St. Peter's.

Easter Sunday was celebrated at St. Peter's Cathedral with the usual attractiveness and impressiveness. The services were attended by immense congregations. the altar was beautifully decorated and the singing and music were unusually grand and excellent. The masses in the morning were at 6.30, 8 and 10 30 o'clock. At the first mass Rev. Father Dube officiated. At the 8 o'clock Mass Rev. Father Scollard officiated, while the singing was well rendered by the young ladies' choir, the chorus, "Regina Coeli," being especially good. At last mass His Lordship the Bishop pontificated, assisted by Rev. Fathers Dube and Scollard. At this service His Lordship also gave the Papal benediction. The music and singing at this mass was grand. The Peterborough Amateur Orchestra were present and their several renditions were well given, while the choir sang Millard's Mass in a sweet and well-timed manner, each part being well taken, the "Agnus Dei," by Miss Mary Dunn, being particularly noteworthy. The organist, Miss Kaland, performed her part in her usual skilful manner. A forcible sermon was preached by Father Whibbs appropriate to the day.

After last Mass His Lordship took occasion to thank the congregation for their performing of penitential works and complying with other duties towards the church during Lent. He also thanked the choir for their beautiful music.

In the evening at 7 o'clock Father Dube officiated at Vespers and the singing at this service was also very good, Miss A. Dunn taking the solos of "Magnificat" and "O Salutaris," and Mr. Jas. Coughlin the "Tantum Ergo," both being well rendered. His Lordship the Bishop gave a sermon on the dangers of temptation, which was listened to with attentiveness and interest.

SERVICES IN OTHER CHURCHES.

Easter Sunday in the Churches—Church Notes.

At the George-st. church yesterday Rev. Mr. Bates, the evangelist, occupied the pulpit at both services, and preached two stirring discourses to good congregations. The choir, under the leadership of Mr. Seward, rendered some excellent music appropriate to Easter. In the evening the Easter anthem was a beautiful selection, and was given by the choir with a volume of voice and confidence which was decidedly pleasing.

Rev. P. Canfield Jones, of Port Hope, preached at both morning and evening services at St. Paul's church. There were very good congregations to listen to him. The choir rendered special Easter anthems in exceedingly good voice.

Rev. A. E. Mitchell, of Waterloo, was in the pulpit of St. Andrew's church yesterday at both services.

Rev. S. J. Shorey, the pastor, preached an able and appropriate Easter sermon yesterday morning in the Charlotte-st. Church. There was a large congregation.

At the Mark-st. Methodist church in Ashburnham Rev. A. C. Wilson, the pastor, delivered two appropriate Easter sermons, which were impressive and forcible. His morning subject was "The Resurrection of the Lord's Body," and his evening subject "Lessons from the Resurrection."

Rev. E. F. Torrance, of St. Paul's, preached in the First Presbyterian church in Port Hope yesterday.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is on the flood tide of popularity, which position it has reached by its own intrinsic, undoubted merit.

EYESIGHT TESTED.

Rheumatism,

BEING due to the presence of uric acid in the blood, is most effectually cured by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Be sure you get Ayer's and no other, and take it till the poisonous acid is thoroughly expelled from the system. We challenge attention to this testimony:—

"About two years ago, after suffering for nearly two years from rheumatic gout, being able to walk only with great discomfort, and having tried various remedies, including mineral waters, without relief, I saw by an advertisement in a Chicago paper that a man had been relieved of this distressing complaint, after long suffering, by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I then decided to make a trial of this medicine, and took it regularly for eight months, and am pleased to state that it has effected a complete cure. I have since had no return of the disease."—Mrs. R. Irving Dodge, 110 West 125th st., New York.

"One year ago I was taken ill with inflammatory rheumatism, being confined to my house six months. I came out of the sickness very much debilitated, with no appetite, and my system disordered in every way. I commenced using Ayer's Sarsaparilla and began to improve at once, gaining in strength and soon recovering my usual health. I cannot say too much in praise of this well-known medicine."—Mrs. L. A. Stark, Nashua, N. H.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

PREPARED BY

Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Price $1; six bottles, $5. Worth $5 a bottle.

MONDAY, MARCH 30, 1891.

BEATRIX RANDOLPH.

BY JULIAN HAWTHORNE.

"It was a brutal thing to say, and I did not mean it," he replied in a low voice. "But I can't say what I wish to you. There's no middle way." And before she could make up her mind what this meant he passed by her and walked heavily away down the corridor.

The prima donna fell into a deep and not altogether painful revery. She seated herself on a bench behind the scenes and followed out her musings with her chin on her hand. The rehearsal was going forward in front, the duets, the quartets and the choruses, but she was lost in thought. "There's no middle way." What was in his mind—in his heart—when he said that? There had been something very potent in his eyes, that she was sure of. What eyes he had! What a stern, resolute face, with nothing mean or commonplace in it! He was not like the others, either in aspect or in manner. His very carelessness and roughness were more high bred than their best behavior. Though he might go among other men, he would always be apart from them; he was lonely like herself, but, unlike hers, his was a voluntary and a noble loneliness. And he despised her because—because some other woman was despicable! That was unjust, and yet perhaps there was inadvertent justice in it. Perhaps, if he knew the truth, he would despise her no less on other grounds. But again there was some other feeling beside contempt at work within him. What could that be? The girl raised her head slightly, with a doubtful, musing smile on her lips.

There was a stealthy step behind her which she did not hear until it was close upon her. Then suddenly a pair of hands were pressed over her eyes, and her head was drawn back. For a moment she was too much amazed to resist; besides, she thought it must be—could not but be—some one who had a right to treat her so—her father, or even her brother Ed; no stranger would dare! Any impossibility was more possible than that. The next moment she felt kisses on her cheek and mouth—clumsy, offensive kisses. She was not a screaming woman, but she gave a passionate outcry of disgust, twisted herself free, and sprang to her feet.

The offender stood before her, evidently not at all convinced of the enormity of his outrage. His visage was wrinkled into a waggish laugh, in which he seemed to expect the prima donna to join. It had already been made apparent to her that the man had been drinking, but the mist of wrath in her eyes kept her for an instant from recognizing in him the newly engaged musical director, Herr Plotowski. She felt that if she had had a weapon in her hand she could have killed him on the spot. And he was laughing!

"Aha! my beautiful ma'm'selle! I catch you fair dat time!" he exclaimed jovially. "Oh! dose beautiful lips! I haf often long to salute dem!"

"If you ever come near me or speak to me again"—began the prima donna; but she checked herself. She would not condescend even to threaten such a wretch. Besides, what power had she to carry a threat into execution? Herr Plotowski had been engaged at great expense; he was considered a valuable acquisition. No one could lead an orchestra more ably than he. If she complained of him her complaint would be put off or disregarded; nor could she bring herself to confide the outrage to a man like Gen. Inigo. He would be sure to laugh, and answer with some coarse good humored jest. In this new world she had entered into everybody seemed to make a jest of everything. There was no one to defend her; she must submit if she could not defend herself. But, as her glance fell upon Herr Plotowski, she told herself she would rather die than submit to such another insult.

Her passionate indignation must have made itself perceptible through the callous hide of the director, fortified though he was by whisky. The wrinkled laugh gradually faded from his countenance, and gave place to an expression of absurd solemnity and irritation. "You be-angry dat I kiss you, eh?" he cried in a harsh voice. "Let me tell you ma'm'selle, I kiss all se ladies vot ing by me. Zey dake it as compliment; if not, I make it vorse for sem, eh! Plotowski kiss all he please, and dat all right, ain't it? You ask se general, you find out! How dear!" And he stalked away haughtily.

This incident would perhaps have affected her somewhat less poignantly if it had not occurred immediately after her interview with Bellingham, and while her thoughts were full of him. The revulsion was almost unendurable, and made her feel as if the pollution could never be removed. Her bosom heaved, and bitter tears ran down her face. A woman is helpless enough at best, but she more than the rest, because she was fighting under a false name and reputation. Nevertheless, she could not retreat now nor give up the battle. She knew that her father had incurred pecuniary obligations to Inigo which could only be repaid through her. Besides, should she let her career be destroyed at the outset because a creature like Plotowski had insulted her? Should she not rather persevere until she had won such position and such power as should enable her to protect herself against all the world? There was a proud, unconquered spirit in her, which asserted itself in her forlornness and distress more than it had ever done in her security and happiness.

And, after all, she was not without friends. At the worst she could apply to her father; and then there was Hamilton Jocelyn, who, although rather worldly and absurd, was really a good man, with her interests at heart, as was proved by his having obtained for her this splendid engagement, and there was Mr. Dinsmore, who seemed kindly and a gentleman; and Mr. Barclyffe, who had written all that praise of her in the newspaper; and there, too, was Geoffrey Bellingham; whatever his opinion of her might be, she did not believe that he would have stood by and allowed Herr Plotowski to insult her. No; things were not so hopeless, after all.

Averaged Two Elopements a Year

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., March 29.—"Rev." Abner Vernon, who has a mania for eloping, has been arrested at Phillippi. He has probably broken up more families than any other man in this State. It was not uncommon for him to be concerned in two elopements in one year. When the Salvation Army came here he joined them and was appointed an officer, finally eloping with another officer named Pamperill.

Death of Bishop Charbonnell.

TORONTO, March 29.—Count Armand Frances Mary de Charbonnell, second Bishop of Toronto and successor to Bishop Power, died yesterday in Lyons, France, which had been his place of residence since his retirement in 1859, when he resigned on account of ill health, being succeeded by the late Archbishop Lynch.

Sixteen Horses Burned.

MONTREAL, March 29.—Sixteen horses were roasted to death in Harry Phillips' Waverly Stable in Victoria-square while the brigade was trying to extinguish a dangerous fire of mysterious origin. The damage will probably mount up to $12,000. The value of the burnt horses is put at about $6000, and the sleighs and harness destroyed were worth about $5000 more. The damage to the building does not exceed $1000.

Death Terminated the Journey.

GUELPH, March 29.—Thomas Lyons, residing near Cheltenham, Peel County, accompanied by his wife and a neighboring farmer named Hendry, arrived here yesterday. He was suffering from Bright's disease of the kidneys and was on his way to the General Hospital for treatment at that institution. Being in a very poor condition before he left home, he was so exhausted when he reached the city that his wife and friend were glad to secure a comfortable room for the sick man at the nearest hotel, where every attention was given him, but he only lived a few hours.

Imitated the Money Closely.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—A sensation has been caused at the Treasury Department by the discovery of a counterfeit $2 silver certificate so nearly perfect in all its parts as to be almost impossible of detection. The Treasury Department has practically decided to suspend the printing of the two dollar silver certificates and to institute a new series of the same denomination. These will contain a vignette of [illegible] Windom, and will be issued as soon as the necessary plates can be engraved.

Here's a Grip Microbe.

CHICAGO, March 29.—Dr. William D. Gentry of this city claims to be the possessor of a microbe of the grip, the first ever captured or even heard of. The little wriggler is imprisoned on the glass slide of Dr. Gentry's big microscope, and was to-day carefully inspected by many a scientific eye.

Newfoundland's Envoys.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., March 29.—The Newfoundland House of Assembly has appointed Premier Sir William V. Whiteway, Speaker Emmerson and Mr. Morine delegates to England to oppose the passage of the Imperial Coercion Bill. The delegates of the Legislative Council will be Hons. A. W. Harvey and J. W. Pitts or Moses Munroe.

A Warning to Cigaret Smokers.

HAZELTON, Pa., March 29.—Yesterday Mike Carson, crazy from cigaret smoking, was taken to the middle coal field district almshouse at Laurytown. Some time last night he fastened a piece of wire to the top of the window, to which he attached his suspenders, and tieing the garter around his neck he literally choked himself to death.

CHANGE OF BUSINESS

I beg to announce to my late customers that I have sold out my business to Messrs. Hilliard & Peplow, and would bespeak for them the same support as you have accorded me.

C. N. BROWN.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

For some time past we have thought that a strictly cash business in Flour, Feed and Provisions could be successfully carried on in Peterborough, and to test this question we have purchased the above business from Mr C. N. Brown, who will still continue as manager, in Flavelle's Old Stand, Simcoe-st.

In order to be successful we intend to make it the interest of every one to pay cash with order by selling at wholesale prices.

We will positively give no credit and cash customers will not have to keep up the losses made by others on the credit system.

We will keep a full supply of

FLOUR, FEED, CHOP, Etc.,

and our customers need not fear that the quality of the goods will be lowered to make up for the reduction in prices.

We are simply giving them the benefit of the margin necessary to cover losses and interest charges incurred in the credit system

MASSACRE IN INDIA.

DEATH PRECEDED THE DURBAR AT MANIPUR.

Two Companies of Goorkhas, Including Several English Officers, Practically Annihilated in Consequence of a Dispute over the Deposition of a Rajah.

CALCUTTA, March 30.—The news of a terrible massacre was brought to Kohima on the Assam frontier by two Goorkhas who arrived there yesterday. The massacre originated in a feud between the Rajah of Manipur and a leading tribal chief. The Rajah was deposed and he appealed to the Viceroy. Mr. Quinton was sent to settle the trouble and started from headquarters at Shillang, escorted by the 42nd and 44th Goorkha Light Infantry. After crossing the frontier Quinton summoned the chiefs to a durbar at Manipur for the purpose of arresting the rebellious chiefs. The tribesmen pretended to obey the summons, mustered in force and at midnight on the day before that on which the durbar was to be held suddenly attacked the camp of Commissioner Quinton, which lay between Kohima and Manipur. The attempt to surprise the camp failed and the tribesmen were driven back. They returned, however, and kept up the attack and siege night and day for 48 hours. Finally the ammunition of the Goorkhas gave out and Mr. Quinton was obliged to give the order, "Sauve qui Peut!" During the fight scouts were sent out to try to communicate with Shillang, but they never returned. The Manipur natives cut the telegraph wires and killed the messengers. Fugitives report that a general massacre followed the taking of the camp. There is reason for believing that the estimate that 470 were killed is incorrect. One account of the affair reports that Commissioner Quinton and his staff were made prisoners. Another account says Colekane, the commander, Commissioner Quinton, with his son and daughter, Captain Boileau and six officers were killed, the natives refusing to give them quarter. The rebellious tribe is famous for cunning, cruelty and bravery. Immediately upon receiving the news of the disaster the viceroy at Simla summoned a council, and native regiments stationed in Assam have already been despatched to Manipur. The 3rd Bengal Infantry will start for the scene to-morrow.

The Viceroy of India has abandoned his tour and has started for Simla. Five regiments and a mountain battery have been ordered to Manipur.

Escaped from the Constable.

PORT ARTHUR, March 30.—The man Ouellette, convicted of stealing furs from the Hudson Bay Company's stores at Nepigon, got away from Neil Macdougall, deputy sheriff, at Manukama. He was on his way to Kingston to put in his three year sentence.

Tired of Life at 25.

BUFFALO, March 30.—C. Clark, 25 years of age, son of E. Clark, general freight agent N.Y.C., committed suicide at the Broezel House yesterday by shooting. The deceased was to have met his father here yesterday morning, and the latter arrived only to find his son dead.

ALL THE NEWS OF EUROPE

PEACE REIGNED IN NORTH SLIGO YESTERDAY.

A Mob Prevents Firemen Working on a Burning Building and Several Persons Perish in the Flames—Moonlighters Arrested at Queenstown—Embarking For America.

LONDON, March 30.—During a fire at Portsmouth to-night a mob of drunken sailors gathered about the burning building and prevented the firemen from raising ladders in order to save the lives of the occupants remaining in the house. A desperate fight ensued between the firemen and the mob, in which many on both sides were injured. The mob was finally driven away. Meanwhile, however, a boy and a servant girl, whose lives might have been saved had the firemen not been interfered with, were burned to death in their rooms on an upper floor.

THE REUSS EPISODE.

A Phase of the Case Which Does Honor to the Young Princess.

LONDON, March 30.—Marie Glaser is the name of the pretty circus girl who charges M. Rudolph Vacaresco, son of the ex-minister to Roumania, at Vienna with stealing her diamonds, having first borrowed and afterwards pawned the jewels. The young man, it seems, who belongs to a noble family in Roumania, gave the girl the impression that he would make her his wife, and managed to borrow from her not only her jewelry, but all the money she earned while at Vienna, and, what is looked upon as making the matter worse, he used a portion of the money thus obtained in paying court to the daughter of an attache of the German Embassy.

The latter discovered his perfidy and made the facts known to the Princess Reuss, with the result before stated of Vacaresco's expulsion from the ball. The Prince of Reuss persists in his refusal to fight a duel on the subject.

THE WORKINGMEN'S CONGRESS.

A Sweeping Program Adopted and a General Strike Promised.

PARIS, March 31.—The Workmen's Congress has adopted a program embracing the following propositions: That eight hours constitute a day's work; that the minimum of wages be fixed; that children under 14 be prohibited from working; that everybody declared by workmen's syndicates to be unable to work to receive public support; that masters be held responsible for accidents to workmen; that municipal butchers, bake houses and bazaars be formed; that communes be allowed to borrow money without consulting the central government; and finally that every trade organize in readiness for a general strike to vanquish the opposing employers. [illegible] ated the Congress.

WORK OF PARNELLITE PEBBLES.

Sligo Surgeons Busy Bandaging Up Sunday's Election Fight Wounds.

DUBLIN, March 30.—Roche and Conway (members of Parliament) engaged in an altercation followed by a scuffle at Easkey and police had to separate the combatants. Quietness has prevailed in North Sligo to-day, however. The surgeons of Sligo have been kept busy dressing the wounds of those struck with stones in Sunday's fights.

Messrs. Davitt and Sexton addressed a large meeting in the dark to-night from the steps of the town hall. Mr. Sexton announced that Mr. Smith, the First Lord of the Treasury, had consulted with Mr. McCarthy on the question of the appointment of an Irish delegate on the labor commission and that Mr. McCarthy had recommended Michael Davitt as the Irish representative.

Robbery Made Easy.

LONDON, March 29.—A man obtained admission to Viscount Cranbourne's London residence in Park-place on the pretence of being sent to examine the telephone wires. Once in the house he made his way to the Viscountess Cranbourne's room and stole her diamond necklace and some brooches, as well as studs belonging to Lord Cranbourne. He then walked out, saying it would be necessary to fetch another man in order to finish the work, and was never seen again.

Three Moonlighters Arrested.

QUEENSTOWN, March 30.—On the arrival of the steamship Servia, from Liverpool to New York, at this point to-day she was boarded by the police, who arrested three moonlighters, Healy, Scollard and Brosnan, charged with firing into a hut at Tralee, which was occupied by a number of constables. The police have been looking for the men for some time, and learned that they had embarked at Liverpool yesterday for America.

The Sight That Greeted Mary Cooper.

LONDON, March 30.—Returning to her home at Great Marlow from a visit to a neighbor last night, Mary Cooper found her aged father and mother lying side by side upon a bed with their throats cut. The woman was dead but the man was alive. The room presented a dreadful appearance. The frightfully wounded man managed to confess that he had killed his wife after a desperate struggle and attempted to kill himself. After cutting his throat he plunged the knife into his abdomen, and would have inflicted other wounds upon himself but for weakness from loss of blood. He will die.

Comment on the Rebellion.

LONDON, March 31.—All the morning dailies comment upon the gravity of the Manipur rebellion and the necessity of strong measures to retrieve British prestige. Some papers think Commissioner Quinton's force was inadequate and that he committed a blunder in underrating the strength of the enemy.

Drowned Himself in Mid-Ocean.

PHILADELPHIA, March 30.—While in mid-ocean William Hartley, an expert florist and rose grower, bound to Manayunk, near this city, committed suicide on the night of March 23 by jumping overboard from the deck of the American Line steamship Ohio. The engines of the Ohio were stopped at once and every effort made to save the unfortunate man, but without success.

The Day His Wife Had Twins.

NEWTON, March 30.—Charles Kutner, a frescoer and decorator, who has a wife and 10 children in Flanville, Hunterdon County, eloped with Miss Annie Cladorbox, a pretty girl who lived with her father in Water-street. On the very day of the alleged elopement Kutner's wife gave birth to a pair of twins. He left his family in great destitution.

He Wrote "The Breadwinners."

CHICAGO, March 31.—In the course of a talk on literary style before the Methodist Ministers' Association of this city to-day, Rev. Dr. Mendenhall of Cleveland set at rest the mooted question of the authorship of "The Breadwinners," by announcing himself as that man.

THE SOCIALIST CLOUD.

Kaiser William Worried at its Expansion, Especially in the Army.

LONDON, March 30.—This evening's advices from Berlin state that unusual activity has prevailed for the past three days in the War Office, and that an unusual number of employes were busy there to-day. The Emperor had a long audience with Chancellor Caprivi, and the high officials generally look as if something important was on the tapis. There is no doubt that the movements of Russian troops near the German frontier, and the evidence of cordial intimacy between Russia and France have caused much anxiety in Berlin, and it is possible that the alarm caused by the apprehension of war may lead to important military changes.

Besides the thought that Russia and France may be preparing for war the German Government is said to be very much stirred up over startling facts that have been disclosed in regard to the socialistic propaganda in the army. The military authorities have come into possession, through a recent arrest, of evidence going to show that the social democracy has been spreading its doctrines through the ranks of the army and navy, and has made numerous proselytes, and that the propagation of socialism among the troops is not confined of Germany, but is systematically carried on throughout Europe, with the exception of Russia, and that all the armies of Western Europe are honeycombed with the subversive ideas of the pledged enemies of established institutions.

The Kaiser, it is stated, has given directions that the evil shall be dealt with most radically, so far as Germany is concerned, and any officer or soldier detected in propagating the prohibited opinions shall be punished with the utmost severity. The information ascertained has also been sent to Austria, Belgium and Italy for the war offices in those countries to be on their guard.

A MAN-EATING STALLION.

He Horribly Mangles His Owner and His Owner's Father.

HAMILTON, Ohio, March 31.—Tom Burke, jr., of Somerville, a village near here, is the owner of a four-year-old high-bred stallion, which is very wild and savage. It was unsafe to approach him without a club, that being the only thing which would intimidate him. Last evening Tom entered the stable, forgetting his club, when the stallion attacked him. He was knocked down, and the fiery animal began trampling on him, bruising him terribly. His father rushed to his rescue with a stick and broke it on the stallion's back. The beast then turned on the old man, and soon had him under his feet.

Tom, jr., rushed up into the haymow, descended with a pitchfork and thrust it repeatedly into the stallion's side. This weakened the savage brute, and the old man, terribly mangled, was carried into the house, where he now lies dying. His face was chewed in an awful manner, mostly all his ribs were broken and there are many internal injuries. His son will live.

EIGHT HOURS OR A STRIKE.

Sam Gompers Will Lead the Inaugural Movement in Pittsburg on May 1.

PITTSBURG, Pa., March 30.—Samuel Gompers, president of the Federation of Labor, will be here within the next two weeks and writes that his organization will back the coke strikers to the last in their demand for eight hours. His visit, however, more directly concerns the coming struggle of the building trades in this vicinity for the eight-hour law to be demanded on May 1. Pittsburg, it will be remembered, having been chosen as the nucleus for an eight-hour movement in the building trades to extend all over the country.

Both sides are thoroughly organized for the fight. The master builders have been preparing for a year, and the builders of Pittsburg and the surrounding towns say they are a unit in repelling the move, and that they will lock out every employee on May 1, if they persist in demanding eight hours. On the other hand the carpenters with all other branches of the building trades are the best organized men in the country and are confident of winning.

President Gompers says he will make his headquarters here and stand by both the coke strikers and the building organizations until they win their demands.

Was He Hypnotized?

FARGO, N.D., March 30.—From certain facts which have come to light within a day or so it seems possible that the trial of Joseph Remington for the murder of J. Flett at Arthur may become one of the most famous in the United States. The theory will be that when hypnotized by the Minneapolis woman, whose name has been so frequently mentioned since his arrest, he murdered Agent Flett.

Hypnotized By Sharpers.

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio, March 30.—Samuel Cosler, an old resident of Beaver Creek township, Green county, is on the lookout for two lightning-rod swindlers who visited him and got him to sign a note, which he said to-day he thought was for $230 at least, if not for as many thousand. He explains his signing the note by claiming that the two hypnotized him, and while in their power he unconsciously signed the paper.

Both Dropped Dead.

TROY, March 30.—Erastus B. Stickney of Lansingburgh dropped dead of heart disease Friday afternoon at the age of 91 years. His death so affected the mind of his only daughter that it became unbalanced, and this afternoon she too dropped dead of heart disease. There will be a double funeral on Monday.

DUPED FORTY-THREE MEN

A YOUNG WOMAN'S MATRIMONIAL ADVENTURES.

How She Worked the Marriage Trick on Numerous Swains—A Story of Adventure Without a Parallel in the Modern Annals of Crime.

PARIS, March 30.—A woman who has actually gone through the marriage service with 43 men and swindled all but one of them within three hours after the ceremony is the latest product of the Parisian police. Six years ago Eveline Leal, a handsome young English girl, married a Frenchman, who died within a month of the wedding, leaving her with no money and plenty of debts. To "square" herself with society Eveline resorted to what is known in police lingo as "the marriage trick." Her method of procedure was simple and ingenious. She advertised, stating that a widow possessing 1,200,000 francs wished to marry a gentleman in good circumstances, belonging to the nobility or to the high commercial class.

Answers were to be sent to the postoffice. Her accomplice, who occupied the position of companion, seems to have had the important duty of choosing the victims from among the applicants. At any rate, the suitor was never admitted into Eveline's presence unless his personal appearance was in his favor, and then he was granted a rendezvous either in a sumptuous apartment on the Champs Elysees or at one of the best hotels.

Naturally Eveline took a different name for every occasion. For some suitors for her hand and fortune she called herself Madame Ferbank, Madame Rappy, Madame Decomay, Madame Burnelly. She always began by making some objection to an immediate marriage. Sometimes assuming the character of an ingenious miss she said her mother considered that she was too young for marriage and that the applicant must wait a while. On another occasions the fortune or social position of the suitor was not what she desired, but in the end she always allowed herself to be captivated with the personal qualities of the would-be husbands. She often managed things so cleverly that she received rich presents from her suitors, and, after getting as much as she could, suddenly disappeared. In several cases she considered it better policy to secure possession of the wedding gifts by agreeing to a marriage ceremony. For this she invariably crossed the Channel, expressing a preference for the wedding to take place in England. After the clergyman had in all good faith pronounced the nuptial benediction she returned with her victim to the hotel, but always managed to disappear before night, never, however, leaving the wedding gifts behind her.

Eveline victimized 34 presumably intelligent men in this way before she fell into the hands of the Paris police in the autumn of 1887. She was sent to jail for two years, obtained an early release for good conduct, resorted to her old tricks and victimized ten lovers more without detection. The swindled ones were too much ashamed to inform the police, but her 43rd victim gave the police information which led to Eveline's second arrest on Good Friday at the Hotel Meurice, Rue Rivoli. Her dupe this time was a French Viscount, who had ruined himself through gambling and was anxious to regild his armorial bearings with the 1,200,000 francs of the charming widow. It would even seem as if he were really in love with the adventuress, for he journeyed with her and a companion (a certain Mrs. Caba), believed to hail from New Orleans.

They traveled in England, Belgium and Norway, the Viscount paying all expenses by borrowing money right and left on his expectations. He made Eveline rich presents wherever they went. At last back in Paris, the Viscount insisted upon having a day fixed for the wedding, but to no avail. Miss Reynolds—that was the last name she had assumed—was inexorable. He must wait. This fact awakened the suspicions of the Viscount, who laid the case before M. Goron, chief of detectives. When the officers presented themselves at the Hotel Meurice Eveline was greatly astonished, but followed them bravely to the police station. As for her companion, Mrs. Caba, she was absent from the hotel when Eveline was arrested, and has not been seen there again. This time fair Eveline will probably get a sentence which will put her out of harm's way for many years.

She is the child of a well-to-do farmer in Shropshire, the fertility of whose acres made it an easy matter to provide handsomely for his family, composed of one daughter and three sons.

Eveline, like many others in the same position, being the pet of the father and brothers and fairly good looking, soon learned to command, and grew up in the belief that mankind was created to do her homage and minister to her wishes.

Makes the Weak Strong

The marked benefit which people in run down or weakened state of health derive from Hood's Sarsaparilla, conclusively proves the claim that this medicine "makes the weak strong." It does not act like a stimulant, imparting fictitious strength from which there must follow a reaction of greater weakness than before, but in the most natural way Hood's Sarsaparilla overcomes creates an appetite, purifies the blood, and, in short, gives great bodily, nerve, mental and digestive strength.

That Tired Feeling

"I derived very much benefit from Hood's Sarsaparilla, which I took for general debility. It built me right up, and gave me an excellent appetite." ED. JENKINS, Mt. Savage, Md.

Fagged Out

"Last spring I was completely fagged out. My strength left me and I felt sick and miserable all the time, so that I could hardly attend to my business. I took one bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it cured me. There is nothing like it." R. C. BROOLE, Editor Enterprise, Belleville, Mich.

Worn Out

"Hood's Sarsaparilla restored me to good health. Indeed, I might say truthfully it saved my life. To one feeling tired and worn out I would earnestly recommend a trial of Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. PHEBE MOREES, 46 Brooks Street, East Boston, Mass.

EAST RIDING INSTITUTE

A SUCCESSFUL FARMERS' MEETING AT WARSAW.

Early Seed Sowing, Ensilage, Fertilizers, The Sugar Beet and Other Subjects Discussed—The Dominion Experimental Farms.

WARSAW, March 26.—Last night brought to a close the first venture Warsaw has made in the way of a Farmers' Institute meeting. Although of necessity gotten up on short notice, a fair attendance of interested farmers turned out to both sessions. Great credit is due to such men as Messrs. Birdsall and Moore, for the energy and interest they manifest in these meetings and the intelligent manner in which they add to the knowledge imparted by the speakers by giving practical illustrations from their own experience, thus showing themselves to be wide awake and progressive agriculturists. The principal speakers of yesterday were Mr. F. T. Shutt, chemist to Dominion Experimental Farms, and Mr. John Craig, Horticulturist to the same institution.

Afternoon Session.

In a few introductory remarks by Chairman Birdsall, he referred to the advantage of this class of experience meetings to the farmer in not only comparing notes on the year's work, but were able to gain information on knotty problems from the speakers appointed to address them.

EARLY SOWING.

He then introduced Mr. Craig who spoke on some of the important lines of work carried on at the Farm last year. The first subject was that of the effect on the grain crop of early and late seeding. From experiments conducted last year it was shown that barley sown at Ottawa on April 22nd yielded 16 bushels more per acre than the same variety sown a week later. Other plots sown at later periods showed a gradual decrease in yield per acre. The same result held good with oats and wheat, though in a less marked degree. Taking up seriatum, Mr. Craig then gave briefly the varieties of cereals which gave the best returns during the past two seasons and urged the farmers to take advantage of the publications distributed from the Experimental farm giving important information regarding these points.

SUGAR BEETS AND FODDER.

Mr. SHUTT was then introduced and in view of the fact that the sugar beet was a matter of immediate interest to the farmer, gave an instructive synopsis of the history of the development of that industry in France, its introduction to this country and the possible outcome, concluding this topic by giving instructions for the growth and cultivation and saying that his analyses at the Experimental Farm had proved that our Canadian grown sugar beets had the requisite amount of saccharine matter in them and the success of the project would largely depend on the actual cost of production and profit to the farmer, which could not be determined without a fair and unbiased trial. Speaking of ensilage he pointed out that chemical analysis showed that the greatest amount of the albuminoids (or flesh formers) resided in the Indian corn at that period which is termed the glazing stage, which was of much practical importance. He further enlarged on the relative value and functions of the principal food, nutrients in the animal foods, carbo hydrates, albuminoids, fats. The constant cross questioning showed the interest and intelligence of the audience.

Evening Session.

Mr. SHUTT gave an outline of agriculture past and present, expanding on the objects and work of the system, at the same time inviting the co-operation and assistance of the farmers who could help on the work of the farms by indicating lines of work which were most useful in different parts of the country, and questions which the scientists at the Central Farm would take pleasure in giving their careful attention. The fertilizer subject coming up Mr. Shutt strongly advised the practice where possible of using absorbents such as dry muck or gypsum in stables. Ordinary muck had, apart from its mechanical effect on the soil, about 1 per cent, as compared to 8 or 10 per cent in barnyard manure, of fertilizing material.

HORTICULTURE.

Mr. CRAIG spoke of the work of the Horticultural Department more particularly, such as reforesting the North West plains, finding and developing varieties of fruit trees best adapted to the varying climatic conditions of the Dominion as well as testing methods of cultivating and varieties of garden vegetables. Experiments with copper salt fungicides had been undertaken lately and important results were already indicated, such as remedy for apple scab, grape mildew, and potato rot. Mr. Craig was strongly in favor of farmers in this vicinity going more largely into fruit culture as a means of increasing their revenues and the "number of baskets which carried the eggs."

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded the lecturers with the hope that ere long the farmers in the vicinity would have another opportunity of meeting for counsel and mutual benefit with the gentlemen from Ottawa.

What it Costs

Must be carefully considered by the great majority of people in buying even necessaries of life. Hood's Sarsaparilla commends itself with special force to the great middle classes, because it combines positive economy with great medicinal power. It is the only medicine of which can truly be said "100 Doses One Dollar," and a bottle taken according to directions will average to last a month.

NO ANNEXATION FOR US.

Let them talk of annexation,
Ever without relaxation,
It will bring them but vexation.
All their talk is naught.
Uncle Sam no doubt is clever,
But to join him we will never,
Let this last break be for ever—
No! with meaning fraught.

Understand, we are a nation,
Struggling for a higher station,
And our heart's best aspiration
Freedom and the right!
Though the Eagle's broad wings hover
Near us, he will soon discover,
Separate and distinct forever!
Is our motto bright.

Individual position
Is our own, in this condition
We'll remain, our noble mission
To become more great.
Insignificant you'd deem us,
Of our glory past you'd rob us,
As a fraction you'd absorb us,
Rule not so, oh, Fate!

N. A. YOUNG.

Good Friday at Y.M.C.A.

At 15 a.m. a delightful service was held for the junior branch, the members of which were out in large numbers. Miss Code gave a very helpful address, which left a good impression on the boys with the need of taking the Lord Jesus as their personal Saviour. After the service was concluded the boys were treated to refreshments by the lady friends. Altogether the service was very helpful to the lads and very encouraging to the workers. The rooms were filled with young men all day who enjoyed the privilege of the reading room and parlor games, etc., provided.

In the evening the monthly reception was tendered the young men. The hall was crowded with fine, manly young fellows. The St. Paul's Y.P.S.C.E. very kindly acted as hosts and did their work well, which gave great pleasure and profit to all present. At 8 p.m. the President of the St. Paul's Y.P.S.C.E., Mr. James Connal, took the chair. After devotional services, led by Rev. W. P. Pentland, of Welcome, the following programme was well carried out to the credit of the Society and enjoyment of the young men present:—

Piano Solo	Miss Code
Vocal Duet	Misses Cameron and Paterson
Reading	Mr. James Connal
Piano Duet	Misses Fairweather and Hall
Vocal Solo	Miss S. Cameron
Inst. Duet	Messrs. J. Miller and Holland
Vocal Solo	Miss L. Dixon
Piano Solo	Miss A. Patterson
Vocal Solo	Mrs. W. Daly

Rev. Mr. Torrance gave a very practical address on "Elements of Success in Life," which was full of excellent advice to the young men and will bear fruit in the lives of the young men. During the evening an abundant supply of cake and coffee was served by the young ladies, which the young men did justice too. A hearty vote of thanks was carried unanimously and tendered the St. Paul's Y.P.S.C.E. for the delightful evening provided, and to the Rev. Mr. Torrance for his helpful address. After a pleasant time spent socially the meeting closed, all feeling it was good to be there. The feeling was strongly expressed that the Association should keep open house every holiday so as to counteract the influence for evil on those days.

Hereditary Organic Quality.

Hereditary organic quality is the first, the basis, the most important condition of all the power of function and all happiness. This is congenital, and comes with life at birth. It depends mainly on the parents, and their health, state of mind and body, and is of vast importance not only to the family, but to the community and nation as well.

Children of nervous, weak, brain-tired, sleepless and dyspeptic parents, will, to a great extent, show as they grow up many of the same conditions and troubles. How important then for parents to give this subject the consideration it so much deserves. It is the duty of every parent to consider carefully his or her condition, and to strengthen the weak points wherever found. Fathers and mothers are often nervous and weak; at times they experience a used-up feeling; they are listless, morose, and often morbid feelings prevail. All these unpleasant and dangerous symptoms can be eradicated by the use of that great health-giver, Paine's Celery Compound. It will give parents what they most delight to see in their children—a robust constitution, vigor, digestive power, brightness and energy. Secure these characteristics and blessings, and your offspring will be blessed in the same way.

Mutiny on a Man-of-War.

BUENOS AYRES, March 30.—A mutiny occurred on the Chilian man-of-war Pilcomayo while lying in the harbor here. Three sailors were killed and nine wounded.

Protest in North Middlesex.

AILSA CRAIG, March 30.—The Reform Association of North Middlesex met to-day, and decided to protest the election of W. H. Hutchins at the last general elections.

Arrested for Bigamy.

HAMILTON, March 30.—Thomas H. Davis is under arrest here on the serious charge of bigamy. Davis is a printer and came from Toronto only a few days ago. Davis was married in Barrie eight or nine years ago to Annie Foster, daughter of William Foster, a farmer of Vespra Township, Simcoe County. On Dec. 16, 1889, while his wife was still living, he was married again in Toronto to Jane Sebastion of that city.

A Much Engaged Scamp.

HUNTINGDON, W. Va., March 30.—Oliver Deacon is very much in demand up in the Toms Creek neighborhood. He was without doubt the most numerously engaged man in all this region. Eighteen girls have stated since his escape that they were engaged to be married to Deacon, and the wedding day in each case was the 20th of April. The most distressing part of the whole affair is that the greater portion of the 18 maidens spoken of are all likely to have living reminders of Deacon. A letter from Deacon, written from Catlettsburg, says he believes himself safe, as they "don't hang gentlemen in Kentucky."

A Great Spelling Match.

The greatest spelling match on record is that offered by Our Home Publishing Co., in which they will award the following magnificent CASH PRIZES:—One prize of $[illegible]; one prize of $[illegible]; two prizes of $100; four prizes of $50; eight prizes of $25; twenty prizes of $10; forty prizes of $5; one hundred prizes of $2; and two hundred of $1. Send 10 cents in stamps or silver, for a sample copy of the Feburary number, with rules and regulations governing the competition. Address, OUR HOMES PUB. CO., Brockville, Ont. 41d43-7w

KILLED BY RABIES.

A Spinster Whose Finger Was Scratched by a Sick Dog's Tooth Dies in Agony.

HARTFORD, Conn., March 30.—The terrible death this afternoon of Miss Ella O. Learned is asserted by her physicians to have been, without any question, due to genuine rabies. A dog, an Italian greyhound and a great pet of Miss Learned, had been sick and restless for several days. In springing toward a door the dog ran against Miss Learned and one of its teeth struck her finger, making a slight scratch, from which a drop or two of blood oozed. Four days later the dog died quietly, without having exhibited other than ordinary symptoms of sickness. Miss Learned, who was a spinster, aged 50, suffered terrible agonies.

A Bride of a Day, Who Married Her Husband's Slayer, Asks for Divorce.

MONTPELIER, Vt., March 30.—Mrs. Laura A. Caswell is suing for divorce from her husband, James S. Caswell, who is serving a life sentence of imprisonment at Windsor for murder. Caswell and George Gould worked on the Cutter farm and in September, 1888, Gould and Laura drove down to the village and were married. The next morning they returned home, and in less than half-an-hour afterwards the newly-made husband was shot and killed by Caswell.

Caswell was found guilty and sentenced for life and six days before Caswell was committed to the prison at Windsor, Laura Cutter Gould went to the county jail and was married to him.

Whatever her reasons were for marrying him, she has evidently tired of posing as the wife of a man who can never be a husband to her. Caswell asserts that it was with an eye to securing his pension that Mrs. Gould, the bride of a day, was willing to marry her husband's slayer.

FATAL FIGHT WITH A BEAR.

A Hunter Attacked by Bruin While Trailing a Moose.

PRINCE ALBERT, March 30.—Word has been received here from Devil's Lake of the death of an Indian hunter. It appears that the Indian and a younger brother got on the trail of a moose, which they followed til about dusk, when the man told the boy to proceed home and he would follow the tracks a little further. Failing to return, searching parties were formed. When found the body was cold, but not frozen, showing plainly that the poor fellow had died but a short time before. From indications surrounding the spot where the body was found, it appears he followed the tracks of the moose till he suddenly came on the nest of a bear which must have attacked him, as his head, body and limbs were dreadfully lacerated by the ferocious animal. The Indian had fired a couple of shots at the bear, severely wounding him, judging from the marks of blood around the spot where a tussle for life took place. The bear must have dragged the man some distance, as a bloody trail showed plainly his track as he crawled back to the place where the body was found, and where he had managed to light a fire.

TRADED HIS WIFE FOR A PONY.

But the Animal Turned Out Worthless and He Welcomed Her Back.

PITTSBURG, Pa., March 30.—A few months ago a man named Zimmerman arrived in Darlington, Beaver county, with a herd of ponies. Among those who looked longingly on a particular pony was George Davis, a young married man of that place. Davis had no money, but he possessed a wife, whom he offered to exchange for the animal and a money consideration. The wife was consulted, and after a few days' dickering Zimmerman agreed to give the pony and a deed to 144 acres of land in Montana in exchange for the woman. The papers were drawn up, and Zimmerman took the woman and Davis the pony.

The cowboy and Mrs. Davis went West, but she soon repented and asked to be taken back to her first love. By this time Davis discovered that Zimmerman did not own a foot of land in Montana or any other place. The innocent looking pony turned out to be everything that was bad, and when Mrs. Davis arrived home yesterday she was gladly welcomed by her rightful husband.

TUESDAY, MARCH 31, 1891.

THE CITY AND SUBURBS.

Death of His Uncle.

Chief Roszel received the sad intelligence this morning that his uncle, Mr. Stores Bennett, of Johnston's Creek, N. Y., had died. The funeral takes place this afternoon.

Hall's Hair Renewer is pronounced the best preparation made for thickening the growth of the hair, and restoring that which is gray to the original color.

Millers Meet.

The Lindsay Post says:—"A meeting of the master millers of the Midland district was held in town Thursday afternoon. Among those present were Messrs. E. Peplow, Peterborough, Chas. Smith, Campbellford; F. W. Fowlds, Hastings; John Hull and D. McLean, Lakefield; R. Rayburn, Deseronto; R. Coleman, Hamilton; J. D. Flavelle, Lindsay."

Preparing for the Census.

Mr. C. Stapleton, census commissioner for West Peterborough, and Mr. J. B. Pearce, commissioner for the East riding, are busy to-day getting arrangements made to commence their labors. A number of the enumerators were in the County Council Chamber having the modus operandi explained. The list of enumerators is not completed, they all not having been appointed.

Every tissue of the body, every bone, muscle and organ, is made stronger and more healthful by the use of Hood's Sarsaparilla.

The Spring Freshet.

Yesterday afternoon the creek which has been in a threatening attitude for several days past rose to a high point. In the evening a jam at the Brock-st. bridge caused some excitement. The ice coming down from above jammed at the bridge and in a few moments the water was out into the streets. Street Inspector Pope had men at work, and with several charges of dynamite succeeded most successfully in opening a channel. The creek subsided in short order, and danger is now thought to be past, the ice having moved down from above.

Death of an Old Resident.

The grim reaper has been claiming many victims among the old inhabitants of this district during the last few months. This morning another one of the oldest residents of Peterborough passed over to the great majority in the person of Mrs. Elizabeth Clotworthy, relict of the late Wm. Clotworthy. The deceased lady had reached the advanced age of 96 years, having been born in the last century in the year 1795. She was a native of County Down, Ireland, and was united in marriage to the late Mr. Clotworthy in the old land. About the year 1830 the family emigrated to this country and came to Peterborough, settling close to the place where the deceased lady died. She had therefore been a resident of the town for [illegible] years and had seen the small [illegible] village grow in population and stretch out its proportions until it became the first town in the Dominion. Over a quarter of a century ago her husband was gathered home. She was the mother of six children. Four of these survive her, two sons and two daughters—Adam, James and Agnes Clotworthy and Mrs. Jane Livick. The deceased lady was a Presbyterian by religion and had been a consistent member of that church during her long life time. For some years past she has been a member of St. Paul's church. Widely known, she was generally respected and beloved as an excellent, Christian lady. The funeral will take place from the family residence, [illegible] George-st., on Thursday afternoon next at 2.30 o'clock to the Little Lake cemetery.

Hall's Hair Renewer enjoys the confidence and patronage of the people all over the civilized world who use it to restore and keep the hair a natural color.

VESTRY MEETINGS.

St. John's Vestry—A Very Satisfactory Financial Statement.

The annual Vestry Meeting of St. John's Church was held last evening, Rev. J. C. Davidson, the Rector, presiding. There was a good attendance at the meeting.

THE CONGREGATION CONGRATULATED.

After the meeting had been opened the following telegram was read from Rev. Rural Dean Davidson, of Colborne, referring to the Easter offering:—"Hearty congratulations on splendid results to yourself, staff and Wardens." Also from Rev. M. Dawe, of Belleville, who had initiated the effort, extending "hearty congratulations."

The following telegram was received too late to be read at the meeting:—

"My heartiest congratulations to the congregation on the splendid effort to reduce the debt.

"(Sgd) BISHOP OF TORONTO."

FINANCIAL STATEMENT.

The statement of affairs for the year ending March 29th, 1891, was presented by Mr. G. A. Smith, churchwarden. It showed a balance on hand for the year of $34. During the year a floating debt, carried over from former years, of $670.22 has been wiped off, and a payment of $1,800 had been made on the mortgage debt, reducing it to $9,350, instead of $11,150 as it was last Easter.

Appended to this was a comparative statement of the receipts for the past five years. The aggregate offerings for the past three years were as follows: 1889, $2,252.66; 1890, $4,282.36; and 1891, $6,962.64.

In moving the reception of the statement, Rev. V. CLEMENTI made eulogistic remarks regarding the exceedingly satisfactory state of affairs. The motion was seconded by Dr. BOUCHER and carried.

AUDITORS APPOINTED.

The minutes of the past two vestry meetings were read and adopted with a change.

On motion of Dr. BOUCHER, seconded by JUDGE WELLER, Messrs. W. H. Budden and A. V. R. Young were appointed auditors.

CHURCH WARDENS.

The Rector appointed Mr. H. Rush as his warden for the ensuing year, and while doing so expressed his sense of the wonderful service which had been rendered by Mr. G. A. Smith during the past year.

On motion of Rev. V. CLEMENTI, seconded by Mr. W. SAILSBURY, Mr. G. A. Smith was elected the people's churchwarden.

SIDESMEN.

On motion of JUDGE WELLER, seconded by Dr. HALLIDAY, Messrs. Jos. Mills, H. Long, F. L. Somerville and R. Fair were appointed sidesmen.

FINANCE COMMITTEE.

The RECTOR, in introducing the appointment of a Finance Committee, referred to the important service the Committee had been to the church. In future it would be, as in the past, a board to advise the Wardens in regard to expenditure; and secondly, an advisory board to which he (the Rector) could turn at any emergency for advice and counsel.

On motion of Mr. G. A. SMITH, seconded by Mr. H. RUSH, the following Finance Committee was appointed:—Messrs. Dr. Boucher, Judge Weller, Dr. Halliday, R. A. Morrow, G. W. Hatton, Alex. Elliott, W. E. Sherwood, R. Fair, Macfarlane Wilson, Jos. Mills, A. V. R. Young and W. Sailsbury.

THE LATE WM. ENGLISH.

Mr. G. A. SMITH moved, seconded by Dr. BOUCHER,—That this Vestry records with very great sorrow the great loss it has sustained in the death of one of its Churchwardens and fellow workers, the late Wm. English.

The motion was carried by a standing vote, and instructions given for a copy to be sent to the family of the late Wm. English.

THANKS TO THE CHOIR.

Mr. H. RUSH moved, seconded by Mr. EDG. PEARSE,—That the thanks of the congregation be tendered to the the choir for their services during the past year.—Carried.

The Vestry adjourned for two weeks to receive the report of the auditors.

DELEGATES APPOINTED.

The meeting then resolved itself into a congregational meeting, and on motion of Dr. BOUCHER, seconded by JUDGE WELLER, Messrs. Edg. Pearse, W. E. Sherwood and Dr. Halliday were appointed representatives of the Synod.

On motion of Mr. EDG. PEARSE, seconded by JUDGE WELLER, it was decided that the book for receiving signatures of members of the congregation be left at some convenient office in town as well as in the church.

The meeting then adjourned.

St. Luke's Church.

The annual Easter Vestry Meeting of St. Luke's Church, Ashburnham, was held last evening in the lecture room of the church. There was a very good attendance and the greatest harmony prevailed throughout. The Rector, Rev. J. W. McCleary, presided.

The annual report was presented by the Rector giving details of the work of the past year.

The Churchwarden's report was also presented. Attached to this was the financial statement for the year, showing the finances to be in a very satisfactory condition.

The financial report was referred to the auditors and favorably reported on.

Mr. H. T. Strickland was elected people's churchwarden and Mr. John Burnham, Q.C., M.P., was re-appointed churchwarden by the Rector.

The sidesmen elected were Messrs Ingram, F. Adams, W. Menzies, F. Packenham and S. Orde.

The following Finance Committee was also elected:—Messrs. E. A. Peck (chairman), McFadden, Jamieson, F. Adams, R. B. Rogers, H. Nesbitt, Ingram, H. C. Rogers, R. Menzies and Mrs. John Heap, Mrs. Orde, Mrs. Nimmo, Miss Mills, Miss Tivey and the churchwardens. Mr. E. A. Peck was re-appointed vestry clerk for the ensuing year.

The lay delegates to the Synod elected were Messrs. John Burnham, Q.C., M.P., H. C. Rogers and H. T. Strickland.

Several minor matters of congregational interest were discussed and the meeting adjourned.

A Scene of Brilliant Gayety.

The Peterborough Iron Moulders Union gave an assembly in the Opera House last evening which was a most unqualified success. The building had been beautifully decorated, flags, bunting and mottoes making the scene one of brilliancy. About one hundred and fifty couple were present and the unanimous verdict was that the assembly was a grand success, the pleasure of the entire night being unmarred in any way. The Peterborough Orchestra supplied the music. Refreshments were served in the adjoining hall. Mr. M. Connors was the caterer and the excellent supper that he set before the guests established his reputation as a caterer. The committee who had the arrangements in charge are entitled to great credit for the complete preparations they had made and the success which attended the event.

Probably there are more cases of cold in head and catarrh during March than any other month in the year. As a precautionary measure keep Nasal Balm in the house. It never fails.

ON THEIR HONEYMOON.

BRIGADIER MARGRETS AND HIS BRIDE IN PETERBOROUGH.

A Big Hallelujah Time at the Salvation Army Temple—The Sixth Anniversary of the Local Corps—A Grand Banquet and Enthusiastic Jubilee.

In the general experiences of society the honeymoon tour is a quiet trip of secluded basking in sunshine and connubial bliss, but such cannot be said of the tour of Brigadier Margrets and his bride. United in the bonds of wedlock under the Army flag in the presence of an immense concourse of people in the Albert-st. barracks in Toronto, amid the hilarious enthusiasm of a Salvation jubilee, they had anything but a quiet wedding. Then their honeymoon trip is now being made and Peterborough was the first place to be honored with a visit, and their stay here has been far from quiet or secluded. While the supreme happiness of bride and groom is evident in their every look and move, yet they are leading services every night and utilizing their wedding tour to benefit the service which they have both accepted as their life labor.

It is now six years since the Salvation Army attacked Peterborough and stormed the citadel of Satan in our midst. The blood and fire soldiers have fought with an enthusiastic zeal which has gained them ground, and now that they are celebrating their sixth anniversary in good fortifications, they have just cause for gratitude and thankfulness. On Saturday and Sunday a series of special anniversary services was commenced, and last evening a grand banquet and jubilee was held as a welcome to Brigadier Margrets and his bride.

The enthusiasm and overflow of vocalism, which always characterizes a real salvation rally, was manifest, and the soldiers and officers alike went in for a grand hallelujah time, and they had it. Brigadier Margrets and his bride were given a rousing volley when they made their appearance. The soldiers yelled, the bandsmen tooted their horns in wild discord, the wielder of the big drum stick came down on the sheep skin with a full swing and all united in making a most appalling din. When this had subsided after several repetitions, the meeting began. There were short, sharp testimonies, snatches of songs, volleys and prayers, until the Brigadier came forward and sang a hymn accompanying himself on the banjo.

The Brigadier is a rather good looking man and possesses many of the characteristics of a successful Army officer. His new wife is a quiet-faced, rather attractive-looking lady, who speaks with a pretty aristocratic English accent, and, though it is not belittling the Brigadier, she is his better when an address is to be delivered. She speaks clearly, uses good language and has a very convincing style.

The Brigadier in his address referred to the Peterborough corps' sixth anniversary, and said they had cause for great thankfulness to God who had given them many victories in the past, and would lead on to greater victories in the future. He made a happy reference to his bride whom he counted as one of the greatest blessings God had sent him. He outlined the work done at the Cadets' Training Home in Toronto, of which he has charge, and solicited aid to wipe off a thousand dollar debt which hung over this important branch of Army work.

Mrs. Margrets, whom her husband introduced as "the best woman in the world," in her address spoke straight to the sinners and backsliders, and pointed them to the way to salvation. She also told part of her own experience of eight years in the Army, and in all made a very interesting address.

The appeal which was made for subscriptions for the training home debt was not very liberally responded to, but some money was collected. The Brigadier and his bride are making their honeymoon tour for the purpose of trying to raise money to liquidate this debt. This is how they received permission from headquarters to have a wedding tour at all.

The banquet which was served from six to eight o'clock in the basement of the temple was a sumptuous and abundant spread. At the close of the jubilee meeting a ten-cent supper was served to dispose of the fragments.

It has been conjectured that the secret of antediluvian longevity was some method of keeping the blood pure, warm, and vigorous. Moderns accomplish the same purpose by using Ayer's Sarsaparilla—the best blood medicine ever brought to light.

On a Visit of Inspection.

Three of the principal officers of the Edison General Electric Light Company were in town to-day on a visit of inspection to the works here. Mr. John Kruesi, General Manager of the American works, Mr. John Langton, General Manager of the Canadian works, and Mr. Francis, auditor, were the three gentlemen who made the visit. Mr. Kruesi remained here this afternoon but the other two gentlemen left at noon.

No medicine has had greater success in checking consumption, in its early stages, than Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It stops coughing, soothes the throat and lungs, and induces much-needed repose. Hundreds have testified to the remarkable virtues of this preparation.

Brevities.

—The last brick on the first Edison building was laid this morning.

—Be careful, to-morrow will be All Fools Day.

—There was an absence of business at the police court this morning.

—The annual meeting of the Board of License Commissioners will be held to-morrow. The time for receiving applications for liquor licenses expires to-day.

—Mr. P. G. Bromley, station agent for the C.P.R. at Norwood, has been promoted to the position of travelling auditor, and Mr. Jas. Reid takes his place at Norwood.

—Professor Wilcox is at the Morgan House, Hunter-st., Peterborough. The Professor comes well recommended and under good report of being the Catarrh Specialist of America. He can be consulted, as above, on days from March 26th to April 4th, inclusive. 2d75

"I would not take $100 for my bottle of Nasal Balm if I could not get another," is the verdict of one sufferer who was speedily cured of cold in head. Such strong testimony ought to convince you that it is worth trying.

SCIENTIFIC TEMPERANCE.

The Teaching of the Subject in the Public Schools.

The following letter, issued by the Provincial W.C.T.U. superintendent, is published at the request of the local Women's Christian Union:—

DEAR SISTER,—Are you anxious to secure to the children of Ontario thorough temperance instruction in our public schools? If so, let us consider what is necessary to be done. We depend upon County Presidents to appoint County Superintendents of this department, where not already appointed, to carry out the following suggestions:—

1st. Secure an interview with the Public School Inspector of your city, county or riding, and endeavor to enlist his co-operation in our work. From him a list of the teachers and their addresses may be procured as a means to further operations.

2nd. Make it a point to call upon every teacher within reach, and in case of others, write them, calling their attention to the regulation requiring Temperance to be taught, and earnestly requesting their compliance.

3rd. Do not forget to utilize, as far as possible, the Teachers' Institutes, held once a year, or oftener, in every inspectorate, and give the fullest encouragement to those teachers who are faithfully striving to discharge their duties in this respect.

4th. Keep the subject of Temperance instruction alive in your community by making it a frequent subject of conversation, and especially by communications to the local press. The following statement of the Minister of Education might be included:—"The same obligation rests upon the teacher to teach Temperance and Hygiene as any other subject on the programme."

5th. Ask the ministers of your district to aid you in such a way as they may think best, either in the pulpit or during their pastoral visitations.

Will you kindly make an effort to ascertain the opinion of inspectors and teachers in reference to the authorized text-book, and be prepared to report in September?

Now let us work for the advancement of this department during the present year. As mothers, we have a right to insist upon the teaching of Temperance, according to regulation. Don't let it be neglected without, at least, a protest from the temperance women.

Hoping that our next report may show great progress,

I am faithfully yours,
MRS. G. D. PLATT,
Provincial Supt.

Picton, February, 1891.

Frightened at a Funeral.

A bad smashup occurred this afternoon at the C.P.R. crossing on George-st. when the funeral of the late Mrs. Tully was proceeding to the cemetery. Mr. Wm. Thompson's horse took fright at a locomotive standing on the track and shied across the road. Mr. F. Weir was behind him and his horse also jumped sideways. Mr. Thompson's horse jumped with its fore feet into Mr. Weir's buggy and held the old gentleman to his seat. Several men managed to seize the frightened horse and got it onto the ground. Three rigs in all came into collision and Mr. Thompson was thrown out upon the road. His forehead was badly cut. No person else was injured, but Mr. Weir's phaeton was badly demolished and Mr. Thompson's and another owned by Mr. T. Cavanagh were damaged.

The Unpleasant Lady in Peterborough.

Remarked to a friend the other day that she knew Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs was a superior remedy, as it stopped her cough instantly when other remedies had no effect whatever. So to prove this and convince you of its merit any druggist will give you a Sample bottle Free. Large size 50c. and $1.

In the Far West.

The Vancouver News-Advertiser publishes the following notice of work being done there by the Edison company, which is now erecting its shops in Peterborough:—

"The Westminster and Vancouver Electric Tramway Company are getting down to practical matters in good shape. The Edison Electric Supplies Company will build and furnish the power building, which will be located somewhere on the line, about half way between the termini. They will furnish, in fact, all the plant and lines connected with the motor department. The cars are to be 24 feet long with 4 tracks, that is, 8 wheels, 36 inches in diameter. There will also be a service of construction and express cars. A car shed will be built in this city, each having a spacious yard. The company has secured the services of a practical railroader of long standing, who is also an inventor of several labor-saving appliances, for use in this construction, Mr. Alex. C. Phillips, who came highly recommended by the engineers of the Pittsburg, Cleveland and Toledo railroad, the Metropolitan Street Railway Company, the Lincoln and North Western and the California Southern Railway companies, and the Oregon Paving & Construction Company, of Portland. Under Mr. Phillips' directions, Mr. Thos. Ovens' mechanics are making a number of automatic switch sections from patterns furnished by the Track Superintendent. The invention is Phillips' own and is a simple and ingenious contrivance. The section is 6 feet long. The switch rail is sprung against the main track by a spiral ½ inch brass spring and works on a steel pivot running partly through the rail. As the car runs on from the side track the wheel flange opens the switch which springs back again closed, leaving the main track always open. This plan has been found to work well in Portland where the Metropolitan Street railway are using it. They are also forging the necessary number of switch stands and frogs for use in the power house yard. Mr. Phillips has had a dozen year's experience as a master track layer, and has made a creditable record in work already accomplished for the company here."

Cold in head, catarrh, consumption, death are the four stages that rapidly follow each other. If you would avoid the latter do not neglect the former, but use Nasal Balm at the first symptoms.

Rheumatism,

BEING due to the presence of uric acid in the blood, is most effectually cured by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Be sure you get Ayer's and no other, and take it till the poisonous acid is thoroughly expelled from the system. We challenge attention to this testimony:—

"About two years ago, after suffering for nearly two years from rheumatic gout, being able to walk only with great discomfort, and having tried various remedies, including mineral waters, without relief, I saw by an advertisement in a Chicago paper that a man had been relieved of this distressing complaint, after long suffering, by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I then decided to make a trial of this medicine, and took it regularly for eight months, and am pleased to state that it has effected a complete cure. I have since had no return of the disease."—Mrs. R. Irving Dodge, 110 West 125th st., New York.

"One year ago I was taken ill with inflammatory rheumatism, being confined to my house six months. I came out of the sickness very much debilitated, with no appetite, and my system disordered in every way. I commenced using Ayer's Sarsaparilla and began to improve at once, gaining in strength and soon recovering my usual health. I cannot say too much in praise of this well-known medicine."—Mrs. L. A. BEATRIX RANDOLPH.

BY JULIAN HAWTHORNE.

Mme. Bemax had been out to make a few purchases on Broadway. She now returned, carrying her little bundles by loops in the strings that tied them. She hoped mademoiselle had not been delayed or inconvenienced. Mademoiselle replied that she had not been delayed; but something prevented her from telling Mme. Bemax about the adventure with the director. She feared madame would say something about the benefits of a little social relaxation and about getting used to it; and she did not wish to feel an aversion toward the good lady, who was in many respects agreeable to her. So she held her peace and hid her secrets it her heart; but she could not forget them.

CHAPTER VIII.

THE SUCCESS AND GLORY OF HER CAREER.

"THANK YOU," SHE SAID, "AND THANK YOU FOR THESE FLOWERS."

On the day appointed for the selling of tickets for the first performance the extent of the popular interest that had been aroused was indicated by the length of the "cue" of buyers, who made a line from the box office all the way round the block, and who began their session, or station rather, upward of twenty-four hours before the office opened. Accounts of their nocturnal experiences, their jokes, and their good humor appeared in the morning papers, together with plans of the interior arrangements of the opera house, the precautions against fire and panic, the unequaled splendor and perfection of the scenery, and the cost of the whole enterprise. The usual safeguards against the imposition of speculators were taken, and met with the usual success. By five in the afternoon the house was sold from ceiling to cellar, and the impresario, leaning in an insouciant attitude against the bar of the hotel, with his hat on one side and his face broader than it was long, treated his numerous friends to drinks and received their congratulations.

This was on a Saturday. On Monday the performance took place "before the most fashionable, cultivated and appreciative audience ever assembled on a similar occasion in the city of New York." So recent and eminent a triumph is not likely to have been forgotten by those who witnessed it. The opera selected was "Faust." It is perhaps the most satisfactory one for a first appearance, not only because of its musical merits, but because everybody is familiar with it, and can estimate the comparative success of the newcomer in "creating" afresh the immortal character of Marguerite. There had been a great number of rehearsals, and Mlle. Marana had grown somewhat weary of the repetitions, and latterly had begun to fear that when the great night came she would, if not unnerved by stage fright, at any rate be unable to go through the part otherwise than mechanically. All spontaneity of action and sentiment would be gone from her.

She stayed in her apartment all day on Monday, refusing to see any one, and even dispensing the greater part of the time with the presence of Mme. Bemax. She wished to dismiss the whole subject of the opera from her mind, and to aid herself in doing so she fixed her thoughts upon her brother Ed, and recalled all his ways and escapades and the happy times they had spent together. She pictured him and herself running races, and climbing trees, and finding birds' nests, and tending their red and white roses, and going on hunting expeditions after woodchucks and squirrels, and she brought back to her memory the talks they used to have together, when they would lay out before themselves the course of their future lives—what they would do and what they would be. How different from their anticipation it had turned out! But he was her brother just the same, and she loved him none the less than she had ever done; on the contrary she loved him more, for he had given her an opportunity to show her love by repairing an injury which he had done.

It was pleasant to think that, when he returned home, expecting to find only distress and reproaches, he would find instead prosperity as great if not greater than before extravagance began, and all owing to his own sister. If he had done wrong, his sister thought, the discovery that she had worked to repair it would be more certain than anything else to make him henceforward do right. Then she began to speculate as to what sort of wrong he had done—whether it were anything more than thoughtlessness and extravagance. A few weeks ago she would have said that it could be nothing more; but she had been forced to see and hear certain things of late which made her hesitate. She had seen what some young men, possessed of money and freedom, were and did; why might not her brother Ed be like them? She put the thought away from her; she would not believe evil of her own brother. He was a Randolph and a gentleman. He might be selfish and reckless, but he would never do anything wicked or disgraceful. It was more to be feared that he would deem her to have disgraced herself in stealing another woman's name and reputation. It was all very well to plead that she had been persuaded into it half ignorantly, half against her will, the fact that she had done it remained. Well—It was too late to turn back now!

IT WAS A DOUBLE MURDER.

A Man and Woman Killed by a Chocktaw Indian.

PARIS, Tex., March 30.—In the Federal Court here yesterday testimony was given showing that a double murder had been committed in the Chocktaw Nation by Tomless Williams, a full-blood Chocktaw, in October, 1890. A white man stopped at the house of Jackson Baptiste and got some food and asked for work. He was accompanied by a woman. The Baptistes directed him to John Williams.

Tomless Williams is John Williams' son and Ellis Williams, a boy of 12, is the latter's son. Ellis says that about sunset the man and woman reached his grandfather's and stayed all night. The man and woman left John's next morning, going towards Tomless's place. Later the boy and his grandfather went over towards Tomless's farm and there found the woman, but not the man. The woman was crying. Tomless made the boy mount his pony and, putting the woman up behind him, started them up the mountain, John and Tomless following with guns. On the mountain the boy was made to dismount and take the woman into the woods. At this the boy began crying again and Tomless shot the woman in the head. She fell on the edge of a gully, into which they rolled her body and piled rocks on it. Later they found the body of the man, shot in the forehead, in a gully and also covered with stones. The horse was taken 10 miles away. There are no clues to the identity of the parties killed, but their bodies have been pointed out by the boy Ellis.

A Drunkard's Horrible Work.

BERLIN, March 30.—At Mulhausen, in Alsace, last night a drunken cooper attacked his wife with a knife and killed her. He then turned upon his mother-in-law, who had tried to save her daughter and killed her, after which he cut his own throat and fell dead on the floor. The horrible scene was enacted in the presence of the man's five little children, and one of them, frantic with terror, jumped out of a window to the pavement and was killed.

Snow in France.

PARIS, March 30.—The northeast department has been visited by heavy snowstorms. The local railways are blocked with snow. The mountain road in the Vosges is impassable.

Russia Shows Her Hand.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 30.—The Russian newspapers concur in the opinion that the Baltcheff incident is proof that it is necessary for the powers to intervene in Bulgaria. The Novoe Vremya declares the time is near at hand when the duties involved by the Berlin treaty will require fulfilment.

A Much Baptised Man.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 30.—Investigation yesterday shows that Henry C. Berg the alleged Franciscan monk, who was baptised into the Christian church on Friday night, is a fraud from Louisville, who has been doing a thriving business as an "apostate," being quite impartial as between denominations in bestowing his faith. He has probably been baptised in more different styles than any other man in America.

A Bachelor Burned to Death.

WINNIPEG, March 30.—A despatch from McGregor, Man., says that an old bachelor named John Gibbs, living four miles north of that town, was burned to death last night. The fire, it is supposed, originated through a defective stovepipe, and the unfortunate man appears to have been suffocated and burned while insensible.

CHANGE OF BUSINESS

I beg to announce to my late customers that I have sold out my business to Messrs. Hilliard & Peplow, and would bespeak for them the same support as you have accorded me.

C. N. BROWN.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

For some time past we have thought that a strictly cash business in Flour, Feed and Provisions could be successfully carried on in Peterborough, and to test this question we have purchased the above business from Mr C. N. Brown, who will still continue as manager, in Flavelle's Old Stand, Simcoe-st.

In order to be successful we intend to mak it the interest of every one to pay cash with order by selling at wholesale prices.

We will positively give no credit and cash customers will not have to keep up the losses made by others on the credit system.

We will keep a full supply of

FLOUR, FEED, CHOP, Etc.,

and our customers need not fear that the quality of the goods will be lowered to make up for the reduction in prices.

We are simply giving them the benefit of the margin necessary to cover losses and interest charges incurred in the credit system.

Goods delivered to any part of the town or Ashburnham.

THE WAR CLOUD GROWS.

A MEETING OF THE TRIPLE ALLIANCE ANNOUNCED.

Russia's Massing of Troops, Balkan Intrigues and Relations with France Ominous Symptoms—Bulgaria Alive with Preparations for a Fight.

BERLIN, March 30.—An uneasy feeling prevails throughout Germany that the massing of troops on the Austrian frontier, the bestowal of the Order of St. Andrew on President Carnot and the resumption of Russian intrigues in the Balkan peninsula are symptoms which, taken in connection with each other, amount to a Russian demonstration of hostility to the German Empire. The Berlin Bourse is sensibly affected by the prevalence of this feeling.

Prince Ferdinand's commission as Governor of Roumelia expires on April 5, when Turkey can refuse to renominate him, but is not likely to do so while Stambuloff is Premier. This probably explains the attempt on the latter's life, as his death would have enabled Russia to interfere.

BERLIN, March 31.—It is reported that a note has been issued by M. de Giers, the Russian Minister of State for Foreign Affairs, forerunning the intention of Russia to intervene in the Balkans. This circumstance, says The Gazette, combined with the demonstrative massing of Russian troops on the frontier, is looked upon as a sign of the approach of critical days in Eastern Europe.

BUDA PESTH, March 31.—The Pesther Lloyd says: "We stand at the beginning of another great movement on the part of Russia, which will probably open with a protest against the reappointment of Ferdinand as Governor of Roumelia. It is time that the dreibund should consider how long it will continue to allow Russia to make military preparations."

LONDON, March 31.—Berlin advices state that the murder of the Bulgarian Minister of Finance is one of the chief causes of the sudden flurry among officials of the war office and that it is looked upon as a serious indication of the gravest designs on the part of Russia. Dispatches have been busily passing between the foreign offices of Berlin and Vienna, and also Bucharest, and it is now stated that the celebration of the 25th anniversary of the accession of King Charles of Roumania at Bucharest next month will be made the occasion of an informal conference between the powers of the triple alliance. The kaisers of Germany and Austria and the king of Italy have been invited as guests to the celebration. Francis Joseph has promised to be present, but the German kaiser will probaby be represented by one of his leading and confidential officers, although he may conclude to go in person. At any rate the sovereigns of the triple alliance will spare no effort to prove their friendship for the Roumanians and hold that state to their side in the event of war. Roumania is in excellent condition for defence, having nearly completed the series of formidable fortifications along the Russian frontier, and having an army that is far from contemptible.

The Bulgarian reserves have been notified to be ready for service on call and the principality is alive with warlike preparations, as there is a strong apprehension that a hostile movement on the part of Russia may be expected.

The Cologne Gazette says the Bulgarian Government has made a contract for large supplies of war material with which to strengthen the Bulgarian defences.

THE MASSACRE IN ASSAM.

THE BRITISH COMMISSIONER A CAPTIVE.

The Revolt Threatens to Spread Unless Prompt Punishment is Meted Out to the Guilty Tribe — The Rajah of Manipur Among the Prisoners.

SIMLA, March 31.—Further particulars received from the scene of the Manipur massacre show the insurgent tribes have captured a number of prisoners, including the Rajah of Manipur, whose deposition by a powerful chieftain of Assam was the cause of all the present trouble.

The insurgents have also captured Chief Commissioner Quinton. F. H. G. Grimwood, the political agent at Manipur, and Col. Skene, who commanded the detachments from the 42nd and 43rd and 44th Goorkhas, which defended the camp of the commissioner, may have escaped. Mrs. Grimwood, the wife of the political agent, two assistant-commissioners and one of the officers of the Goorkhas escaped in the direction of Silchar when the insurgents made the final charge upon the camp. The fate of the remaining officers is still unknown. Four regiments have already started for Manipur with the object of effecting the release of the prisoners and punishing the rebellious tribes. These regiments include two native regiments which were in garrison at Assam. The Third Bengal Infantry, several mountain batteries of artillery and a force of cavalry are also being prepared to take the field in Assam immediately. The general opinion seems to be that the military authorities will have to punish the insurgent tribes severely and promptly in order to avert a more serious revolt.

The seat of the Government of Assam is at Shillang, which has a population of only 2,000. The population of the province of Assam is estimated at 5,000,000. The hostile tribes are composed of well-armed, brave and cunning fighting men, who are liable to give the British forces considerable trouble before the revolt is entirely ended.

Manipur is in Assam, close to the borders of Burmah, and is the original home of the game of polo.

Four of the regiments of Goorkhas form part of the Bengal native troops in the British service, while the fifth is attached to the Punjab frontier force. The men are of small stature, and are noted for the dexterity with which they handle the short and broad cleaver-like blade which they carry, and with which they rush into the thickest of the fight hacking right and left.

BECOMING RESTLESS.

Unless Prompt Punishment is Meted Out the Revolt Will Spread.

CALCUTTA, March 31.—Fifteen fugitive Goorkhas who have reached Kohima report that Mr. and Mrs. Grimwood, Col. Skene and Mr. Simpson escaped into Cachar, where the natives are becoming restless. The party included 12 Europeans. It is surmised that Mr. Quinton was seized at Mr. Grimwood's house, which was four miles from the cantonment of the main Goorkha guard at Langthabal, and that 10,000 irregular Kuki levies in the service of the Manipur Government were ordered to attack and massacre the troops.

EARL GRANVILLE DEAD.

The Former Leader of the British Liberal Party No More.

LONDON, March 31.—Earl Granville died to-day.

Earl Granville's death was due to exhaustion following an operation for stone. Lord Rosebery succeeds to the leadership of the Liberals in the House of Lords.

The Right Honorable Granville George Leveson-Gower, K.G., the late Earl Granville, was the eldest son of the first earl. He was born May 11, 1815, educated at Eton and Christ Church, Oxford, where he took his degree in 1834. He became attache to the Embassy at Paris in 1835 and was elected to the House of Commons for the borough of Morpeth in 1836, being re-elected in 1837. In 1840 he accepted the Under-Secretaryship for Foreign Affairs, which he held for some months, and shortly afterwards took his seat as member for Lichfield. While in the House of Commons he supported the Liberal party and was an able and consistent advocate of free trade. In 1846 he succeeded to the peerage, in 1848 he was appointed vice-president of the Board of Trade, in 1851 he obtained a seat in the Cabinet and in December of that year succeeded Lord Palmerston in the Foreign Office. He retired with the Russell Ministry in 1852. Lord Granville, who has held the office of Master of the Buckhounds, Paymaster-General of the Forces, Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster and Treasurer of the Government, was appointed President of the Council in 1853, and in 1855 he took the ministerial leadership in the House of Lords. In 1850 Lord Granville acted as Vice-President of the Royal Commission for the Great Exhibition. In 1859 he was Chairman of the Commission for the Great Exhibition of that year. In 1856 he was sent upon an extraordinary mission to the Court of St. Petersburg at the coronation of Alexander II. Lord Granville, who retired with Lord Palmerston's first ministry in 1858, was reappointed President of the Council (having failed after an attempt to form a ministry himself) in Lord Palmerston's second administration in 1859 and retired on the fall of Lord Russell's second administration in 1866. In 1865 the deceased earl was made Lord Warden of the Cinque Ports, in 1868 Colonial Secretary under Mr. Gladstone and he retained that position until 1870, when he was appointed Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs in succession to Lord Clarendon. He occupied that position till the resignation of the Liberal Cabinet in 1874. Next year when Mr. Gladstone retired from the leadership of the Liberal party Earl Granville succeeded him, Lord Hartington, acting as leader in the House of Commons. On Mr. Gladstone's return to power in 1880 Lord Granville again became Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs. In Mr. Gladstone's ministry in 1886 the deceased was Secretary of State for the Colonies.

He is succeeded in the title and estates by his son, Lord Leveson, who was born in 1872.

Hydrophobia Feared.

AILSA CRAIG, March 31.—A Newfoundland dog owned by a farmer named H. Bowman living near the town here went mad yesterday and bit two of Mr. Bowman's children. One was bitten in the arm and the other in the back of the head. The parents are anxiously awaiting developments. The dog also bit some three or four other dogs.

Fell Dead From a Bicycle.

ROCHESTER, March 31.—Henry D. Rogers, a local wheelman, fell dead from his bicycle in State-street yesterday. Heart trouble was the cause of death.

Burned While Playing Circus.

LANCASTER, PA., March 31.—While some children were playing circus in Columbia, a tent in which Anna Kiehl, four years old, was seated, was set on fire and before she was rescued she was fatally burned.

DIXON THE WINNER.

The Colored Boy Defeats McCarthy for the Featherweight Championship.

TROY, March 31.—The glove contest between Cal McCarthy and George Dixon for the featherweight championship of the world and $4000 took place at the Bicycle Club to-night. Choice seats sold as high as $30 each. It is estimated that $35,000 has been paid into the Crib Club this afternoon. Both the principals were weighed in. The scales were set at 115 pounds. Neither man tipped the beam at that mark and they jumped off, so that none of those present could ascertain their exact weight. At the headquarters of the Dixon party he was found to weigh a trifle over 113 pounds. Sheriff Tappen was served with an injunction issued by Judge Griffith restraining him from interfering with the fight. The betting was $100 to $75 in favor of Dixon.

The fight began at 10.27. Both men fought fast, but Dixon had the best of the fight from the start, repeatedly knocking down his opponent, whose blows, although landed often, seemed to lack force. In the seventh round McCarthy's nose was broken. Dixon, with the characteristic of his color, ducked his head frequently and saved many blows. In the ninth round McCarthy became groggy. In the twelfth round the fighting became furious. Dixon ran McCarthy to the ropes, and the latter held on to the colored boy all through the round. The referee appeared to be unable to separate the men. Dixon held McCarthy's head and pounded him time after time, while all McCarthy could do was to try to avert the blows. It looked as if McCarthy would be knocked out in this round, but the call of time saved him.

McCarthy did his most effective work in the fifteenth round, having rallied. He began to weaken in the seventeenth, however, and in the twenty-first was as good as defeated.

Round 22—When the boys came together in this round it was evident that they meant to settle matters. They both landed heavily, Mac. going down several times from the tremendous swings of his opponent, but he rallied in time to gain his feet. It was too plain that he couldn't last long. The colored boy never lost his head and took advantage of Mac.'s condition and knocked him down and finally out.

Walking Record Lowered.

MOBILE, Ala., March 31.—The world's half-mile walking record has been broken here by Henry G. Klink, jr., the present champion one-mile walker of the world. Klink did the half mile in 2 mins. and 55 secs. on a sandy track, five laps to the ½ mile. The record for a half mile was formerly 3 mins. 12¾ secs.

THE GRIP IN CHICAGO.

There Were 150 Funerals in Chicago Easter Sunday.

CHICAGO, March 31.—Easter Sunday was the first really beautiful spring day that March has given to Chicago. In spite of its balmy pleasantness it had an undue exhibit of sackcloth and ashes, for there were no less than 150 funerals. The funeral processions began to arrive at the cemeteries before noon, and from that time on the processions were filing in and out until nightfall. The deaths last week were [illegible], showing an increase of [illegible] over the previous week. The past three weeks of March this year show almost double the death rate of the same time in 1890. La grippe is a very insidious disease and a great many deaths result from imprudence and exposure that the victims might avoid by taking care. The Commissioner of Health says that the great increase in the death rate is due solely to the prevalence of influenza, together with the prevalent atmospheric conditions, which are extraordinary and most unusual.

STEAMSHIP DISASTER.

The Steamer City of Detroit Badly Wrecked Near Amherstburg.

DETROIT, March 31.—The steamer City of Detroit struck the "McDougall Rock," a mile above the lime kiln crossing, in the Detroit River, this morning. She had about 75 passengers on board, who were awakened by the crash, and almost immediately the electric light went out. A rush was made for the boats, but the captain succeeded in restoring order and the vessel was steered into the M.C.R. railroad slip at Amherstburg, where the passengers were landed. The vessel is still afloat, but there is a 40-foot rent in her bottom on the starboard side.

Printer Davis Acknowledged His Error and Will be Docked.

HAMILTON, March 31.—The trial of Thomas H. Davis for bigamy at the Police Court this morning was a record-breaker. It was over in three minutes, the prisoner being found guilty on his own confession. Davis is a man about 40 years old, medium size, with dark brown mutton-chop whiskers and sullen expression. He came here from Toronto, where he has lived off and on for a number of years. The wronged women were not in court. When asked to plead Davis replied guilty and was remanded for sentence until to-morrow.

Davis is sore at his second wife, whom he says instituted the proceedings because of insane jealousy. As the story goes his first matrimonial venture occurred at Barrie eight or nine years ago, when he was married by Rev. Mr. Thornton, a Methodist minister, to Annie Foster, daughter of William Foster, a farmer. They lived together at Barrie and Toronto until 1887, when Davis left his wife. He returned to Toronto in 1889 and was taken sick. Jane Sebastian nursed him during his illness, and to show his gratitude he married her on Dec. 16.

The Villeneuve Story Discredited.

BERLIN, March 31.—The newspapers of this city dismiss the reported interview which the Marquis de Villeneuve says took place in 1866, between the late Prince Napoleon and Prince Bismarck, at which the latter is said to have proposed a combination of France and Prussia against Russia and the rest of Europe, as being a piece of absolute fiction, evident from the fact that Prince Napoleon was not even in Berlin in 1866.

Bled to Death from the Nose.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 31.—About eight days ago a young man of Union City, Tenn., named Joseph Everett began bleeding from the nose and gums, causing the victim to gradually sink, and after enduring much suffering Everett died to-day.

He is Not Appreciated.

KINGSTON, March 31.—Major Edwards, the single tax candidate here in the recent Dominion election, has resigned his position in the Royal Military College and will shortly return to England.

Sugar Imports to the U.S.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—The provision of the McKinley tariff law for the free entry of sugar takes effect to-morrow.

Died Under His Sweetheart's Window.

RACINE, Wis., March 30.—Late last night Henry Hellings, aged 21 years, shot and killed himself under the window of Miss Nettie Zenal, who had repeatedly refused to marry him.

THE NEWS OF EUROPE.

A CLUE TO CARROTY NELL'S MURDERER DISCOVERED.

The National League of Great Britain Summoned to Meet Owing to the Irish Crisis—The Wrecked Utopia Causes Another Disaster.

LONDON, March 31.—News has come to this city from Zanzibar of the outbreak of a revolution in the Comoro Islands, in the Mozambique Channel, about 250 miles northwest of the Madagascar coast.

On the Island of Anjouan the natives, after the death of Sultan Abdullah, supplied themselves with arms and spread over the country, massacring 250 people and carrying desolation far and wide.

The war vessels of the French squadron, now in the waters of the Indian Ocean, have been directed to proceed to the islands and put down the insurrection. The Comoro Islands are under French protection, but are nominally ruled by Arab princes.

Their Feet Washed by an Emperor.

VIENNA, March 31.—There is probably no more impressive ceremony in Europe than the "Fusswaschung" gone through with so much solemnity by the Austrian Emperor and his retinue of archdukes, clad in gorgeous white uniforms, in the throne room of the Hofburg the other day. The twelve octogenarian almsmen, in their black XVIIth century garb, the dramatic offer and refusal of food, the dishes borne by stalwart life-guardsmen and the formal ablutions all contribute to its effect, and, when all is over, the proffered dainties are sent to the recipients of the honor in great oval packing-cases bearing the imperial arms. Not only does the Emperor tie a bag of maundy round the neck of each of his guests, but they all receive as a memento the knife, fork, spoon, silver goblet and wine jug put before them. The jugs, of fine green glass glass ornamented with heraldic devices in gold, are highly prized by collectors, but are exceedingly difficult to obtain, as they are regarded as heirlooms by the families into whose possession they fall.

William Mowbray Joined the British Army to Incite a Revolt.

LONDON, March, 31.—William Mowbray, a member of the Norfolk regiment, stationed at Yarmouth, deserted some time ago and was traced to London, where he was arrested and condemned to military trial, which he has been awaiting a week. It is now learned that Mowbray is not a British subject, but an American. It is further ascertained from his own admissions and the testimony of his fellows in the regiment that he enlisted in the British service for the purpose of filling the minds of his comrades with socialistic ideas and desires, with the ultimate purpose of inciting a revolt.

Carroty Nell's Murderer.

LONDON, March 31.—A man giving his name as French appeared at the headquarters of the police at Maidstone, Kent, to-day and declared his ability and willingness to give ample evidence to convict George Smith, a professional burglar, of the murder of Frances Coleman, alias "Carroty Nell." French declares that Smith robbed the house in front of which the Coleman woman was found while she kept watch to avoid detection. When Smith emerged from the house with his plunder the woman demanded a larger share of the booty than he was willing to give up, and in the consequent quarrel she threatened to expose him to the police, whereupon he murdered her and fled.

Young English Officers Lost in Persia.

LONDON, March 31.—Much anxiety is felt at the disappearance in Persia of the promising young officers Captain Edmund Barton and Captain Vaughan, the former one of the eight soldier sons of General Barton, author of "An Indian Olio" and "Reminiscences of Sport in India." Captains Barton and Vaughan, having obtained a year's leave, left India in the autumn with the intention of prospecting a new route to the Russian frontier through an unexplored portion of Persia. Although they were timed to reach England in March at the latest, nothing whatever has been heard of them since they set out from Yezd in November.

A Wonderful Submarine Gun.

LONDON, March 31.—A very successful experiment was made to-day in the Lake of Como with the submarine gun invented by Signor Isella. The cannon was sunk to a depth of 350 feet in the lake, but in spite of the pressure of the water the projectile was fired with sufficient force to sink a boat. The authorities have decided to make further trials with a still larger gun.

The National League.

LONDON, March 31.—The annual convention of the National League of Great Britain is summoned to assemble in Newcastle May 10. The convention is called earlier than usual because of the Irish crisis.

A Duellist Punished.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 31.—The military tribunal has sentenced Prince Vadbatsky to three years' detention in a fortress for killing Lieut. Monomoff in a duel.

Labor Reforms in Germany.

BERLIN, March 31.—The Duke of Ratibor President of the Prussian Upper House, has ordered that hereafter all the workingmen employed on his estates shall have three days additional holiday in the year, and shall receive pay for all holidays.

A Crash Threatened in Genoa.

PARIS, March 31.—The Journal des Debats says Genoa is threatened with a financial crash. A large and influential shipping company of that city has already suspended.

Foreign Brevities.

O'Brien and Dillon were taken back to Galway jail to-day.

Mr. Parnell is suffering from a severe cold and is confined to his apartments.

The steamer Pritain collided with the wreck of the steamer Utopia in Gibraltar Bay last night. Her fore peak is full of water.

The Pacific steamer Empress of Japan steamed a mile on the Clyde at the rate of 19 knots an hour. She then proceeded on her trial trip of 500 miles.

Timothy Healy, M.P., yesterday started for Sligo to take part in the electoral contest there. His right eye was concealed by a bandage.

Emigration to Canada.

OTTAWA, March 31.—The annual report of Sir Charles Tupper, High Commissioner to England, has been issued. It shows that the emigration from Great Britain to Canada last year was 31,[illegible], as compared with [illegible] in the same period in 1889. Sir Charles says that in order to attract attention to the country money must be spent continually and systematically.

Booth Will Retire.

BROOKLYN, N.Y., March 31.—Edwin Booth, the eminent tragedian, to-day announced his retirement from the stage after this season.

King of Medicines

A Cure "Almost Miraculous."

"When I was 14 years of age I had a severe attack of rheumatism, and after I recovered had to go on crutches. A year later, scrofula, in the form of white swellings, appeared on various parts of my body, and for 11 years I was an invalid, being confined to my bed 6 years. In that time ten or eleven sores appeared and broke, causing me great pain and suffering. I feared I never should get well.

"Early in 1886 I went to Chicago to visit a sister, but was confined to my bed most of the time I was there. In July I read a book, 'A Day with a Circus,' in which were statements of cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla. I was so impressed with the success of this medicine that I decided to try it. To my great gratification the sores soon decreased, and I began to feel better and in a short time I was up and out of doors. I continued to take Hood's Sarsaparilla for about a year, when, having used six bottles, I had become so fully released from the disease that I went to work for the Flint & Walling Mfg. Co., and since then on account of sickness. I believe the disease is expelled from my system, I always feel well, am in good spirits and have a good appetite. I am now 27 years of age and can walk as well as any one, except that one limb is a little shorter than the other, owing to the loss of bone, and the sores formerly on my right leg. To my friends my recovery seems almost miraculous, and I think Hood's Sarsaparilla is the king of medicines." WILLIAM A. LEHR, 9 N. Railroad St., Kendallville, Ind.

HAVE NOT LOST A SINGLE DAY

Clark's Lightning

Liniment will relieve the painful torture of Rheumatism in the joints or muscles. It should be well rubbed in with the hand, and the part covered with a piece of flannel. The pain will cease with the first application, and its continued use will effect a marvelous cure. This remedy needs but a trial to convince the most skeptical that it is a wonderful preparation. Sold by all druggists; price fifty cents. Clark Chemical Co., Toronto.

Macaulay's Appearance.

Although not an athlete Macaulay was active, and high-spirited. He used to amuse himself at Cambridge and probably in later life with such sports as horn blowing until his neighbors wished him far enough away. He was a good walker and that, if it can be dignified by so pretentious a name, was his only bodily accomplishment. Ride he never could, and when, as Cabinet Minister in attendance on the Queen, he was informed that a horse was at his disposal he replied that if he were to ride it must be on an elephant.

In person he was not prepossessing. Mrs. Beecher Stowe, in "Sunny Memories of Foreign Lands," describes him as short, stout and commonplace—indeed, thoroughly English, to quote her uncomplimentary language. Fat and rather ungainly, with a countenance that in repose was singularly wanting in animation and in effect, he might have been mistaken for an unlettered farmer; indeed, he was actually taken for a "cholera doctor"—so, at least, Mr. Greville informs us, with exquisite good taste and very scant courtesy to the followers of Galen.

That very accomplished gossip describes with some humor his first interview with Macaulay, and his consternation when he discovered that the fat, silent man at his side, who had been so busily absorbed getting through his dinner, was the famous Thomas Babington Macaulay. The model in Mme. Tussaud's gallery is faithful enough, and is in no sense that of an imposing or particularly handsome man. He dressed expensively, but with want of taste, and he looked more like a good-humored, country-bred tradesman of slender parts than a brilliant wit, distinguished statesman and irrepressible talker.

Talking, when he was in the humor, was his delight. He would talk for hours, no matter who was present, and he rarely gave his hearers those brilliant occasional flashes of silence as Sidney Smith humorously and felicitously called them.—Gentleman's Magazine.

Don't Feel Well.

And yet you are not sick enough to consult a doctor, or you refrain from so doing for fear you will alarm yourself and friends—we will tell you just what you need. It is Hood's Sarsaparilla, which will lift you out of that uncertain, uncomfortable, dangerous condition, into a state of good health, confidence and cheerfulness. You've no idea how potent this peculiar medicine is in cases like yours.

Mathematical Problem.

We are desirous of placing this celebrated brand of tea in every home of this great Dominion, and to accomplish this purpose we propose to give to the person estimating the exact or nearest number of buttons contained in the jar on exhibition in our window a Toilet Set valued at $4.00. This competition remains open until we have sold one hundred pounds. Every purchaser of one pound will be entitled to estimate. This tea is only 40 cents a pound and cannot be beat. A Cure for Constipation and Headache.

Dr. Silas Lane, while in the Rocky Mountains, discovered a root that when combined with other herbs, makes an easy and certain cure for constipation. It is in the form of dry roots and leaves, and is known as Lane's Family Medicine. It will cure sick-headache and is the best Spring Medicine. For the blood, liver and kidneys, and for clearing up the complexion it does wonders. Druggists sell it at 50c. and $1 a package.

ELOPEMENT IN QUEBEC.

A 50-Year-Old Man Goes to Montreal with a 19-Year-Old Girl—Detectives Set in Pursuit.

QUEBEC, March [illegible].—Quebec is all agog over the elopement of a widower of 50 years with a girl [illegible]. The girl is the daughter of Mrs. Hill, who keeps the Rosario boarding house in Palace Hill, and her lover is Simons, manager of Sewell's lumber mill at Lake St. Joseph, on the Lake St. John Railway. Simons has three daughters, one of whom is as old as Miss Hill. He has been carrying on a clandestine courtship with the latter for some months past, and on the girl's father discovering this he forbade him the house. By some means or other Simons managed to carry on his suit, and yesterday when the girl's parents went to church they left her alone. On their return she was gone, but believing she was visiting one of the neighbors they suspected nothing until 9 p.m., when they received the following telegram from Montreal:

To Mrs. Hill:

Don't be alarmed about your daughter's absence. She is with me and all right. Annie accompanies us. [Signed] Simons, Montreal.

The father of the girl became furious when the truth commenced to dawn on him and he immediately sought the advice of Lieut.-Col. Vohl, who in turn telegraphed to Col. Hughes, chief of police, Montreal, asking him to apprehend the couple.

Contempt of Court on a Question of Ribs.

TRENTON, N.J., March 31.—Judge Lanning of the City District Court to-day adjudged Dr. Elmer Rogers guilty of contempt of court for refusing, while on the witness stand, to answer the question: "How many ribs are there in the human body?" The doctor insisted that it was a technical question which he was not obliged to answer, because he had not received a fee for expert evidence.

Tupper Off for Washington.

OTTAWA, March 31.—Sir Charles Tupper, who left for Washington to-day, expects to arrange the preliminaries for the proposed conference with Secretary Blaine on the question of closer trade relations with the United States. He will probably be followed at an early date by Sir John Thompson and Hon. George E. Foster.

Hiccoughs Caused Death.

CHICAGO, Ill., March 31.—Robert Porter of No. 935 62nd-street died at his residence to-day. He began to hiccough and all the doctors could do was to give him opiates to put him to sleep. But the rest was only momentary and the hiccoughing continued to rack his frame. He literally hiccoughed himself to death and died in great agony.

How Life May be Prolonged.

Poets and novelists go into ecstacies over what they romantically call "beautiful spring," and "gentle spring," and while, no doubt, every one is glad to see winter release its icy grasp, "beautiful spring" is, after all, one of the most deadly seasons of the year. Sudden transitions from warmth to extreme cold, with piercing, chilling winds; from dry to sloppy, "muggy" weather, all combine to make the season a most trying one, even to the hardiest constitution, while to those with weak constitutions the season is one of positive danger. Undoubtedly the greatest danger at this season of the year is from cold in the head, which very few escape, and which, if not promptly and thoroughly treated, developes into catarrh, with all its disagreeable and loathsome effects. Catarrh, neglected, almost as certainly developes into consumption, annually destroying thousands of lives. At this trying season no household should be without a bottle of Nasal Balm. In cases of cold in the head it gives almost instant relief and effects a speedy cure, thus preventing the development of catarrh. Where the latter disease has already secured a hold it is equally efficacious, and with persistent use will cure the worst case. From the outset it sweetens the breath, stops the nauseous droppings into the throat and lungs, dispels those dull headaches that afflict the sufferer from catarrh. Nasal Balm is not advertised as a cure-all—it is an honest remedy which never fails to cure cold in the head or catarrh when the directions are faithfully followed, and thousands throughout the country have reason to bless its discovery. Nasal Balm may be had from all dealers or will be sent post-paid on receipt of price (50 cents, small, or $1, large size bottles,) by addressing Fulford & Co. Brockville, Ont.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used by millions of mothers for children teething for over fifty years with perfect success. It relieves the little sufferer at once, produces natural, quiet sleep by freeing the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste, soothes the child, softens the gums, allays pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

CHANGE OF BUSINESS

I beg to announce to my late customers that I have sold out my business to Messrs. Hilliard & Peplow, and would bespeak for them the same support as you have accorded me.

C. N. BROWN.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

For some time past we have thought that a strictly cash business in Flour, Feed and Provisions could be successfully carried on in Peterborough, and to test this question we have purchased the above business from Mr C. N. Brown, who will still continue as manager, in Fluvelle's Old Stand, Simcoe-st.

In order to be successful we intend to make it the interest of every one to pay cash with order by selling at wholesale prices.

We will positively give no credit and cash customers will not have to keep up the losses made by others on the credit system.

We will keep a full supply of

FLOUR, FEED, CHOP, Etc.,

and our customers need not fear that the quality of the goods will be lowered to make up for the reduction in prices.

We are simply giving them the benefit of the margin necessary to cover losses and interest charges incurred in the credit system.

The Liquor Licenses.

The Board of License Commissioners for West Peterborough met this afternoon. The only business transacted was the transfer of the license of Mr. Timothy Giroux to Mr. Cardwell who has purchased the Little Windsor. The consideration of applications for licenses for this year was left over until the next meeting, which will be held shortly.

A Lacrosse Proposition.

The Hastings Star says:—"Mr. H. W. Fowlds has received a letter from the secretary of the Madoc lacrosse club, suggesting that Hastings organize a club, and, with Peterborough, Norwood and Madoc, take steps to form an association and arrange for a series of games for the championship of the Midland district. There is plenty of material in Hastings for a good team, and if it could be developed in time to secure a respectable position in the race should prove a success financially and otherwise."

"Gentle Spring" loses many of its terrors when the system is fortified by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. With multitudes, this wonderful tonic-alterative has long superseded all other spring medicines, being everywhere recommended by physicians.

It Was not a Death Sentence.

Mr. Adam Turner's dog bit a young son of Mr. Geo. Henry and the latter took proceedings in the Police Court to have the canine killed. The evidence, however, went to show that the dog was a quiet, peaceable resident of the town, but had been urged into a fight with another dog by the boy who had been bitten. The boy's comrades who saw the affair, said that the dog evidently mistook the boy's leg for the dog he was fighting with. The Magistrate could not order the death of the dog under the circumstances.

A Government Commission.

The Game and Fish Commission of the Ontario Government are in session here to-day. The Commissioners are Messrs. A. D. Stewart, of Hamilton; E. W. Thomson, ex-editor of the Globe, Toronto; and J. C. Smith, of Belleville. The commission examine gentlemen who are acquainted with fishing, hunting, etc., of the district and glean such information as will be of use to the Government in framing their fish and game laws. No session of the Commission was held this morning owing to the Council meeting, but they are sitting this afternoon in the Council Chamber.

THE AGREEMENT TO BE CLOSED.

A Special Meeting of the Town Council to Close Negotiations re the G.T.R. Siding Into the Edison Works.

The ward representatives had to respond to a rather sudden call this morning, when a special meeting of the Town Council was held for the purpose of closing up negotiations in regard to the Grand Trunk railway siding into the Edison works. Mayor Stevenson presided and present were Councillors Cahill, Davidson, Winch, Kelly, Hall, Bradburn, Dawson, Moore, Meldrum, Langford, Hendry and Dennistoun. The Edison Company were represented by Mr. John Kruesi, General Manager of the works at Schenectady, Mr. H. M. Francis, auditor for the company, Mr. Martin, the local superintendent, and Mr. D. B. Francis, salesman for the company.

Councillor E. H. D. Hall, Chairman of the Manufacturers Committee, explained the object of the meeting, viz., the passing of a by-law to give the Mayor authority to execute the agreement between the Edison Company and the Grand Trunk Railway Company in respect to the railway siding into the works.

THE AGREEMENT.

Town Clerk Macdonald then read the agreement. It is between the corporation of the Town of Peterborough of the first part, the G. T. R. company of the second part and the Edison General Electric Company of the third part. The town covenants to provide at its own expense the necessary right of way for a railway siding from the present line of the Midland railway at or near the intersection of Bethune and Wolfe-sts. to a point on the present siding, and also gives them the right of way along Wolfe, Bethune, Townsend, Stewart, Rubidge and Park-sts. for the purpose of building such railway siding for the exclusive benefit of the Edison company, their successors and assigns for the term of 20 years at a nominal rental of 25 cents per annum, if demanded, and the corporation will indemnify the railway company for damages for property injuriously affected by the building of the siding. The railway company on its part covenants to build at its own expense and maintain and operate the said railway siding from the line of the Midland railway to the said point on the present siding, to build and maintain the necessary superstructure to carry the track over the Park-st. culvert and maintain all culverts in the streets mentioned. The railway company agrees to be guided by the direction of the Edison Company as to the running of all cars over all tracks that now exist or may hereafter be laid. The G. T. R. Company also allow the C. P. R. the use of their exclusive siding for shunting purposes of facility and despatch in handling Edison Company's cars. The railway company by the agreement releases the town from all claims, if any, which the company now has or claims to have against the corporation for demurrage of cars delivered to the Edison Company, and further covenants and agrees with the corporation that upon the corporation providing the right of way as aforesaid the railway company will repay the town one dollar per car out of all moneys paid or that may hereafter be paid by the corporation for the transfer of cars from the line of the railway to the lands of the Edison Company over the siding of the C. P. R., and will from the date hereof pay for the transfer of all cars from the line of the said railway to the lands of the Edison Company over said siding.

After the agreement had been discussed and explained to unenlightened members. Councillor Moore moved the first reading of the by-law, authorising the Mayor and Town Clerk to execute the agreement and affix the corporation seal to the agreement or contract.

The by-law was given its three readings, passed and numbered.

GAOL WOULD BE A PARADISE

In Comparison to His Home—The Statement of a Young Married Man—A Police Court Picture.

A deplorable picture which might make many a young man or woman stop and moralize and consider well before he or she embarked upon the sea of matrimony was presented at the Police Court this morning. In the prisoner's box was a young, intelligent looking man, probably about twenty-one or twenty-two years of age. Sitting close to the box was a rather good looking young woman about the same age, with a bright little child in her arms. The youth in the box was the husband of the woman and father of the child and was before the Magistrate charged with having assaulted her whom he had promised to cherish and support.

The woman went into the box first and told the Magistrate a very pitiable tale. Her husband made a habit of pounding her, and had once thrown her down and threatened to stab her with a carving knife. He went out at nights and tried to get away from her when she went out with him. They only had the one child.

The husband also told his story. He said he came from Kingston a short time ago and was now working at the Edison works. He had worked hard and tried to make an honest living and happy home. But his wife would not be peaceable. She accused him of infidelity to her and was continually harrassing him with her false charges. It was their trouble that had driven him from Kingston, but he could not get away from her. There was no management in his house, and after working hard all day on going home he had to go out and purchase provisions and bread for the evening meal. He did not think they could live peaceably together. He did not deny that he had struck the woman, but thought he had just provocation.

The wife said that the man wanted to get their child, but she would not let him have it.

The magistrate said if all that had been said was true both husband and wife ought to be ashamed of themselves. No matter how tormenting she was, the husband had no right to strike a woman. "You would not like to go to gaol, would you?" he enquired of the man.

"I do not, but it would be a paradise to the way I have been living," was the reply.

The magistrate advised both to keep a civil tongue in their heads and not quarrel over little things, and fined the man $5 or ten days in gaol.

THE LATE G.W. HUNTER.

Death of a Former Resident of the County in Pennsylvania.

The following, which is taken from the Harrisburgh (Pa.) Telegraph, refers to Mr. Geo. W. Hunter, brother of Mr. Josiah Hunter, of Smith township, and uncle of Mr. Geo. Cochrane, License Inspector of West Peterborough:—

"Colonel Hunter is dead. No more will his genial smile and warm hand-shake welcome guests to the Lochiel Hotel, where so many years he was the presiding genius. This morning at 4.30 he quietly passed away at his home on Walnut-st. He was at the hotel the last time on election day, and his friends remarked his frail condition. Colonel Hunter had been in failing health since a severe attack of the grip a year ago, and for several months was confined to his residence most of the time. There was general regret on the announcement of his death this morning.

"George Washington Hunter was born in Ireland, at Bonnyglass, in 1828, of Irish parents, his father being a civil engineer in the English army, stationed with his regiment at that place. A few months after the birth of their son Mr. Hunter's parents moved to America, locating near Peterborough, Ontario, Canada, where young Hunter grew up and was educated. At the age of seventeen Mr. Hunter started out for himself, going to Rochester, N.Y., where he remained but a short time. He next went into business at Polo, near Galena, Illinois, but that section was too retired for him and he soon located in New York city, where he resided for several years. Subsequently he established a hat business in Tunkhannock, Pa., where he was at the breaking out of the war in 1861. He at once enlisted and came to Harrisburg with his regiment. While in this city Mr. Hunter was offered a position by the late George G. Bolton as clerk at the Bolton House, which he accepted and at once developed that remarkable tact that placed him in the front rank of prominent hotel men in Pennsylvania. He remained with Mr. Bolton until 1863, when he looked about him for a hotel of his own. The Lochiel Hotel, which had changed proprietors about once a year for several years, came under his notice, and securing a lease of it he took charge of that hotel on May 1st, 1865, remaining there ever since. Mr. Hunter was married in 1867 to Mrs. Mary Ulrich, of Lebanon, who with his two children, Forest and Mary, survive him.

"Mr. Hunter was a most genial, pleasant gentleman, and had the tact so marked in good hotel men of making and holding friends. His hotel for many years has been the political headquarters in Harrisburg, and Mr. Hunter knew intimately more prominent politicians than any other man in the State. He was one of the intimate friends of General Cameron, the late Robert E. Mackey, Captain Wm. B. Hart, C. L. Magee, William H. Kemble, Senator M. S. Quay, John Cessna, General William Lilly, Chauncey F. Black, Attorney-General Cassidy, Wm. T. Davies, A. K. McClure, and hundreds of other men who have been prominent in Pennsylvania and national politics, some of whom have for years had rooms at his hotel all the year round ready for them at any time they might drop into Harrisburg. He was a quiet, unobtrusive gentleman, gifted with keen judgment, and a political secret entrusted to him was sacred. Mr. Hunter was prosperous at the Lochiel Hotel, and some years ago purchased the property from the Thomas heirs, enlarging it and making it one of the best paying properties in the State. He was known by everybody. Of an exceedingly liberal disposition, he gave extensively to charity in a quiet way, and was among the first to step forward and lend a helping hand to a friend in distress. Of advanced and progressive ideas he was always foremost in advocating anything tending to Harrisburg's prosperity and rejoiced to see the move forward. Many friends will miss the kindly, loving gentleman, whose gentle manner and graceful courtesy were extended alike to all. The bereaved family have the sympathy of the entire community in their deep sorrow.

"The will of the late Colonel George W. Hunter was admitted to probate this afternoon. The entire estate valued at $300,000, or more, is bequeathed to the widow and two children. The income from all the estate, real, personal and mixed, is left to Mrs. Mary Hunter, the widow, subject to the payment annually of $1,000 each to his son and daughter, Forrest and Mary Hunter.

"After the mother's death, Mary is to receive the income from the three houses, Nos. 111, 113 and 115, Locust-st., and the one house on River avenue during her life. At her death this income goes to her children, if any, otherwise to her brother Forrest.

"At his mother's death it is provided that the son, Forrest, shall receive the same income as his sister, Mary, derives from the four houses above mentioned. At his death an amount equal in value to the four houses will go to his children, if any, otherwise to his sister, Mary.

"Upon the death of Mrs. Hunter the remainder of the estate is to be divided share and share alike between the two children. The will, which was written in January, 1890, names Mrs. Hunter as the executrix."

April showers may be the forerunner of May flowers, and they are also certain to bring with them cold in the head, which if neglected, develops into catarrh, perhaps into consumption and death. GRIEF AND CONDOLENCE.

The Directors of the Mechanics Institute Pay a Tribute to Departed Worth.

It is generally known that the late Mr. Wm. English was a gentleman who took a great interest in the affairs and welfare of the Mechanics' Institute. He had been President and a director for a number of years. Always willing to do anything in his power to advance the interests of the Institute, he was a gentleman whose death caused a much-felt and universally deplored vacancy.

The directors of the Institute held a meeting last evening and adopted the following resolution of condolence:—

Moved by Dr. Burnham and seconded by Mr. R. Robertson, and resolved,—That the members of this Board wish to express their sincere grief at the loss of our late friend and colleague, William English, whose valued services in connection with the Peterborough Mechanics' Institute has always been willingly and unselfishly given during his long term of service, extending from the formation of the Institute up to the time of his death.

And we further wish to convey to Mrs. English and her family our sincere appreciation of his upright and genial disposition and sterling qualities in business and social intercourse, and the assurance that his memory will always remain associated with the Peterborough Mechanics Institute.

The Secretary was instructed to forward a copy of the resolution to Mrs. English and to the press.

Brevities.

—Canton Peterborough meets to-night. Every member is requested to be present.

—The East Riding Liquor License Commissioners met this morning, but did nothing. The applications will be considered later.

—Two liquor cases will come up at the police court in the morning. One hotel man will be charged with a third offence.

Someone advertises for "a house girl to assist in washing of a small family" and someone else wants "a gentleman for breakfast and tea." There are wants that can, no doubt, be easily satisfied. It is only fair to assume that in having the gentleman for tea that an accompaniment of the meal will be a cup of Hawley Bros. superior flavored Teas. You provide the boiling water, Hawley does the rest. d78

Forestry Letter.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—The last forestry report is now out, and any of your readers who wish it can have it sent to them free of all charges, by sending me their addresses.

It is now some five or six years since these reports and other forestry literature have been circulated through the country, and much pains have been taken to bring the actual state of affairs before the minds of the people of Canada.

It has been too much the habit for many years for Canadians to regard the forest, and even each separate tree, as something that should be as soon as possible destroyed. It is now, however, found that we have destroyed too much, and it is also found that this is the experience of the world. Countries which have lost their forests have lost their harvests. The once magnificent eastern land—the shores of the Mediterranean—the Holy countries and Syria, together with a great part of Spain—have destroyed their forests, and with them the fertility of their lands. The harvests are not apparently one-fifth of what they were, for their power is not one-fifth. Countries which once raised immense armies, with difficulty recruit small ones. Vast fleets were once built where at present scarcely a tree can be seen.

It is now becoming understood that our own country has been in danger of similar loss, and it may be said that, with a great number of those who are financially able to do somewhat in matter, the lesson has been taken to heart. In many parts of Ontario, those farmers who are sufficiently well-to-do, are planting lines of trees and caring for their woodlands.

Marriage or No Marriage.

Another curious side light on the English theory of divorce was thrown by the case heard before Mr. Justice Jeune. A young man and young woman—a boy and girl, rather—agreed by their own account, to go through a sham marriage. The banns were put up and the ceremony gone through under a pseudonym, with the additional circumstance that the rites were Protestant rites and the bridegroom a Catholic. The reason for the marriage was that they wanted to live together and did not want to have a scandal. The reason for the sham was that the boy's father was not to hear of the banns, and that the young people themselves wished to be free in the future. They lived together for some time, and then the man went off.

The woman, having met "another," and believing No. 1 to be dead, married again—a real marriage this time. No. 1 having turned out to be alive, she now seeks to have the first marriage, the sham one, nullified. No. 1, so far as he is concerned, is like Barkis—willin'. Possibly he, too, has met another, if not several. The Judge apparently believes the story and approves the petition—all but one fatal thing. The man lied at the first marriage; did the woman consciously lie, too? If they were both humbugging at the altar, all right; if the girl at the time believed in the ceremony, then she must abide by it now, though he and she swear it was but a joke, and beg release, and have each met another fifty times over.—Pall Mall Budget.

Cheap Homes.

Between the Island of Madagascar and the coast of India are over 16,000 islands, great and small, only 6,000 of which are inhabited. The climate is the best in the world, every sort of fruit can be found, and 100,000 American Henry Georges can find homes there simply by the taking and never have to pay a cent of taxes.

A Coming Set Back.

On the 1st of May at least 400,000 miners and mechanics will strike for eight hours per day. Either success or failure will mean a month's idleness to most of them, and it is estimated that the direct damage to the United States, no matter who wins, will be $75,000,000. Strikes come high, but we must have 'em.

In the photograph of the heavens in course of preparation in the Paris conservatory, it is calculated that 64,000,000 stars will be represented.

How to Become Rosy-cheeked Women.

The political battle is over, but the battle with disease must be constantly and unceasingly waged else the grim reaper will come out victorious, and loved ones will be gathered to their long homes. On all sides may be seen pale and listless girls who should be enjoying the health and glow of rosy youth. Everywhere we are met with women young in years, yet prematurely old, who suffer in silence almost untold agonies, the result of those ailments peculiar to the female system. To all such, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills come as a blessing. They restore wasted vitality, build up the nervous system, enrich the blood, and transform pale and sallow complexions into glowing, rosy cheeks that alone follow perfect health. In a word they are a certain cure for all these distressing complaints to which women and girls are peculiarly liable. A trial of these pills will convince the most sceptical of their wonderful merit. For suffering men Dr Williams's Pink Pills are equally efficacious. For overwork, mental strain, loss of sleep, nervous debility, and all those diseases that lead to broken-down manhood, they are a certain specific, stimulating the brain, reinforcing the exhausted system and restoring shattered vitality. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are nature's restorative and should be used by every weak and debilitated person. Good Wife Suggests Cuticura Remedies. Uses them 7 Months, and is entirely Cured

I was in the war during 1863-64, and took a heavy cold at Gettysburg, from which I never fully recovered. In 1878 I broke out in sores all over my chest and shoulder, which seemed impossible to cure. I tried all the famous doctors I could find, and to no avail. I expended some five thousand dollars trying to find a cure, but could not, and finally giving myself up to die, my good wife suggested to me, one day, to try the CUTICURA REMEDIES, which were so extensively advertised and used. I followed her suggestion, and am happy to say by diligent application of your CUTICURA REMEDIES for seven months I was entirely cured, after spending five years of time and money without avail, and I am a sound and well man to-day. You may refer to me if you wish, as I will tell any one who may call on me my experience.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 1, 1891.

BEATRIX RANDOLPH.

BY JULIAN HAWTHORNE.

The long hours passed on, and as the evening approached she found herself thinking not of Ed, but of another person, who had come into her mind, not by her own invitation, but involuntarily; or possibly he had been in the background all the while, and advanced as the other receded. She had had no conversation with Bellingham since that day at the theatre, but they had met several times and exchanged a few words, and there had been something in his manner that had strengthened and reassured her, she knew not why—something that seemed to show that intuition was acquiring more weight with him than reason. And yet he had not seemed happy nor at ease; but his uneasiness was of a kind that soothed and inspirited her. It was like the trouble of a cloudy dawn, out of which the sun at last rises clear. He was not treacherous nor intangible, like so many men; his qualities were large and firmly based; he could not play monkey tricks, and talk one thing while he thought another. The process of his feelings was honest and open; he was reserved and reticent precisely because he could not be insincere.

The prima donna longed with all her soul to be as frank and undisguised as he. She felt that could she be so all would be well between them; but that until then all would not be well. And she said to herself, how perverse a mishap it was that this disguise of hers should have become necessary just when they met; had she met him at another time of her life he would have known her as she really was, and his intuition and his reason would have been at one. But then, again, her pride arose, and she vowed that if he did not care enough about knowing her to discern her real self beneath the false disguise he should never know her at all. But did what she called her real self exist any longer? Had not the disguise destroyed it? And, if so, could she expect him to discover what was no longer there? She pressed her hands over her eyes and breathed heavily.

The time of waiting was now over, however. Mme. Bemax was knocking at the door, and coming in with mademoiselle's cloak and bonnet in her hand, and saying that the carriage was ready and that they must drive to the theatre at once in order that mademoiselle might have time to put on Marguerite's dress before the curtain rose. The prima donna stood up, and the realization of what lay before her came sweeping over her mind like a storm. She was slightly tremulous and felt cold and feeble. Mme. Bemax made her drink a glass of wine, and conducted her down to the carriage. She seemed hardly to know where she was, she could speak only with an effort; a benumbing preoccupation had got possession of her. At the carriage door a gentleman was waiting, clad in evening dress, with a light overcoat. Her heart beat for an instant, then became oppressed and tremulous again; it was only Jocelyn. He helped her into the carriage, and got in after her and Mme. Bemax. He began to say various things in a caressing, encouraging voice: she exclaimed sharply, "Don't speak to me! I must think my thoughts!"

The rattle of the wheels on the pavement agitated her; she could not keep her hands or her lips still. Sometimes she fancied they had been driving for hours; sometimes that they had scarcely started. When at length they arrived at the theatre everything seemed at once familiar and strange; she had seen it all scores of times before, but never with the eyes she saw it with now. Several persons addressed her, but she walked on to her dressing room without appearing conscious of any one. The room was small, but prettily decorated; there were two full length mirrors in it, and was fragrant with flowers. On the table was lying a bunch of Marguerites, tied about with a narrow blue ribbon.

The knot by which the ribbon was fastened caught the prima donna's eye; she had seen something like it before. It was not an ordinary knot, but one such as sailors make. She took up the little white and golden cluster and looked them over; there was nothing to show whence they came—nothing but the knot. While she was putting on her dress her mind occupied itself with this little mystery, and the oppression of her heart was relieved. She put the Marguerites in her girdle, [illegible] kindly disposed toward them, for [illegible] done her good. Then a desire [illegible] took possession of her to go out [illegible] the audience. The overture [illegible] in progress, and she might [illegible] stage and look through a peep hole [illegible] curtain.

Mme. Bemax assented, and accompanied her. The stage was dimly lighted, and a number of people were moving hither and thither upon it; the scene shifters were giving the last touches to the arrangements. Mlle. Marana, with a light shawl over her shoulders, glided unobserved up to the great curtain and looked through.

The spectacle was like nothing else she had ever seen or imagined. The house was brilliant with light and alive with movement and murmur. But the thousands of faces, row after row and tier above tier; the glance of the innumerable eyes, all turned toward her; all come there to see her!—it was astounding and terrifying! Those innumerable eyes—nothing could escape them, nothing be invisible to them. They were overpowering, hostile, exterminating! All impression of individual human beings was lost, and the audience seemed to be a sort of monster, without sympathies and responsibilities, immense, incontrollable, omniscient—a merciless, multitudinous inquisition! How could a single girl contend against them? By what miracle could her voice and presence reach and subdue them? Rather her spirit would evaporate from her lips before them and leave her inanimate.

Rheumatism,

BEING due to the presence of uric acid in the blood, is most effectually cured by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Be sure you get Ayer's and no other, and take it till the poisonous acid is thoroughly expelled from the system. We challenge attention to this testimony:—

"About two years ago, after suffering for nearly two years from rheumatic gout, being able to walk only with great discomfort, and having tried various remedies, including mineral waters, without relief, I saw by an advertisement in a Chicago paper that a man had been relieved of this distressing complaint, after long suffering, by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I then decided to make a trial of this medicine, and took it regularly for eight months, and am pleased to state that it has effected a complete cure. I have since had no return of the disease."—Mrs. R. Irving Dodge, 110 West 125th st., New York.

"One year ago I was taken ill with inflammatory rheumatism, being confined to my house six months. I came out of the sickness very much debilitated, with no appetite, and my system disordered in every way. I commenced using Ayer's Sarsaparilla and began to improve at once, gaining in strength and soon recovering my usual health. I cannot say too much in praise of this well-known medicine."—Mrs. L. A. Stark, Nashua, N. H.

MARRIED HIS SISTER.

A Nova Scotia Couple Make an Awful Discovery and Both Commit Suicide.

HALIFAX, March 29.—From the little town of Newport, on Avon River, near Windsor, comes the story of an unusual tragedy. Three days ago the dead body of Mrs. Madeline Duval, the pretty young wife of Lucian Duval, was found drowned in the river. The remains were taken home and a search instituted for her husband, who was found wandering aimlessly in the woods about a mile from his home, evidently half demented. It was immediately suspected that he was responsible for his wife's death and a watch was placed upon him.

During the funeral obsequies he eluded his keepers and fled. The same evening his body was found hanging in the barn dead. A letter was found in his pocket stating that ever since his marriage he had been endeavoring to ascertain who his wife's parents were, she being an adopted child, and about a week before had made the awful discovery that his wife was no less a person than his own sister. It appeared that his mother and father had separated, the latter going to Prince Edward Island, taking the son with him. After the separation the daughter, Madeline, was born. The mother, too proud to ask help of the father, never told him of the birth. The girl was adopted and brought to Newport, where Duval married her. Being religious, they were overcome with horror at the discovery. Mrs. Duval evidently became insane and committed suicide, and remorse drove Duval to the same end. They were buried together to-day.

A PRISONER AS A PEELER.

Windsor's Accommodating Constable is in Sore Trouble.

WINDSOR, March 31.—The Police Committee recently decided upon Policeman Maitre's dismissal. During the month of January Maitre was on duty from 7 p.m. until 4 a.m. One of the charges is he put the best part of one night playing cards with a colored man named Fox, for whose arrest a warrant was out. Maitre, it is said, became on extremely friendly terms with Fox, and assured him that while, when morning came, he would be compelled to arrest him, still, as a personal friend, he would pay his fine and costs. At 11 o'clock that night Maitre became tired at cards and returned to an inner room to sleep, while his prisoner put on the officer's coat and helmet, took his club and paraded through the streets.

ITALIAN MINISTER RECALLED.

The Government Shows Its Disapproval of the New Orleans Massacre.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—In an official note dated to-day Baron Fava, the Italian minister, has declared to the Secretary of State that the U.S. Government not having given assurances that the murderers of the Italian subjects acquitted by the American magistrates and murdered in prison while under the immediate protection of the authorities of New Orleans would be brought to justice, the Italian Government has found itself under the very painful necessity of showing openly its dissatisfaction by recalling the minister of his majesty from a country where the Italian representative is unable to obtain justice. The baron will soon leave the United States, leaving the secretary of legation in charge only of the current affairs.

This action by the Italian Government has caused much surprise in official circles, as it was generally supposed the Italian Government would await the action of the New Orleans grand jury charged with an investigation of the jail episode. A reason for the recall is found in the fact that when the Italian Minister sought for some assurance that the persons concerned would be punished such assurance was not forthcoming. While a recall under the circumstances of the case is a serious matter, it does not signify that neutral explanation and diplomacy cannot restore the old status.

The reason given for the recall is, "the King of Italy is dissatisfied with the progress of adjustment between the two countries in regard to the New Orleans massacre."

TORONTO GOSSIP.

Mining Convention—Is She Dead or in a Trance?

TORONTO, April 1.—The master in chambers yesterday morning delivered judgment on the motion to unseat Mayor Clarke, dismissing the motion without costs.

A mining convention was opened at the Canadian Institute yesterday morning for the purpose of considering measures for the advancement of the mining industry and the advisability of establishing a Provincial Department of Mines. A resolution was passed in favor of a Department of Mines being established as being far preferable to a Bureau of Mines.

The residents of the West End are all excitement over a supposed case of catalepsy, coma or trance. On Sunday last the death was announced of Mrs. Owen, wife of Frank Owen, a moulder who resides at 9 Brookfield-street. Mrs. Owen had been ill for a number of months and latterly has been failing very fast. On Sunday she was very low and Dr. Woods of King-street west was called in. The woman, no doubt, died on that day and the doctor made no mistake in signing the burial certificate. Her appearance after death, however, was so natural and lifelike, the skin so pliable and the lips so red that several of the women and children in the house became possessed of the idea that Mrs. Owen was not dead, but simply in a trance, and the funeral has been postponed.

The Ontario Legislature was very dull yesterday, the time being principally occupied with a discussion on the Treasurer's budget and the reception of deputations from Toronto and Mimico.

A Diabolical Outrage.

LIBERTY, Miss., March 31.—A school examination and concert took place last night at the Parson Hill schoolhouse near here. While the pupils were singing a double-barreled shotgun, heavily charged with shot, was fired into the assemblage by some unknown miscreant, wounding 14 persons, some of them seriously.

Five Years in Kingston.

SARNIA, March 31.—The two men Marterstone and Hart, who cracked Laing's safe at Wyoming and held up an officer who chased them, were to-day sentenced to five years each in the penitentiary.

Ten Orange Trains from California.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., March 31.—Yesterday and last night ten special orange trains passed eastward from the southern part of the State, comprising sixty carloads.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

TWO SESSIONS OF THE HOUSE HELD YESTERDAY.

The Debate on the Treasurer's Statement Continued—An Act to Amend the Insurance Act—General Notes of the Session.

TORONTO, April 2.—The Ontario Legislature held two sessions yesterday afternoon and evening.

Mr. Ross introduced a bill to incorporate the Chartered Stenographers' Association of Ontario. The bill is similar to the acts incorporating the Chartered Accountants and Chartered Architects. Anyone assuming the title C.S.O. without warrant is subject to a penalty of $25 for the first offence and $100 for subsequent offences.

Among other bills introduced was one by Mr. Gibson (Hamilton) to amend the Insurance Act in accordance with the petition of the Underwriters' Association. It provides that companies shall not be liable for loss by fire owing to the use of steam engines within 100 feet of a barn or stack, and also provides for the appointment of Provincial coroners for the investigation of cases of fires of unknown origin.

The debate on the treasurer's statement was resumed. Mr. Ross vigorously repudiated the statement that the public schools are not as good as they used to be.

The report of the Commissioner of Crown Lands was presented to the House. It shows that the total collections of the department were $1,112,650 and the total disbursements $290,858. The area of clergy lands sold during the year was 700 acres, aggregating in value $1299.76. The amount collected on account of these and former sales was $8087.88.

Death in a Whisky Straight.

PHILADELPHIA, April 1.—After swallowing the contents of six goose eggs on a wager and then to quench his thirst, for bravado drinking the full of the eggshells of whisky at the rooms of the Dauphin Literary Association yesterday, Bernard McKee, aged 28 years, sank into a slumber from which he never woke.

Tupper at Washington.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—Sir Charles Tupper arrived here to-day. He is on his way to England and stops here to informally discuss with the British Minister on the Behring Sea dispute, the Atlantic fisheries trouble and trade relations between the United States and Canada.

MASSACRE OF MANIPUR.

CONFIRMATION OF THE NEWS WITH DETAILS OF THE FIGHT.

British Soldiers Slaughtered—Instant Action on the Part of the Governor-General to Punish the Tribesmen—Some Facts Concerning Manipur.

SIMLA, April 1.—A force of 600 Goorkhas and Cowley's missing detachment have arrived at Lakhipur on the direct route from Silchor to Manipur. It is believed all the members of Chief Commissioner Quinton's staff are safe with the exception of Mr. Brackenburg.

The Viceroy, the Marquis of Lansdowne, is hurrying troops into Assam to punish the hostiles. Reinforcements are also being sent into the states located in proximity to Assam, in order to prevent any possible disorder or warlike outbreak which it is thought might follow the spreading of the news of the massacre of the British troops at Manipur.

Only Themselves to Blame.

LONDON, April 1.—The Star, referring to the slaughter of the Goorkha troops in Assam, says the British Commissioners have only themselves to blame for this deplorable catastrophe. They should not have meddled with the question of the deposition of the Rajah of Manipur, which was the result of a quarrel between tribal chiefs.

Lord Lansdowne, Viceroy of India, has cabled to the Government that the Indian forces are abundantly able to deal with the rebellion at Manipur without the aid of additional troops.

During the progress of the mutiny, despite the utmost desperation of the fighting, husbands invariably kept a loaded pistol in reserve to save their wives from dishonor at the hands of their fiendish assailants.

The disaster is recognized by military authorities here as the result of a blunder. Two mistakes of vital consequence characterised the expedition. The fact that the ammunition ran out after a couple of days' fighting only shows that proper provision had not been made for possible exigencies.

The second blunder was the advance of such a small force without support.

CALCUTTA, April 1.—It is officially announced that Mrs. Grimwood, wife of F. S. Grimwood, the British political agent at Manipur, the scene of the recent massacre of the British troops, in company with Lieutenants Gurdon, Boileau, Woods, Butcher, Lugard and Calvert, has arrived safely at Manipur. Crowley's detachment, a number of other British officers who were treacherously captured by the rebels, are held as prisoners at Manipur.

Concerning Manipur.

The slaughter of the Chief Commissioner of Assam and the officers and men of his Goorkha escort in Manipur is almost certain to result in a further addition to the map of British India, bringing the British Empire in closer contact with the Chinese frontier.

Manipur, although adjacent to Assam, is no part of that province; it is an independent state, ruled by a Rajah, who pays no tribute to the British and who exercises absolute power within his borders, except the privilege of making war. The state is as independent as the great native kingdoms of Hyderabad, Gwalior and Indore. It is situated in the corner between the two tea producing districts of Assam and Cachar. The greater part is tableland—no richer soil in the world, as the tea-planters know well.

There is no doubt that this disturbance will give the Viceroy of India the opportunity to annex Manipur, repeating the proceedings of Lord Dalhousie in Oude and Lord Dufferin in Burmah.

The tribe who attacked the commissioner's camp were probably Nagas, who gave so much trouble on that frontier some years ago. It is altogether improbable that the Manipuris themselves were hostile. They live on the plains of the table land, have always been friends of the planters, grow their own cotton and indigo, and breed the finest ponies in the world. Manipur is the birthplace of polo, and their players have always beaten the crack Calcutta teams whenever they have met.

The Highlanders of India.

The 470 Goorkhas probably died hard. The Goorkha is the Highlander of India. His home is in the mountains of Nepaul, and his trade and only joy are fighting. Years ago the English troops had a hard fight with Nepaul, and the worth of the foe was recognized, and Goorkha regiments were raised as soon as the province had submitted. At no time has there been any lack of recruits, the men being only too glad to enlist; and quite lately five new regiments were raised.

The headquarters of the regiments are at Almoral, Northern Bengal, and not long ago there was a curious meeting between the 42nd Highlanders (the Black Watch) and the blacker watch of the Himalayan passes. No fellows got on better together. The men are short, averaging 5 feet 3 inches, thick set, of a deep brown complexion, but with merry faces that, however, show deep determination when the matter in consideration is a fight. Their uniform is of blue serge with red piping for the coat and trousers and a small round cap with a red band and the number of the regiment. They are armed with short rifles and carry the "kookerie," a curved sword peculiar to the tribe, which is always kept as sharp as a razor and with which at close quarters they do terrible work. The Goorkha regiments have always done good service. The 2nd Regiment, that was with General Sir Frederick Roberts' force that held the Sherpur lines outside Cabul in 1879, saved the day in the principal fight that took place in the winter months. The white troops were seized with an unaccountable panic when attempting to drive back the enemy, which had become more aggressive than was pleasant. The Goorkhas stood firm and charged the enemy, checking the advance, and with the aid of the men who had retreated, but advanced again owing to the good example of the 2nd Regiment, soon sent Pathan, Gazi and Dervish scuttling across the snow-covered plain. The Goorkhas had taken no prisoner, but every man's kookerie had received its baptism of blood. No kookerie is thought much of until it has been whetted with the blood of an enemy. Later accounts will probably show that the Goorkhas sold their lives dearly. At Manipur they were fighting against the highlanders of Assam and were certainly greatly outnumbered.

Denying the Soft Impeachments.

WINNIPEG, April 1.—There was an exciting scene in the Legislature to-day during which Attorney-General Martin and Premier Greenway denied they had, as testified in libel suit, called each other "man without conscience or heart" and "colossal liar."

Immigrants Pouring In.

WINNIPEG, April 1.—According to immigration agents, number of immigrants this year to date 2057, with 211 cars of stock and effects, against 1906 immigrants and 231 cars for same period last year.

INCENSED ITALIANS.

Further Concerning the Recall of Baron Fava.

ROME, April 1.—The general tenor of the note presented to Secretary Blaine by Baron Fava in reply to the secretary's explanatory communication to the Italian Government indicates a firm insistence by the Government upon its original attitude. In it Mr. Blaine is assured that what Italy asked, and still asks, is that the Federal Government guarantee that regular legal proceedings shall be enforced against the culprits who are responsible for the New Orleans outrage. Italy also asks that the United States shall in principle admit its obligation to pay a money indemnity to the families of the victims of the court house mob.

In Italian political circles the vigorous action taken by the Government is generally and fully endorsed without respect to party division. The press reflects the prevailing political and popular feeling and is strong in its denunciation of the Washington Government for its half-hearted efforts to maintain the national authority and exact reparation for crimes committed against Italians on the soil of one of its states.

Perhaps in no better way is the anger of a certain class of Italians illustrated than in the fact that a number of influential persons are now demanding that the Premier shall at once break with the Washington Government, ignore its jurisdiction in the present difficulty and proceed at once directly to call the state of Louisiana to account.

Under Secretary of Foreign Affairs, D'Arco had a conference with United States Minister Porter, who suggested that the Italian Government should wait until to-morrow before taking further action, in the hope that a satisfactory answer might be received from Washington.

During the interview Signor D'Arco said: "Suppose a dozen American citizens were murdered in an Italian city and we pleaded impotence to punish the murderers because the city enjoyed an autonomous form of government; what opinion would you in the United States and what opinion would the civilized world at large have in regard to our plea?"

Mr. Porter thereupon tried to make clear to Signor d'Arco the relations of the Federal Government to the individual states as fixed by the constitution, but Signor d'Arco was not satisfied and replied with some heat:

"We have nothing to do with your constitution. If it is found wanting you must mend it. You know that it is no constitution worthy of a free civilized country if it does not insure punishment for crime and protection for the weak."

Influential Italians advise the Italian Government to send a circular note to the friendly powers denouncing the United States as being confessedly unable to insure justice in the United States and as impotent to fulfil the duties of a civil government.

The pressure brought to bear upon Premier di Rudini and which compelled him to act vigorously was fomented by friends of ex-Premier Crispi. Especially was this pressure brought to bear by Sicilians who dreaded or sympathised with the Mafia Society. Their attitude has been stiffened by the fact that leading organs of Crispi and his cabinet openly declared that the lynching of the Italians in New Orleans was just, even if illegal. One of these opponents of Crispi is charged with the authorship of a strong editorial in The Fanfulla, which argues that the Italian Government would do well to suppress crime in Italy before meddling with the punishment of murderers in New Orleans.

The Feeling in Washington.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—The impression is deepening in diplomatic circles that there is a decidedly personal aspect to the withdrawal of Baron Fava. Last year Dr. Carroll, U. S. Consul at Palermo, made a report to the Secretary of State upon the subject of brigandage in Italy. He described a number of cases of outrageous treatment of foreign citizens, Americans included, by the Italian banditti and scored the Italian Government deeply for its failure to suppress these criminals and defend foreigners in Italy. This report was published in this country in much diluted form and aroused Baron Fava's indignation. He notified his government of the report and announced a determination to secure the consul's recall, which was effected.

The correspondence between Baron Fava and Secretary Blaine was made public to night. The Italian Minister's communication says the demand for satisfaction for the patent violation of the stipulation of the treaty in force between the two countries having been ignored he had decided to leave Washington.

Secretary Blaine's reply, dated to-day, expresses the regret of the United States Government at the intelligence of Fava's departure from the capital, and says the President believes he has been recalled under a misapprehension of the facts. Mr. Blaine adds that he had repeatedly given to Baron Fava the assurance that under the direction of the President all the facts and incidents connected with the tragedy would be thoroughly investigated.

King Humbert Scared.

BERLIN, April 1.—It is reported here that mysterious warnings sent by the Mafia Society have been conveyed to King Humbert of Italy. In these warnings the Mafia Society is said to have demanded protection from King Humbert and the Italian Government for Italians resident in foreign countries. It is further believed that the recal of Baron Fava was largely owing to fears of the Italian Ministers aroused by the Mafia threats.

A Cowboy Joke.

FORT SCOTT, Kan., April 1.—The following telegram was sent to Secretary Blaine to-day by cowboys:

"A hundred thousand Kansas cowboys would like to spend the summer in Rome. Can you furnish transportation?"

Mafia Prisoners Released.

NEW ORLEANS, La., April 1.—Salvadore Sunseri, John Caruso, Charles Pietzo, Charles Paterno and Peter Natali, the remaining prisoners confined in the parish prison for complicity in the Hennessey assassination, were released on bail to-day. The release leaves the parish prison free of all but one of those Italians who had been arrested for the crime.

Becoming Scared.

NEW YORK, April 1.—About 300 Italians rushed to the Naturalization Bureau to-day to get their second papers. They appear to be afraid they will be drafted into the service of the Italian Government and are sure war is imminent.

PREPARING FOR WAR.

Secretary-for-War Stanhope Says Every New British Vessel Is to Be Fitted to Receive Armament on the Shortest Notice.

LONDON, April 1.—In a speech at Grimsby to-day Secretary-for-War Stanhope announced that the Government had determined that every new vessel built in England which was big enough for the purpose and the owner of which was willing to accept the Government's conditions should be fitted to receive armament on the shortest notice.

IRELAND AND ROME.

ARCHBISHOP WALSH VOICES THE VIEWS OF THE POPE.

The Archbishop Speaks Concerning Gladstone and Home Rule and Says Parnell is no Longer a Factor in Irish Politics.

ROME, April 1.—In an interview to-day the Most Rev. Dr. Walsh, Archbishop of Dublin, expressed the liveliest satisfaction that in a long audience with the Pope he found His Holiness perfectly acquainted with the position in Ireland.

"The Pope," he said, "has followed every change in the situation with sympathy. He has recognized that by legal means we will eventually obtain our rights. He has never thought of interfering with Irish affairs while questions were of a purely political character. Those who presumed that the Pope would take any action against Ireland were badly informed. There may exist parties desirous of drawing the Vatican into a line of policy against us, but His Holiness will not lend an ear to these interested voices. He fully approves the attitude of the Irish Episcopate during the present internal crisis and desires union and common tactics on the part of the bishops."

Archbishop Walsh continued, Mr. Gladstone's election is almost sure. He will have at least a majority of 53, and the success of Home Rule cannot be longer delayed. After the coming general election Mr. Parnell will be interred. He has been led astray by some adherents making believe that the whole people marched behind him. He will soon realize the opposite. When defeated at the elections he will understand his error and will seek to repair the wrong which the present rupture has done to the cause of Home Rule.

Recurring to the actual situation Archbishop Walsh said: "There is no conflict between the bishops and priests and the people. Mr. Parnell no longer represents a national force. He has followers here and there, possibly everywhere there are some. This only shows that he still retains some power to weaken the National ranks, and doubtless will have until the end, but the country is against him. We bishops simply gave expression to the sentiments of Catholic Ireland, and had the courage to speak out when courage was needed. Mr. Parnell seemed to be on the point of carrying everything by storm and violence. The country was overawed. Gradually the country, as a whole, emboldened by the strong moral support of the bishops and clergy, has taken courage to speak for itself. The imposture which came so near imposing itself upon Ireland now rapidly melts away. Numbers of over-zealous Parnellites stand by him. Some, possibly, continue to believe themselves standing by the country. The elections will soon open their eyes to their deplorable error. Kilkenny's lead will be followed all over Ireland. The bishops have not dictated; they have only given courage to the country to free itself from the intolerable dictatorship of Parnell."

HIS WIFE WAS A SPY.

And Herr Schladeck, the Socialist, Put Her to Death.

CONSTANCE, Baden, April 1.—The police made an organized descent upon the lodgings in this city of Herr Schladeck and other prominent Socialists, several of whom were arrested and important information was obtained. The wife of Herr Schladeck was mysteriously murdered a short time ago, and the police have since been following up the crime. Evidence came into their hands last night, confirming their suspicions, that the poor woman was the victim of a conspiracy. She had betrayed the secrets of the Socialists, and was murdered by them in consequence. The police have discovered the criminals, and they are among those arrested. Proofs were also obtained of the existence of an Anarchist conspiracy having its ramifications throughout Germany. The prisoners will be brought to Leipsic for trial.

NORTH SLIGO ELECTION.

The Vote to Take Place To-day — McCarthyites Express Confidence.

SLIGO, April 1.—There is a feeling of relief here to-night over the approaching termination of the struggle between the Parnellites and the anti-Parnellites. The campaign strife ended to-night with several meetings, all of which, with the exception of a McCarthyite meeting in the Town Hall, were spoiled by bad weather. Everybody is heartily tired of the struggle. A large section of the Conservatives intend to vote for Dillon the Parnellite. The McCarthyites, however, are still confident that their candidate will have a majority of 1000. The counting of votes will take place Friday.

The Tichborne Case.

LIVERPOOL, April 1.—The death of Viscount Gusforth, aged 74, recalls the excitement that attended the Tichborne trial 18 years ago. Mr. Gusforth was the agent for the estates, and his testimony, which was most important, occupied over three weeks in the taking. He was at one time the holder of the celebrated sealed packet that played a leading part in the case, it having been trusted to him by the real Sir Roger prior to his departure from England.

The Baccarat House Burned.

LONDON, April 1.—The residence of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wilson, known as Tranby Croft, near Doncaster, where the famous baccarat scandal took place, and in which Sir William Gordon Cumming was involved while playing in company with the Prince of Wales, has been partially destroyed by fire.

Parnell To Speak in Phœnix Park.

DUBLIN, April 1.—Parnell is advertised to speak in Phœnix Park in this city on Sunday next, when he will probably have something to say about the result at Sligo. He will also protest against "continued holdings" and the inhuman treatment of political prisoners, and demand their release.

Prof. Tyndall Dying.

LONDON, April 1.—Prof. Tyndall, who several weeks ago was reported as suffering from an inflammation of veins, has had a serious relapse and his condition to-night is worse than it has been at any time.

The Pope's Millions.

LONDON, April 1.—Pope Leo has withdrawn sixty millions of francs from English banks to reinvest at a higher rate of interest.

Further Arrests in Sofia.

SOFIA, April 1.—There have been made further arrests in connection with the murder of Beltcheff, the Minister of Finance. These arrests include the majority of the Russophile leaders in Bulgaria.

Kicked by a Horse.

BLENHEIM, April 1.—To-day as Arthur Driver of Harwich was getting out his horse he was severely kicked in the face, badly fracturing the upper jaw and cutting the face considerably.

Dyspepsia

Intense Suffering for 8 years—Restored to Perfect Health.

Few people have suffered more severely from dyspepsia than Mr. E. A. McMahon, a well known grocer of Staunton, Va. He says: "Before 1870 I was in excellent health, weighing over 200 pounds. In that year an ailment developed into acute dyspepsia, and soon I was reduced to 162 pounds, suffering burning sensations in the stomach, palpitation of the heart, nausea, and indigestion. Intense I could not sleep, lost all heart in my work, had fits of melancholia, and for days at a time I would have welcomed death. I became morose, sullen and irritable, and for eight years life was a burden. I tried many physicians and many remedies. One day a workman employed by me suggested that I take Hood's Sarsaparilla, as it had cured his wife of dyspepsia. Suffering I did so, and before taking the whole of a bottle I began to feel like a new man. The terrible pains to which I had been subjected, ceased, the palpitation of the heart subsided, my stomach became easier, nausea disappeared, and my entire system began to tone up. With returning strength came activity of mind and body. 8 Years Before the fifth bottle was taken I had regained my former weight and natural condition. I am today well and I ascribe it to taking Hood's Sarsaparilla."

N. B. If you decide to take Hood's Sarsaparilla do not be induced to buy any other.

The Daily Review.

THURSDAY, APRIL 2, 1891.

A SPECIMEN TRICK.

It has been said that Canadians have much to complain of in the London, Eng., newspapers on account of the want of knowledge of this country that they sometimes exhibit, but the London journals have also reason to complain of the way they are sometimes treated in Canada by being misrepresented by Canadian papers. It is not long since the London Times discussed a quotation from a paper by Mr. Wiman and the quotation was taken from the Times and paraded here as an opinion of that paper. A more recent and equally flagrant instance of this species of misrepresentation has been exposed. A despatch dated from London was published in the Mail, and reproduced in Liberal papers, as an expression of opinion by the Times, in which it was represented as saying that a proposal to disrupt the colonial empire was looked upon with indifference in England, and much more that would be surprising if it were published as an editorial expression of opinion in that journal. But the article never appeared in the Times in any form, but was a despatch in the New York Tribune from its London correspondent, a paid writer for the American paper. And it was the views of this citizen of the United States that were given under the caption "The Times offers some suggestions" in order to deceive Canadian readers. Although the trick has been exposed the paper that first perpetrated the deception and those that reproduced it have made no explanation and have not undeceived their readers. By such means they attempt to influence public opinion, but such methods should meet with the condemnation of the public.

GREAT EARTHQUAKES

In 1703 Yeddo, Japan, Was Ruined and 200,000 Persons Killed.

Records of great earthquakes fill a large space in the world's history, and instances where people have perished by thousands from this cause are mournfully numerous. An earthquake, accompanied by a volcanic eruption, destroyed the cities of Pompeii and Herculaneum and buried most of their inhabitants in the year 79 A. D. The entire world was shaken from pinnacle to foundation stone in the year 543. In 557 Constantinople suffered terribly from an earthquake, which killed thousands of its inhabitants.

In 742 an awful shock visited China, India, Persia and Palestine, killing hundreds of thousands of human beings, besides beasts beyond calculation. In 1158 20,000 persons perished from an earthquake shock in Syria alone; in 1268 60,000 were killed or buried alive in Cilicia. In 1456 40,000 were killed in Naples. In 1531 Lisbon, Portugal, had her first great shock—that which killed 30,000 people. In 1626 Naples was again visited and had 70,000 of her people taken away by the earthquake demon. The next year the Schamaki was constantly rocked by earthquakes for three months, during which time 80,000 persons were killed.

In 1693 an earthquake overturned fifty-four cities and towns; Catania and its 18,000 inhabitants were wiped out of existence, and more than 100,000 lives were lost altogether. In 1703 Yeddo, Japan, was ruined and 200,000 people killed. In 1731 Pekin, China, lost 100,000 by an earthquake. In 1754 100,000 were engulfed at Grand Cairo. The following year Lisbon was again wrecked, losing 60,000 people. The same year Kaschan, Persia, with 40,000 people, was totally destroyed.

In 1759 Baalbec, Syria, was destroyed, 20,000 persons being killed. The same number perished at Alleppo in 1822. In 1851 Melfi, Italy, was laid in ruins and 14,000 lives lost. In 1857 in Calabria and elsewhere not less than 10,000 perished by earthquake shocks. One authority on the subject estimates that in the years between 1783 and 1857 the kingdom of Naples lost not less than 111,000 of its people by earthquakes.

In 1881 the isles of Ischia and Scio suffered terribly, losing about 4,000 to 5,000 people. Ischia was again visited in 1883, but did not get off as easily as before, coming out of the wreck with 10,000 dead and missing. The great calamity of the century was the great convulsion in Java in 1883, which is said to have killed not less than 120,000 persons. In this review of monumental calamities we have only went back to about the time of Christ. The Japanese have an earthquake record, kept in chronological order, which extends over a period of 2,000 years.—St. Louis Republic.

THE COKE MINERS STRIKE.

The Situation Very Grave—An Outbreak Expected at Any Time—What a Day May Bring Forth.

PITTSBURG, April 1.—The situation in the coke regions continues grave. No lawlessness has occurred for 43 hours, but the operators still look for an outbreak at any time. It is claimed that word has been passed around for a general movement at 2 o'clock to-morrow morning. The striking leaders say it is not true that the time for inauguration of the eight-hour movement has been changed from May 1 to April 1. The situation is desperate in the coke regions, and leaders recognizing this have determined to put their money in the coke strike and make the eight-hour movement elsewhere an after consideration. No general strike of miners, they say, will be ordered until after the inter-State conference of mine owners and workers here next Tuesday.

SIX MONTHS FOR BIGAMY.

Jane Sebastien Sticks to Bigamist Davis to the End.

HAMILTON, April 1.—Thomas H. Davis, the Toronto printer, who yesterday pleaded guilty to having two wives, was this morning sentenced to six months in the Central Prison. Before the court opened there was an affecting scene between Davis and Jane Sebastien, wife No. 2. The woman threw her arms around him and wept. Although he deceived her she still loves him.

Stilled Her Voice Forever.

HARRISBURG, PA., April 1.—Two men entered the house of Michael Strominger at Lewisberry, York county, last night, and compelled the aged farmer to hand over $3000, with which he intended paying a debt on his farm to-day. They bound and gagged Mrs. Strominger, the aged wife of the farmer, and when the cloth was removed from her face it was discovered she had been suffocated.

Sir John's Cousin Dead.

FORT SMITH, Ark., April 1.—John Maitland Macdonald, cousin of Sir John Macdonald, the Canadian Premier, and one of the most remarkable characters in the country, died yesterday. He was a geologist, mineralogist and mining expert and speculator. He squandered three or four fortunes in England, Australia and this country. He inherited the title of Lord Maitland from his mother, Lady Maitland, which he never assumed.

A Trio of Fires.

BLOWN TO ATOMS.

Desperate Naval Battle Between Government Troops and Insurgents.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 1.—Advices from Valparaiso state that the ironclad Bianco, belonging to the insurgents, attempted to blow up the armed government tug Florence with a fish torpedo, but the torpedo missed the tug and struck the big floating dry dock, blowing it to pieces. The Florence and a torpedo boat attacked the Bianco, when a heavy shell from the latter struck the Florence, blowing her entirely out of the water and killing or wounding every one of her crew of 17 men, while a broadside from the Bianco's consort, the O'Higgins, knocked the torpedo boat all to pieces. Fire was opened from the forts and a shell went through the O'Higgins, and the gun on the quarter deck exploded, the deck being literally torn out of the vessel and nine men out of the gun's crew of 12 were blown to atoms.

Enthusiastic Celebration of Bismarck's 76th Birthday.

FRIEDRICHSRUHE, April 1.—Prince Bismarck, who is 76 years old to-day, has been receiving deputations all day, with addresses and floral offerings from all parts of Germany. Early this morning the reveille was sounded under the window of the prince's apartments by the Ratzeburg Jaegers. Every train brought large numbers of strangers. Among the visitors were the Duke of Ujest and other persons of title, several Hamburg guilds and a number of Munich artists. Prince Bismarck received many telegrams and gifts from admirers abroad. During the day the prince appeared in public three times and on each occasion was received with fervent cheers and hand-shakings. To-night a torchlight procession was held in which 3000 persons took part.

Bismarck met the torchlight procession at the Castle gate. Herr Woermann in a speech said they had come not as representatives of a political party, but as citizens to give the Prince proof of their gratitude for his services to the Fatherland. Bismarck, who was deeply moved, said he felt as if he was receiving a good school certificate, that when he was a minister he had not always received such recognition, and that he would leave the memory of the demonstration to his children as a precious inheritance. The Prince received 3000 congratulatory despatches.

An Irish M.P. Roughly Treated by a Mob of Women.

Mining Convention.

TORONTO, April 2.—At the session of the mining convention yesterday, resolutions were passed pronouncing against all provincial taxation in the shape of royalties and ground rents; that the selling of mining lands for arrears of taxes be discontinued; that development work should be required before land is patented; that the explorer should have the right to stake out the ground of his discovery whether in surveyed or unsurveyed territory according to any regulations relating thereto; that the railways should be asked to lower their present excessive rates for carrying ore; and that a free market in the U.S. and Canada for mining products would be to the advantage of both parties and greatly tend to the development of the mineral resources of Ontario.

A Lost Horse and Buggy.

Last evening two boys drove a horse and buggy to the police station and handed the outfit over to the police. They had found the horse wandering down Charlotte-st. without a driver. The police took the lost horse and rig to Sloan's livery stable where it awaits an owner. In the buggy was an overcoat in the pocket of which was a revolver.

A Fact Worth Knowing.

The only cash grocery house in town is W. J. Morrow's. You can lay out your hard-earned cash to better advantage there than elsewhere. All good goods cut away down in price. We get our spot cash for every dollar's worth sold. You are not helping to pay other person's debts when dealing with us. Call and price our goods. 349 George-st.

Convicted of a Third Offence.

The first conviction as a third offence under the Crook's Act was made at the police court this morning. Mr. James Fanning, of the Commercial hotel, was charged by Chief Rossel as a third offence with selling liquor during prohibited hours, it being alleged that he had sold on Sunday last. The accused pleaded guilty and the magistrate fined him $80 and costs ($2.50) and in default fifty days in gaol at hard labor. A third conviction according to the statute deprives a man of his license and disqualifies him from procuring another license for two years.

A Pleasant Herb Drink—A Spring Medicine.

The druggists tell us that the people call daily for the new cure for constipation and sick-headache discovered by Dr. Silas Lane. It is said to be Oregon grape root (a great remedy in the far west for those complaints) combined with simple herbs, and is made for use by pouring on boiling water to draw out the strength. It sell at 50c and $1 a package and is called Lane's Family Medicine.

Mr. Geo. Hodge, who for some years has been with the Bell Telephone Company, left last evening for British Columbia, where he has accepted a position under Mr. H. W. Kent, who is managing a local telephone company in Vancouver.

Mr. M. Barabood, Jr., business manager Zera Semon, has arrived in town, and will commence to strew the path with dodgers and so forth for the old reliable favorite Zera Semon, who will make a stay for three nights only, commencing Thursday, April 9th. Zera has a brand new show this time different from all others. He has engaged at a big expense Sahib Ben Hemoured, the Black Art Worker, besides many other new features.

NUMBERING THE PEOPLE.

The Census-Taking to Commence Next Week—The Officials.

On Monday next the work of taking the census will be begun throughout the Dominion. The object of taking the census is to ascertain exactly the population of Canada and to obtain information regarding the business and resources of the country. This information is obtained solely that it may be compiled so as to be a guide for the legislators of the country, and as accurate knowledge will be beneficial it is the duty and in the interest of everyone to give the information asked for fully and correctly. There is also no reason at all why anyone should wish to withhold information. The officials, enumerators, commissioners and other officers, are all sworn to secrecy and cannot divulge any information they obtain regarding any person's affairs. The information has nothing whatever to do with taxation and cannot, on account of the secrecy maintained, be used in any way in connection with the collection of taxes, and for the same reason no one need be afraid that by giving full information they will in any way affect their business. The answers given to the questions asked will be kept secret and the general results tabulated, and the general results, the totals only, without names or other particulars, is all that will be made known. The enumerators have schedules with questions which they are bound to ask and to which all must reply. The reasons given why they should be fully answered should in all cases be sufficient, but there is a penalty for refusing to answer the questions or for withholding information.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Rifle Association was held last evening at the office of Messrs. Dennistoun & Stevenson. There was a very good attendance of marksmen, Lieut.-Col. H. C. Rogers presiding.

Mr. R. M. DENNISTOUN, Secretary-Treasurer, after the minutes had been confirmed, presented his annual report. The finances were shown to be in a very satisfactory condition. The reports also showed that $117 78 had been expended on improvements at the ranges, which were now as good as any to be found in the country. The reports were adopted.

A STEADY SHOT GONE.

Mr. W. H. Hill moved, seconded by Mr. D. Cameron,—Resolved that the members of this Association with deep sorrow and regret place upon record the deep sense of the loss we have sustained by the death of our old and valued friend and steady shot Frederick Hall, who was always a faithful worker in this Association and was for many years a most useful member of the Council. He was one who always strove to protect our constitution and vigorously observed our by-laws. His many medals and trophies are proof of his skill. It is further resolved that this resolution be entered in our minute book and a copy hereof forwarded to the family of our late member. This motion was carried.

It was also decided that the O. R. A. and D. R. A. medals should be awarded as last year, that no sighting shots be allowed in monthly matches, and that no man be allowed to shoot more than seven shots at any range on any practice day.

On motion, the monthly matches are to be shot as follows:—After the first range has been fired the members present shall elect two captains who shall choose their teams by alternate choice, each team shall pay an entrance fee of 25 cents per man, and the Colonel will draw up rules to govern the competition.

STREAMS AND FORESTS.

SESSION OF THE FISH AND GAME COMMISSION.

A Number of Local Fishers and Hunters Give Evidence Before the Commission—Our Fish, Birds, Deer and the General Game Laws.

The Ontario Government Fish and Game Commission, consisting of Messrs. A. D. Stewart, of Hamilton, E. W. Thomson, of Toronto, and J. C. Smith, of Belleville, had their first business session yesterday afternoon. Quite an amount of interesting information was gathered from the evidence given by several local gentlemen, among whom were some who have been fishing and hunting in this district for forty years or more. The Commission is collecting evidence in regard to the fish found in Peterborough waters, deer and other animals found in the woods of the district and in prosecuting their thorough search for relative information they have questions for the game and fish dealer, sellers of fishing tackle and sporting goods and the hotel keepers in sporting districts. The commission is conducted without formality and those who attended yesterday and volunteered their evidence found the commissioners very affable and courteous gentlemen.

Among those who attended and gave evidence, which was given in a colloquial style, were Messrs. Wm. Brownscombe, John Richardson, Lakefield, L. G. Steele, Lakefield, Geo. Cochrane, R. E. Wood, R. Walton, R. Tivey, G. B. Sproule, Alex. Paterson, J. D. Collins, J. H. Yelland, T. Rutherford, S. Ray, T. E. Bradburn and T. P. Attrill.

THE FINNY TRIBE.

The evidence on fish was first taken. As regarded the fish the witnesses were of the opinion that waters in this district were all good fishing waters, but that some streams had been depleted by over fishing out of season. Fish here were killed by illegal methods to a large extent, the principal of these illegal methods being snaring, spearing, netting and shooting. This unlawful catching, it was said, was done principally for purposes of sale. The witnesses were in favor of allowing farmer settlers [illegible] fish at all seasons, if the captures were made for food purposes only.

THE FEATHERY TRIBE.

Some evidence was also taken as to birds. The witnesses unanimously opposed the exposure for sale of partridge for a term of five years. This opinion has been concurred in by witnesses examined by the Commissioners in different parts of Ontario. The witnesses were also opposed to the exportation of all birds from Canada.

THE ANTLERED MONARCH.

Considerable evidence was gleaned in regard to deer. Some interesting information was gathered as to the different seasons at which deer are in best condition for human food, the rutting season and the commencement of the herding or yarding season. It was the unanimous opinion that no fawns should be allowed to be shot. The witnesses were not of the opinion that deer killing should be entirely prohibited for a term of years, nor did they think that hounding of deer should be abolished. Runway shooting before hounds was condemned by them all as being cruel, many wounded animals escaping from the huntsman only to be killed by the wolves. It was stated that illegal killing was considerably practiced, principally by settlers. The present law regarding the number of deer allowed to be shot by hunters was pronounced fairly good, if observed. Some thought, however, that two deer per gun during one season was sufficient. The witnesses all agreed that foreigners coming to kill deer in Ontario, whether from the United States or other provinces, should be required to pay $20 for a permit. They were also of the unanimous opinion that a special service of game wardens should be appointed to protect game in the Province. Regarding wolves it was thought that the present bounty of $6 should be increased to $16, as the destruction of deer by wolves was enormous and the small bounty now paid was not sufficient to endure hunters and settlers to go in pursuit of these animals. A bounty of $1 was advocated for the destruction of foxes, and twenty-five cents for smaller vermin, such as owls, weazles, coons, skunks, etc.

A large number of visitors were said to visit here for the fishing and shooting. This number was increasing every year and in order that a revenue should be raised towards supporting sub-wardens, it was advised that the permit system and license fees should be rigidly enforced. None of the witnesses were in favor of the proposition that a license should be taken and a fee paid for using sporting weapons. None of the farmers, it was said, took any care to feed quail or game in winter nor did they ask for any better trespass law than the present.

The commission adjourned about five o'clock until ten o'clock this morning.

TO-DAY'S SESSION.

This morning the Commission resumed at ten o'clock and had a very interesting session until noon. A number of gentlemen were present and gave evidence in answer to the same questions which were put to witnesses yesterday. Nothing new of a material nature was elicited.

The Commission will hold a session this afternoon and will leave for Lindsay at five o'clock.

"Gentle Spring" loses many of its terrors when the system is fortified by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. With multitudes, this wonderful tonic-alterative has long superseded all other spring medicines, being everywhere recommended by physicians.

FRUIT GROWING.

A Paper by a Fruit Grower of Thirty Years Experience.

Mr. R. B. Edwards, secretary of the local Fruit Growers' Association, informs us that half a dozen fruit growers can join in asking for a Princess Louise apple tree and obtain a three foot tree by express instead of the small seedling usually sent to members to test. The following paper written by Mr. J. McLean, of Mount Pleasant, was not read at the recent meeting owing to lack of time, but it will be found of interest:—

I have been engaged in fruit culture for over 30 years in the Township of Cavan. My first purchase of apple trees was from Mr. Leslie, of Toronto. The trees I got were good and true to name (Fameuse or Snow). They suit this climate well and bear a heavy crop every other year, but of late years the fruit is spotted, which prevents it keeping long, and injures its sale. The Northern Spy is a first class apple but I find the tree rather tender and short lived. The same may be said of the Baldwin, Wagner, R. I. Greening and the Early Harvest.

For early apples, I prefer the Early Harvest and Red Astrachan.

For fall apples the Fameuse or Snow, Duchess of Oldenburg and St. Lawrence are my favorites.

For winter apples, The Northern Spy, Golden Russett, R. I. Greening, Talman Sweet, Rambeo and Roxburgh Russett.

PEARS.—My experience of pairs has not been altogether satisfactory. There was a time when we could not raise them, but lately I found no trouble in growing the Flemish Beauty, Clapp's Favorite and the Goodall. My soil is a clay loam, on which I have about 30 trees of the three different varieties named, nearly all standards. I find that by planting them between the rows of apple trees they succeed better, as the apple trees shelter them from heavy winds and prevents the fruit from falling off the trees as soon as it otherwise would. The Flemish Beauty is and may be called an iron clad. It bears heavy crops annually. The same may be said of the Goodall. The Clapp's Favorite is my favorite pear, early, equal if not superior to any other pear. It is an annual bearer. The fruit should be gathered while green, about two weeks before they are ripe. The year 1890 will be long remembered by me in connection with pear-growing. After a heavy thunderstorm in July or August I found many of my pear trees struck with blight, limbs blackened, also the leaves. I immediately cut the diseased limbs off, as the disease seemed to spread from limb to limb. I felt grieved to look at what was such a short time before the pride of the orchard. My crop of pears for 1889 was about forty or fifty bushels; for 1890 only ten bushels of good saleable pears. The remainder were spotted and small, and unfit for use.

The plum tree grows well in our township, but requires plenty of manure. They are not profitable lately on account of the injury caused by the curculio. The Lambert is the most profitable I grow.

Someone advertises for "a house girl to assist in washing of a small family" and someone else wants "a gentleman for breakfast and tea." There are wants that can, no doubt, be easily satisfied. It is only fair to assume that in having the gentleman for tea that an accompaniment of the meal will be a cup of Hawley Bros. superior flavored Teas. You provide the boiling water, Hawley does the rest. d76

The Public Dinner.

The public dinner was never such an "institution" as it is now in the United States. Dr. Johnson said that dinner lubricates business, and certainly with us it lubricates every kind of business. The traditions of the Northern races are of tremendous eating and drinking in the halls of Odin, and their spirit has not been lost in the later day. Our American feasts are more frequent and more sumptuous, and, if we may trust our British brethren, more brilliant in the speech-making, than their own. Indeed, Thackeray's sly sketch of the dinner and the speeches of the Ancient and Worshipful Guild of Bellows-menders suggests a blank and stately formality, comical by its dulness, of which an American public dinner gives no hint.

But we are always in danger of expanding everything to the continental scale. A public dinner has its essential conditions and limitations, and it may be magnified beyond enjoyment. A barbecue, where an ox is roasted whole in the open air, and the crowd of people is popularly measured by the acre, may be a festival full of enjoyment of a certain kind, but it is not the kind of pleasure afforded by a public dinner which is not a barbecue. The conditions of such a feast are obvious. They are chiefly a good dinner served promptly and hot, but not of many courses, a brilliant hall, not too large, and a company which can readily hear without effort upon the part of the speakers.

There are other equally indispensable conditions. People go to a public dinner for two reasons—one is to eat a good dinner in pleasant company; the other to hear good speeches. But the social excitement of eating and drinking and smoking disposes to conversation, and there is no such sense of propriety in maintaining the attitude of listening at a dinner as in church, or at a lecture, or even a public meeting. If the speech is dull, the tables begin to murmur; and when the guests are full—of eloquent speech, be it understood—they are very apt to chat and to leave the tables at their own sweet will.

The larger the hall and the greater the difficulty of hearing, the more certain are inattention and confusion. The longer the list of speeches, the more unhappy the fate of the later speakers. Then the public dinner is becoming more and more like a play, and, as at a play,

> "the eyes of men,
> After a well-graced actor leaves the stage,
> Are idly bent on him that enters next,
> Thinking his prattle to be tedious."

The stars at the table, as on the stage, are heeded and heard, but there is often short shrift for others who are of no less parts, but parts not yet known or acknowledged.—From the Editor's Easy Chair, by George William Curtis, in Harper's Magazine for March.

This and gray hair and bald heads, so displeasing to many people as marks of age, may be averted for a long time by using Hall's Hair Renewer.

Rheumatism,

BEING due to the presence of uric acid in the blood, is most effectually cured by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Be sure you get Ayer's and no other, and take it till the poisonous acid is thoroughly expelled from the system. We challenge attention to this testimony:—

"About two years ago, after suffering for nearly two years from rheumatic gout, being able to walk only with great discomfort, and having tried various remedies, including mineral waters, without relief, I saw by an advertisement in a Chicago paper that a man had been relieved of this distressing complaint, after long suffering, by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I then decided to make a trial of this medicine, and took it regularly for eight months, and am pleased to state that it has effected a complete cure. I have since had no return of the disease."—Mrs. R. Irving Dodge, 110 West 125th st., New York.

"One year ago I was taken ill with inflammatory rheumatism, being confined to my house six months. I came out of the sickness very much debilitated, with no appetite, and my system disordered in every way. I commenced using Ayer's Sarsaparilla and began to improve at once, gaining in strength and soon recovering my usual health. I cannot say too much in praise of this well-known medicine."—Mrs. L. A. Stark, Nashua, N. H.

THURSDAY, APRIL 2, 1891.

BEATRIX RANDOLPH.

BY JULIAN HAWTHORNE.

As she stood gazing there some one crossing the stage from the wings passed near her. She knew the step, and turned. Yes, it was Bellingham. He recognized her and paused, apparently surprised to see her there, but his expression could not be discovered in the shadow.

"Does the house satisfy you, mademoiselle?" he said, approaching her. As he did so he glanced at the flowers in her girdle. The glance did not escape her, and then she knew where it was she had seen the knot before. It was that day of their interview in the corridor; his fingers had been busy idly tying and untying a bit of string.

"I didn't know you would be here," she said in a whisper. "I am glad."

"They expect a call for the architect," he replied, "and I must make a bow."

"Will you be in the audience while I sing?"

"Yes. Why?"

"Show me which seat is yours."

He stepped to the peep hole.

"You see that chair half way down the center aisle? That is mine."

"Thank you," she said; "and thank you for these flowers. I feel made over anew! Now I can sing."

She put out her hand and Geoffrey took it in his.

For a moment it seemed to them as if they were alone together. When two persons meet in complete sympathy all other human association seems so trifling in comparison that they cease to be aware of it.

At this moment the overture came to an end, and the order was issued for the stage to be cleared. The prima donna found herself again in her dressing room, but not in the same mood as she had left it. She was warm, composed and happy. She looked in the tall mirror, and for the first time saw Marguerite reflected there. Then into her serene and awakened mind entered all the tenderness, simplicity and pathos of Gretchen's lovely story, and she felt the spirit of the German peasant maiden take possession of her. The appurtenances of the stage, the mechanism of the effects, the glare of the footlights no longer had power to disturb her illusion. They seemed themselves an illusion, and only the story was real. And when the moment came that she stood before the mighty audience they were to her no longer a hostile and opposing presence, with which she must struggle in hopeless contest, but a vast reservoir of human sympathy, aiding her, supporting her, comprehending her, supplying her with life and inspiration, and responding a thousandfold to every chord she touched.

As her voice flowed out and abroad from her lips it seemed to owe its enchanted sweetness and resonance not to her, but to its echo in the hearts of her listeners. Whence, then, had come this marvelous change in the mutual relations between her audience and herself? She was conscious only of the joy of unrestrained expression; the audience, only of the delight of ear and eye; and Geoffrey Bellingham, sitting with folded arms and charmed pulses in the midst of the assemblage, had no suspicion that any part of this triumph of harmony and beauty was due to him. His eyes and all his senses were turned toward her, but how should he imagine that amid the crowd of that great amphitheatre her glances were conscious of no face but his, and that all the stupendous magnetism of their silence and their applause was centered and concentrated in him? He had even forgotten that his Marguerites were in her girdle.

As has already been intimated, however, it would be superfluous to give any account of this memorable performance from the audience's point of view. Competent judges, who attended many repetitions of the opera, have declared that Mlle. Marana never afterward surpassed the standard of excellence she attained on this first occasion. It was the topic of the time, and the fame of it spread all over the United States, and was spoken of next day in London and Paris. The public, which is so inhuman and tyrannical in its apathies and antipathies, is like a child and a slave in its favoritism and its homage. It idolized the incomparable Marana, and would have built her a house of gold, with jeweled windows, if she had demanded it. The unknown girl from the upper reaches of the Hudson was crowned queen of New York for the sake of two or three hours' sweet singing.

It is seldom that Adam, and even diviner Eve, in the days of their youth, are wholly insensible to the worship of their fellow creatures. They may say and believe that flattery cannot make them alter their own estimate of their merit: nevertheless, the eye that sees admiration in all other eyes involuntarily waxes brighter and more assured, and the presence before which others bow down, if it do not bear itself more commandingly, can at least scarcely avoid a graceful condescension. Doubtless it is not the merit but the homage which the merit causes that creates the elation. And by and by the suggestion will insinuate itself that there may, after all, be something exceptional in the nature gifted with such talents, apart from the talents themselves. From this point it is not far to the conclusion that exceptional natures demand exceptional treatment and consideration—should not be made accountable to ordinary rules; should be a law unto themselves. No position is more susceptible than this of being vindicated by plausible arguments, and a poor argument warmed by good will has always been worth a dozen better ones chilled and torpid from the breath of disinclination.

Now Mlle. Marana, though she could not estimate the influence upon others of the personal quality of her voice, could not help knowing that she sung in tune and correctly; but, inasmuch as many other women could do this, she was forced to infer that her being made queen of New York must be due to some personal quality, as aforesaid. This just persuasion gave her pleasure on more accounts than one; but one account was that it seemed to justify in some measure the deception which she was maintaining before the world. Though still chargeable with purloining Marana's name, she might, perhaps, acquit her conscience of damaging that lady in her musical reputation. If she were listened to with as great favor as the genuine Russian diva would have been, surely the latter could not complain of any very great practical injury. On the contrary she would have earned an American renown without being troubled to so much as open her lips. True, renown was all she would earn; but she had voluntarily given up the offer of other emoluments before the false Marana had ever been thought of. Of course a lie is a lie, after every excuse has been made for it; yet there may be cause for congratulation if a lie prove to contain no other mischief than the simple invasion of a truth.

A Conflict Promised.

SANTIAGO DE CHILI, April 1.—The elections just held have resulted in a complete triumph for the Liberals. It is reported the situation in which the insurgents at Iquique find themselves is most desperate. Famine prevails and the supply of coal is exhausted. The Chilian Government flotilla is almost ready to proceed against the rebels' ships. A desperate conflict is inevitable.

Called Back.

HAMILTON, April 1.—Hamilton Young, better known as "Tony" Young, arrived here to-day from New York in charge of an officer. He was formerly employed with the Hamilton Cotton Company and eight years ago he skipped out, leaving a deficit of $30,000, including a number of forged leases [illegible]

A Warning to All.

With the approach of spring time, the fathless, pitiless hand of disease is laid on the old and young, the rich and poor. The system, during the winter months has been charged with impurities; the blood is sluggish and the digestive vigor is imperfect and out of gear. Confinement in overheated and imperfectly ventilated houses has brought on nervous debility, dizziness, headache, difficult breathing, restlessness and sleeplessness. Dyspepsia has commenced its terrible work; there is distress in the stomach after meals; the food remains too long in the stomach and the blood is tainted and poisoned, so that the circulation is retarded and hindered. It behooves all to cleanse and purify the system, strengthen the weak nerves and flabby muscles, and invigorate the digestive organism. To secure this desired end, that great and well known remedy—Paine's Celery Compound—must be used. No other preparation can so effectually do the required work and give the sick one such a healthy, vigorous and robust constitution, as well as a clear and unclouded brain. Go to your druggist and procure a bottle and test it; you will be agreeably surprised with the result.

Which Way
Is Best?

John Wanamaker pays a man $10,000 a year just to write and superintend his advertising. It pays John.

We are a little more judicious, however. Our plan is to keep the Best Goods and sell them at the Lowest Prices. Instead of giving one man $10,000, we are prepared to put that amount into the pockets of our customers by giving close cash prices every time. You will, of course, say Rowse's way is the best.

We have just opened up our Glasgow purchases. They arrived in excellent order per S. Ss. "Warwick" and "Devonia." The Dress Goods are just lovely. The "Countess A 1" Silks are bound to give satisfaction. We give you beautiful Dress Silks, absolutely pure, for 50c. a yard. The Lace Curtains opened up very satisfactorily. The Linen Tablings and Napkins can't be beat for value.

Remember Rowse's is the only store in Peterborough that can show you a bran new stock.

OBITUARY.

Thomas Charles Baring, M.P. for London, of the Well-Known Banking Firm of Baring Bros.

LONDON, April 2.—Thomas Charles Baring, one of the two members of Parliament representing the city of London, died in Rome to-day of exhaustion resulting from a surgical operation. Mr. Baring was for some years engaged in banking in New York city, and was for more than 20 years a partner in the firm of Baring Bros. & Co., London and Liverpool. Mr. Baring was born at Adderbury, Oxfordshire, in 1831. He was a son of the late Charles Baring, Lord Bishop of Durham. He was the author of "Pindar in English Rhyme," "The System of Epicurus" and other works. Mr. Baring was a Conservative.

A Masonic Dignitary Dead.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Gen. Albert Pike, Grand Commander of the Scottish Rite Masonry of the Southern jurisdiction and the chief of the Royal Order of Scotland for this country, died at 8 o'clock this evening at the home here of the Supreme Council of the order, where he had lived for several years. General Pike was well known to all persons interested in Freemasonry, having held the highest offices in the order. He was the ranking Masonic dignitary of the world. He published several books of poems and law reports, but is most famed for his many books on Masonry.

A French Statesman.

PARIS, April 2.—A. Augustin Thomas Pouyer-Quertier, the distinguished French statesman, died suddenly to-day of congestion of the lungs. He was born Sept. 3, 1820.

Their Sailboat Upset.

DETROIT, April 2.—The body of a man recovered from the upset sailboat in Lake St. Clair yesterday evening was identified to-day as that of Fred Bedore, son of Joe Bedore, the well-known boat keeper at St. Clair Flats. The other is known to have been Jacob Kohl, son of Henry Kohl, who keeps a place near Bedore's. The young men sailed down from the flats Tuesday to sell some ducks and started back early yesterday morning.

They Died "Game."

SOMERSET, Pa., April 2.—The Nicely brothers, who murdered and robbed Herman Umberger, an old farmer, and robbed him of $20,000, were hanged at 1.44 this afternoon. They both died game and protesting their innocence. Death resulted from strangulation. The bodies were cut down about 10 minutes after the trap was sprung.

THE NEWS OF EUROPE.

M'CARTHYITES CLAIM A VICTORY IN NORTH SLIGO.

The Queen and the Indian Massacre—"Skin-the-Goat" and Other Phoenix Park Assassins on Parade—Prof. Koch is a Despondent Mood.

LONDON, April 2.—Accounts of the removal of the prisoners from the Downpatrick jail say that there was a great crowd present to see the Phoenix Park murderers as they came up, and when one of the prisoners sang "God Save Ireland" the majority of the crowd joined in the song. The greatest interest was shown in Fitzharris, alias "Skin-the-Goat," who looked remarkably strong and healthy. He was the most joyous of all the prisoners, and as he came from the building he began to repeat a number of verses of his own composition referring to incidents that had occurred in the prison since his incarceration. Mullett looked pale and delicate, in consideration of which he was placed in an outside car. The other prisoners walked two by two, handcuffed together. McCaffrey, another Invincible, looked well also, as did Nally, who was convicted for the conspiracy to murder a brother of Scrabb. Nally and all the other Crossmaglen prisoners who had been found guilty of this conspiracy to murder appeared in fairly good health.

A special train from the Great Northern Railway had arrived at Downpatrick station last night, in order to do away the necessity of changing cars at Belfast. The prisoners, with their warders, left the station amidst renewed cheering and singing by the prisoners and by the crowd.

THE ITALIAN EMBROGLIO.

Little Trouble is Anticipated in Connection With Fava's Recall.

ROME, April 2.—Premier Rudini to-day sent another cable message to the United States on the subject of the New Orleans trouble. The message is a reply to Mr. Blaine's last note, and in it the premier says Italy has asked nothing but a prompt institution of regular judicial proceedings against the guilty parties at New Orleans. He adds that it would have been absurd to claim punishment for the offenders without the guarantee afforded by a regular trial. The diplomatic incident, Premier Rudini says, can only be considered closed when the Federal Government has declared in precise terms that the prosecutions will be commenced. In the meantime the Italian Government takes cognizance of the Federal Government's declaration, acknowledging the fact that compensation is due to the families of the victims by virtue of the treaty existing between the two countries.

FURTHER FROM MANIPUR.

The Massacre Instigated by a Brother of the Deposed Rajah.

CALCUTTA, April 2.—It is not known how the affray at Manipur commenced, but it has been learned that Commissioner Quinton was treacherously seized while treating with the natives. The Manipurs then applied the [illegible] then they fought their way out and escaped across the hills. They met Cowley, who escorted them to Lakipur. A detachment of troops stationed at Langthobal were cut up.

In an interview the deposed Rajah of Manipur declared his brother, the present Rajah, would not kill his prisoners, but would merely hold them as hostages. The only fear is from the uncontrollable Kukis. The deposed Rajah offers to send another brother to endeavor to induce the ruling Rajah to release the prisoners.

Koch Cast Down in Spirits.

BERLIN, April 2.—Professor Koch is reported as being very much depressed with the indifferent success of his treatment for tuberculosis. Even his own partisans regard the hoped-for cure as a failure, and say openly that however valuable the discovery may be from a theoretical and scientific point of view the practical results are not likely to amount to much.

A proposition that the Governor-General should be elected by a popular vote was rejected 35 to 3.

THEY DIED TOGETHER.

Peculiar History of an Old Colored Couple—A Son's Loyalty.

PITTSBURG, April 2.—Elizabeth and George Parker, a colored mother and son, the last members of a numerous family and old-time residents of Pittsburg, lie in their coffins side by side at No. 20 Logan-street. Mrs. Parker was 80 years old and died Sunday night. The son was 40, and his death occurred Monday. Both had pneumonia, superinduced by la grippe. The son chose to remain unmarried, the better to assist in caring for his mother. The couple were much attached to each other, and as the son looked quite as old as his mother they were often mistaken for husband and wife.

EIGHT HOURS A DAY.

The Movement Inaugurated in Several Cities Yesterday.

CINCINNATI, O., April 2.—The first demand for the eight-hour day in this city was made by 150 plasterers, who went on strike to-day. They had demanded as long ago as last August an eight-hour day and pay at 45 cents an hour. The rule has been 35 cents an hour with a nine-hour day. At a meeting held to-day it was decided to strike and committees were appointed to get all the plasterers to join them.

INDIANAPOLIS, April 2.—The tinners having refused to accept the agreement presented by the bosses were yesterday locked out. About 200 men were affected.

MILFORD, Mass., April 2.—All the Milford granite cutters quit work to-day because the demand for $3 a day, beginning to-day, was not granted.

PHILADELPHIA, April 2.—At a meeting last night of Clay Assembly, K. of L., composed of about 700 brickmakers, it was decided that the men would not go to work to-day, the opening of the brickmaking season. The employers decided some time ago to work under the scale of 1889, which would lower the wages about 10 per cent. The employers have refused to treat with arbitration committees representing the workmen. The strike will involve about 3,000 men.

FALL RIVER, Mass., April 2.—All the mill corporations in this city have posted notices to the effect that after April 6 the day hands will be paid by the hour instead of by the day as heretofore. This is done in anticipation of the passage of one of the short-hour bills now pending in the legislature. If the fifty-four hour bill is passed the mills propose to reduce the wages in the same ratio as the product of mills is reduced, and this means a reduction of 10 per cent. in wages.

ERIE, Pa., April 2.—There is a general movement in Erie to make a demand for a reduction of hours of labor and an advance of 10 per cent. in wages on May 1. The Erie Board of Education, in making appropriations for new buildings, added 10 per cent. for increased cost of labor in anticipation of a reduction of the hours from ten to nine and an increase of 10 per cent. in wages, and have therefore given the keynote for the general movement on May 1.

CHICAGO, April 2.—About 200 plasterers struck this morning for an advance in wages to $4 per working day of eight hours. Most of the boss plasterers had already acceded to the demand.

LYNN, Mass., April 2.—The bricklayers to-day asked an increase to 40 cents per hour from 35 cents. The demand was complied with. The house painters asked an increase from $2.25 per day to $2.50. Most shops acceded and only four struck.

THE COLOR LINE.

A Sanguinary Conflict Ensued, in Which Six People Were Injured.

OMAHA, April 1.—A riot of considerable magnitude was provoked in the Keystone dinner hall by the refusal of the proprietor to serve two negro Pullman porters. A negro policeman interfered in behalf of his brethren, and the proprietor replied that neither he nor his men would serve negroes, and immediately ordered the entire force to throw the three colored men out. They tried to make their way to the door, and as Newman, the colored officer, interfered to protect them, he was hit in the mouth with a catsup bottle, knocking two of his teeth down his throat.

He endeavored to defend himself with his club, but his assailants were too numerous and he was repeatedly knocked down. He finally managed to draw his revolver and fired three times. As the crowd made a break for the door Officer Ross, who was passing, saw what was up, and rushed to the assistance of his brother officer. He knocked down two or three of the belligerents, receiving several blows in return, when one of the "Hashers" made a pass at him with a heavy meat cleaver. The fearful weapon was aimed to cleave the officer's skull, but just as it descended Officer Gadola, who had fought his way in, struck up the arm of the would-be murderer, knocking the weapon from his hand.

As it fell the keen blade struck Ross upon the nose, splitting open that organ from top to bottom. Everybody was covered with blood and the chop house looked like a slaughter pen. Two officers, two waiters and the two colored men were badly hurt.

Remi Lamontagne's Body.

MONTREAL, April 2.—Mr. J. H. Pillet, advocate, has received an acknowledgement from Quebec of the petition from the Lamontagne family for the body of Remi Lamontagne. The whole record of Lula Lamontagne will be sifted out and the certified copy of the whole sent to the Washington authorities to establish that the spirit and letter of the extradition of Lula Lamontagne have been broken by her present imprisonment for an offence for which she was not extradited.

$6000 Fire at Brooklin.

BROOKLIN, Ont., April 2.—Last night about 12.30 fire broke out in the two-story brick block in Baldwin-street owned by Bickell & Bosley and occupied by R. C. Warren as a general store, G. N. W. Telegraph office, Bell Telephone Company and by C. H. Wilson as a dwelling. It originated in the store and before any alarm was given had destroyed the entire stock. Total loss about $6000.

Frozen to Death.

WINNIPEG, April 2.—A Nova Scotian named Archie McPhail, who has been trapping on Lake of the Woods and who has been missing since early in February, has been found frozen to death. On February 2 he visited Keewatin and sold furs, returning with supplies. It is supposed he became exhausted when within two miles of home, fell to the ice and was unable to rise again.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

A MINING DEPUTATION INTERVIEW THE GOVERNMENT.

Mr. Ross' Amendment to the School Law—Strong Measures to be Adopted to Put Down Truancy—General Notes of the Session.

TORONTO, April 2.—A deputation of Ontario miners waited upon the Government yesterday and presented the resolutions passed at the morning convention the past two days. After Mr. Conmee, the member for Algoma, had introduced the deputation, William Hamilton Merritt read the resolutions adopted by the convention. He said that while the mining interests had not been intentionally slighted they were of such a character as to deserve serious consideration. The convention would like to see a corner stone and foundation upon which to rear the financial interests of the province.

Mr. Mowat replied that he had read the reports of the proceedings of the convention with great interest. They were of a very important nature and covered a good deal of ground, and the Government would give the matter their best consideration before the end of the session.

Mr. Ross' bill respecting truancy and compulsory school education makes a number of important changes. It provides that all children between 8 and 14 years of age shall attend school for the full term during which the school of the section or municipality in which they reside is open each year, unless excused for reasons mentioned. The present law places the age limit at 7 and 13 years and the period of attendance at 100 days. The new bill also provides that the police commissioners, or, in cases where there are no police commissioners, the municipal council of every city, town, incorporated village and township shall appoint one or more persons to act as truant officers for the enforcement of this act. The truant officer shall, for the purposes of this act, be vested with police powers, and shall have authority to enter factories, workshops, stores and all places where children may be employed, and shall perform such services as may be deemed necessary for the enforcement of this act. And it shall also be his duty to institute proceedings for violation of the act. As a penalty, instead of $5 as at present, the bill provides that any person or officer mentioned in this act, and designated as having certain duties to perform in the enforcement of any of its provisions, neglecting to perform any such duties, shall be liable to a fine of not less than $25 nor more than $50 for each and every offence.

The Government supporters held a caucus yesterday afternoon. Dr. McKay and Mr. Dance, the whips, marshalled the forces in room 16 and then held their backs to the door. Some of the members, especially those from the farming, wanted to know how long the session was going to last. Plowing time would soon be at hand, but there would be no hands to guide the plow. It was decided to rush business hereafter as soon as possible and to hold night sittings regularly in order to get through at an early date.

A deputation, consisting of C. J. Pusey, president of the Irondale & Bancroft Railway, J. Burnham, M.P., J. R. Stratton, M.L.A., T. Blezard, M.L.A., J. B. McWilliams and E. Pearse of Peterboro, Mayor Walters, H. O'Leary, Col. Deacon and E. H. Hopkins of Lindsay, and W. Ince and G. M. Rose of the Toronto Board of Trade, and J. Lockhart Gordon waited upon the Government to ask a bonus for that railway, representing the great advantages which would result from developing the mineral resources of the region through which the road will run.

The large and influential deputation from London had its interview with Mr. Ross yesterday morning regarding the establishing of the new Normal School in London. The deputation left with the impression that their wishes would be acceded to.

Mr. Bishop—Return showing what proceedings have been taken by the government investigating the business carried on by the Lion Provident and Life Association, with copies of any reports or orders in council connected therewith.

All the water which has been consumed by the occupants of the building in the past two weeks has passed over the putrid mess.

John E. Doll of 61 Macdonald-avenue, employed by Chiropodist Davidson as messenger boy, was arrested on a warrant yesterday charged with forgery. The boy was suffering the pangs of hunger, and being without money to secure the desideratum signed his employer's name to an order for a 15c. lunch at Nasmith's. When Mr. Davidson appeared at the police clerk's desk to swear out a warrant one of the clerks offered to reimburse him for his loss, but the professor would not be mollified.

Buried Under a Load of Wood.

QUEBEC, April 2.—A lad named Giroux, aged 10 years, of the parish of Beauport, was found dead beneath a load of green wood. The boy started in the morning with a dog and sleigh to gather wood at some distance. Having loaded, he was on his way home, when the load capsized and imprisoned him under its weight. When found at night the boy had been dead for some hours.

STRIKERS FIRED ON.

TWO VOLLEYS KILL SEVEN OF THE MOB.

And Wound Many Others—A Determined Attack Upon an Armed Guard—The Strikers do the First Shooting—Two Volleys Scatter Them Like Chaff.

MOUNT PLEASANT, Pa., April 2.—At about 2.45 this morning a mob of about 500 men began rioting at the Standard Works. They destroyed some of the company's property and then proceeded to cut the telephone and telegraph lines of the coke company so that no warning could be sent to the people at Morewood. About 3 o'clock a party of rioters between 400 and 500 strong marched to Morewood. The deputy-sheriffs were soon in readiness to receive the attack. After looting the company's store the rioters marched to the barn enclosure and attempted to break down the gates. They succeeded in doing this and as they entered Capt. Loarer called out to them to halt or he would fire upon them. Their answer was to fire a rattling volley in the direction of the deputies, none of whom were seriously injured. Capt. Loarer then gave the order to fire. Two volleys were fired before the mob broke and ran. Seven fell dead in the public road and 27 were found wounded, four of whom died. The rioters then broke into small groups and made their escape in various directions.

The Dead.

CRESZO BINERO, Italian of Tarrs, shot through the heart.

JOHN FUDORCA, of Standard, single, shot through the brain.

ANTONIO RISI, Pole, single of Standard Works, shot through the head.

JACOB SCHUCASKEY, Pole of Tarrs, shot through the brain, leaves wife in Poland.

JAMES PROCHTE, Pole, single of Tarrs, shot through the head.

VALENTINE KEIDEL, Slav of Donnelly, single, shot through the jugular.

PAUL DOHANNIS, Slav of Standard, shot in the head, single.

As usual during a raid the strikers were armed with revolvers, stones, iron bars and every conceivable weapon obtainable. The volleys from the Winchesters were well directed and but a few rounds were necessary to drive the frightened rioters back into the hills where hundreds of their fellow-strikers had gathered in anticipation of assisting in the raid but not in a battle with guards. The firing on both sides continued hardly three minutes. The volleys from the guards had terrible effect on the compact mass of strikers, while the latter made an attempt to return the fire with what weapons they possessed, but without effect. The dead were left lying in the road while the wounded, estimated at between 40 and 50, were assisted or bodily carried away into the hills by their fellows. All day the entire coke region has presented scenes of the wildest excitement. The foreign element especially has been driven frantic. Always turbulent, sullen and ready for desperate measures they are not one whit cowed by the death of several of their number, while they have sedulously concealed in their homes those of their number who were wounded, many, no doubt, unto death.

Late to-night word was received here that two more men concerned in the riot had died in strikers' houses near the Morewood works, where they had been dragged by their fellows. Their names could not be learned, but it is known that one was an English-speaking foreigner. These two deaths make nine in all that are known, but there is no doubt others are dead or in a critical condition. Reports late to-night from all over the region indicate a fearfully dangerous and excited condition of affairs and the word that the military was soon to be on guard was received by the law-abiding labor officials and coke operators alike with the liveliest satisfaction at [illegible].

At 9 o'clock this morning another attack was attempted by the coke strikers and three more were killed. Twenty-five of the rioters were wounded in this last scuffle. This story has not yet been confirmed from Morewood.

Labor officials deny the men at Morewood were killed for good cause and warrants have been issued for the deputies on the charge of murder, with General Manager Lynch of the Frick Company and Superintendent Ramsey of the Morewood plant charged as accessories before the fact.

HIS LIBERTY FOR HIS LOVE.

An Alleged Conspiracy on the Part of a Millionaire to Wreck a Man's Life.

CHICAGO, April 2.—Charges of a highly sensational character are made in a suit for $100,000 damages begun in the Circuit Court this morning. The plaintiff is Eugene Dunnivant, formerly a newsboy, who claims that his life has been wrecked as the result of a conspiracy between Orrin W. Potter, the millionaire president of the Illinois Steel Company, and Tom Fox, James Hutchins and Frank Allen, who are also made defendants. In his declaration young Dunnivant avers that in April, 1885, he was a poor boy sixteen years of age, and was then engaged in selling newspapers in the district in which the Potter mansion is situated. While pursuing this vocation he made the acquaintance of Mr. Potter's daughter, a beautiful and accomplished girl. The acquaintance between the young people was distasteful to the girl's father, and Dunnivant alleges that in November he was induced to accompany Frank Allen to South Chicago. Allen had a confederate who was dressed so as to personate plaintiff. Some clothing was stolen presumably by Allen and his confederate, and Allan was arrested. As a part of the scheme to send plaintiff to the penitentiary it is alleged that Allan accused plaintiff of the theft and caused his arrest. He and Allan were jointly indicted for burglary.

At the trial in January, 1887, the daughter of Mr. Potter, knowing her lover's innocence, is said to have employed counsel to defend him. Dunnivant was convicted and sentenced to four years' imprisonment.

Dunnivant served his term in the penitentiary at hard labor, with the result that his health was broken completely, leaving him a physical wreck; hence the suit.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used by millions of mothers for children teething for over fifty years with perfect success. It relieves the little sufferer at once, produces natural, quiet sleep by freeing the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste, soothes the child, softens the gums, allays pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

The Wheelbarrow Test.

Three or four of us on the car were talking about Gen. Sherman's death, and, as might have been expected, one of the group modestly admitted that he was with the lamented General on his famous march to the sea. There was a woman in the seat ahead, surrounded by bundles and baskets, and evidently going somewhere on a visit. The war talk soon stirred her up, and she turned to the veteran and queried:

"Were you right in a battle?"

"Yes'm."

"Dead men all around?"

"Yes'm."

"Wounded crying for water?"

"Yes'm."

"Bombshells and cannon balls falling around you like hail?"

"Yes'm."

"And you didn't run?"

"No'm, I should hope not," he modestly replied.

"Stood right there and never got scart, eh?"

"Yes'm."

"Well, now, I don't believe it!" she bluntly exclaimed. "It ain't human natur'. It ain't accordin' to things."

"I hope you do not doubt my word, madam."

"Yes, I do," she sharply replied, "I don't believe you have got any more nerve than my Sam has, and Sam can't stand the test."

"Then you have a test?"

"Yes, I have. You just get off at Scottdale, where I am going to stop. There'll be a wheelbarrow somewhere around there, and you just stand off about thirty feet and let me bear down on you with it. If you don't jump or dodge or climb a telegraph pole, I'll give in that you are the bravest man I ever saw!"

"I—I'm afraid I haven't time to stop off," he stammered.

"I knew you wouldn't have," she dryly replied. "They never do. They talk about bombshells and dead men and slaughter pens, and they make out that they charged up to the roaring cannon; but the minute I talk wheelbarrow they knuckle. You needn't say no more. You've wilted."

And he hadn't another word to utter.—New York Sun.

The Electrical Heater.

One of the electrical applications which will presently come into as general requisition as that now enjoyed by the electric motor is the electrical heater. It dispenses with all dirt in the house, and can be turned off and on just when wanted. A large percentage of the heat from a stove goes up the chimney and is wasted, but as the electrical heater is light and handy, and can be moved from place to place with ease, the full advantage of its heat can always be secured. For instance, if a person is writing his feet often get cold if he is at any distance from the fire or stove, but with an electrical heater diffusing a heat of any strength or mildness, and costing less than 1 cent per hour, he can continue his writing in comfort. To those who suffer from cold feet at night the electrical heater is a godsend. It can be so arranged as to give a gentle heat at the foot of the bed for a certain time, and then to automatically reduce the supply of heat and finally cut it off.

Rheumatism,

BEING due to the presence of uric acid in the blood, is most effectually cured by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Be sure you get Ayer's and no other, and take it till the poisonous acid is thoroughly expelled from the system. We challenge attention to this testimony:—

"About two years ago, after suffering for nearly two years from rheumatic gout, being able to walk only with great discomfort, and having tried various remedies, including mineral waters, without relief, I saw by an advertisement in a Chicago paper that a man had been relieved of this distressing complaint, after long suffering, by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I then decided to make a trial of this medicine, and took it regularly for eight months, and am pleased to state that it has effected a complete cure. I have since had no return of the disease."—Mrs. R. Irving Dodge, 110 West 125th st., New York.

"One year ago I was taken ill with inflammatory rheumatism, being confined to my house six months. I came out of the sickness very much debilitated, with no appetite, and my system disordered in every way. I commenced using Ayer's Sarsaparilla and began to improve at once, gaining in strength and soon recovering my usual health. I cannot say too much in praise of this well-known medicine."—Mrs. L. A. Stark, Nashua, N. H.

Paying for His Liquor Twice.

Fred. Baker, a young man, was charged at the police court this morning with having purchased liquor at the Commercial House on Sunday last, during prohibited hours. He pleaded guilty and was fined five dollars. It was quite expensive liquor that he drank on Sunday.

Civic Matters.

Several civic committees met last evening. The Finance passed a number of accounts, and the Printing Committee did some routine business. The Market Committee considered the leasing of the market and it is understood that the present lessee will be recommended to the Council.

Daniel Stephenson was called at the police court this morning to answer to a charge of assault, but he failed to put in an appearance. He is charged with assaulting Thomas Harrington. Owing to his non-appearance, the case was allowed to stand until to-morrow morning, when, if the accused does not appear he will be arrested and locked up.

A Wedding and a Fire.

What might be truly called a wedding with a sensational termination, says the Port Hope Times of the 2nd, took place at the residence of Mrs. John W. Stevenson, King-st., last evening, when the nuptial knot was tied between Mr. H. E. K. Walker, son of Mr. H. H. Walker, and Miss Hattie Stevenson, by Rev. E. N. Baker, pastor of the Methodist Church. The ceremony was strictly private, only the immediate relatives of the two families being present. The wedding supper was just concluded when an alarm of fire was raised. Little time elapsed before word was received that the flames were consuming the residence of Mr. H. H. Walker, father of the groom. A general adjournment was therefore made to the scene of the conflagration. It was the intention of the newly married couple to reside with Mr. H. H. Walker, but unfortunately all their new and handsome furniture was consumed in the fire. The residence with all its contents was entirely destroyed.

FROM UNDER THE EQUATOR.

An Interesting Letter From an Old Peterborough Boy now in South America—The People, Their Jollifications and Their Habits.

A few months ago the REVIEW published an interesting letter from Mr. E. Clegg, an old Peterborough boy, who is working insurance for the Sun Life in South America. His last letter was written upon his arrival at Caracas, Venezuela. His friends here have received another letter from him dated from Valencia on February 13th, and some extracts from it will be interesting to readers as he refers to the country, its people and their habits:—

After referring to the poor postal service which had delayed his mail from Peterborough he says:—"To-morrow I leave for a place a couple of hundred miles away called Barquisimeto and from there I will come back to Puerto Cabello and Valencia again, and then to Caracas where I will arrive in probably about a month and a half. I see you had as quiet a Christmas and New Year's as we had. There was nothing doing here, except on New Year's eve and night when the principal public square, "Plaza Bolivar," was nicely illuminated, the band played and all the best people turned out and stayed until twelve o'clock each night. It was a very pretty sight as the square looked beautiful and the people were all dressed in their best, some even in full dress, and the ladies, who are the finest looking I ever saw, know how to dress to perfection. Canadians are nowhere alongside of them. They are a little inclined though to use too much powder, but that is more on account of the climate. There are so many holidays here that Christmas and New Year's don't count. I think we have had ten or twelve since I have been here—less than two months. The last and was the carnival which just finished two days ago. It commenced on Saturday night and ended Tuesday night and was one continual holiday. On Sunday morning at seven the square, which is just in front of the hotel, was crowded with people in fancy costumes who, after showing themselves, took hacks and headed by the band paraded the town. From every window as they passed along where they had acquaintances they were received with showers of candies, nuts, rice, flowers, powder and all sorts of things and they returned the charge from stocks they had in the carriages. This was the grand opening of the carnival and it continued about the same for the three days. Some went around the town on foot and others in carriages and behind the iron bars of nearly every window were ladies to salute them, if they were near enough, with rice, powder or perfume, or perhaps a little water would be squirted at them. At nights the band played in the square and the lower classes by the thousands, all masked, danced to their heart's content. The better people all kept open house and went from one to the other masked or otherwise and danced and amused themselves in general. Anyone not masked or not already powdered beyond recognition was sure to be received with a good dose on going into any house. I had half an hour's work on two mornings cleaning my clothes. Thousands of dollars are thrown away every year in these holidays even here in Valencia, and it must be something enormous in Caracas where there is ten times the wealth. They don't seem to care what it costs so long as they amuse themselves. The President gave a ball the other day that cost $10,000, but of course he will take that out of the public treasury. I think, though, that the holidays are now over till Easter, when, I am told, they have a week, with the exception of Wednesday and Good Friday which are considered holy days, but that is just the same, only the women will go to church in the morning. Mr. Johns on went home by the last steamer. He received word that his wife was very sick and to leave as soon as possible. I am consequently alone here now, but Mr. Higginbetham may be here shortly as I believe he is in British Guianna at present. We cannot be long together, though, as as soon as I am finished with this district, in perhaps three months' time, I am going over into Columbia and up to the city of Bogota, about from here. From the sea to Bogota it requires twelve days mostly up the river Magdalena, a little by railway, and finishing by a couple of days on mule-back. When I get there I'll be up in the country where you need winter clothing, and I'll try and spend the hot months up there, as the climate is about the same there winter and summer, except that it rains one season and doesn't the other. I am beginning to pick up the language a little, and I think that by another month I'll be able to explain myself, if not in the purest Spanish, at least in a kind of way. I understand you are having a good old Canadian winter up there this year—more power to it. There could not be more agreeable weather than here if ordered specially. It is always the same—moderately warm days with cool evenings—and I think it would be a splendid place to live if it were a little more in the world and the Spaniards were not quite so dirty. I like the people better than the French, but they are worse in their habits. For instance, if one is not feeling well he will not wash himself even for months, and it is an ordinary expression for one who has been sick to say, if asked how he is, "Much better, thanks, I washed myself yesterday," or some other day as marking the time when he was well again. This is particularly among the lower people, but can be seen to a certain extent with the better classes also. As to hotels, so far I have not fared so badly, except in Puerto Cabello where I stayed three or four days, and it was very bad. The first meal I tried to take was a failure. The surroundings were enough, but when the waiter came in bare-footed and with only shirt and trousers that finished it. He appeared to be just approaching his annual bath, trousers, shirt and all. It didn't come off, though, while I was there, but he afterwards wore a white towel wrapped around himself. This was in the best hotel in a town of about 15,000 inhabitants, and where most strangers put up. There were two Americans there at the time, regular boarders. It is all in getting used to these things. Most of the colored people here don't dress their children at all till they get two or three years old. They say it is better for their health.

The Belleville Wife Murderer.

James Kane, the Belleville wife murderer, the Ontario says, seems from outward appearance to be the most unconcerned man in the world in the face of the doom that hangs over his head. An acquaintance of Kane would notice no difference in his appearance. He passes his time in reading and reclining on his iron bed. He is certainly resigned to his fate and in consequence is preparing himself for the future. His prayer book is a great companion and he spends a couple of hours daily in its perusal. He eats heartily and his sleep seems undisturbed by any unpleasant visions. He has no word of complaint for lack of good treatment by the gaol officials.

A DELIGHTFUL CONVERSAZIONE.

Peterborough Lodge, Sons of England, Give a Very Successful and Enjoyable Evening to Their Guests.

Peterborough Lodge, No. 64, S.O.E., gave a most enjoyable conversazione last evening in the handsome apartments of the Order on Hunter-st. There was a large attendance and beyond a doubt every one was highly delighted with the few pleasant hours they spent in the rooms the guests of Peterborough Lodge.

The company were gathered around tables in the elegant lodge room, but before any games were commenced an excellent programme was rendered. Bro. J. L Somerville, President of Peterborough Lodge, performed the not very onerous duty, owing to the informality of the event, of chairman. The Peterborough amateur orchestra was in attendance and rendered several exceptionally fine selections during the evening. The Jones family gave a very pleasing quartette, after which Mr. Drope contributed a vocal solo in fine voice. Mr. Umpleby followed with a clever piano solo and Mrs. Seward and Mrs. H. Stapleton sang a duet which was a charming number. Miss Annie Fawcett's vocal solo was rendered in excellent voice and was a most pleasing selection. Prof. Hayter gave a well-executed violin solo and a beautiful vocal solo by Miss Nellie Wrighton concluded the programme.

At the conclusion of the programme, which was greatly appreciated by the assembled audience, those seated around the tables enjoyed parlor games. Refreshments were served and while relays from the audience partook of the abundant and toothsome provisions the orchestra filled the air with the sweetest and most entrancing harmony. Messrs. Long and Hooper were the caterers, and they did their part well.

About eleven o'clock the orchestra began a short programme, and a large number of the company enjoyed an hour or more moving in the graceful mazes of the dance. The committee which had the arrangements in hand can take to themselves a large share of credit for the successful and smooth manner in which the entire evening progressed.

TALKING TO THE GOVERNMENT.

Deputations from Peterborough Visit the Local Legislature—The Irondale and Bancroft Railway—Dr. Willoughby's Bill.

A half dozen deputations waited upon the Attorney-General yesterday at Toronto in reference to different matters. Two of these deputations were of local interest.

Referring to their visit the Globe says:—"The first deputation was soliciting assistance for the Irondale and Bancroft railway, a project that has been frequently before the Government, and now appeared to make what it is believed is the last effort for its life. The deputation was composed of Messrs. C. J. Pusey, president of the company; J. B. McWilliams; John Burnham, M. P. for East Peterborough, and E. Pearse, county clerk, from Peterborough; Mayor Walters, H. O'Leary, Col. Deacon and R. H. Hopkins, from Lindsay; and Wm. Ince and G. M. Rose, representatives of the Toronto Board of Trade. They were introduced by Mr. J. R. Stratton, West Peterborough's member, accompanied by Mr. T. Blezard, member for East Peterborough. Mr. Pusey first addressed the Attorney-General, and Mr. Fraser, chairman of the Railway Committee. The point to which the attention of the Government was now directed was the usefulness of the projected railway as a colonization agent over and above the work it was calculated to do in opening up the rich mineral resources of the country to which it would run. Messrs. Ince and Rose and J. Lockhart Gordon, of Toronto, Col. Deacon and Mayor Walters all briefly addressed the Ministers, and the Attorney-General promised the attention of the Government to the points that had been urged in favor of the assistance asked for."

DR. WILLOUGHBY'S BILL.

There were three deputations with reference to Dr. Willoughby's bill to make all bridges within 20 chains of a county boundary county bridges. The first that had the ear of the Minister was from Peterborough county. On it were Warden Frank Kimhirst, Messrs. John Burnham, M.P., Reeve of Ashburnham; A. McCauley, Reeve of Belmont; John Maloney, Reeve of Douro; M. Sanderson, Reeve of Smith; George Stewart, Reeve of Otonabee; James Moore, Reeve of Asphodel; E. Pearse, county clerk, and John R. Belcher, county engineer. This deputation, too, was introduced by Mr. Stratton. The first three gentlemen were spokesmen, and presented reasons why the bill should not be passed. They said it was exceptional legislation and brought forward by Dr. Willoughby with the sole object of putting upon the county of Peterborough a part of the cost of the bridge over the "Trent narrows," which as the law now stands is upon the united counties of Northumberland and Durham, and is rightly on those counties, the deputation urged, according to the use to which the bridge is put. Moreover, the passage of the bill would re-open the question of the maintenance of the Kinmount bridge, which the law courts had settled between Peterborough and Victoria. The deputation represented that the county of Peterborough at present is heavily burdened for the cost of bridges within itself—that there are 80 county bridges of lengths of from 100 to 200 feet, which cost from $100,000 to $120,000 to maintain.

Deputations favoring the passage of the bill were present from Northumberland and Durham and Victoria counties. The Victoria county men's complaint, in effect, says the Globe, was that by sharp practice the county of Peterborough some years ago put the township of Harvey out of itself into the county of Victoria and with it the cost of maintaining the Kinmount bridge. Having succeeded in this, Peterborough beat Victoria in the courts when the case was tried, but Victoria continues to consider itself wronged and to-day urged the Government to right it by the passage of Dr. Willoughby's bill, which would throw upon Peterborough a share of the cost of the Kinmount bridge.

A Sudden Call.

Mr. John Lynch, a well known and respected resident of Otonabee township, died this morning after a very short illness. The deceased was in his usual health a few days ago, but on Wednesday he was stricken with a paralytic stroke while seated in a chair. He fell to the floor and never spoke afterwards, although everything that medical skill could do was exerted in an effort to withstand the grim monster. The deceased was 73 years of age and was an old resident of the township. He was widely known and universally respected.

NORTH SLIGO ELECTION.

The McCarthyite Candidate Elected by Four Hundred Majority.

By Telegraph to the Review.

SLIGO, April 3rd.—The Parliamentary contest in North Sligo yesterday resulted in the election of the McCarthyite candidate, Ald. Bernard Collery, whose majority was 460.

REVIEWS.

THE CENTURY.—One of the most famous pictures of the world has been engraved by Mr. Cole for the frontispiece of the April Century, the Mona Lisa of Leonardo da Vinci. In the California series Mr. Julius H. Pratt gives a graphic description of the emigration to California by way of Panama in '49. In this connection is a paper of great historical value by the late General J. C. Fremont on his own part in the Conquest of California. Several briefer papers on the general subject accompany the more important contributions of the series. Life in another war prison, at the North, is described by a Confederate soldier, Dr. John A. Wyeth, now of New York City. Mrs. Amelia Gere Mason's papers on the Women of the French Salons are supplemented in this number by an account of the Salons of the Revolution and Empire. In this number the Century's Mountain Climbing series, appropriate to the summer season is begun, with papers on two separate expeditions. "Fetishism in the Congo Land" is an interesting contribution to a great subject by Mr. E. J. Glave, one of Stanley's pioneer officers. The Wordsworths and De Quincey is the title of a very interesting paper of literary biography containing unpublished letters of the poet and of the opium-eater. In a paper on Washington and Frederick the Great, Mr. Moncure D. Conway does away with the century-old myth concerning the alleged relations between the two great commanders. The fiction of the number is very diversified, and the poetry and the departments of the usual excellence and interest.

ST. NICHOLAS.—The April St. Nicholas opens with a delightful illustrated sketch by Mrs. Foote, The Gates on Grandfather's Farm—reminiscences of a New England farm suggested by the associations with its old gateways. Mr. Welles gives us further autographs from his remarkable collection, especially a complete set of the Presidents' signatures, and a charming letter from Thackeray, hitherto unpublished. Mr. Frank S. Woodruff describes some Busy Corners of the Orient, and shows us the primitive forms of industry in Syria. The article is illustrated by Mr. George Wharton Edwards. There is a peculiar sort of fanciful story by Tudor Jenks, amusingly illustrated by E. B. Bensell, and a story for the little folks, called Charlie's Shadows and their Shadow House, by Mattie E. Pettus, which is well fitted for reading aloud. The verse is excellent. The two serials, Toby Trafford, and The Boy Settlers, are steadily growing in interest, while Elfie's Visit to Cloudland is concluded by an instalment fully illustrated by amusing drawings. The frontispiece is an engraving by T. Johnson, from Adriaen Hanneman's beautiful portrait of a child, and is a fitting introduction to this beautifully illustrated number.

THE COSMOPOLITAN.—No more completely illustrated copy of the Cosmopolitan has ever gone out than that for April. Miss Elizabeth Bisland, always a bright and attractive writer, is fairly fascinating in her description of dancing, the eldest of the arts, and the illustrations charmingly interpret the article itself. The executive mansion, the White House, always an object of interest to the people of the United States, and one of the first points to be visited by those who go to Washington, is described by Mr. George Grantham Bain, the Washington correspondent, while the interior is illustrated with many views taken specially for the Cosmopolitan by permission of the president. Perhaps the feature which will appeal most strongly to literary people is Brander Matthew's article on the women writers of America. Mr. Matthews' criticism should be read by every American woman who writes for the press, for magazines, or for the book publisher. Mrs. Cruger, Amelia Rives, and all the best known modern writers come in for a touch of criticism.

SCRIBNER'S MAGAZINE.—Scribner's for April marks the beginning of the richly illustrated series on Ocean Steamers which, it is believed, will be as successful as the Railway and Electric series. The most competent authors have been chosen to write of Ocean Passenger Travel, The Ship's Company, Safety at Sea, Speed, and the Lines of the World. Original drawings by skilful artists (who have been granted special privileges for study by the various steamship companies) will illustrate each paper. Articles of travel and adventure are represented in this issue by Mr. Jephson's second paper on his perilous journey to relieve Captain Nelson at Starvation Camp; Robert Gordon Butler's account of the cruise of the United States steamer Thetis to the Arctic regions; and Birge Harrison's description of a kangaroo hunt—a kind of sport which is now almost as rare in Australia as a buffalo hunt on the Plains. The recent Sioux Indian outbreak and the causes which produced it are clearly and dispassionately set forth by Herbert Welsh; and the Rev. Williard Parsons, its founder, tells the story of the Fresh-Air Fund, which is entering upon its fifteenth year. Other articles on Practical Charity are promised. The first of living Spanish poets is the subject of another article (with a portrait), and What is Right-Handedness? is discussed by Professor Thomas Dwight, of the Harvard Medical School.

THE METHODIST MAGAZINE (Toronto: William Briggs).—The April number is specially devoted to memories of 100 years of Canadian Methodism. Among other important features is an admirable sketch by the Rev. Dr. Johnston, in his best vein, of the late Rev. Dr. Rose, almost the last of the pioneer preachers of early Methodism in this land. An especially appropriate article is one abridged from Dr. Ryerson's volume, now out of print, on Canadian Methodism, giving an account of the trials and triumphs of such men as Losee, Dunham, Asbury, Bangs and Case, and others of the fathers and founders of Methodism in Canada. The Rev. Dr. Carman writes an article of characteristic vigor on The Momentum of Methodism. The Editor describes a visit to the grave of Barbara Heck, the mother of Methodism both in Canada and the United States, with an engraving of her grave and the old Blue Church near Maitland, from a water-color drawing made especially for this Magazine. The Rev. Dr. Caven, Principal of Knox College, contributes a scholarly and timely study of Messianic Prophecy. The Symposium of Methodism is continued, embracing characterizations of Methodism by the Rev. Dr. Sheraton, Principal of Wickliffe College; the Hon. R. Harcourt, Provincial Treasurer of Ontario; James Croil, Editor of Presbyterian Record, and Rev. A. H. Newman, D. D., L. L. D., Professor of History in McMaster University. Three copious and beautiful papers on Through Hungary, Strassburg to Heidelberg, and Round About England, are also included, as well as chapters of Habberton's All He Knew, and a scientific paper on The Reign of Ice.

Thin and gray hair and bald heads, so displeasing to many people as marks of age, may be averted for a long time by using Hall's Hair Renewer.

Entertainment at Auburn.

A very successful entertainment was held at Auburn last night under the auspices of the Band of Hope. Notwithstanding the unfavorable weather there was a large attendance, the building being filled to the door. The programme was one of superior merit, and where each number was so good it would be difficult to particularize. However, the farce, "From Pumpkin Ridge," was exceedingly well given, and the solo by Maud Long, a little girl, was very good and was loudly encored. The programme as introduced by the chairman, Mr. Armstrong, was as follows:—Instrumental solo, Miss Tivey; vocal duet, Misses Tivey and Glass; recitation, Miss Pratt; vocal solo, Maud Long; recitation, Mr. F. Pakenham; farce, "From Pumpkin Ridge," by the company; instrumental solo, Miss Fannie Pakenham; vocal solo, Miss Tivey; duet, Messrs. Gaskins and Turner; recitation, Miss Spenceley; dialogue, Messrs. Freeburn and Bickers; dialect recitation, Mr. Thornhill. The entertainment, which was a very enjoyable one, was closed with the National Anthem. The Band of Hope desires to tender its thanks to those who so kindly assisted in giving the entertainment.

FRIDAY, APRIL 3, 1891.

BEATRIX RANDOLPH.

BY JULIAN HAWTHORNE.

In this opinion she was, it need scarcely be said, cordially supported by Hamilton Jocelyn and Mme. Bemax; nor was her father disinclined to take an optimistic view of the situation. The latter gentleman, by the way, seemed to have taken a fresh start in life since his troubles came to head, therein following the example of many prominent citizens of New York and other places who, when other sources of supply run dry, are accustomed to tap with golden success the unfailing spring of insolvency. Mr. Randolph had taken rooms in a small but elegant flat on Fifth avenue, and was living the life of a rejuvenated bachelor and man about town. The possession of a momentous secret flattered his sense of self importance, and the incumbency of a minor sinecure in the municipal government, which he had obtained through Gen. Inigo's friendly interest with the Democratic mayor, enabled him to assume the air of one who is on confidential terms with statesmen. He had been at considerable pains to devise ambiguous explanations of his possession of ready money and of the singular disappearance of his daughter, and had been somewhat disappointed to discover that no one seemed to be aware that he had ever lacked the former or owned the latter.

The world, Mr. Randolph thought, must be barbarously large as well as a reprehensibly inattentive place, since it had failed to follow with solicitude the course of his domestic concerns. However, if there was neglect on one side of the account, it was balanced by convenience on the other, and the unsuspected father of the great prima donna made a virtue of impunity.

He visited his daughter twice or thrice a week, besides being present at her performances; but it afforded him a certain gratification to surround their interviews with an elaborate network of secrecy and intrigue, as if he were an enamored Montague seeking to commune at peril of their lives with a lovelorn Capulet. There was evidently a vein of romance in this old gentleman which, had it been properly cultivated in due season, might have considerably enlarged his character.

To return, however, to the prima donna's conscience. It would probably have subsided into a condition of comfortable acquiescence in destiny had it not been for the stimulus unconsciously applied to it by a gentleman of her acquaintance. She could never meet Geoffrey Bellingham without wishing that Mlle. Marana had never been born, or at least that she herself might have achieved her fame in some straightforward and unencumbered way. When a certain tender look and smile, very winning in one whose features were naturally severe, came into his face the pleasure it gave her was marred by the reflection, How would he look if he knew what I am? It is true that he believed her to be a woman whose moral character was currently supposed to be less immaculate than a good many aliases would render that of Beatrix Randolph: none the less she felt, when in his presence, that her one actual sin was more burdensome than all the vicarious naughtiness of the unknown Russian.

She told herself that Geoffrey had perhaps made up his mind to condone Marana's delinquencies, taking into account her foreign training, her temptations, and the loose standard of morals that prevailed in Europe, but that he never would forgive Beatrix for having deliberately misled him—she, an American girl, brought up amid all the enlightenment and fastidious rectitude of the great republic. This was the crumpled leaf in her bed of roses, and it chafed her relentlessly.

But persons whose perception of their value—social, artistic or other—is on the way to beguile them into making a golden calf of themselves in the wilderness, may have reason to be grateful for the implicit criticism of some severe eyed young lawgiver, whose exhortations are none the less effective because they happen to be the utterance of the silent voice of character.

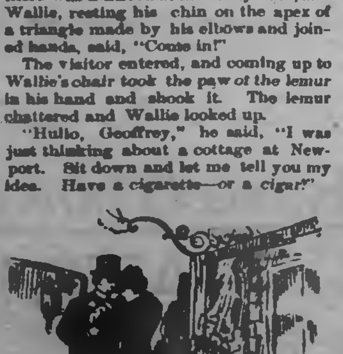
CHAPTER IX.

HOW SHE WAS BETRAYED AND SLANDERED.

One forenoon, as Wallie Dinsmore was seated in his study, with his slippered feet pointed toward the fireplace, the newspaper across his knees and the African lemur munching a lump of sugar on his shoulder, he heard the door bell ring. He rubbed his forehead between his eyes and uncrossed and recrossed his extended legs by way of arousing himself, for his serenity during the last half hour had been gradually verging toward the soporific stage. A few moments afterward there was a knock at the study door, and Wallie, resting his chin on the apex of a triangle made by his elbows and joined hands, said, "Come in!"

The visitor entered, and coming up to Wallie's chair took the paw of the lemur in his hand and shook it. The lemur chattered and Wallie looked up.

"Hullo, Geoffrey," he said, "I was just thinking about a cottage at Newport. Sit down and let me tell you my idea. Have a cigarette—or a cigar?"



SHE TURNED AGAIN AND THREW HER ARMS ABOUT RANDOLPH'S NECK.

"Have you any smoking tobacco?" returned Geoffrey, taking a pipe from his pocket.

"I guess you'll find some Cavendish in the jar. You know where the matches are."

Geoffrey supplied himself, and then drew a chair to the other side of the fireplace and smoked for several minutes in silence. At length he said, "Were you at the opera last night?"

HELP! HELP! THE LADY FAINTS.

"'Tis the twink of an eye,
'Tis the draught of a breath,
From the blossom of health,
To the paleness of death."

When sudden fainting spells come upon a lady, you may always suspect some uterine disturbances or trouble, or some great disorder in the circulation and nerve centers. A remedy that has always proved successful in warding off and removing the tendency to a recurrence of fainting spells—that removes the cause of them, corrects the circulation of blood, and gives to the system that even running nervous energy so essential, is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It contains no alcohol to inebriate; no syrup or sugar to ferment in the stomach and derange digestion, is a legitimate medicine, not a beverage.

The "Prescription" is guaranteed to give satisfaction in every case, or money refunded. Nothing else does as much. You only pay for the good you get. Can you ask more?

As a regulator and promoter of functional action, at the critical period of change from girlhood to womanhood, "Favorite Prescription" is a perfectly safe remedial agent, and can produce only good results. It is equally efficacious and valuable in its effects when taken for those disorders and derangements incident to that later and most critical period, known as "The change of Life."

Brimful of confidence in it—the manufacturers of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. It's a faith that means business, too—it's backed up by money. This is what they offer: $500 reward for a case of Catarrh which they cannot cure. They mean it. They're willing to take the risk—they know their medicine. By its mild, soothing, cleansing and healing properties, it produces perfect and permanent cures of the worst cases of chronic Catarrh in the Head. It's doing it every day, where everything else has failed. No matter how bad your case, or of how long standing, you can be cured. You're sure of that —or of $500. You can't have both, but you'll have one or the other.

A Blackthorn Pedlar's Ill-Luck in Sligo—Importing Surgeons.

SLIGO, April 2.—A queer feature of the town for the past few days has been the number of surgeons invited by their professional brethren of the place to assist them in caring for the injured of the various affrays and with an eye to the possibilities of to-day. A pedlar of blackthorn sticks has been doing a lively trade, although nearly everybody seems to be supplied.

The Parnellites have during the campaign made the strongest showing of physical aggressiveness and there are parts of the district where not even Davitt would dare to show himself.

There were scores of priests in Sligo to-day assisting in the canvass for the Healy candidate and Bishop Gilhooly himself made personal appeals and directed the ecclesiastical branch of the campaign.

SLIGO, April 2.—There has been a heavy polling in Sligo town, the most important place in the division, and the result is the anti-Parnellites are jubilant while the Parnellites are despondent. Michael Davitt, after a tour of the polling booths, said he was confident the anti-Parnellite candidate would receive a majority of 300 votes. A large number of electors in North Sligo are illiterate, and consequently the manner in which they have voted is unknown. It is not expected the final result will be known until to-morrow afternoon. None of the ballot boxes will be opened to-night. There have been no serious disturbances.

Killed by a Log.

EXETER, April 2.—While Mr. Cotley of Kirkton was driving through the woods on a load of logs with his 8-year-old son, the latter fell off, and a log following struck him on the head fracturing his skull. He only lived a short time.

Burned to Death.

BRADFORD, April 2.—Mrs. Faigner, living on the 11th con. West Gwillimbury, was standing near the stove, when by some means her clothes caught fire and when her son, John Steven, who had been from the house only a few minutes, came in he found her lying on the floor apparently suffocated and badly burnt. Dr. Stevenson was called and did all he could to relieve the sufferer, who died next day.

116 Deaths in Chicago Yesterday.

Bob Harrison is Getting Old.

LONDON, April 2.—John Richardson of Dorchester and R. N. Harrison of Toronto met in the Grand Opera House here to-night in a wrestling match. Richardson won the first fall in catch-as-catch-can in ten minutes, throwing his opponent somewhat heavily. In Græco-Roman Richardson again secured the fall and the contest in four minutes. Harrison's backer disputed this fall, claiming it was not square, but the referee decided otherwise.

CHANGE OF BUSINESS

I beg to announce to my late customers that I have sold out my business to Messrs. Hilliard & Peplow, and would bespeak for them the same support as you have accorded me.

C. N. BROWN.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

For some time past we have thought that a strictly cash business in Flour, Feed and Provisions could be successfully carried on in Peterborough, and to test this question we have purchased the above business from Mr C. N. Brown, who will still continue as manager, in Flavelle's Old Stand, Simcoe-st.

In order to be successful we intend to make it the interest of every one to pay cash with order by selling at wholesale prices.

We will positively give no credit and cash customers will not have to keep up the losses made by others on the credit system.

We will keep a full supply of

FLOUR, FEED, CHOP, Etc.,

and our customers need not fear that the quality of the goods will be lowered to make up for the reduction in prices.

We are simply giving them the benefit of the margin necessary to cover losses and interest charges incurred in the credit system.

Goods delivered to any part of the town or Ashburnham.

Which Way Is Best?

John Wanamaker pays a man $10,000 a year just to write and superintend his advertising. It pays John.

We are a little more judicious, however. Our plan is to keep the Best Goods and sell them at the Lowest Prices. Instead of giving one man $10,000, we are prepared to put that amount into the pockets of our customers by giving close cash prices every time. You will, of course, say Rowse's way is the best.

We have just opened up our Glasgow purchases. They arrived in excellent order per S' Ss. "Warwick" and "Devonia." The Dress Goods are just lovely. The "Countess A 1" Silks are bound to give satisfaction. We give you beautiful Dress Silks, absolutely pure, for 50c. a yard. The Lace Curtains opened up very satisfactorily. The Linen Tablings and Napkins can't be beat for value.

Remember Rowse's is the only store in Peterborough that can show you a bran new stock.

UNDER TONS OF SNOW.

AN AVALANCHE OF SNOW SWEEPS DOWN FROM A CLIFF.

Many Persons Killed and Others Injured in Newfoundland—Bodies Mangled Beyond Recognition.

HALIFAX, N.S., April 3.—At St. Anthony, Nfld., an avalanche of snow swept down from a high cliff and buried under its enormous weight the house of Levy Andrews, about 60 or 70 feet from the foot of the cliff. Nine persons were in the house at the time of the accident, five in the loft and four in the kitchen. Mrs. Andrews was going out in the porch at the time, and six days after her lifeless body was found under 14 feet of snow. The head was smashed in and her neck and arms broken. The eldest daughter was discovered lying across the stove, rigid in death and the stove was smashed in atoms. One of the sons died from his injuries. At the time of the terrible affair George Reid was up in the loft fixing a trap and is unable to lift his arms to his head. One of the girls rescued had her leg broken and suffered considerable pain. It was an awful sight to behold the disfigured bodies and the house broken up like so much tinder wood.

Here's a State of Things.

WINNIPEG, April 3.—Watson's majority in Marquette is 46, he gaining 34 on the recount. In some places the total vote was thrown out owing to the illegal manner in which the deputies had marked ballots. Boyd claims he is defeated by blunders of deputies and that he has an actual majority of 87. A protest will probably be entered.

A Fateful Day for Murray.

LONDON, April 3.—The trial of Robert Murray for the murder of William O. Rowe in Metcalfe, was begun to-day at the Assize Court here before Justice Falconbridge. It was shown by the defence that the first blow was struck by Rowe and that Murray had previously borne a good character. The evidence was concluded this evening and the case will go to the jury to-morrow.

Peanut Growers Alarmed.

RICHMOND, Va., April 3.—Reports received here from several of the principal peanut sections of this State and from Tarboro, N.C., announce that growers of that crop are alarmed at the speck of war between Italy and the United States. A war, it is feared, would mean death to that industry since two-thirds of the crop is handled by Italians.

A SIGNIFICANT PLACARD.

THE SOFIA ASSASSINATION CHARGED TO RUSSIA.

Parnell's Candidate Defeated in North Sligo—Tragic Death of An Amateur Actor on the Stage—British Victory Over the Manipuris.

SOFIA, April 3.—This city has been extensively placarded with a poster which conveys a thinly-veiled accusation of Russia as the instigator of the plot which resulted in the death of Minister Baltcheff. It contains this sentence: "Our enemies having despaired of annihilating the country by internal revolutions, knowing they are detested by the army and the nation, now have recourse to the vilest means—attacking statesmen in the dark."

LONDON, April 3.—Foreign Office advices from Berlin and Paris are more hopeful for the continuance of European peace. Nevertheless, the uneasiness in British official circles remains the same. The Government is reported to have received information through the St. Petersburg embassy placing beyond a doubt existence of a formal defensive and offensive alliance between Russia and France, including stipulations that France will support Russia in her plans against India.

THE MANIPUR MASSACRE.

Lieut. Guerdon's Description of the Affair—An Act of Treachery.

CALCUTTA, April 3.—Lieut. Guerdon, one of the officers who escaped from Manipur, has telegraphed as follows: "The British force advanced on March 24 in order to arrest Chief Jubral, who had deposed the Rajah of Manipur. The Manipuris resisted and a general engagement ensued. We ran short of ammunition and retreated to the presidency at Manipur. The Manipuris then attacked and shelled the presidency. Finding our ammunition exhausted, we offered to arrange terms for a cessation of hostilities. To this the enemy seemed to agree, and consequently the chief commissioner and others went out to meet Chief Jubral, but the chief commissioner and those with him were seized and held as prisoners. After the capture of the British officers the Manipuris resumed their attack on the presidency. We were obliged to retreat and fought our way across the hills until we met Cowley's detachment." A report has reached here that the treasury at Manipur has been looted.

British Troops on the March.

RANGOON, April 3.—Brigadier-General Graham is in command of the force advancing from Tamu to attack Manipur. Uneasiness is felt regarding the safety of a detachment of 80 Sepoys under Capt. Grant which left Tamu for Manipur before the news of the attack on that place was received.

A British Victory.

CALCUTTA, April 3.—Advices from Manipur say the British have attacked and carried by assault Ft. Thabat, situated 12 miles from Manipur and garrisoned by 1000 Manipuris.

NORTH SLIGO ELECTION.

The Parnell Candidate Defeated by Nearly 800 Majority.

DUBLIN, April 3.—The Parliamentary contest in North Sligo resulted in the election of the McCarthyite candidate, Ald. Bernard Collery, by a majority of 771. Collery secured 3130 votes to 2359 for Ald. Valentine Dillon, a cousin of John Dillon and a solicitor of Dublin. The seat was made vacant by the sudden death of Peter McDonald (Parnellite), who was returned unopposed at the last general election. The electoral district contains 8635 votes, of which [illegible] were polled.

Ald. Dillon's agent has lodged a petition against the return of Ald. Collery on the ground that the presiding officer of the grand polling place unlawfully adjourned the polling while he went to refresh himself.

The elections for poor law guardians in Northwest Cork yesterday resulted in majorities for the McCarthyites' candidates of 3 to 1. The ward was supposed to be a Parnellite stronghold.

Parnell in his final utterance before the result of the polling at Sligo was known, declared: "If we are lost it will be such a victory as will show by comparison with the Kilkenny election that our cause is progressing." Davitt, besides blaming the loose system adopted in polling the illiterate vote as losing the Nationalists hundreds of votes, traces the reduction in the expected majority to the Conservative support given to the Parnellites. It is estimated 450 Conservatives voted for Dillon.

Speeches made by the Parnellites after their defeat was known showed unabated pluck. In the contest each side worked with undoubtable energy and skill. The Parnellites tried to dupe Catholic voters by displaying bogus telegrams from Rome to the effect that the Pope disapproved the anti-Parnell policy of the Irish bishops and had detained Archbishop Walsh in that city to prevent him from interfering with Parnell. Archbishop Walsh found it necessary to wire a direct denial. The events in Sligo have so widened the breach between Parnell and his old followers that the gulf will be forever unbridgeable. Parnell's phrases, "Foul-mouthed Healy" and "Maudlin Sexton," and his charge that Sexton was in a speechless condition of drunkenness on his arrival in Sligo intensified the fury of the Nationalists.

Parnell will preside at an amnesty meeting in Dublin Sunday, when there will be opened a vigorous amnesty agitation whereby he hopes to strengthen his ranks.

ANOTHER MINE EXPLOSION.

Causes Terrible Loss of Life in an English Coal Mine.

LONDON, April 3.—A disastrous explosion in a coal mine took place to-day at Apedale, Staffordshire. Ten persons were killed outright and several were severely injured. The bodies of the dead miners have been extricated from the portion of the mine where the explosion took place. The cause of the disaster is supposed to have been the presence of fire damp in the mine and the foolhardiness of one of the miners after the presence of the danger gas was first discovered.

A Real Tragedy Enacted in a Manchester Theatre.

MANCHESTER, April 3.—Thomas Whalley fell dead last evening while playing the part of Mercutio in an amateur entertainment here, having been pierced by a lunge of Tybalt's sword. A subsequent surgical examination disclosed a wound of seven inches, the sword having penetrated one lung. Ernest Thompson, the young man who played Tybalt, was unaware that he had hurt his friend. The jury returned a verdict of "accidental death."

Resigned His Portfolio.

WINNIPEG, April 3.—Attorney-General Martin to-day resigned his portfolio, but says he will remain in the House and give the Government his loyal support. His reasons for resigning are that his private affairs require all his attention.

FIGHTING FOR ZION.

Latter-day Saints Engage in Unseemly Wrangles Over Gabriel's Temple Site.

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., April 3.—The two branches of the Mormon Church, known respectively as the Hendrickites and the reorganized church, are fighting for the possession of Mount Zion, a low hill of about four acres in extent, selected by Joseph Smith as the place where all the elect will assemble on judgment day and from there be taken into Heaven. The Mormons believe that the foundations of a magnificent temple laid many years ago by the Angel Gabriel are just under the surface of the ground and the place is pitted with holes dug by zealous believers who have endeavored to discover the walls. Some time, so they believe, the Angel Gabriel and his hosts will descend from heaven and uncover these foundations, and then in a single night erect the most beautiful temple ever beheld by mortal eyes. Hendrickites have a church on Mount Zion, and the title to the property is vested in one of their number as trustee. The reorganized church is contesting the title. Last night the church building was nearly wrecked. All the windows were broken, the furniture was turned upside down and the altar was overturned. The Hendrickites claim the desecration was done by the Reformed Church.

A MISER'S HOARDE.

$700 Secreted in the Rafters of a Barn at St. Catharines.

ST. CATHARINES, April 3.—Mr. John Hainer of this city moved a barn from his deceased father's residence to his own place. This morning as the building was being placed in position Hainer, while examining the partitions, found an old buckskin purse hid away in them. Upon opening it a gold piece rolled to the ground and further examination disclosed a sum amounting to about $700 in gold coin. Some of the coins bore the date of 1830. The money is supposed to have been placed there by the finder's father, John Hainer, sr.

A Toronto Young Woman Discovers Thieves at Work in Milton.

MILTON, April 3.—Mr. and Mrs. James A. Fraser left their house locked up and went to a neighbor's to spend a few hours. Miss Gillespie of Toronto, who was paying a visit at Mr. Fraser's, had gone down town and when she returned saw a light in Mr. Fraser's house and rang the front door bell, but got no response and found that the door was bolted on the inside. She notified the neighbors and on further investigation it was found the house had been entered and a pair of gold bracelets, a gold brooch and a card case belonging to Miss Gillespie, some jewelry belonging to Mrs. Fraser, a gold-mounted hair watch guard with a gold Masonic keystone belonging to Mr. Fraser and $12 in cash had been carried off. The burglars escaped in the meantime.

Off for Washington.

OTTAWA, April 3.—Sir Charles Tupper has left Washington for Ottawa and will reach here to-morrow (Saturday), when he will have a conference with Sir John Macdonald and his colleagues in reference to his recent trip to Washington. He must have met with some encouragement from Mr. Blaine, as it has been determined that after the conference to-morrow he will immediately return to Washington, accompanied by Sir John Thompson and Hon. Mr. Foster, and hold an informal interview with Mr. Blaine in that city early next week. If any headway is then made plenipotentiaries on behalf of England will be appointed for the negotiation of a treaty to settle the various trade and fishery issues before the two governments. Sir Charles Tupper will probably leave for England a week from to-day.

Sealskin Sacks in the Raw.

NORTH SYDNEY, C.B., April 3.—The following additional sealing news was received to-day: The Terranova arrived this morning with 3700 and reports speaking the Eagle Sunday with 21,000 young and old seals. The Nimrod passed Cape Race at 6 a.m. Loaded steamer, supposed to be the Panter, passed Cape Ray to-day full. The Falcon is in Green's Pond loaded.

Scalded in Boiling Sap.

TILSONBURG, April 3.—James, the 10-year-old son of Mr. Joseph Campbell, was playing around the fireplace where sugar-making was being carried on in Thomas Scott's sugar bush in Dereham, when he slipped and landed on his back in the boiling kettle of sap. Fortunately his heavy clothing saved him from being scalded alive, but as it was his back and hips were severely scalded.

The Note Told the Story.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., April 3.—A special from Bryant Station says: Martin Mayberry was found dead this morning, hanging to a cedar tree a mile from here. A note was left by the lynchers saying: "This is done for the protection of our wives and daughters."

Crushed His Head to a Jelly.

NEWMARKET, April 3.—A young Indian lad named Porte, employed in Dr. Sibbald's bush, was cutting down a tree when it fell upon him, as he was found beneath a newly-felled tree with his face crushed almost beyond description. The dead boy was an orphan, being a son of the late Moses Porte of Georgina Island.

The Babe Never Grew.

MASCOUTAH, Ill., April 3.—Two years ago a girl weighing twelve pounds was born to Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Harback of St. Libory. The child was apparently healthy and was well-formed, but it never grew any after its birth. The 2-year-old mite died yesterday morning weighing precisely what it did when it was born.

Burglarized Again.

STITTSVILLE, April 3.—The Stittsville postoffice has again been burglarized. The thieves drilled the safe in two places at the top and fired two shots but did not succeed in opening it.

A Peculiar Mania.

ARNPRIOR, April 3.—Patrick Malis, who is well known throughout the Ottawa district as an expert hunter and bushman, held the delusion that Thomas Havey had for some time past been applying a "magnet," as he termed it, to his (Malis's) head which caused him great torment, and he resolved to shoot Mr. Havey in order to remove the trouble. With loaded rifle he lay in wait for Mr. Havey, but fortunately did not succeed in getting a shot at him. He was arrested and brought to Arnprior.

Fiends Justly Punished.

WALKER'S FALLS, April 3.—Some young men caught Mr. Barker's dog into John Beale's shop, and after pouring turpentine on him set fire to him and let him go. The dog ran some miles trying to escape the fire, but could not, and was burned so badly that he died. James Walters was fined $23.25, including costs, or 40 days in jail; Frank Walters was fined $12.50, including costs, or 20 days in jail, and the three who witnessed the act were each fined $3.50, including costs for breaking the Sabbath. The two former men will serve their time in jail.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

EXTENDING THE TORRENS LAND SYSTEM.

What Mr. Mowat Had to Say Thereanent—The Condition of Farmers' Sons Forms the Subject of a Debate in the House Yesterday.

TORONTO, April 4.—In the Ontario Assembly yesterday Mr. Wood (Hastings) asked whether it was the intention of the Government to take any steps for the purpose of extending the benefits of the Torrens system of land transfer to other counties of Ontario on the same terms as the system was introduced into the city of Toronto and county of York.

Mr. Mowat in reply said the same terms applied to the whole province as to Toronto and York. Although the act applied specially to Toronto, York and a few other places, any county, city or town might adopt the system by passing a bylaw declaring such expedient. The act was imposed upon Toronto and York because it was so important that it was desired to show other municipalities how it worked. Any other municipality may adopt the system by passing the necessary bylaws. The act was passed for Toronto in March, 1885. In that year there was a deficit between receipts and expenditures of about $1900; in 1886 a deficit of about $1630; in 1887 a deficit of $900; in 1888 a deficit of about $1030. But in 1889 there was a surplus of $2000 and in 1890 a surplus of $1200. In all the practical result was that there was a deficit of only $331. He believed the receipts would soon exceed the expenditure.

Among the bills introduced was one by Mr. Tait to amend the Municipal Act by compelling telegraph and telephone companies to put their wires into cable and to allow other companies the use of their poles.

The attention of the House was occupied the greater part of the afternoon in discussing the facilities for education afforded farmers' sons. It came upon a resolution of Mr. McLenaghan that in the opinion of the House greater local facilities should be given to farmers' sons by which they could secure a better education in their own calling than is afforded under the provisions of the law as it now stands.

The attention of the House having been directed to the question the motion was withdrawn.

ENGLISH OPINION

Of the Italian-American Riot Embroglio.

LONDON, April 3.—Current opinion here is setting more steadily against the action of the Marquis di Rudini in trying to force the hands of Mr. Blaine in the matter of the lynching of Italians in New Orleans. To-morrow's leading high class weeklies devote considerable attention to an analysis of the position and generally discuss the affair from the standpoint of the United States constitution. The Spectator holds that "serious thinking Americans will admit the imperfection of the constitution and that they are bound to remedy the defect all the more because there is a small chance of their being compelled to remedy it."

The Spectator ridicules the notion of Italy declaring war against one of the greatest powers in the world—a power capable within six months of buying and building a fleet that would block every port in Italy. American ingenuity would be so stimulated to outdo itself that it would turn every steamer that could float into an improvised ironclad."

The Economist says: The Marquis di Rudini and his Government cannot sit still, cannot fight and cannot obtain the redress they want without fighting Italy's allies, will never permit her to risk a war that would disturb European combinations. The United States holds the exceptional position that it cannot be conquered by any power or probable combination of powers even if all Europeans allied and made the attempt. But the United States also cannot conquer any great power. Yet if the United States continues to claim exemption from pressing international obligations its position will not be supported without new internately laws or a recourse to war to obtain modifications.

The Conservative press apply the difficulty to illustrate the evil that would result from the concession of Home Rule to Ireland and the comparison will have undoubted potency in electoral platforms. If autonomy should be granted to Ireland, it is argued, how could the Irish be compelled except forcibly to observe foreign and imperial obligations. It is argued that "Federal institutions cannot be worked by a nation having wide external interests. They worked with success in the United States because until recently that country had no foreign policy." The Conservatives fling about with delighted surprise these new reasons against home rule. It was reported to-night that Lord Salisbury, on the instigation of the Marquis di Rudini, would offer to mediate for adjustment of the difference between Italy and the United States. A high foreign official said, however, that the question had not been discussed.

O'Malley Surrenders.

NEW ORLEANS, April 3.—Dominick O'Malley, the notorious detective charged with having attempted to pack the jury in the Hennessy case, created a sensation here to-day by surrendering himself. There are three indictments against him, one as accessory to the crime of bribing one of the jurors in the Hennessy case, one for perjury in a suit in the Civil Court several years ago and one for attempting to procure the commission of perjury in 1888 in a criminal suit of the state against himself. O'Malley gave $5000 bail. He looked well though rather pale. He refused to talk, but said he would make a statement. He would not tell whether he had been away from the city or not. His bondsman says he has been here all the time.

To be Extended to Simcoe.

WALKERVILLE, April 3.—The Lake Erie, Essex & Detroit Railway is to be extended as far as Simcoe for the purpose of opening up new territory, from which Walker & Son can readily draw supplies of wheat, barley and oats.

The Poor Italians.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., April 3.—There is considerable commotion among the railroad lines in this state and there are indications that the Italians are avenging their countrymen by destroying property. Two attempts to wreck the fast express on the B. & O. Railway were detected in time to prevent loss of life. A large depot and store building on the Baltimore & Ohio at Constitution was blown up with dynamite, completely wrecking the building and causing a heavy loss. All the contents were destroyed. All these crimes are charged to the Italians.

Reduced Whisky.

QUEBEC, April 3.—By order of the revenue department $16,000 worth of smuggled whisky was sold at public auction this morning, and adjudged to A. M. A. Charlebois, acting for Gooderham & Worts, Toronto.

RAVAGES OF THE GRIP.

A Decrease in Chicago's Death List—A Patient Insane from the Disease.

CHICAGO, April 3.—The death list to-day showed a marked decrease, the total being 114, a decrease of 30, as compared with the day previous. City Health Commissioner Wickersham attributes the improvement to the effects of sunshine on the grip sufferers.

A despatch from Council Bluffs, Iowa, says: "The public schools in this city will probably be closed on account of the sickness prevailing. The complaints mostly are the grip and measles, although there are some cases of scarlet fever and diphtheria. One-third of the teachers are unfit for duty."

READING, Penn., April 3.—Judge Ermentrout issued an order this morning for the transfer of John Pelt from the county prison to the State Lunatic Asylum. Van Pelt is the man who made a murderous assault upon Dr. A. M. Hengst of Birdsboro, by whom he had been treated for the grip. The testimony of physicians was to the effect that Van Pelt's reason had left him because of his long and continued illness from the disease.

Mr. Mercier's Mission to France.

PARIS, April 3.—In an interview to-day Mr. Mercier, the Canadian delegate, explained the objects of his mission, which, he said, was intended to counteract the United States tariff law. He aimed to negotiate a loan of $12,000,000 for the conversion of the internal debt and the development of railways and other resources. He would study the best sugar industry in Belgium and Germany, in order to apply the same system in the Dominion and consult the French Government and French Chambers of Commerce in regard to the exchange of French wines for Canadian timber. He had contracted with the Societe Hippique to export to France horses bred in Canada in exchange for French stallions.

Political Gossip.

OTTAWA, April 3.—The Maritime Province members are almost a unit it is said, on Prof. Weldon as Mr. Ouimet's successor. Ouimet wants Mr. J. F. Wood to succeed him, however. It is stated that Mr. De Boucherville will be the next president of the Senate. Last year there was a French Speaker in the Commons and an English Speaker in the Senate. This year there will be one Englishman and one Frenchman, but the latter will be in the Senate and the former in the Commons if present intentions are not changed.

A leading Cabinet Minister denies the report that Hon. C. C. Colby has resigned as president of the Privy Council.

A Dose of Poison.

WINDSOR, April 3.—Patrick Ryan, a tramp, attempted to commit suicide by taking poison at Comber. He was pumped out and brought to Windsor yesterday. He was sent to Sandwich for three months as a vagrant.

Honorably Acquitted.

MONTREAL, April 3.—[illegible], who was arrested in Toronto on a charge of obtaining goods under false pretences from the firm of John Watson & Co., was honorably discharged to-day and returned to Toronto.

HAMILTON, April 3.—Chairman [illegible] and other members of the Finance Committee, will go to Toronto on Tuesday, when the bill authorizing the city to issue [illegible] debentures will come before the House. The Freeholders' Association will send a deputation to secure a clause inserted so that in the event of a future overdraft the city can't get legislation to enable it to pay it off.

Purify Your Blood

The importance of keeping the blood in a pure condition is universally known, and yet there are very few people who have perfectly pure blood. The taint of scrofula, salt rheum, or other foul humor is heredited and transmitted for generations, causing untold suffering, and we also accumulate poison and germs of disease from the air we breathe, the food we eat, or the water we drink. There is nothing more conclusively proven than the positive power of Hood's Sarsaparilla over all diseases of the blood. This medicine, when fairly tried, does expel every trace of scrofula or salt rheum, removes the taint which causes catarrh, neutralizes the acidity and cures rheumatism, drives out the germs of malaria, blood poisoning, etc. It also vitalizes and enriches the blood, thus overcoming that tired feeling, and building up the whole system. Thousands testify to the superiority of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier. Full information and statements of cures sent free.

BOUNDARY BRIDGES.

The bill introduced into the Legislature by Mr. Willoughby in regard to bridges near county boundaries would be an unjust law if carried into effect. It provides that bridges over rivers and streams of 100 feet in width within 80 chains of a county boundary line shall be considered a boundary bridge and that it must be erected and maintained by both counties. This bill, like many other amendments of the Municipal Act proposed, is intended to serve a special purpose, the purpose in this case being to compel Peterborough county to assist the counties of Northumberland and Durham to maintain a bridge over the Trent river. Peterborough county has fought this question of boundary bridges through the courts and has shown that it is not legally entitled to bear expense for bridges wholly within adjacent counties, and the question having been decided the Legislature should not pass what is practically special legislation intended to have an opposite effect to the decision of the courts and to force expenditure on this county for the benefit of its neighbors to the south and west. If it is contended that Peterborough county should share the expense because the bridges are used by people of this county, where would the adoption of such a principle lead? If the principle were admitted and the limit now placed at 80 chains, how long would it be before some member would come forward to extend it to 100 or 150 chains? The practice for the people of each county to maintain the bridges within the county is a proper one, for all bridges in any county are used more or less by people of adjacent counties. Previous attempts of this character have failed and the Legislature should reject this measure also.

THE BUDGET DEBATE.

The debate set in motion in the Legislature by the annual financial statement of the Treasurer was longer and covered a wider field than usual. The discussion showed that the debating talent of the House had received, especially on the Opposition side, important additions, the new members having made excellent addresses.

The questions discussed were of the first importance to the Province. One was the startling increase in the expenditures, which are continually growing. Since 1871 the revenue of the Province has increased from $2,282,000 to $3,432,000, an increase of 46 per cent. in nineteen years. This increase is principally owing to the addition to the amount received from the Dominion, the increase in the receipts from timber lands, the moneys taken from the municipalities, and other sources. With such an increase in the revenue it would not be unreasonable to expect that the Government could easily make the receipts and expenditures balance, especially when in the first year mentioned, when the revenue was much less, there was a substantial surplus. But while the revenue has increased 46 per cent., the expenditure has increased 114 per cent., and the consequence is that although the people contribute larger sums to the Provincial treasury the Province is, owing to the extravagant ideas, the wastefulness and the political methods of the Government, yearly going behind.

As has been before pointed out, the Province has a debt, in the form of railway certificates and annuities issued for money borrowed, incurred by the Liberals. And the position of the debt is far from satisfactory. While the cash surplus which the Province had is fast disappearing and has almost vanished, the debt has increased. As stated by Mr. Clancy in the debate, in 1884 the outstanding railway scrip, including interest from the time it was issued, was $[illegible],044. But the Government did not feel able to meet these obligations as they fell due and they had recourse to the expedient of selling annuities, and by their methods of financing the liabilities have been increased. On January 1st, 1891, the outstanding railway scrip was $1,237,315, and the outstanding annuities $1,[illegible],000, a total of $[illegible],315. This is an increase of $[illegible],000, although $[illegible],000 had been professedly paid on this account.

The Government was rightly subjected to criticism for filching large sums from the municipalities by appropriating the greater part of the revenue derived from liquor licenses. This formerly belonged to the municipalities, but gradually the Government gathered to itself more and more of the funds, and inasmuch as this revenue is lost to the municipalities and has to be made up by them, the Government might as well have levied directly on the ratepayers. In 1880 the municipalities received from licenses $373,467, and last year $377,[illegible], a slight increase. But in the same time the Government has increased its receipts from this source from $[illegible],297 to $297,361. Speakers on the Government side said, by way of reply to the criticism of the Opposition, that the municipalities had power to raise the fees and thus increase their revenue. But there is a limit to the amount that can be levied in this way, and when the Government intervenes and takes all that the source will bear, it is impertinence to chide the municipalities with not increasing the fees. Besides, Peterborough had some experience with the Government in this matter. An Act was passed permitting the municipalities to raise the fees, and a by-law was passed by the town to do so, but before it could take effect the Government stepped in, bogglishly as usual, and passed another Act to appropriate a large share of the increase. The by-law never took effect, in consequence of legal action, and the Government was therefore unable to carry out its intention of making Peterborough levy more taxes for its use.

While speaking of licenses, it is not out of place to ask if it would not be wise to have the official report explain in what way the whole revenue from this source is disposed of? The total collections in 1889-90 amounted to $639,560 56 Of this the Province received $297,361.03 and the municipalities $[illegible].48, while schedule D shows that the expenses of commissioners and salaries of inspectors amounted to $36,145.55. This leaves a balance of $19,760 unaccounted for. Should not the report give full information regarding the disposal of the funds?

The budget debate, though it took up time, was a useful discussion, for it is only by probing and discussing the financial position of the province that the misleading statements of the Government and its friends, especially on the hustings, can be exposed. It was refreshing on this occasion to see the Government side admit that under the present administration the expenditures had been greater than the revenue, and that the accumulated savings of the Province which came into their hands had been drawn upon freely, but how long their candor on that point will last is a question.

Thousands of Lives Lost.

Poets and novelists go into ecstacies over what they romantically call "beautiful spring," and "gentle spring," and while, no doubt, every one is glad to see winter release its icy grasp, "beautiful spring" is, after all, one of the most deadly seasons of the year. Sudden transitions from warmth to extreme cold, with piercing, chilling winds; from dry to sloppy, "muggy" weather, all combine to make the season a most trying one, even to the hardiest constitution, while to those with weak constitutions the season is one of positive danger. Undoubtedly the greatest danger at this season of the year is from cold in the head, which very few escape, and which, if not promptly and thoroughly treated, developes into catarrh, with all its disagreeable and loathsome effects. Catarrh, neglected, almost as certainly developes into consumption, annually destroying thousands of lives. At this trying season no household should be without a bottle of Nasal Balm. In cases of cold in the head it gives almost instant relief and effects a speedy cure, thus preventing the development of catarrh. Where the latter disease has already secured a hold it is equally efficacious, and with persistent use will cure the worst case. From the outset it sweetens the breath, stops the nauseous droppings into the throat and lungs, dispels those dull headaches that afflict the sufferer from catarrh. Nasal Balm is not advertised as a cure-all—it is an honest remedy which never fails to cure cold in the head or catarrh when the directions are faithfully followed, and thousands throughout the country have reason to bless its discovery. Nasal Balm may be had from all dealers or will be sent post-paid on receipt of price (50 cents, small, or $1, large size bottles,) by addressing Fulford & Co. Brockville, Ont.

OH! THE RARITY.

Shocking Cases of Misery and Destitution Amid Filth and Dirt.

NEWMARKET, April 3.—John Hambly, whose wife is in Hamilton asylum, is the father of several young children who live with their parents amid the filth and dirt of an old house in York-street. Although Hambly earns good wages as a laborer and has steady employment his family are in want and misery. For thrashing his eldest daughter with an iron poker Hambly was brought before Police Magistrate Pattullo and the case was adjourned, and in the meantime an effort will be made to have Hambly's neglected offspring sent to an industrial school, where they can be properly taken care of.

More Than Motherless Babes.

STOUFFVILLE, April 3.—Living in a log hut in the swamp, along the railway track about 2½ miles northeast of Stouffville, live two families, Hamiltons and Middletons, in a wretched state. The woman called Mrs. Hamilton is lying in bed sick and miserable. There are about eight small children between the ages of six months and 12 years, some of them nearly naked. One young lad is blind and paralyzed and is an object of pity, his feet being frozen in the house a short time ago. It is next to impossible to describe the appearance of the hovel they are in, dirt and squalor and filth on every side. It is a horrible place for human beings and especially for a sick woman and young children.

Friends She Had None.

DUNDALK, April 3.—An old woman, who appears to be a confirmed tramp, was given comfortable lodging at the Connor House. She retired, but not to sleep. About 1 o'clock she began to sing and yell, awaking everyone in the house. Mrs. Connor and other ladies arose and endeavored to quiet her, but in vain. Dr. Greenlaw prepared a soothing dose for her, but she refused it with the advice, "Drink it yourself, dear." Left alone, she jumped out of the side window, barefooted and bareheaded, yelling "Murder!" As it was a very cold night she was caught and brought back, kept until morning and then turned loose.

A Uniform Monetary System.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—The International American Monetary Commission, which organised here last January, closed its sessions to-day by adoption of the following: "Resolved that this commission brings its sessions to a close expressing the wish that before long another commission may meet which shall reach an agreement to bring about the adoption of a uniform monetary system among the nations of America advantageous to one and all."

Fears of a Flood in Montreal.

MONTREAL, April 3.—Fears of a flood are predominant at Montreal, the immediate cause of the sudden anxiety being the shoves that took place in the ice to-day and the rise of water which followed, the water which is rising steadily being now within 6½ feet of the level of the road. It is thought that while the dyke may withstand the force of the ice it may not be watertight and this is looked upon as an element of danger.

Miss Cynthia M. Westover is Commissioner Beattie's deputy in the street cleaning department of New York City. The Queen of Roumania has written a melodrama which should have been produced at the Burg Theatre at Vienna, but it turned out to be so wildly and weirdly absurd in plot and so bombastic in language that the managers insisted that if it was produced there would not only be a riot in the audience but a strike among the employees, and so it was withdrawn. Even a queen is not free from dramatic failures.

John W. January, of Minonk, Ill., draws a pension of $100 a month. Mr. January is known all over the country as the man who cut off his own feet in Andersonville prison. The surgeon refused to amputate the injured parts, when January performed the operation himself with an old knife. He retains the knife as a most valuable relic.

"Gentle Spring" loses many of its terrors when the system is fortified by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. With multitudes, this wonderful tonic-alterative has long superseded all other spring medicines, being everywhere recommended by physicians.

More Time.

Busy people always seem to have plenty of time. Their day is only twenty-four hours long, yet out of that twenty-four hours—fourteen hundred and forty moments—they find space for an astonishing amount of work. They are never afraid to undertake a new thing. They have always a few minutes to give to a friend. They will secure an hour for some congenial occupation. It is to the busy man you go, asking can they take a part in this new project. Certainly; state what you would like done, or how you wish it, and they will lend a hand. Why, if you so desire, they will take time to tell you just what you ought to begin, and how to manage it. And when one piece of work is accomplished they pass to the next with perfect readiness, and a calm confidence in their own ability.

Yet, strange to say, the people who never have time to do anything are those who never have anything to do. They would start this scheme, take part in that transaction, if they only had a little more time. They would be so glad to pay those calls, only too delighted to give that help, to learn a language, or to read a book, but they cannot make the time. And while they lament their lack of it, all the time they had is gone and their plans are still unfinished.

After all, what more time have the busy than the idle! Has not each of us to-day? Has not each of us all the time there is?—Harper's Bazar.

The Springtime Medicine.

The popularity which Hood's Sarsaparilla has gained as a spring medicine is wonderful. It possesses just those elements of health-giving, blood-purifying and appetite-restoring which everybody seems to need at this season. Do not continue in a dull, tired, unsatisfactory condition when you may be so much benefited by Hood's Sarsaparilla. It purifies the blood and makes the weak strong.

Hygiene and Sanitation.

Our Canadian doctors should always interest themselves in every branch of practical hygiene and sanitation. Their education should fit them for considering the best means of promoting health, and to warn against all things which have a tendency to destroy it. To-day few physicians who visit families in their charge, ever look into or examine the conditions which surround these families, whether or not they tend to health or disease.

It is to be regretted that the great subjects of hygiene and sanitation are so much neglected in our large centres of population. Seeing that this is the case we should guard ourselves and families from the malarias, effluvias and contagion which surrounds us every day. Our health should be in a condition to resist all disease. To secure perfect condition of health, a contented mind and a cheerful disposition, it will be well for us to use Paine's Celery Compound. Let us bear in mind that the spring season is always a dangerous one; and that the system requires toning up; the nerves require strengthening, and the digestive organs must work harmoniously.

Paine's Celery Compound is the great agent for this rebuilding and recuperating of body, nerves and brain. Every family should have it in their homes at this particular season.

Wisdom in a Nutshell.

The Magistrate adjourned the case to hear further evidence.

George-st.'s White Front.

With the bright weather of spring have come many brightening improvements on George-st., and none of these are more striking than that in the dry goods establishment of Mr. J. C. Turnbull. The front of this business house now stands out prominently among the emporiums of our main thoroughfare in a shining new coat of white paint, which will give it the name of the "White Front." The front of the store has also been greatly improved by the placing in of two large plate glass sides in the handsome show windows. This makes these windows splendid places for the exhibition of goods, as well as improving the entire appearance of the front. The interior of the shop has undergone a most complete transformation, and the process of brightening has worked marvels. The ceiling and walls have been elegantly papered, the wood-work harmoniously painted, and the floor room increased by the re-arrangement of new counters. In the rear a new office has been placed in position, while the millinery rooms, which are in charge of Miss Mahoney, a tasteful and capable milliner, have also received attention from the painter. The ceiling and walls of this department have also been papered and painted, and, with the fashionable, new and vari-colored stock of spring millinery which is now on exhibition, the room has the appearance of some beautiful spot in fairy-land. The change and renovation has been complete throughout the entire establishment, and a vast improvement has been wrought. Further improvements are also contemplated. Alterations will be made in the second storey, which will be suitably fitted up for the mantle department and other lines.

ANCIENT RELICS.

A Waterloo Sword, a Piece of Shakespearean Oak, and a Pennsylvania Note.

Mr. E. Courtney has shown us several relics of deep interest, especially to those who take an interest in articles of antiquity. One of these is a sword which was carried by his grandfather, who was a member of a British infantry regiment, in the battle of Waterloo. The weapon is light but strong, and it, and especially the scabbard, bears evidence of its age, while on the edge of the steel are visible, despite grinding to which it was afterwards subjected, marks of the blows it warded off or gave on the fatal field when Wellington and Napoleon met and decided the fate of Europe. This weapon is highly prized as a family possession and is an interesting relic, associated as it is with the great encounter that finally ended Napoleon's career.

Another curiosity, of scarcely less interest, is connected with the United States before those colonies were independent. It is a five shilling or crown note issued by the colony of Pennsylvania 131 years ago and which was printed by Benjamin Franklin. The note is numbered 4,421, and reads:—"This bill shall pass current for five shillings with the Province of Pennsylvania, according to an Act of Assembly made in the 33rd year of the Reign of King George II. Dated May 1, 1760. A Crown." The signatures to the bill, as nearly as the writing can be made out, are H. Harrison, Jos. Saunders and Jos. Morris. The reverse side bears representations of tobacco leaves and on it is printed "To counterfeit is DEATH," and also "Printed by B. Franklin and D. Hall, 1760." This very interesting relic was placed in a frame by Mr. Courtney several years ago and presented by him to the Peterborough Mechanics' Institute.

A third relic is of entirely different character, but by many it would be accounted more valuable than either of the others. It is a piece of oak which once formed part of the house in which Shakespeare, the prince of dramatists, lived. Mr. Courtney lived for many years at Stratford-upon-Avon and his father resided there until the time of his death a short time ago. Mr. Courtney remembers playing about Shakespeare's house when he was a lad and when no interest was taken in the home of the bard of Avon by the public. Now, however, the building is held sacred, and is carefully cared for and protected on account of its association with the great poet. So fearful were the people of England that some enterprising American, such as the great showman, would get possession of the building, that they took steps to secure it from falling into other hands and to secure its permanent location on its natural sight, where Shakespeare lived. In 1867, public interest in the building having been awakened, workmen were put on it to repair it, so that it would be preserved for future generations. The piece of oak which Mr. Courtney possesses was cut out of the building at that time, and although it is not large it is valuable because its authenticity is so clear. Similar pieces of oak from the building have sold in England for large sums.

Other relics which Mr. Courtney has are pieces of china which at one time belonged to his great-great grandmother and must be 150 years old, and an impression of the official seal of Stratford-upon-Avon. He naturally takes a deep interest in the poet's home, and has views of Shakespeare's house and other places of interest in the town.

A LIGHT DOCKET.

The Spring Assizes Open Here on Monday—No Criminal Cases.

The Spring Assizes open here on Monday. There is a very light docket, the criminal calendar being blank, and the civil list being made up of only four cases—three jury and one non-jury cases. It is possible that there may be a criminal case for the Grand Jury, but there is no one in gaol awaiting trial. The civil list is as follows:

JURY CASES.

LEONARD VS. TOWN OF PETERBOROUGH.—This is an action which is familiar to the public. Mrs. Leonard is bringing the suit to secure damages from the town for entering her lands, pulling down the fences, destroying the trees and shrubbery thereon, and carrying away the soil therefrom, and for an injunction. This alleged trespass and damage was done, it will be remembered, in opening up Water-st. in the construction of the new Government wharf at the foot of George-st. Dumble & Leonard for the plaintiff, E. B. Edwards for the defendants.

YOEMANS VS. YOUNG.—This is an action for $100 damages brought by Eleazer Yoemans, of Belmont, against Wm. Young, of the same township, for entering lands and cutting down timber thereon. John Burnham, Q.C., M.P., for the plaintiff; Sawers & Stone for the defendants.

NON-JURY CASES.

ASKWITH VS. HENRY, ET AL.—In this case the plaintiff brings action to recover $500 on a promissory note made by the defendant, J. A. Henry, of Ottawa, to S. M. Knapp, of Chatham, the other defendant, and endorsed by the plaintiff, John E. Askwith, of Ottawa. Robert Hick, of Ottawa, for plaintiff; O'Gara & McTavish, of Ottawa, for defendant Henry; and Ellis & Ellis, of Ottawa, for defendant Knapp.

MCGEE VS. LYTLE.—An action brought by John McGee, of Fenelon Falls, against George Lytle to recover $576 80, the amount of two judgments in 1872. E. B. Edwards for plaintiff; Stratton & Hall for defendant.

Behold the Conquering Hero Comes.

Zera Semon 3 nights next week commencing Thursday, April 9th at the opera house with an entire new show. Different from all others; every act a feature; every artist a star in his line. The most moral and refined entertainment in the world. See what the Hamilton Times says about this wonderful show: "Just about as many people were turned from the opera house last evening as gained admission when Zera Semon opened his Hamilton engagement. The audience was just as delighted as it was large. Zera Semon is a whole show in himself. The shadowgraphs of the Reed brothers were all good. The whole performance is a unique gem, interesting and attractive from first to last, not the least amusing part of it being the closing act—a minstrel performance by a company of marionettes, whose sprightly wit and antics kept the audience in a protracted state of laughter." Gold watch the leading present on Thursday night.

A Pleasant Herb Drink—A Spring Medicine.

The druggists tell us that the people call daily for the new cure for constipation and sick-headache discovered by Dr. Silas Lane. It is said to be Oregon grape root (a great remedy in the far west for those complaints) combined with simple herbs, and is made for use by pouring on boiling water to draw out the strength. It sells at 50c and $1 a package and is called Lane's Family Medicine.

HEALTH OF THE VILLAGE

ASHBURNHAM'S GOOD RECORD FOR THE YEAR.

The Annual Report of the Medical Health Officer—A Low Death Rate—A Review of the Work Done.

The following is the annual report of Dr. Clarke, Medical Health Officer of Ashburnham, which shows that the village has a good record in sanitary matters:—

To the Chairman and Members of the Ashburnham Board of Health:—

GENTLEMEN,—In presenting my seventh annual report for the year 1890, I have again to congratulate the village on a remarkably low death rate, 12½ to the thousands, not so low as that of last year, which was exceptional, but low enough to justify the assertion then made that Ashburnham is one of the healthiest villages in the Dominion. A few cases of so-called infectious disease have occurred, but none have been fatal and in every case by means of isolation and disinfection has the disease been limited to the house in which it appeared. Four or five cases of malarial or typhoid fever occurred, but in two of them the disease was brought from a distance, so that the number of cases, though small, is misleading as to the sanitary condition of the village. I would point out here what I have not yet noticed in connection with health precautions, that when these are effectively carried out, not only is the number of cases lessened, but the severity of each case is greatly mitigated. This confirms the observation of bacteriologists that a concentration of infection adds to its virulence, while attenuated, or rather scantily distributed

VIRUS LOSES HALF ITS VIOLENCE.

Evolution is none the less a force among the lower organisms than among the higher. The greater crowding, the greater the struggle for existence, and in consequence the greater force is developed, the stronger bacterial forms surviving and the weaker going to the wall. Hence, sanitary measures make a double attack both upon centre and upon flank, reducing the numbers as well diminishing the vitality of the enemy.

The principal points to which your officer's attention has been directed during the year are the following:—

SLAUGHTER HOUSES.

At a meeting of the Board last March to consider the applications of butchers for the year, a motion was passed refusing permission to one to continue operations in the village and granting it to the others only on condition that no pigs were kept at or in connection with the slaughter houses from 1st November to 1st April. The objectionable one was soon removed, but some of the other owners attempted to evade the resolution by moving their pens to a considerable distance from the slaughter houses. Of course this was an improvement, but did not in every case do away with the nuisance, as some very bitter complaints have still been sent in. The only proper way is to deal with each slaughter house on its own basis. Some are so situated that no complaint is ever heard about them, pigs or no pigs. But those in thickly inhabited places are totally different, and the Board has power to deal with each case on its own merits.

REMOVAL OF GARBAGE AND EXCRETA.

This is always one of the most perplexing sanitary questions and gave considerable trouble last year. It is sometimes hard to find out whose business it is to clear away certain rubbish or empty certain closets. The duties of landlord and tenant are not clearly defined in the Health Act. The employment of a public scavenger by the town will soon be recognized as so beneficial that it is hoped the system will be introduced here or an arrangement made with the town scavenger. In that event there could be no hesitation in insisting upon the introduction of earth closets. The Board of Health should take an active interest in this question, as it is not likely sewerage will be established here for some time.

HOUSE TO HOUSE INSPECTIONS.

These have been attended to by the Sanitary Inspector, and on several occasions I accompanied him on his rounds. The slaughter-houses were, as a rule, found in good condition. A certain number of pig pens make their appearance annually and have to be weeded out. Some yards are invariably dirty and untidy unless well looked after, and a good many outhouses and closets would not be cleaned unless notices were served.

BURIAL OF ANIMALS.

Two horses having been killed on the railway track, in the hurry of the moment were buried near by in the centre of the village. When my attention was directed to it putrefaction had set in, so that it was too late to have them removed. This should not be allowed to happen again. A small animal may be buried anywhere without much risk, but large masses of decaying animal matter constitute a danger which should be avoided. Recent scientific researches have demonstrated that some of the most destructive poisons are generated by the decomposition of large carcases and that these retain their vitality for years, and may produce diphtheria, typhoid fever or other dangerous diseases without anyone dreaming where they come from.

COMPLAINTS.

Many complaints of all kinds have been sent in and we have endeavored to rectify abuses as much as possible. Sometimes this is very difficult. Suppose a tenant finds his cellar containing water during the greater part of the year, naturally he is apt to consider it unhealthy and if illness occur in his family he is sure to consider it so. He makes a complaint and thinks it is the duty of the health officer to compel his landlord to drain it away. So in the case of stables too near neighbors' houses. There is no doubt these are sometimes a very great nuisance without being positively detrimental to health and an attempt to force their removal might result awkwardly for all parties concerned in the present crude state of the health laws. It ought to be remembered that these are of recent introduction and by no means perfect. The Legislature is constantly making changes in accordance with the progress of public opinion. We can do more now than we were able to do a few years ago and we shall be able to do more soon than we can now.

ANALYSES OF WATER.

A number of specimens were sent in and examined with varying results. There is this to be said about well water, that the greater cleanliness above ground the purer the water supply in the vicinity. The rule is invariable.

MILK SUPPLY.

Two specimens were sent in which were supposed to be not up to the average. I found one so much watered that I sent a note to the person who sold it which had a salutary effect. As the analysis of milk is a complicated process requiring special training and no arrangement has been made by the Board of Health here or in town, I can make only a superficial examination. As so few complaints are made, I believe the quality of milk supplied to be generally good.

DISINFECTANTS.

The use of these is growing from year to year, and nothing can be of greater importance. Cleaning away filth is only one part of the work. Closets and cesspools should be thoroughly disinfected at intervals as well.

Wells are not cleaned out as often as necessary. This part of sanitary work is so easily evaded that it is perhaps less attended to than any other.

I have found the public school in much better condition than in former years, and the hospital is also in good sanitary condition.

There is very much work to be done this spring. As the village extends and becomes more thickly settled, greater and more constant care is necessary, and it will be your officers' duty to carry out the various requirements of the statute as fully as possible.

I remain, gentlemen,
Your obedient servant,
J. CLARKE,
Medical Health Officer.

DUMMER.

A PIONEER GONE.—Again we are called upon to chronicle the death of another of the pioneers of Dummer, in the person of Mr. Henry Gardner, who passed over to the great majority on the 24th ult., at the advanced age of 74 years. Deceased was born in Somersetshire, Eng., on the 17th of March, 1817, and emigrated to Canada in the year 1832, settling in the township of Dummer on lot 7, concession 7, where he resided continuously until the time of his death. Dummer at that date was a veritable wilderness and the subject of this notice suffered all the trials and privations incident to pioneer life. In 1846 he married Miss Mary Ann Rose, sister of Mr. James Rose, of Dummer, by whom he had ten of a family, all of whom survive him except two. His father, Wm. Gardner, who came to this country with the deceased and died some 24 years ago, served in the British navy during the wars with Napoleon Bonaparte and was ward-robe steward on board the Belephron when Napoleon was taken to St. Helena. A few years afterwards he received an honorable discharge and a grant of one hundred acres of land in the township of Dummer. Deceased was a very successful farmer and amassed a handsome competence. He was a staunch member of the Presbyterian Church and lived an exemplary Christian life. His friends have the assurance that to him "death was the burial of all his sorrows and the resurrection of his joys," as well as the sympathy of the community. The remains were interred in the Norwood cemetery and the funeral was very largely attended.—Register.

Run Over and Killed.

A man named McLean was run over on the Grand Trunk near Uptergrove yesterday and killed. He was sitting on the side of the track and was struck by a locomotive. It is thought that he may have been asleep.

Hall's Hair Renewer contains the natural food and color-matter for the hair, and medicinal herbs for the scalp, curing grayness, baldness, dandruff, and scalp sores.

A Discovery Important to Ladies.

The political battle is over, but the battle with disease must be constantly and unceasingly waged else the grim reaper will come out victorious, and loved ones will be gathered to their long homes. On all sides may be seen pale and listless girls who should be enjoying the health and glow of rosy youth. Everywhere we are met with women young in years, yet prematurely old, who suffer in silence almost untold agonies, the result of those ailments peculiar to the female system. To all such, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills come as a blessing. They restore wasted vitality, build up the nervous system, enrich the blood, and transform pale and sallow complexions into glowing, rosy cheeks that alone follow perfect health. In a word they are a certain cure for all these distressing complaints to which women and girls are peculiarly liable. A trial of these pills will convince the most sceptical of their wonderful merit. For suffering men Dr William's Pink Pills are equally efficacious. For overwork, mental strain, loss of sleep, nervous debility, and all those diseases that lead to broken-down manhood, they are a certain specific, stimulating the brain, reinforcing the exhausted system and restoring shattered vitality. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are nature's restorative and should be used by every weak and debilitated person. For sale by all dealers or sent post paid on receipt of price (50 cents a box) by addressing the Dr. Williams Medicine Co, Brockville, Ont

CASH HARDWARE STORE.
On and after 1st April we shall do business on a Cash Basis.
To cover the inevitable losses attendant upon a credit business, which accrue from amount of time spent in keeping accounts, collecting, bad debts, interest account, and in numerous other ways, larger margins of profit must be asked.
In these times cash buyers ask, expect and are entitled to close prices. A careful consideration of the subject convinces us that the time has come for a cash business done on smaller profits.
The only customers who may be put to inconvenience are those who have had long credit. In more ways than one it will be to their advantage to pay cash.
For convenience of our old customers who consider their accounts due when presented, we will call 30 days cash and render all accounts the first of each month, and we wish to say that we will be happy to do business with them on these terms.
As the new departure is something of an experiment, what would be considered a close cash price will be made all through the stock. Not a few leaders only, but a general reduction in everything from the fourth flat to the cellar.
Our idea is to perform more than promised rather than promise more than can be fulfilled.
Our stock is large and varied, consisting of Builders', Contractors', Household, Mechanics', Painters', Shoemakers', Farm, Mill, Factory, Lumbermen's, Sporting, Threshers', Cabinetmakers', and other lines of Hardware.

A BAD HUMOR CURED.

$5,000 Expended on Doctors and Medicine Without Avail. Gave Himself up to Die.

Good Wife Suggests Cuticura Remedies. Uses them 7 Months, and is entirely Cured

I was in the war during 1863-64, and took a heavy cold at Gettysburg, from which I never fully recovered. In 1870 I broke out in sores all over my chest and shoulder, which seemed impossible to cure. I tried all the famed doctors I could find, and to no avail. I expended some five thousand dollars trying to find a cure, but could not, and finally giving myself up to die, my good wife suggested to me, one day, to try the CUTICURA REMEDIES which were so extensively advertised and used. I followed her suggestion, and am happy to say by diligent application of your CUTICURA REMEDIES for seven months I was entirely cured, after spending five years of time and money without avail, and am a sound and well man to-day. You may refer to me if you wish, as I will tell any one who may call on me my experience.

SATURDAY, APRIL 4, 1891.

BEATRIX RANDOLPH.

BY JULIAN HAWTHORNE.

"No. What was it?"

"'Semiramide.'"

"Good?"

"Yes."

"Your theatre seems to suit her," Wallie remarked. "By the way, there must be a column about last night in the paper. Yes; here it is. 'No such rendering of the music of this part has ever'—and so forth and so on. She's a big success."

"She deserves it, doesn't she?"

"She can sing, sir—she can—sing," replied Wallie, with the quiet slowness that was his only form of emphasis. "She puzzles me!"

"What's the puzzle?"

"If she's been through the wars, where are her scars? She looks fresh as a lily and sweet as new mown hay. Where's the cloven foot?"

"There is none," said Geoffrey, with a laconic conviction.

"So I'm inclined to think, and so I'm puzzled."

"There will be stories about any woman," rejoined Geoffrey: "mostly lies."

"But some of the European stories about Mlle. Marana—well they would lead one to suppose that she had changed her nature, and everything else except her name, when she landed in this country."

"Well since her name is the only thing she could change, it follows—and our opinion should be formed on what we see and know, not on hearsay."

"You are only quoting what I said to you when you didn't want to come to the dinner," said Wallie, with a chuckle. "To be sure, I hadn't seen her then."

"I thought you had seen her abroad."

"Well—I mean I hadn't seen her before in New York."

"There has been nothing against her since she came?"

"No; on the contrary I think she has had the opportunity of refusing several eligible offers, and she has done so for all the world like a true American girl."

"Who were the men?"

"That would be telling. Why do you ask?"

As Geoffrey made no reply, but smoked with a good deal of sternness, Wallie continued after a while, "I suppose your wisdom teeth are cut, young man?"

"She's a lady, and I—wish her treated as such, that's all!" said Geoffrey. "What were you saying about a cottage at Newport?"

Before this topic could be gone into the friends were suddenly interrupted by the entrance of another caller—Mr. Alexander Randolph.

"Who the devil is he?" demanded Geoffrey, knocking out his pipe.

"Never met him till this autumn. He won't hurt you. Sit still."

"Ah, good morning, Mr. Dinsmore," said Randolph, entering in state with his gray eyebrows and imperial; "I can remain but a moment." Here he caught sight of Bellingham. "Am I in the way?"

"In the way of making the acquaintance of Mr. Bellingham—Mr. Randolph," said Wallie. "Sit down, gentlemen. Have a cigar, Mr. Randolph?"

"I thank you—never before luncheon. To come to the point at once—I am of a committee of gentlemen to extend a complimentary breakfast to Gen. Inigo on the 14th of this month. Can we count upon your attendance?"

"The 14th? Let me see," said Wallie, opening a drawer in his desk and taking out a memorandum book. "Yes, there seems to be nothing on that day. Much obliged to you and the committee, Mr. Randolph."

"The hour is 1 o'clock," said Randolph. "Gen. Inigo deserves a breakfast," Wallie remarked. "He deserves three meals a day. He has catered very well for us."

"That seems to be the general impression," said Randolph, giving a twist to his eyebrow.

"We were just discussing the prima donna," Wallie continued. "You know her, of course, Mr. Randolph?"

"I—ah—I have—that is, slightly. I have heard her sing; I may have met her socially; one meets so many people it is difficult to say."

He colored while he spoke, and seemed a good deal confused.

"She's a very pretty woman, and seems to be as virtuous as she is pretty, strange to say," the other went on. "There's a discrepancy between her conduct and her history."

Mr. Randolph colored still more.

"I—I'm an old fashioned man, sir," he said, whisking a silk handkerchief out of his coat tail pocket and passing it over his forehead. "In my day we—we took the virtue of a lady for granted; and I must say I—of course, I have no right to be the champion of this lady, sir, but"—

He stopped, and Bellingham said: "Any man has a right to respect a woman he believes honest, and to make others do so in his presence. If that's old fashioned, Mr. Randolph, count me in!"

"Thank you, sir," returned the other. He rose and put back his handkerchief in his pocket.

"I must take leave of you, Mr. Dinsmore," he added. "A man like myself has a great many affairs on hand. We shall look for you on the 14th, then. Good morning; good morning, Mr.—ah—Bellingham."

"I am more puzzled than ever," said Wallie, when Randolph was gone.

"What now?"

"In the first place he couldn't quite make up his mind whether he'd met her or not; then he got flurried because I suggested there had been stories about her, and finally, he took to flight rather than discuss her any more. Now if he doesn't know her, why should he flare up so about her? and if he does know her, why does he pretend he doesn't?"

"He's an old fashioned"—began Geoffrey.

"That's gammon," interrupted Wallie, "and you know it! The fall of man is an older fashion than Mr. Randolph. Did any sane man, young or old, ever get into a state of mind because the correctness of an opera singer he didn't know was called in question? I can't make it out—unless he means to marry her!"

This speculation was received by Geoffrey in dead silence, and for a considerable time neither of the men said anything. At last the question of the cottage at Newport was brought up once more and canvassed until they parted.

Coughing

IS Nature's effort to expel foreign substances from the bronchial passages. Frequently, this causes inflammation and the need of an anodyne. No other expectorant or anodyne is equal to Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It assists Nature in ejecting the mucus, allays irritation, induces repose, and is the most popular of all cough cures.

"Of the many preparations before the public for the cure of colds, coughs, bronchitis, and kindred diseases, there is none, within the range of my experience, so reliable as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. For years I was subject to colds, followed by terrible coughs. About four years ago, when so afflicted, I was advised to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral and to lay all other remedies aside. I did so, and within a week was well of my cold and cough. Since then I have always kept this preparation in the house, and feel comparatively secure."—Mrs. L. L. Brown, Denmark, Miss.

"A few years ago I took a severe cold which affected my lungs. I had a terrible cough, and passed night after night without sleep. The doctors gave me up. I tried Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which relieved my lungs, induced sleep, and afforded the rest necessary for the recovery of my strength. By the continual use of the Pectoral, a permanent cure was effected."—Horace Fairbrother, Rockingham, Vt.

TALKS FOR THE FARMER

TIMELY INFORMATION FOR THE CANADIAN AGRICULTURIST.

Early and Late Sowing of Spring Grains—The Former Preferred—Value of Experiments at the Dominion Experimental Farm—What the Tests Show.

The early sowing of spring wheat, barley and oats shows in every instance, beyond a doubt, the great advantages to the farmer. The generally accepted truism that the best results are obtained from early sown spring crops has never had enough careful investigation to ascertain how much was the gain or loss from this cause. The valuable services rendered by trials at the Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa in this direction will, we trust, have a beneficial effect in not only inducing others to experiment in different localities, but of impressing more forcibly the advantage of early sowing upon the farming community. The loss on Prize Prolific barley by a delay of one week was nearly sixteen bushels per acre, and Danish Chevalier a little more than eleven bushels, while a delay of two weeks shows an average loss in the two experiments of more than half the crop, or about eighteen bushels per acre. If these tests could be relied upon as conclusive in an absolute sense the loss of one week's time in sowing the barley of Ontario, reckoned at 50 cents per bushel, would be over two and a-half millions of dollars in one crop. In spring wheat the loss of one week only gave a loss of about one-sixth of the crop, while two weeks delay resulted in a loss of one-fourth of the crop.

Oats seemed to be less influenced by late sowing than either wheat or barley. In the case of Prize Cluster there was a falling off of about three bushels per acre for the first week, but a delay of two weeks resulted in a loss of over six and a-half bushels per acre. The oat area of Ontario each year is so large that the loss of one bushel per acre, taking oats at 40 cents per bushel, is equal to $752,946.

These tests correspond with our own experience. We will cite two cases. The first was a field of thirty acres of barley. The land was similar in every particular. Fifteen acres of this was sown with six-rowed barley on the 28th day of April. A heavy rain prevented the sowing of the remaining fifteen acres for about eight days; it was then sown with seed taken from the same bin as that previously sown. The first half yielded 50 bushels per acre, the average weight of which was 54 pounds per bushel; the later sown half of the field yielded 39 bushels per acre, the average weight of which was 48½ pounds. A trial of fifteen acres of White Russian wheat was treated in a similar way, four acres of which was sown six days earlier than the remainder of the field, and yielded per acre three bushels more than the average of the remaining land, and weighed one pound per bushel more.—Farmers' Advocate.

Causes of Ropy Milk.

This is a matter that has puzzled many a dairyman and milk dealer, as well as farmer. Such milk is almost useless and unchurnable and yields a very small per cent. of butter, and it is well to know the cause and remedy, if any. Prof. F. G. Short, the State Chemist for Wisconsin, says this about ropy milk in the annual report of the Food and Dairy Commissioner for that state:—

"Ropy milk is said to be produced by a variety of causes; illness of the mammary glands, inflammation of the udder, cold of the same organ contracted by lying down on the ground, atmospheric influences, fodder containing certain plants, distillery slop, unclean rooms and utensils, etc. The remedies are equally numerous. The alleged causes for ropy milk point to two assumptions: either the milk when drawn from the cow is infected with ferment, or the milk is infected after it is drawn from the cow. No experiments have been made to prove or disprove the first assumption. That ropy milk may be caused by infection after it has been drawn from the cow has been proved by experiment. If sterilized milk be inoculated with ropy milk and kept at a suitable temperature, it will be observed that no cream rises to the top, and that the milk gets ropy within twenty four hours. After forty-eight hours have elapsed, the milk is of such consistency that it will not flow out of the vessel containing it even if the latter be turned upside down. The most suitable temperature for this development is 86° to 104° F. The energy of the ferment diminishes with rise of temperature, and at 104° F. it is entirely destroyed. Freezing prevents the development of the ferment, but does not kill it."

The Babcock Milk Test.

Briefly described, the Babcoc method of testing milk for butter fat is as follows: A carefully measured sample of milk is placed in a test bottle having a long narrow neck. Next an equal volume of sulphuric acid is added, and the bottle is placed in a wheel which is revolved horizontally from six hundred to eight hundred times per minute, for about six minutes. At the end of this time the fat of the milk set free by the acid has risen to the top of the liquid; hot water is poured into the bottle, partly filling the neck. On again whirling for a couple of minutes the fat will rise through the water into the neck, in a long column, where it is easily read off by graduations on the neck. By this method the fat in skim-milk, buttermilk, whey, cream, and even cheese can be determined. This gives the creamery man a means not only of dividing money for milk among patrons on the basis of fat delivered, but also of watching his separator and churn to detect losses heretofore realized but not accurately located. After the first cost of the apparatus the expenses of the test are small, the acid being the only item aside from the time required; a pound of acid, costing from two to four cents, will make fourteen tests. Dr. Babcock states that after the samples have been measured out, sixty tests can be made and the bottles cleaned, in two hours. The method is not patented.

Cost of Ignorance.

In no business perhaps does ignorance have to be paid more promptly than in dairying. When we churn, if we don't know the right degree of temperature for the cream we may either waste many hours at the crank or else have the butter come too soon, with flavor and texture ruined. If we don't know how to feed our cows we may be wasting feed every day; we may be dairying with the wrong breed, and so on through the whole business, if we do not have the knowledge we are always in the way of making heavy losses. In the present state of dairy science it is inexcusable for any one to go blindly, about his work, when he, by a little reading and study, can be as fully informed on every dairy subject as the most expert.

A Word in Season.

If you must drive hard and warm up the horses, let them cool gently and without exposure. Teach this to the boys. If they know it is needful to care for a horse at some expense and trouble to preserve his usefulness and value after a hard push, they will be more careful about driving. More horses are hurt after being stopped than on the road.

Ought To Be.

A New Hampshire girl who went sleigh-riding with her beau a few nights ago was driven home a corpse, having been frozen to death with the thermometer at zero. They don't know what to do with the fellow, who certainly deserves hanging. Any young man guilty of letting zero come between him and the girl he pretends to love is not fit to live.

She Had Arrived.

The wife of a Boston broker sailed for Para to visit her sister, and when she arrived there she sent him a cablegram which cost him $700 to announce the fact. The most of the message, however, told how her dog fell overboard and could not be saved.

Poor Fellow.

"See that man over there?"

"Yes."

"He was worth a million once."

"Poor fellow. How did he lose it?"

"He didn't. He has five millions now."

TORONTO TRUTH'S

New Spring Bible Competition No. 22.

In these latter days there have arisen many false schemes and many scores of imitations of TRUTH'S Competitions, but one after another have failed and utterly perished, yet TRUTH remains, and makes good all its promises. Its reputation is now too well established to risk damaging it, and as it has cost a very large amount of money and many years of care and labor to build up, the publisher could not afford to fail in carrying out all his agreements to the letter. There are twenty-one divisions of the largest list of bona fide prizes ever offered and ever actually given away by any publisher in the world. The total value of prizes in this Spring list is about $10,000 00. The lists are so large it would cost altogether too much to give them in detail here. There are pianos, gold and silver watches, china tea and dinner sets, ladies' and gentlemen's bicycles, silver tea sets, silk dresses, books, money, and hundreds of other valuable rewards. You pay nothing for these prizes, as everyone concedes that full value is received for the dollar in securing TRUTH every week for three months. Send one dollar and answers to the five following questions. Where in the Bible are these words first found: 1, GRAIN; 2, CORN; 3, WHEAT; 4, BARLEY; 5, RYE. If your answers are correct and your letters arrive in time you are almost sure to get a reward, as there are so many and everyone cannot always find correct answers to all these questions. All the five answers must be correct to get any prize but you will get full value for the dollar in TRUTH if you don't get anything else. If you want to see the list of rewards before sending in your dollar, mail TRUTH ten cents and a copy will be sent you containing the list of prizes. But there have been very few dissatisfied prize-winners in previous competitions, considering that he has given away during the past eight years scores of thousands of prizes. Some people expect a piano for every dollar sent, and are mad if they don't get it. He wishes it were possible to give every subscriber a gold watch or a piano or both, but says it can't be done. Some publishers intimate they will, but nobody can do it for any length of time. Send one dollar and correct answers and you wont repent it; and bear in mind that it is not guaranteed that everybody whose answers are correct will get a prize, but that all the prizes in the twenty-one different lists will be given away. The competition remains open only until the last day of June next, inclusive, after which the prizes will be immediately distributed to the successful ones. Ten days will be allowed for letters to reach TRUTH from distant points after the 30th June. All, however, must be postmarked where mailed not later than 30th June, or any time between now and that date. Address S. Frank Wilson, "Truth" Office, Toronto, Ont., Canada.

CHANGE OF BUSINESS

I beg to announce to my late customers that I have sold out my business to Messrs. Hilliard & Peplow, and would bespeak for them the same support as you have accorded me.

C. N. BROWN.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

For some time past we have thought that a strictly cash business in Flour, Feed and Provisions could be successfully carried on in Peterborough, and to test this question we have purchased the above business from Mr C. N. Brown, who will still continue as manager, in Fierville's Old Stand, Simcoe-st.

In order to be successful we intend to make it the interest of every one to pay cash with order by selling at wholesale prices.

We will positively give no credit and cash customers will not have to keep up the losses made by others on the credit system.

We will keep a full supply of

FLOUR, FEED, CHOP, Etc.,

and our customers need not fear that the quality of the goods will be lowered to make up for the reduction in prices.

We are simply giving them the benefit of the margin necessary to cover losses and interest charges incurred in the credit system.

Goods delivered to any part of the town or Ashburnham.

Which Way Is Best?

John Wanamaker pays a man $10,000 a year just to write and superintend his advertising. It pays John.

We are a little more judicious, however. Our plan is to keep the Best Goods and sell them at the Lowest Prices. Instead of giving one man $10,000, we are prepared to put that amount into the pockets of our customers by giving close cash prices every time. You will, of course, say Rowse's way is the best.

We have just opened up our Glasgow purchases. They arrived in excellent order per S. Ss. "Warwick" and "Devonia." The Dress Goods are just lovely. The "Countess A 1" Silks are bound to give satisfaction. We give you beautiful Dress Silks, absolutely pure, for 50c. a yard. The Lace Curtains opened up very satisfactorily. The Linen Tablings and Napkins can't be beat for value.

Remember Rowse's is the only store in Peterborough that can show you a bran new stock.

EVENING
MILLINERY OPENING!
—AT—
TURNBULL'S

We have decided to have a second Millinery Opening this season on Tuesday Evening, April the Seventh, when the store will be kept open and decorated with all the New and Fashionable Goods for this season's trade. Notwithstanding the unfavorable weather, our Show Rooms have been thronged in the afternoons since Thursday, but we feel that there are a great number of ladies who have not been able to get out on account of the weather, which has led us to decide to keep everything on display until after Tuesday evening. The styles this season are such a decided change and unusually pretty. We want all to see them to the best advantage and naturally to leave the impression, that for decidedly New and Cheap Goods, Turnbull's is the right place to go for a large selection. Since our store has been thoroughly renovated, the first thing that strikes you on approaching the George-st. entrance is the white front and large show windows handsomely decorated with Fine Millinery Goods, Printed Challies, etc. too numerous to describe, which is but indicative of the clean stock within and our clean and straight-forward manner of doing business. While passing through the store, even when not intending to buy, you are compelled to stop and price some of the articles on display. Pretty Print Blouses from 50c. each, up to those of Figured Wool Delane at $1.75. Neat Patterns in Light Prints, narrow, but warranted to wash at 5c. a yd. Novelties in Pearl Bead Frillings at 5c. a frill. White embroidered Apron Lawns at 20c. a yd. Cream and White Curtain Nets, Taped Edge at 15c. to 25c. a yd.

Fine Navy Serges for Boys' Wear at 25c., 40c., 50c. a yd.; Handsome Patterns in Tweed at 50c. a yd.; Nice Cream Damask Table Linen at 30c. a yd. Black and Brocaded Flannelettes just suitable for baby at 15c. a yard. You pass the Dress Goods counter in a hurry, but have to ask what that shimmering, shining material is that is hard to describe. Still everybody falls in love with it, and no wonder the manufacturers call it Gloriosa. On reaching the archway leading into the Simcoe-st. store you are struck with amazement and almost think you have got into midsummer and begin to look around for the bumble bees and humming birds among the flowers. Some of the leading colors are the New Shades in Heliotrope and Lavender, French Grey, Buttercup and Black combined. Most of the Bonnets are small toque shapes, flat, and trimmed at the back with pretty little forget-me-not flowers, jewelled ribbon and lace to match. There is something very pretty for children in Leghorn Hats, trimmed with ruchings of Silk and Lace. We have received late this week a Choice Lot of very pretty Shapes in Hats and Bonnets, also the latest in Flowers from Glasgow. These styles will not be shown elsewhere. Come early and select your patterns before they get picked over.

AMID A DOWNPOUR OF RAIN.

3000 People Assemble in Phoenix Park and Listen to Parnell Abuse Gladstone and Other Liberals.

DUBLIN, April 5.—Notwithstanding a steady downpour of rain, fully 3000 persons assembled in Phoenix Park to-day to assist in the demonstration of the Amnesty Association and protest against the continued imprisonment and alleged inhuman treatment of Irish and Irish-American political prisoners by the British Government. After speeches had been made by Mr. Kenny, Mr. Parnell and others resolutions were passed calling upon Irishmen at home and abroad to put forth every effort to secure the release of their friends, and demanding that the Government hasten the unconditional surrender of the prisoners. Mr. Parnell's speech was a tirade against the Liberals, whom he accused of always making political prisoners, while the Conservatives released them. The same thing might occur again and John Daly and others convicted of perjury during the Liberals' tenure of office be liberated by the Conservative Government. "Why," he asked, "did not Mr. Gladstone release these prisoners in 1886? He (Gladstone) did not hesitate to stoop to ascertain the opinion of dynamiters in America as to whether they would accept his Home Rule bill of that year, and even went so far as to receive some of these people at Hawarden. Why did not he release the prisoners at that time?"

Here a voice exclaimed: "Why did not you make conditions," while cries of "Kill him!" "Lynch him!" were heard.

In reply to his question Mr. Parnell declared that the Irish party never made conditions with the Government. The politicians, he said, would rather rot in jail than accept anything but their unconditional release.

Joseph Chamberlain on Home Rule.

PORTSMOUTH, April 5.—Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, speaking at a Unionist meeting last evening, said that many Gladstonians would gladly abandon the policy of Home Rule, but had not the courage to act independently. Home Rule being an impracticable policy, electors should consider from which party they could obtain the best performances. Even if Gladstone were returned to power he could do nothing in the way of promoting social reform, and would first endeavor to set up a rival Parliament in Dublin. Unionists, however, were not so hampered, but were free to continue their reforming labors.

AUSTRALIAN FEDERATION

MEMBERS SESSIONAL ALLOWANCE TO BE 500 POUNDS.

An Elective Senate—England to Have the Final Authority on All Imperial Questions—What the New Commonwealth Will Be.

LONDON, April 5.—The Commonwealth of Australia is almost ready to be born. The Federation Convention, which has been sitting many weeks at Sydney, seems at last agreed on the main features of the constitution. It has agreed, at any rate, upon a name, which may be said to have a strong republican flavor, with a certain ominous memory attaching to it in English history. At the same time, the Sydney Convention affirms its loyalty by providing that the Governor-General of the new commonwealth shall be appointed by the Queen. The great Australian colonies, though ready for union, are not yet ready for disunion. They mean still to remain an integral part of the British Empire. They do, nevertheless, so far break with the present state of things as to propose that the Governors of each separate colony shall be appointed, not as now by the Crown, but as the Parliament of that colony may see fit. They borrow, moreover, from the United States the suggestion of a Supreme Court, which shall be the final appellate tribunal. It does not clearly appear whether this court will have political or constitutional jurisdiction.

The Australian Commonwealth, like the Federal authority in America, will derive all its powers by delegation and surrender from the separate colonies, and there are many other points in which the Constitution of the United States has served them as a model. The organization and distribution of the executive, legislative and judicial powers are strikingly similar. In the main points of the scheme the great majority of the convention seem practically of one mind.

England has hardly woke up to the fact that her Australian colonies are so near passing into a great commonwealth. She will not regret it, still less resist it; but, if the Imperial principle is worth anything, she will take care that, for Australia as for Canada, the ultimate sovereignty and final authority in all Imperial questions shall remain with England.

SYDNEY, April 5.—The Federation convention, sitting in committee, yesterday, was occupied all day in discussing the question of the powers of the Senate with regard to money bills. The clause, as amended, was then passed in the following form: "The Federal Parliament is to consist of a Senate and a House of Representatives, the former consisting of an equal number of members from each colony, to be selected by a system which shall provide for the periodical retirement of one-third of the members, thereby securing to the body itself a perpetual existence, combined with definite responsibility to the electors. The House of Representatives to be elected by districts formed on a population basis, and to possess the sole power of originating all bills appropriating revenue or imposing taxation.

SYDNEY, N.S.W., April 5.—The Australian Federation convention had adopted the provisions of the constitution regulating the powers of the Parliament and fixing the pay[illegible] the provision that all appropriation and taxation bills must originate in the House of Representatives.

BULGARIAN TROUBLES.

PRINCE FERDINAND THREATENED WITH DEATH.

The Campaign of Intrigue and Murder Continues—Arrest of a High Russian Official in Sofia—The Czar Notified of the Circumstance

LONDON, April 4.—Russia stands at the bar of Europe accused of a grave crime. The murder of M. Baltcheff at Sofia has again roused general indignation against the half-barbarous empire of the North. Undoubtedly he was killed by mistake. The bullets were meant for M. Stambuloff. So much is admitted. The Prime Minister of Bulgaria is the one man who stands between Russia and the coveted control of the Principality. She and her agents have tried every means—conspiracy, intrigue, diplomacy and intimidation—every means short of murder, to get rid of him, and have failed. Now she has tried murder, and that too has failed. She has murdered the wrong man.

It was known that something was about to happen. Roumania and Servia, both under Russian influence, have of late been swarming with Russian agents and Bulgarian refugees in Russian pay. The notorious Benderoff was there, the man who for his services in betraying and kidnapping Prince Alexander enjoys a Russian pension. Plots against Prince Ferdinand were known to be on foot, but what the plots were nobody had found out. What Europe saw was that at any price short of war and by any means, no matter how base, the Emperor of Russia was resolved to crush the independence of Bulgaria. Anarchy is his favorite method. To create, by artificial means, a condition of anarchy which might serve him as a pretext for interfering in the interest of order; to kill M. Stambuloff; to create a panic in the country; to establish disorder, and then to intervene to depose Prince Ferdinand and to put some Russian tool on his throne—that seemed an extremely promising program. It might all have been carried out in due sequence but for the fact that the assassins, in the darkness of last Friday evening, mistook their man. The Russian liberator has had, therefore, to postpone his appearance on the scene to some more convenient season. Benderoff, meantime, may concoct some fresh plot. Europe, by her leading papers, rightly holds the Czar responsible for him and his acts, but a Czar is not expected to take account of public opinion.

SOFIA, April 4.—Prince Ferdinand and his mother, Princess Clementine, have received letters threatening them with death if they do not leave the country. M. Grecoff has also been threatened with assassination if he does not resign his position as Minister of Foreign Affairs.

Evidence has been received indicating that these threatening missives emanated from an official connected with the Russian embassy in this city. Diplomatic action has been taken in the matter, pending the result of which the suspected official is being held as a prisoner at the Embassy.

The Russian Government censor has ordered the Russian press not to refer to the movements of the troops who are to take part in the manoeuvres on the Polish and German frontier. The manoeuvres are of unusual magnitude.

The Feeling in France.

PARIS, April 5.—President Carnot has decided not to attend the Moscow Exhibition. At the Foreign Office here no credit is given to the reports circulated in London and Berlin regarding the Czar's alleged intention to precipitate a war. On the contrary, the fact is recognised in official circles both here and at St. Petersburg that the Russian army is not yet in a position to begin an aggressive war. It is understood that an entente with France has been arranged for purposes of defence at the present time, and for offensive operations in the more remote future. In the meantime the Czar devotes his energies to the remodeling of the internal administration of the empire. Much must be done internally before Russia will be prepared to face a great European conflict.

Said to Have Been Slain During the Fighting at Manipur.

RANGOON, April 5.—Some natives of Manipur who have arrived here report that Chief Commissioner James W. Quinton, who was taken prisoner at the time of the Manipur massacre, was, together with the party of officers who accompanied him, killed on the first day of the fighting at Manipur.

Further details concerning the capture of Fort Thabat, 12 miles from Manipur, have been received. The British force which carried the works by assault numbered only 80 Indian troops under the command of Lieut. Grant. The garrison of the fort was composed of 900 Manipurs, but the onslaught of the British force was so fierce that the Manipurs fled from their fortified positions in wild disorder.

Information reached here this afternoon that Lieut. Grant's light force of Indian troops is now confronted by a large force of Manipurs, who, in addition to being well armed with rifles, have several field guns. It is feared Grant's force will be annihilated unless reinforcements which have been sent to his assistance are hurried forward.

A despatch has been received from Lieut. Grant in which he says he believes that he is the only European who escaped the recent massacre in the Province of Assam. Strong comments are made here on the blunder of the officials in sending such a small force to Assam. It is further pointed out that the residency was provided with Martini rifles while Commissioner Quinton's escort was armed with Snyder rifles. It was on this account that the ammunition gave out, the supply of cartridges at Manipur being of no use for Snyder rifles.

TORONTO TOPICS

TORONTO, April 6.—Mrs. William Dalmage, wife of a grocer on Queen-street, was fatally kicked by a horse Sunday morning.

The Widow Fitzpatrick, whose lodge at the entrance to Queen's-avenue, in which she has resided for 60 years, is a landmark known to all, died yesterday, aged 84.

E. A. Tomack, in charge of the Toronto agency of George D. Ross & Co., a Montreal drygoods house, has been absent from the city for over two weeks and is believed to have absconded.

Paul Walkermann, an Alsatian, for four months head cook at the Hub Restaurant, Colborne-street, became enamored of the 20-year-old daughter of a Yonge-street hairdresser and the two are said to have eloped.

Dropped Dead on the Stairs.

BOWMANVILLE, April 5.—George Fisher, proprietor of the Station Hotel, dropped dead when coming downstairs about 1 o'clock yesterday morning. Apoplexy is supposed to be the cause.

Makes the Weak Strong

The marked benefit which people in run down or weakened state of health derive from Hood's Sarsaparilla, conclusively proves the claim that this medicine "makes the weak strong." It does not act like a stimulant, imparting fictitious strength from which there must follow a reaction of greater weakness than before, but in the most natural way Hood's Sarsaparilla overcomes creates an appetite, purifies the blood, and, in short, gives great bodily, nerve, mental and digestive strength.

"I derived very much benefit from Hood's Sarsaparilla, which I took for general debility. It built me right up, and gave me an excellent appetite." ED. JENKINS, Mt. Savage, Md.

Fagged Out

"Last spring I was completely fagged out. My strength left me and I felt sick and miserable all the time, so that I could hardly attend to my business. I took one bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it cured me. There is nothing like it." R. C. BRIGOLE, Editor Enterprise, Belleville, Mich.

Worn Out

"Hood's Sarsaparilla restored me to good health. Indeed, I might say truthfully it saved my life. To one feeling tired and worn out I would earnestly recommend a trial of Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. PHEBE MOSSMAN, 99 Brooks Street, East Boston, Mass.

THE JAMAICA EXHIBITION.

An Old Peterborough Boy Stands up for Its Defence in Kingston, Jamaica.

Another old and well-known Peterborough boy, who is also working for the Sun Life down among the equator, has been heard from in the person of Mr. A. B. Ventress, who has many friends in Peterborough and vicinity. The letter is written by Mr. Ventress who is now in Jamaica, West Indies, in defence of the Jamaica Exhibition and Canadian interests therein, and will be read with interest by his many friends here. It is taken from the Gleaner, of Kingston, Jamaica, as follows:

"Is it not about time the Yankee bluster that has been nauseating the Jamaica public for the last few weeks ceased?

"We are told by one that the United States Government could erect at their own expense, and fill a building with exhibits larger than the one now in use for the "Jamaica Exhibition;" by another that the United States will have an exhibition at their own expense here, if the Government of Jamaica will keep the present building in repair and hand it over to them; by still another that a syndicate are ready to buy the building and keep on exhibits; and much more nonsense to the same effect.

"There is always some cause to produce an effect; in this case we have not far to look for the cause, jealousy, ambition, pride, egotism, a diseased brain, bad education, or no education, might be the cause which would make the inhabitant of the United States think his country produces the greatest artists, literati, orators, philosophers, statesmen the world has ever seen, a (fortiori) their products and manufactured goods must surpass; but when the clear sober judgment of others analyse these ebullitions, they find the cause (probably the first assigned reason might apply in this case) and heed not the effects. But when, through misapprehension or lack of thoughtfulness, correspondents and editors take buncum for facts it is time a little light was thrown on the subject.

"The Stations—the self-styled Americans, which has become by tacit consent almost universally accorded as a proper appellation to the inhabitants of the United States. Why not call the inhabitants of Portugal and France Europeans and nothing else? (certainly their names are much further fetched than Stations from States) simply because we desire a term that will be more explicit and less ambiguous. People of any other country than the United States would be content with less than the name of a continent. The inhabitants of Thrace were called Thracians. Why should not those of the United States be called Stations? All Canadians, Mexicans, Brazilians, Peruvians, Jamaicans, etc., are Americans, hence I discard the term as ambiguous and insufficient.—The Stations, then, like to think they stand first in everything, and when they see themselves outdone, as in the present instance by the Canadians, they simply get angry, hence the filibustering of the last few weeks.

"Canada has made a good showing at the Exhibition, one that is a credit to herself, and an honor to Jamaica in that it shows the interest Canadians take in their sister colony. The people of the United States take little interest in the Exhibition; their Government take none. A good trade is already established with the United States. Those who have control of that trade did not want other goods from the same country to come into competition with theirs. And those Stations who have had the courage to come here in face of the cold shoulder of their Government deserve every commendation, but that is no reason why they and others here should insult the intelligence of Jamaicans by such extravagant assertions as we have heard.

"No one doubts that the United States could build and run an exhibition here, so could Germany, Russia, and many other countries; but they have not signified their intention of doing so nor has the Government granted the necessary funds. Neither has the Government of the United States done so; nor has even one representative had the temerity to broach the subject in Congress. Canada alone applied for more space than the entire building as originally planned, so they (the Stations) would not be doing much by filling a larger. Nothing has transpired to show that the syndicate is formed or that it is likely to be, for by their own evidence when carefully enquired into, it depends on what Congress would do.

"Suppose for example that the money and exhibits were fourthcoming, what would be a reasonable position for the Government of Jamaica, and the Exhibition Commissioners to take? Would they for one moment think of permitting an Exhibition to be made here by the United States alone; surely not! First it would be an acknowledgment that the United States had been discriminated against in regard to the present Exhibition; while we have been assured by His Excellency, and we believe it true, that such was not the case. Secondly it would be a direct insult to every other country that is exhibiting here, by giving the United States a preponderating, unjust, and undeserved influence over future trade; when the exhibition is supposed to give each a fair chance for success. And what would be the attitude of these countries towards Jamaica in such a case? It would be a direct attempt to trample upon their rights, to nullify the effect of their efforts, to extort an expenditure from them under false pretences. The idea of permitting such an Exhibition is too utterly preposterous to be seriously entertained for one minute.

"Of course Station manufacturers and merchants can buy property here and store or exhibit goods to their own satisfaction; but it is not reasonable to suppose that such action would receive the sympathy or support of the Government or the people, as an exhibition per se.

"Now in all I have said I do not mean disrespect to any Station, many of whom are my warm personal friends; but I fail to see why they should get so much cheap advertising under the cloak of fancied or imaginary wrong, for which they alone are to blame.

"The whole affair is a burlesque in extenso; of which the conduct of the volatile Station, on the evening of 28th ultimo at the Exhibition Hall during the performance of "The Arabian Night," when a compliment was paid his country, he took it as an insult, and used language which with much more propriety might be applied to their own conduct as regards holding another exhibition, is a burlesque in parvo.

"I am, &c.,
"A. B. VENTRESS."

"Kingston, March 4th, 1891.

"P.S.—The object in writing such a letter as this is to encourage and promote attendance at the present exhibition. And to dispel illusions fancifully drawn as to a possibility.

"People of Jamaica! Don't fail to see the present exhibition. There will not be another."

Your distressing cough can be cured. We know it because Kemp's Balsam within the past few years has cured so many coughs and colds in this community. AVENGED HER HONOR.

Fred Bartlett Kills Her Betrayer, Seriously Wounds Two Other Men and Then Blows Out His Brains.

PEMBINA, April 5.—A man named McConnell recently seduced Miss Bartlett, then married another girl. Miss Bartlett's two brothers drove out where McConnell was visiting Saturday, called him out and shot him twice, the bullets entering his body. He ran to the house, and while a man named Hill was attempting to disarm McConnell's assailants he received a ball in the breast and another in the arm. McConnell ran out on the farm and Tom Bartlett started with a friend named Irwin in a buggy after him. Irwin was shot in the groin and afterwards McConnell was hit twice. The Bartlett brothers then returned home and while Tom attended to the horse Fred went to the house and shot himself through the head, dying instantly. Tom has been arrested and it is feared will be lynched. Hill and Irwin are seriously injured and McConnell cannot live.

The Madame Departed.

GUELPH, April 5.—Madame La Mass, the clairvoyant who struck this city on Thursday, has flown at request of the chief constable. When she was informed she would be prosecuted if she did not leave town, she replied that there was not money enough here to induce her to remain.

Near Unto Death, But Rescued.

Mrs. ——, who lives four miles from the city of London, Ont., eight months ago gave up all hopes of ever regaining health and strength. She was a victim of dyspepsia and had suffered untold agonies. A year before she weighed 148 pounds, and was, with the help of a hired girl, able to do the work for a family of nine. Eight months ago she weighed only 96 pounds—a mere skeleton, hopeless, weary, tormented and wishing for death. Two doctors were unable to give her any permanent relief, and both believed that her end was not far off. Her husband still clung to hope, and determined to have her try Paine's Celery Compound, after reading an article referring to it in the London "Free Press." Two bottles were procured at once which the sick wife and mother commenced to use. In ten days the patient showed more strength and the appetite was better. It was observed that she slept more soundly, and secured a greater measure of rest. At the end of three weeks the change was truly gratifying and extremely hopeful. One of the doctors was surprised, but nevertheless pleased at the success. For nearly nine weeks the Celery Compound was constantly used, and the dear mother was again restored to health and strength; she slept well, her appetite was vigorous and healthy, and she was able to once more resume her labors in the household. This is considered one of the most remarkable cures ever effected by any medicine, and demonstrates the great value of Paine's Celery Compound. The above is not by any means an isolated case; hundreds of women in our Dominion have experienced the same grand results from the use of this great Compound.

An Arizona Hustler.

We received a call yesterday from Major Jim Porter, of Deep Cut, who owns the biggest mule ranch in all Arizona, and who will probably be our next Governor. The history of the Major is that of other hustling, energetic men. Failing as a lawyer in Chicago, he came west, killed a man at Cheyenne, bought an old mining claim in Nevada, shot another man in Idaho, ran for Sheriff in Colorado, killed a man at Tombstone, and finally settled down on a ranch at Deep Cut to enjoy the fruit of his labors and take things easy. His case is one which the youths of our country would do well to emulate.—Arizona Kicker in Detroit Free Press.

Some Smart Students.

Professor—"We must change our marking system."

Tutor—"Why?"

Professor—"So many students get 100 per cent. I think there should be something higher and harder to attain—say 150 per cent."

Tutor—"But no man could get more than 100 per cent."

Professor—"Oh, yes, they could. I know several students who know a great deal more than there is to know."

In No Hurry.

Old Gentleman—"My boy, don't you go to school?"

Boy—"Yessir."

"It's long after 9, and here you are playing."

"That's all right. We had a rather late breakfast, and mamma was 'fraid I'd be late, so she wrote me an excuse, and I've got it in my pocket."

REMARKABLE TRAGEDY.

ONE OF THE MOST SENSATIONAL CASES ON RECORD.

A Beautiful Woman Lures a Prominent Banker to Death—His Body Packed in a Box and Shipped to the United States.

NEW YORK, April 4.—The details of a murder which bears a striking similarity to the celebrated Eyraud case at Paris were received from San Jose, Guatemala, yesterday. The case will probably claim the attention of Inspector Byrnes. Carlos Santibanes, one of the most prominent bankers of Guatemala, mysteriously disappeared on Nov. 29. Mr. Santibanes had a habit of carrying large sums of money, valuable diamonds, jewelry, etc., about with him. Friends attached no importance at first to his sudden disappearance on Nov. 29. About the first of February, however, the mystery was entirely cleared up by the confession of the murderer of Santibanes while under the influence of liquor. On that day Carlos Cardenas, a merchant of San Jose, was accosted on the street by a Spaniard named Gonzales who lived in the outskirts of the town. Gonzales showed a beautiful topaz ring, and asked him to make an offer for it. Mr. Cardenas saw that the ring was a valuable one, and at once suspected foul play. On the pretence of closing a bargain he invited Gonzales to accompany him to a neighboring liquor store. Cardenas and Gonzales seated themselves at a table and drank together several times; Gonzales discoursing on the qualities of his ring, which he seemed extremely anxious to sell. Cardenas examined the ring closely, and recognized it as belonging to his friend Santibanes. Cardenas, who had been an intimate friend of Santibanes, concluded that Gonzales was in possession of facts that might explain the disappearance of Santibanes, and determined to get the Spaniard under the influence of liquor, and, if possible, extort a confession from him. Mr. Cardenas made an offer for the ring, which was accepted. He detained Gonzales and succeeded in getting him intoxicated. Gonzales became confidential after a time and told Mr. Cardenas a story that almost turned the gentleman's blood cold. Gonzales said that he knew that Banker Santibanes continually carried large sums of money about him and he resolved to murder and rob him, and to cover up the crime in such a manner that detection would be absolutely impossible. He resolved to secure more money than the banker usually carried with him, and about Nov. 25 wrote to the banker stating that he had a number of bills of exchange on American banks which he wished to dispose of advantageously and requested the banker to call at his house in the outskirts of San Jose on Nov. 29 for the purpose of inspecting them. He also requested Santibanes to come prepared to pay for them as he was about to leave the country. Santibanes answered the letter in person on the 29th by going to the house of Gonzales "where his knock was answered," said Gonzales, "by my mistress, a most beautiful woman, who asked him to wait a little as her husband was not in at the time." Then the Spaniard described with great enthusiasm how the supposed Mrs. Gonzales entertained the wealthy banker and got him completely under her control. When Mr. Santibanes was kissing the woman Gonzales and another Spaniard rushed into the room and assaulted the banker with knives, Gonzales doing most of the stabbing while his mistress and his companion held the unfortunate man down to the floor. When life was extinct they removed all his valuables. Gonzales then put the horribly mutilated body into an air-tight chest and a few days later shipped the box to the United States.

This startling confession was immediately followed by the arrest of Gonzales, his friend and his mistress. Gonzales and his assistant will undoubtedly be hanged, while the mistress of Gonzales will probably be imprisoned for life.

The affair has created great excitement in San Jose. It is said to be the most brutal murder ever committed in Guatemala.

Destructive Fire.

Gilmour's auger, bit and tool factory damaged. The losses: File & Spring Company, loss $33,000, insurance $9000; bell factory, loss $14,000, insurance $3500; hat factory, loss $3000.

Guilty of Manslaughter.

LONDON, April 5.—In the Metcalfe murder case of the Queen v. Robert Murray the jury returned a verdict of manslaughter with strong recommendation to mercy. Sentence deferred.

FOXES AND WOLVES PLENTIFUL.

Reynard Very Numerous this Year—33 1-2 Inches High.

BOBCAYGEON, April 5.—Mr. W. Oliver of North Harvey being aware that foxes were in his neighborhood laid out some tempting baits well saturated with an ingredient that is not entirely conducive to longevity. The following morning when he went out he was surprised. The slain were scattered around in all directions, and he gathered in no less than ten foxes. Some of them were very large, and the skins were in good condition. Foxes are quite numerous this year and the farmers are turning in many an odd dollar by catching them.

BRUSSELS, April 5.—Arthur Brook, who resides near Belgrave station, while driving through the bush on Henry Brandon's farm saw a female fox. He went to the house and secured a gun and shot her. While he was absent for the firearms Mother Reynard had gone to her home close by and removed her family of four babies, whose eyes were not yet opened, to a brush pile for greater safety, it is supposed. Their hiding place was found, however, and they were carried to Mr. Brook's house. A female hound in possession of the proprietor, who had had her puppies recently taken from her, adopted the little "chicken hunters" and is caring for them in good style.

NEWARK, April 5.—Our champion fox-hunter has ceased from his labors after slaying 11 of the varmints.

SELKIRK, April 5.—Mr. Nesson of Bad Throat shot at his door the other day a wolf weighing 150 pounds. It stood 33½ inches high and measured 5 feet 11½ inches from nose to root of tail, and the tail was 16 inches long. Mr. Nesson says it is the largest wolf he ever saw. Several of these animals have been visiting the neighbors' houses and killing their dogs. Three dogs were eaten up on the river in one day. Mr. Quesnel saw three very large wolves while going to English River. They came within 50 feet of his sleigh, and the oxen were so frightened that they ran away, tearing the sleigh to pieces, and he had to mount an oxback. A report from Sand River says that six wolves attacked Mr. Norbert and followed him two miles. He says they kept within 150 feet of him all the way, and he was so frightened that his hair actually lifted his cap off his head. He said he knew of two hunters being kept up in a balsam tree two days by 16 wolves at the foot of the tree. It appears they dropped their guns in order to get out of the way of the wolves. They managed to kill four some way and the rest ate the dead ones. At Rice River a pack of wolves was seen a few days ago. Two young lads were out getting wood with a dog and sleigh. While going to the house one wolf came along and ate the dog out of the harness. The two boys escaped while his wolfship was engaged at his feast. They had been about 75 men around him, and they are very large.

The "General" in Trouble Again.

"General" Tighe spent Sunday in the cells, where he was locked up on a charge of assaulting his mother. At the police court this morning he said he supposed he assaulted his parent, but he was drunk at the time and did not remember anything about it. The magistrate fined him $5 or ten days in gaol.

An Assault Case.

David Stephenson, who was charged with assaulting Thos. Hetherington, appeared at the police court this morning. He pleaded guilty, but said that Hetherington had attacked him with a stick before he slapped him on the face. The magistrate took a lenient view of the case and allowed him to go under suspended sentence.

The Revival Work.

The revival services which have been conducted in the George-st. Methodist church during the last two weeks by Rev. Mr. Bates, are to be continued this week. The services have been attended with most encouraging results, and large audiences are expected at the meetings this week, which will be of unusual interest.

The Dog Must Die.

The Magistrate this morning heard the additional evidence in regard to the biting of Patrick Lavery by a dog owned by Mrs. Stenton. The little girl who was called knew the dog and had seen it bite the boy. She did not call the animal a quiet one, but said it was rather savage. After many questions the Magistrate passed the death sentence on the dog, ordering the police to shoot it.

Gas That Went to Waste.

Last night the immense gasometer which stands in the yard of the gas house overturned by the miscarriage of some of the machinery. The huge tank holds about 40,000 cubic feet of gas, and when it fell on its side two holes were knocked into it, and the gas began escaping at a terrific rate. The holes were finally stopped up, but not before nearly half, about 20,000 cubic feet, of the gas had escaped. The igniting of the gas would have caused a terrible explosion.

Death of Mr. Henry Read.

The death of Mr. Henry Read, which took place in Montreal on Saturday, will be a matter of much regret to his many friends in Peterborough. Deceased's life has been in the balance for sometime, and his demise will not be a surprise. He was for many years Secretary of the Midland railway. When the amalgamation of the Midland with the Grand Trunk took place, Mr. Read was transferred to Montreal, where he has ever since occupied a responsible position in the service of the Company. He was very popular with all with whom business brought him in contact, and among the G.T.R. officials and the general public he was held in the highest esteem. The funeral will take place from the residence of his brother-in-law, Mr. Wm. Simpson, Port Hope, on Tuesday, at 2 o'clock p.m.

THE SPRING ASSIZES OPENED.

The Grand Jury and His Lordship's Address—One Criminal Case.

The Spring Assizes opened here at the Court House at one o'clock this afternoon, Justice McMahon presiding. Among the members of the bar present were:—Messrs. D. W. Dumble, R. M. Dennistoun, J. Green, E. B. Stone, John Burnham, Q.C., M.P., C. W. Sawers, W. H. Moore, C. J. Leonard, W. R. Riddell, Cobourg, D. Burke Simpson, Bowmanville.

The ceremony of presenting the white gloves to His Lordship was prevented by a criminal case which was placed on the calendar since Saturday. A man by the name of Fox is indicted for arson, it being alleged that he set fire to a school house in Asphodel, an inquest to inquire into which was held by Dr. Bell, coroner, some months ago.

THE GRAND JURORS.

The Grand Jury was called and sworn as follows:—

John Carnegie, foreman.

T. P. Attrill,

HIS LORDSHIP'S ADDRESS.

His Lordship addressed the Grand Jury briefly. He said it was a great pleasure for him to congratulate them as representatives of this county on the lightness of the docket at this assizes. There was no one in gaol awaiting trial, but he understood they would be called upon to consider a charge of arson against a man who was charged with setting fire to a school house in the township of Asphodel. He explained to the jury the nature of the charge of arson, went into the manner in which they were to consider the case, and told briefly the circumstances of the alleged offence. While this would be the only case, he said there were one or two other matters to which he wished to call attention. He then referred to the amended law governing certain offences. He did this, he said, to allow any of them who might be connected with the magistracy to become acquainted with changes in the statutes. The jury then retired, and the case of Leonard vs. The Town of Peterborough was taken up without a jury. W. R. Riddell, of Cobourg, and D. W. Dumble appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. E. B. Edwards for the corporation.

Arrested for Till-Tapping.

Mr. Geo. Cochrane, County Constable, went down to Keene on Saturday and arrested and brought here a young lad by the name of W. Robinson, who will have to stand his trial on a charge of larceny. It is alleged that the lad has been till-tapping in the village. He acknowledges having taken money from the till in Mr. English's store. He came up before County Magistrate Edmison this morning and was remanded until to-morrow afternoon for trial.

Persona.

Dr. Crevier, V. S., has received notice that he has been recommended to the McGill University Board for the graduate's degree, D. V. S. The name of the McGill veterinary school has been changed to the Faculty of Comparative Medical and Veterinary Science.

The Lindsay Post says:—"Mr. J. T. Curran, G. T. R. train despatcher here, has, we regret to learn, been compelled to resign his position in consequence of ill health, and will try Colorado air for a time. He left town Wednesday for Peterborough, where he will remain a short time before taking his departure." Mr. Curran's failing health will be regretted by his Peterborough friends, who will join in hoping that he will speedily be restored to physical vigor.

A New Milk Depot.

Mr. G. A. Howson has opened a milk depot in the second store in the new market building and now has everything ready for supplying milk and cream of the best quality. The store has been neatly fitted up especially for this business. There is an office at the front, a counter and good shelf accommodation. A large refrigerator, 4 by 8 feet and twelve feet high, stands near the centre in which the milk and cream is kept. The milk is all most carefully cared for. It is strained twice and aerated on the farms, and upon delivery at the depot is again strained and aerated, so that the milk is absolutely pure. The milk is received into a tank and run down through the aerator and then bottled at a low temperature and placed in the refrigerator. In the milk rooms there will also be apparatus for seasoning the milk for making butter, which will be churned and the product, butter and butter-milk, sold. A delivery will be kept to deliver the milk in sealed bottles or in cans to any part of the town, and also the sweet extracted milk and cream. Mr. Howson has arranged with dairymen in Otonabee, Cavan and Smith for a supply of 800 quarts a day, and has facilities for handling 1,000 gallons. The milk rooms are connected with the Bell Telephone system, the number being 216. Neat stalls have also been arranged in the store for a restaurant business in the summer.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used by millions of mothers for children teething for over fifty years with perfect success. It relieves the little sufferer at once, produces natural, quiet sleep by freeing the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste, soothes the child, softens the gums, allays pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

THE WOMEN'S INFLUENCE

REV. MR. MAXWELL SPEAKS OF IT IN MISSIONARY WORK.

Anniversary Missionary Services at the George-st. Church—A Platform Meeting and Song Service—Address by Mr. J. J. McLaren, Q.C., of Toronto—Rev. Mr. Maxwell Makes a Vigorous Address.

Once a year special missionary services are held in the different churches when the theme for the Sunday services is mission work and Christian labors among the heathen. Yesterday was the anniversary missionary Sunday at the George-st. Methodist church and the services were of a most interesting character. Rev. W. J. Maxwell, of the Central Methodist church, Toronto, was here to preach the special sermon in the morning, while in the evening the rev. gentleman and Mr. J. J. McLaren, Q.C., of Toronto, gave addresses at a platform meeting which was held in the church.

Rev. Mr. Maxwell is a large man with a powerful voice and in his preaching and speaking he has many of the characteristics of language and illustration that is usually called American. In the morning he delivered a forcible discourse on missionary work and the church's duty in regard to that important work.

A PLATFORM MEETING.

In the evening the most important service was held when the usual order of proceedings was departed from and a platform meeting and song service was held. Rev. Mr. Locke, the pastor, Rev. G. H. Davis, Rev. Mr. Maxwell and Mr. J. J. McLaren, Q. C., were seated on the platform. Rev. Mr. Davis conducted the opening services.

THE WORK AND THE WORKERS.

Rev. Mr. Locke, after an anthem had been rendered, made a few remarks, giving a few figures from the annual missionary report of the Methodist church. From this report there were 408 missions, 371 missionaries and 39,724 members of Methodist domestic missions. In India there were 47 missions, 35 missionaries and 4,264 members of India missions. There were 9 French missions, 6 missionaries and 299 members. In the Chinese mission in British Columbia there were 4 missions, 2 missionaries and 104 members. In Japan there were 19 missions, 24 missionaries, 27 native preachers, 14 teachers and a membership of 1686. These made a total of 447 missions, 436 missionaries and 45,995 members of Methodist missions. There was an income for all these services of $220,000 during the past year, an increase of $5,000 over last year. The George-st. congregation had contributed $519.12 of this, which was not equal to previous years. He hoped that this year they would increase the contribution by $120 and bring it up to past years. He called attention to the Sunday school contributions and returned thanks on behalf of the congregation and the Missionary Society to those Christian ladies who had collected this amount.

A Q. C.'S MISSIONARY ADDRESS.

Mr. McLaren was then introduced and gave an address which was full of missionary interest. He is a member of the Central Missionary Board and in that capacity has possession of details and particulars of mission work which never see the light of day through the press. Much of this information he gave to his audience. He referred to the deep interest he took in the work and the duty he felt was his to always respond to invitations to give addresses at missionary meetings when it was possible. He lauded the prudent and economical management which had characterized the Methodist missionary society, spoke of the rapidity with which the domestic missions became self-sustaining, and then dwelt upon the missionary work among the French Canadians in Quebec. He had been born in that Province and knew whereof he was speaking. He told of the condition of the French Canadians under the ecclesiastical rule of Quebec, how Protestants were affected and commended the mission work in that Province as a great national work which was being done in a catholic spirit. In concluding he spoke of the work in Japan and the volunteers the Society had for the founding of a mission in the interior of China.

A VIGOROUS ADDRESS.

Rev. Mr. Maxwell followed after a collection had been taken up. His address was a vigorous one, many of his characteristic utterances causing an audible smile to pass over the vast congregation. He began by saying that man belonged to a fallen race which had been redeemed by the precious blood of God's son. To know this blessing they must hear of it and believe in the Lord Jesus Christ. They were enjoying the privileges of this redemption, and yet how many there were who had never had a chance to choose between Christ and something else. He did not think the church's work was to build grand churches and institutions, but it was to make the world hear this news and have the story brought to them with living fire and by a heart warmed of Christ, the Son of God, the world's Saviour, the Sinner's intercession, and the coming Christ. Speaking further of the kind of men who were wanted for mission work, he said he once thought of entering the field in Japan, and had asked the Board "What chance is there for a second-rate Irishman like myself, with a little love for souls, a little love of God, and a little common sense." The reply was, "The Missionary Society has disgraced itself enough already by sending such nincompoops to Japan." Naturally, the speaker said, he gave up the idea of being a missionary. The world must be taught with evangelistic fire, and he had confidence in God's plan of evangelizing the world, which was by preaching or talking. The rev. gentleman referred to the North-west Indians who were to be found in our own Canada, and said there would be more church people who would ask "Will the heathens go to Heaven?" "Quicker than you will," said the speaker, "and you will not be there to welcome them either, for if you talk that way you will never go there." It was beneath them to ask if the heathen would go to hell. The poor Indians

HAD A HELL ON EARTH,

and he did not believe any hell could be worse than they had here. It was never intended, he said, that the year 1891 should strike this old world and find three-quarters of it in heathendom. Christ's purpose was that the world should be belted sooner, but a sleeping church had fallen a millennium and a half behind in its work. He asked if it would take 1800 years to send a proclamation of Queen Victoria's over the world, and estimated that Her Majesty's message would travel the globe in twelve days. Lastly he spoke of the hope or encouragement they had in the work. He had hope because the women had taken hold of it. Anything the women took hold of was sure to be carried out. The women were the creators of public sentiment. Three men would die and not make as much noise as a woman would in fainting. They were the creators of public sentiment. The hand that rocked the cradle ruled the world. The church only wanted the baptism of the Holy Spirit and heavenly fire, and the telling of the news to the whole world was only a question of a few days. In speaking of giving, he told of an incident of a lad in his congregation who had saved a cent a day for missionary work, and also of a rich neighborhood where the farmers all lived in fine brick houses, whose total contributions were only, according to the report, $16.42. Rev. Mr. Locke had said the report was a healthy one, but he thought it was the sickliest thing he had ever seen called a report, as far as the money part was concerned. "Why," he said, "a respectable lot of hens would cackle out more than $16.42 in a year, if the McKinley bill did not spoil their business." He spoke of reading novels, "stepping off the latest dance," as cussed nonsense, and said there was enough of God's money lying round to evangelize the world in twenty years. After making an appeal to the congregation to bring their subscriptions up, he closed with a beautiful reference to the missionary work of the last seventy years.

At the close subscriptions were taken for the Missionary Society, and the service closed.

The singing portion of the service was good, the choir sustaining in the several pleasing anthems that high reputation they have attained under the leadership of Mr. Seward.

The Street Railway.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—A few months ago, it was announced in the REVIEW that we were to have an Electric Street Railway, work on which was to be commenced early in the spring. It is to be hoped that there is some prospect of this being carried out. Can you inform your readers what is being done in the matter? Surely there can be no hesitation on the part of the gentlemen forming the company, as to the success of such a scheme. I presume they have in their minds the proposed routes for the first lines to be laid so that it would be unnecessary for any one else to make suggestions.

But so long as the essential object of such a scheme is kept in view (a means of transport between the centre of the town and the suburbs), then they may be sure of public patronage.

House rents and taxes are steadily increasing as elbow-room and fresh air are decreasing. Business men, professional men and mechanics are even now finding it cheaper and healthier to live in the suburbs. This however is inconvenient for want of rapid communication, which would be remedied by means of the proposed railway. It will be cheaper for all to ride than to walk, because the cost of travelling by car will be more than compensated for by low rents and taxes, and better health.

As a correspondent recently writing to the REVIEW very truly puts it, we are surrounded by beautiful hills, all of which offer delightful and healthy building sites, but are as yet merely farm lands, except where occupied by the wealthier class of our citizens, but would very soon become occupied by townspeople, for reasons given above.

The writer is in no way connected with the real estate business, being a humble working citizen, but would gladly share in the benefits to be derived from the existence of a suburban railway.

Let the P. E. S. Railway be constructed at once.

Yours truly,
PETERBOROUGH.

Coughing

IS Nature's effort to expel foreign substances from the bronchial passages. Frequently, this causes inflammation and the need of an anodyne. No other expectorant or anodyne is equal to Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It assists Nature in ejecting the mucus, allays irritation, induces repose, and is the most popular of all cough cures.

"Of the many preparations before the public for the cure of colds, coughs, bronchitis, and kindred diseases, there is none, within the range of my experience, so reliable as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. For years I was subject to colds, followed by terrible coughs. About four years ago, when so afflicted, I was advised to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral and to lay all other remedies aside. I did so, and within a week was well of my cold and cough. Since then I have always kept this preparation in the house, and feel comparatively secure." —Mrs. L. L. Brown, Denmark, Miss.

"A few years ago I took a severe cold which affected my lungs. I had a terrible cough, and passed night after night without sleep. The doctors gave me up. I tried Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which relieved my lungs, induced sleep, and afforded the rest necessary for the recovery of my strength. By the continual use of the Pectoral, a permanent cure was effected."—Horace Fairbrother, Rockingham, Vt.

MONAY, APRIL 6, 1891.

BEATRIX RANDOLPH.

BY JULIAN HAWTHORNE.

Bellingham walked slowly toward Madison square, with Mr. Randolph, among other things, on his mind. Still meditating he turned up Fifth avenue, and before long found himself opposite Mlle. Marana's hotel. It occurred to him that he had never yet called on her in her own apartments, and he resolved to repair that neglect. Accordingly he went to the office and inquired if she were in. The clerk glanced at the key-board and said "Yes" abstractedly. Bellingham got into the elevator and went up.

The passageway, after the bright sunlight of the street, seemed rather dark. Not knowing which way the numbers ran, he remained for a moment where the elevator left him. Just then a door was opened on the right, a gentleman came out, and advanced along the passage toward him. When about ten paces distant, he stopped, turned back, and departed hastily in the opposite direction. But Bellingham had recognised him; it was Mr. Randolph.

The incident made little impression on him, however. He turned to the left, looking for the number, but finding he was going the wrong way he retraced his steps, and presently found himself standing before the door from which Mr. Randolph had just issued. It bore Mlle. Marana's number. He knocked, and Mme. Bemax opened to him. On his inquiring whether the prima donna were engaged, the lady said she would see. So he walked in, and stood by the window, and in a few minutes Mlle. Marana appeared. She greeted him with such evidently spontaneous pleasure that any slight misgiving he may have felt was immediately dissipated.

"I began to think you were never going to come," she said.

"I'm so much out of the way of making calls that I'm surprised to find myself here. You have a great many callers?"

"Well, a good many come, but I see very few—only old friends. And of course," she added, "as I never was in New York before, that is the same as saying I see hardly any one."

"I met a man lately who knows you, I think—Mr. Randolph."

"Mr. Randolph!" She pronounced the name in a changed tone and blushed.

"Alexander Randolph," he repeated, looking at her.

She dropped her eyes. "I—believe—I have heard his name," she said.

Bellingham said no more; he felt dismayed and bewildered. Undoubtedly there was some unpleasant mystery about this fellow Randolph. "Heard his name," indeed! Had not the man been in her company five minutes ago?

"I saw you at the opera last night," remarked the prima donna, recovering herself. Bellingham merely nodded. "Were you disappointed?" she asked falteringly.

"No, I was like the rest of the audience," he replied in a dry tone.

"You are not like the rest of the audience to me," she said, "ever since the first night I have sung to you. I wouldn't tell you, only—I thought you knew it!"

"I know nothing about you," returned Bellingham roughly.

"You speak as if you didn't care to know anything," she said holding up her head.

Bellingham controlled his rising temper. A weaker man would have protected himself by irony or sarcasm, but he said exactly what he thought. "I care more about what concerns you," he said, "than about anything else. But I will not look away when I am being deceived. You and this Randolph are both pretending to be strangers to each other I saw him come out of this room just before I came into it. Do you deny that he was here?"

"He was here," answered she, turning pale.

"There is only one other question. Are you going to marry him?"

This was so unexpected that she laughed. It was a nervous, almost hysterical laugh, it is true, but Bellingham naturally did not understand it. "I am not going to marry Mr. Randolph," said the prima donna, with a heartbroken sense of humor.

"And you will not tell me what your relations are with him?"

"No; they are very peculiar relations," she replied lightly, for she was getting desperate. "You must think what you please—think the worst you can, it makes no difference. I will tell you nothing!"

Bellingham gazed at her fixedly. "I cannot believe that you are a wicked woman," he exclaimed at length. "I don't know how to believe it! Why did you deceive me? I was ready to take it for granted that you were—like other women on the stage. But you made me believe you were pure and innocent. No woman ever acted innocence before as you have done it. You look like innocence incarnate at this moment—at the actual moment you are admitting. What is it you want? I would have asked you to marry me—as soon as I had persuaded myself you loved me. I loved you with all my heart and soul. Did you merely intend to lead me on, and then refuse me, like a common flirt? Or would you have married me and still kept up your relations with—well, I can't talk about it! There is always some motive even in the lightest wickedness, but I can see none in yours—and yours is not light!"

Mlle. Marana was standing erect twisting her lace handkerchief between her hands, her face pale, her eyes wide open, tearless, full of restless light. She never looked at him. It seemed physically impossible for her to do so.

"I have never been spoken to like this," she said, in a faint, panting voice. "Will you leave me, please? Will you leave me?"

Bellingham moved to depart, but he stopped and turned back.

"I have always meant never to be unjust to any human being," said he. "It is impossible that the very love I felt for you may have made me unjust to you. If you can tell me that there is nothing disgraceful in this secret of yours—tell me, for God's sake! Are you what you seem or something else?"

"I am not what I seem!" she cried out passionately; and now she looked at him with a blaze of fierceness in her eyes. "You have doubted me, and that is enough. I will never explain—I will never forgive you! If you are a man do not stand there: go out!"

Bellingham was shaken to the bottom of his soul. The voice and manner with which her every word was uttered seemed to contradict the purport of the words themselves. Even yet he could not but believe her innocent. But there was nothing further for him to do or say. He went out.

He descended the stairs slowly and emerged into the street. It was the middle of the day; the avenue was comparatively deserted. A few carriages were taking their occupants home to luncheon. Bellingham stood on the curbstone, looking up and down, and vaguely wondering what he should do next. By and by it struck him that it would not make much difference which way he went. In no place in the world could he find what he had lost. It was nowhere; it had been annihilated. All that had made life delightful was gone from him, and he was left ironically behind. He had never really possessed it, even; it was a mirage—a phantom, which he had tried to grasp, and it had vanished. But the strangest part of the business—almost ludicrous—was that he remained behind, standing here; alive and well, in the sunshine on Fifth avenue!

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING

EPPS'S COCOA

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette

EVENING
MILLINERY OPENING!
—AT—
TURNBULL'S

We have decided to have a second Millinery Opening this season on Tuesday Evening, April the Seventh, when the store will be kept open and decorated with all the New and Fashionable Goods for this season's trade. Notwithstanding the unfavorable weather, our Show Rooms have been thronged in the afternoons since Thursday, but we feel that there are a great number of ladies who have not been able to get out on account of the weather, which has led us to decide to keep everything on display until after Tuesday evening. The styles this season are such a decided change and unusually pretty. We want all to see them to the best advantage and naturally to leave the impression, that for decidedly New and Cheap Goods, Turnbull's is the right place to go for a large selection. Since our store has been thoroughly renovated, the first thing that strikes you on approaching the George-st. entrance is the white front and large show windows handsomely decorated with Fine Millinery Goods, Printed Challies, etc. too numerous to describe, which is but indicative of the clean stock within and our clean and straight-forward manner of doing business. While passing through the store, even when not intending to buy, you are compelled to stop and price some of the articles on display. Pretty Print Blouses from 50c. each, up to those of Figured Wool Delaine at $1.75. Neat Patterns in Light Prints, narrow, but warranted to wash at 5c. a yd. Novelties in Pearl Bead Frillings at 5c. a frill. White embroidered Apron Lawns at 20c. a yd. Cream and White Curtain Nets, Taped Edge at 15c. to 25c. a yd.

Fine Navy Serges for Boys' Wear at 25c., 40c., 50c. a yd.; Handsome Patterns in Tweed at 50c. a yd.; Nice Cream Damask Table Linen at 30c. a yd. Still everybody falls in love with it, and no wonder the manufacturers call it Gloreste. On reaching the archway leading into the Simcoe-st. store you are struck with amazement and almost think you have got into midsummer and begin to look around for the bumble bees and humming birds among the flowers. Some of the leading colors are the New Shades in Heliotrope and Lavender, French Grey, Butter-cup and Black combined. Most of the Bonnets are small toque shapes, flat, and trimmed at the back with pretty little forget-me-not flowers, jewelled ribbon and lace to match. There is something very pretty for children in Leghorn Hats, trimmed with ruchings of Silk and Lace. We have received late this week a Choice Lot of very pretty Shapes in Hats and Bonnets, also the latest in Flowers from Glasgow. These styles will not be shown elsewhere. Come early and select your patterns before they get picked over.

MANITOBA'S SCHOOL ACT.

TO BE ALLOWED BY DOMINION GOVERNMENT.

Separate Schools in Manitoba and the French Language in the Manitoba Legislature to be Abolished—Several Other Acts Disallowed by the Cabinet.

OTTAWA, April 6.—The Dominion Government has decided to allow the Provincial Act abolishing separate schools, and also an act abolishing French in the Legislature and journals and judicial proceedings, to go into operation. In his report Sir John Thompson says: "It is doubtful whether the Legislature had the power to pass these Acts. The constitutionality of them, however, can be easily tested in the courts by anyone who is interested in the use of the French language in legal proceedings or in the journals of the Assembly, and therefore the prerogative of disallowance has not been exercised." The Minister comments very unfavorably on several bills passed by the Manitoba Legislature in 1890, notably the act respecting The Executive Administration of the Lands of the Province, the Game Act and The Municipal Institutions Act, but the objections raised were not sufficient to have them disallowed. Two acts, however, are said to be especially objectionable. The first is one respecting Contagious Diseases Among Animals. This is said to be ultra vires in part, because it conflicts with trade and commerce, as well as with the authority of Parliament to deal with the subject of quarantine. On these and the other grounds the Act has been disallowed. The other is an act respecting Extra Provincial corporations, which authorized companies incorporated, not of the province, to do business therein, and in effect provides that no institution can transact business in the province except with permission of the Provincial Government and upon payment of a license fee, no matter how enormous the amount, or it may be made prohibitory as the executive council may see fit. This act, it is said, would have the effect of confiscating the Hudson Bay property and be a breach of faith with certain land companies who got Dominion lands for building certain roads and carrying out certain other obligations entered into with the Dominion Government. It has therefore been disallowed.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is on the flood tide of popularity, which position it has reached by its own unequalled merit.

MORE TROUBLE IN INDIA.

SEVERAL OTHER TRIBES OPEN FIRE ON THE BRITISH.

Troopers and Officers Killed—Reinforcements Being Hurried Into the Interior—The Viceroy Hopes to Speedily Crush the Rebellion.

LONDON, April 6.—Sir James Fergusson, Political Secretary of the Foreign Office, in the House of Commons to-day said the recent trouble at Manipur, India, originated in a dispute between the Maharajah of Manipur and the latter's brother, a powerful chieftain. The dispute became so serious that the Maharajah took refuge in the British residency, leaving the state in an extremely disordered condition. Chief Commissioner Quinton met with resistance upon the part of the Maharajah's brother, who commanded the Manipur troops, when Quinton went to Manipur to try to restore order and to reinstate the virtually deposed Maharajah. Sir James said the Viceroy of India, the Marquis of Lansdowne, had telegraphed that he would speedily restore order in the disturbed districts of India.

Further Risings Reported.

CALCUTTA, April 6.—If present indications turn out to be correct, there is very serious trouble brewing in India for the British forces. Emboldened by the success of the Manipurs, who recently crushed the Goorkha escort accompanying Chief Commissioner James W. Quinton in his efforts to settle the disputes which have occurred among the rival chieftains of Assam, the Miranzi in the Kohat territory, a district of the Peshawur division of the Punjab, have risen in arms and are attacking the British troops along the whole length of their lines. It is also known that the Miranzi attack is pushed vigorously and that strong reinforcements have been hurriedly despatched to the frontier. Full details as to this new uprising are withheld by the authorities here.

In addition to this news, telegrams from Rangoon announce that the Haku-Chins laid in ambush in a favorable location awaiting the passage of a small British column on its way from one military post to another. When the British force was well inside the trap the Haku-Chins suddenly opened fire on the soldiers, instantly killing Lieut. Forbes and five men and severely wounding 11 others. This column, however, returned the enemy's fire with such effect that the British force was enabled to retreat from the dangerous position and thus probably escaped annihilation.

Sharp fighting with the rebellious natives continues. The Miranzi rising is extending. Yesterday the 29th Regiment lost nine men killed and four wounded.

KEW AND KENSINGTON.

Close Vote On a Motion in the Commons to Reduce Appropriations for Repairing the Palaces.

LONDON, April 6.—In the House of Commons to-day Henry Labouchere moved a reduction of the item of £10,000 for the maintenance and repair of Kensington Palace, on the ground that the palace was utterly useless and that the country would be the better without that edifice. Labouchere also moved to strike out the item appropriating £425 for the maintenance and repair of Kew Palace, saying that palace was also useless and nobody knew where Kew Palace was or who lived there.

Sir George Otto Trevelyan opposed the motion, saying both Kensington Palace and Kew Palace were historical monuments in which considerable interest was centred.

After further discussion Labouchere's motions were rejected 79 to 51.

Samuel Danks Waddy (Gladstonian) then moved to reduce the item appropriating money for the maintenance and repair of Bushey House, which, he said, was occupied by the Duke of Nemours, a wealthy man. Mr. Waddy claimed it was a monstrous state of affairs which permitted the Duke of Nemours to occupy Bushey House at the expense of the English people. The motion was rejected 85 to 53.

IS PARNELL MARRIED!

LONDON, April 6.—A sensation was caused in the lobby of the House of Commons this evening by a rumor that Mr. Parnell has been privately married since the O'Shea divorce proceedings. According to this rumor the lady whom Mr. Parnell married is not Mrs. O'Shea. Several Parnellites in the House of Commons were interviewed on the subject to-night, but they refused to say more than that the "mystery" of their leader's inner life which has often been referred to recently as certain to clear Mr. Parnell's character will shortly be explained.

What the Miners' Congress is Called.

PARIS, April 6.—The Miners' Congress has been the screaming joke of the city for the past week. Each sitting has ended in a disturbance that culminated yesterday in a free fight. Messrs. Pickard and Burt, the English delegates, returned home, saying that they were discouraged and convinced that the Latin strikers would never walk hand in hand with their English and Teutonic brethren. The congress broke up amid cries of "Vive la Republique!" "Vive la Revolution!"

Killed by a Lioness.

PARIS, April 6.—A menagerie proprietor's daughter of Grenoble, who has been training to become a trainer of wild animals, was fatally injured by a lioness yesterday. The girl had entered a lion's cage for the first time and was immediately attacked by the lioness, which sprang at her throat and inflicted terrible injuries before the girl could escape.

Lorne to Be the First Governor-General.

LONDON, April 6.—The general belief in England is that the British Government will ratify the Australian Constitution, when adopted, with the idea of accepting the inevitable. It is rumored that the Marquis of Lorne will be the first Governor-General of Australia, with headquarters at Sydney.

Another Plot Against the Czar.

LONDON, April 6.—A St. Petersburg correspondent says another conspiracy against the life of the Czar has just been discovered there.

A 'Varsity Substitute Drowned.

BOSTON, April 6.—Adelbert Shaw, a special student in the Freshman class at Harvard University and a promising candidate for the 'Varsity crew, was drowned about 5 o'clock this evening in Charles River by the overturning of the lapstreak boat in which he was out practising. He was a substitute in the 'Varsity football team.

Wedded in Spite of La Grippe.

PHILLIPSBURG, Pa., April 6.—Miss Nora Jolly, daughter of D. A. Jolly of this place, was married yesterday to Dr. J. H. Pipes of Wheeling. Although confined to her bed with grip, the bride would hear of no postponement and the ceremony was performed.

MANY PERISHED.

Nine Persons Burned to Death at Rochester, Pa.—The Horrors of a Tenement House Fire.

ROCHESTER, Pa., April 6.—A large frame structure in New York-street, belonging to John F. Smith, in which were located the tea and coffee store of George Edwards, the millinery store of Mrs. Hall and the shoe shop and residence of B. J. Keene, was burned last night. An Italian family lived over the millinery store. There were ten persons in the building, and the only person who escaped was Mary Tecchio, aged 17, who jumped from the second-story window. The dead: C. J. Keene, aged 40; Walter Keene, his son, aged 9; Baptiste Tecchio, aged 40; Annie Tecchio, aged 33, his wife; Yonsf Tecchio, aged 13; Rosa Tecchio, aged 8; Annie Tecchio, aged 2; Victoria Tecchio, aged 37, brother of Baptiste; Joseph Racena, aged 25.

The rescued girl talks incoherently and seems to remember but little of the fearful struggles of her kinsmen. She says that when she awoke the fire was burning below and their rooms were filled with smoke. She slept in the back room, her mother and the children in the middle room and her father and his brother Victoria Tecchio, and Joseph Racena, both visitors, occupied the front room. Mary tried to rouse her people, but they were already asphyxiated. All the bodies have been recovered. Each is burned beyond recognition. Annie, the baby, had one foot and an arm burned completely off. The others are all fearfully mutilated. It is thought the fire was caused by the explosion of a lamp in Mr. Keene's kitchen. The loss is $6000.

INNOCENCE AND CRIME.

Two Children Frightfully Hack a Baby with a Razor.

WASHINGTON, N.J., April 6.—Mrs. James MacNerney of Karrsville left her three children, aged 8, 7 and 2½, the youngest a girl, at home while she went to the store yesterday. When she returned she found the baby lying on the floor in the kitchen covered with blood. A razor was by its side. The child was not dead, though she was very weak from the loss of blood. Her little face was one mass of cuts and on the neck was a large gash that barely missed the jugular vein. The other children were not to be found for a long while. They were finally discovered in a closet fast asleep, their little hands covered with blood. They explained to their mother that they had been playing barber with the baby, who would not keep still, and so was cut. They became frightened at the blood and hid themselves.

SUICIDE AT MILLBROOK.

A Citizen Cuts His Throat in the Office of His Mill.

MILLBROOK, Ont., April 6.—The residents of this community were greatly shocked about noon to-day to learn that one of the leading citizens, Mr. R. S. Lancashire, committed suicide by cutting his throat. A short time after breakfast he left for his mill again and that was the last seen of him until he was discovered by his partner, Mr. H. McCartney, in the office with his throat cut from ear to ear and the door locked on the inside. Mr. Lancashire was one of the leading citizens, a councillor for the past two years and was in easy circumstances and it is as yet impossible to discover any cause for the rash act.

A MOTHER'S DESPAIR.

A Misused Wife Hangs Herself to a Hook in the Wall—Found Dead by Her Husband.

FREDERICTON, N.B., April 6.—This morning Patrick Murphy, a laborer, having had some words with his wife left the house. Returning shortly after 8 he discovered his wife had twisted a small piece of her child's dress around her neck and fastening it to a hook in the wall had pushed aside the box on which her feet rested. The husband immediately cut her down, but life had departed. It is said Murphy frequently struck his wife and that the deceased made three previous attempts on her life in consequence. She was 21 years of age and leaves one child.

The Brookville Murderer is Allowed to Talk to His 5-year-old Daughter.

PITTSBURG, April 6.—Lucy Fitzsimmons, the 5-year-old daughter of the murderer of Detective Gilkinson, visited her parents yesterday for the first time since the day after they were arrested. The child had been sent to board with a private family and was brought in by her protectors. She is said not to know that her parents are in jail, but to believe her mother is being treated in a hospital for her wounded arm. The matron says the child is wonderfully innocent, although remarkably bright. Among her attainments are a number of gospel hymns. She spent the time passed with her parents yesterday in telling them, particularly her mother, about what she had seen since her separation from them.

The trial of Fitzsimmons will take place in June. His counsel says the stories of a gang of burglars working with Fitzsimmons are all bogus.

The Crushed Cabby Will Turn.

LONDON, April 6.—A mass meeting of cabmen was held at Hyde Park this afternoon. John Burns presided, and in referring to the strike of the drivers of the Shrewsbury-Talbot Company said that it might be necessary to have a cab strike all over the country. Resolutions approving the action of the strikers and pledging support, and another calling upon all drivers of other yards to resist any increase in cab hire from Monday next were carried unanimously. There are great fears of a general strike and the feeling is expressed that the cabbies are harshly treated.

A Pin in His Throat.

NEW YORK, April 6.—Peter McCabe was assisting his wife to dress their children preparatory to taking them out. He placed several pins in his mouth. He was taken with a fit of coughing, during which one of the pins went down his throat. The physicians found that the pin had become lodged across the throat channel. The chances for McCabe's recovery are very slim, as the physician will be compelled to force the pin into the lungs and take chances of its passing through without serious injury.

212 Natives Executed.

ROME, April 6.—General Baldissera testified before the commission inquiring into the alleged assassination of natives at Massowah that 212 natives were executed under the Italian Government's instructions during his regime in the Massowah Colony.

Trouble Feared in Poland.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 6.—The Ministry of War has ordered that the effective strength of the troops in Volhynia be doubled before the Russian Easter.

The St. Augustine Gas Works at St. Augustine, Florida, were burned this morning. The fire was caused by the giving away of the sealed door in the tank holding the deodorized water while it was being charged with illuminating power from kerosene. Several men had miraculous escapes from death. Loss $25,000.

CONFERENCE POSTPONED.

THE PRESIDENT WISHES TO ATTEND RECIPROCITY NEGOTIATIONS

And the Reciprocity Conference is Postponed Until Harrison Returns from His Vacation—The Ministers Leave for New York.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Sir Charles Tupper, Canadian High Commissioner to England; Hon. George E. Foster, Minister of Finance; Sir John Thompson, Minister of Justice, and C. C. Chipman, Sir Charles Tupper's private secretary, reached Washington at a late hour last night from Ottawa. The object of their visit was to call by appointment on Secretary Blaine and informally discuss with him the propositions embodied in the letter from Lord Stanley, Governor-General of Canada, to Lord Knutsford, Imperial Secretary for the Colonies. The propositions were:

1. The renewal of the reciprocity treaty of 1854 with such modification as will suit the altered circumstances of both countries.

2. The reconsideration of the treaty of 1888 with respect to the Atlantic fisheries, with the aim of securing free admission into the United States markets of Canadian fishery products in return for facilities to be granted the United States fishermen to buy bait and supplies and to tranship cargoes in Canada, all such privileges to be mutual.

3. Protection of mackerel and other fisheries of the Atlantic Ocean and inland waters.

4. The relaxation of the seaboard inland coasting laws of the two countries.

5. Mutual salvage and saving of wrecked vessels, and

6. An arrangement for settling the boundary between Canada and this country.

Accompanied by Sir Julian Pauncefote, the ministers called on Secretary Blaine at his home, just before noon. Their stay lasted but a few minutes. Returning to their hotel they announced that they were to leave Washington in a few hours. As social engagements had been made by members of the party that indicated a purpose to stay in Washington at least a week, the news of their intended sudden departure caused some surprise. This was set at rest, however, by a statement from Sir Charles Tupper, who said he visited Secretary Blaine last Thursday and was cordially received. He explained the desire of the Canadian Government to lay the foundation for negotiations that should broaden the trade relations between the Dominion and the United States. Secretary Blaine met the proposal favorably, and Sir Charles returned to Ottawa to report the result to his Government and to secure the presence in Washington to-day of Messrs. Thompson and Foster, Secretary Blaine having arranged to receive them. Subsequently Secretary Blaine learned that the President desired to be present when negotiations were undertaken, and his projected southern and western trip would not admit of that if the negotiations were to proceed at once. Accordingly Secretary Blaine informed Sir Julian Pauncefote that a postponement would be desirable, and the Minister so telegraphed Sir Charles Tupper at Ottawa, but the party had started for Washington before the telegram was received and was not informed of the change of program until this morning. Sir Charles Tupper says Sir Julian Pauncefote will notify the party when to return to Washington, which will be as soon as the President can conveniently give his attention to the negotiations. After the interview with Secretary Blaine this morning the party called at the White House and left their cards for the President.

Sir Charles Tupper and Messrs. Foster and Thompson left for New York this evening.

LONDON TOWNSHIP MURDER.

It Was the Culmination of a Feud of Long Standing.

LONDON, April 6.—Further particulars of the murder of Benjamin Hubbard, an employe of Geary's dairy farm, 6th concession of London township, by Charles Hodges, the foreman, show that the two men had been on unfriendly terms for a year past, as the result of a previous quarrel. On Sunday afternoon the two men engaged in a dispute in a milk house, but who started it will never be known. The prisoner claims the deceased called him names and caught him by the whiskers, and that in self-defence he struck Hubbard in the breast with his fist and he fell off the landing face downward upon a pile of manure. Hodges denies that he used a knife or that he had one, although when Dr. Hutchinson examined the body he found a knife wound below the heart, which had either entered the heart or cut some of the vessels leading thereto, and a jackknife, such as might have been used in inflicting the wound, was found in his possession. Hodges took his arrest coolly. He is a married man, 63 years of age, while the victim, who was also married, was aged 40 years.

A Connecticut Lad Dying from Swallowing Tacks, Nails and Iron Filings.

HARTFORD, Conn., April 6.—John Gunn, 18 years of age, is lying at the point of death in the Hartford Hospital as the result of his rapacious appetite for metal filings, screws and nails.

To Father Leary of St. Patrick's Church young Gunn related that about two years ago he went to New York on a visit, and while there dropped into a dime museum on the Bowery. The curiosity which most attracted his attention was the "Human Ostrich." The sight of a person swallowing nails, bits of old iron, etc., filled him with astonishment. He visited the museum often during his stay, and on his return home he resolved to become a human ostrich, too.

He was at that time employed in the Hartford Machine Screw Co. and began his experiments with small bits of iron filings. No evil effects were felt from the first experiment, and Gunn often repeated the feat in the shop for the edification of the boys.

Gunn broke into a store in this city a few months ago and was sentenced to a year in jail. He got hold of some carpet tacks in prison and swallowed them. Pretty soon the tacks gave out and Gunn fed on nails. The doctors say he cannot live many days.

Will Written on the Fly-leaf of a Bible.

WESTMINSTER, Md., April 6.—On the fly leaf of a Bible belonging to the late Miss Mamie McKinstry of this county, who died several months ago, the following, written in lead pencil in her handwriting, has been discovered: "$2500 for the Western Maryland College, $1000 of it is to be given to the Theological Seminary; $1500 towards hall; the $5000 to be given to the [illegible]." This was signed and dated July [illegible]. The paper has been filed by her brother in the Orphans' Court.

Killed Himself at His Daughter's Grave.

SAVANNAH, Ga., April 6.—[illegible], the cashier of the Merchants' National Bank of this city, blew his brains out this morning at his daughter's grave in Laurel Grove Cemetery.

King of Medicines

A Cure "Almost Miraculous."

"When I was 14 years of age I had a severe attack of rheumatism, and after I recovered had to go on crutches. A year later, scrofula, in the form of white swellings, appeared on various parts of my body, and for 11 years I was an invalid, being confined to my bed 6 years. In that time ten or eleven sores appeared and broke, causing me great pain and suffering. I feared I never should get well.

"Early in 1886 I went to Chicago to visit a sister, but was confined to my bed most of the time I was there. In July I read a book, 'A Day with a Circus,' in which were statements of cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla. I was so impressed with the success of this medicine that I decided to try it. To my great gratification the sores soon decreased, and I began to feel better and in a short time I was up and out of doors. I continued to take Hood's Sarsaparilla for about a year, when, having used six bottles, I had become so fully released from the disease that I went to work for the Flint & Walling Mfg. Co., and since then on account of sickness. I believe the disease is expelled from my system, I always feel well, am in good spirits and have a good appetite. I am now 27 years of age and can walk as well as any one, except that one limb is a little shorter than the other, owing to the loss of bone, and the sores formerly on my right leg. To my friends my recovery seems almost miraculous, and I think Hood's Sarsaparilla is the king of medicines." WILLIAM A. LEHR, 9 N. Railroad St., Kendallville, Ind.

The Ashburnham Councillors Meet—Accounts Paid—Petitions, etc.

The Ashburnham Council met last evening with the Reeve and all the Councillors present. A lively session was held, there being considerable discussion over a petition that had been sent in, and also complaints regarding floods. A large number of ratepayers and others were present, nearly all the visitors' seats being occupied. After the minutes of the last meeting had been read and confirmed, the following accounts were ordered to be paid:

PETITIONS.

A petition, largely signed by ratepayers, was sent in to the Council requesting that no change be made in the Butchers' License By-law. Mr. Gould was heard, and said he thought it unfair to allow peddler butchers to sell meat in the village without a license. Some heated arguments were made on the question, but it was laid over until the Reeve could see a copy of the town by-law, which Mr. Gould was willing to go by.

Messrs. J. Munro, Clark and McGregor sent in a claim for $27.00 for work done on culverts from Stewart to Douro-st. After each of these gentlemen made his statement, and the matter had been discussed, it was moved by Mr. Calcutt, seconded by Mr. Craig,—That Messrs. Wand, Throop and Craig be a committee to enquire into the claim for opening culverts and report at the next meeting.—Carried.

Mr. John Bogan asked the Council to supply him with material for shelving, etc., for a shop in the new Town Hall building. He is a cripple, and he claimed he should receive help in that way on account of his condition, but the Council thought it might cause a feeling of jealousy among others and therefor did not grant the request.

Mr. Smith, on the Ledgate property, asked for a culvert on the street passing his house. This was ordered to be attended to.

BOARD OF HEALTH.

Moved by Mr. CALCUTT, seconded by Mr CRAIG,—That the Board of Health for the year 1891 be composed of the Reeve, Town Clerk, John T. Wright R. Tivey, and Stewart Wright.—Carried.

STREET CLEANING.

Mr. CRAIG brought up the matter of scraping the streets and Mr. THROOP moved, seconded by Mr. CRAIG,—That Elizabeth-st. be scraped as soon as it is thought fit.

The Council then adjourned.

A Little Child Shall Lead Them.

Quite recently a little girl of eleven summers, the daughter of a Montreal merchant, was the means of directing to the fountain of health a well known lady of that city. The little girl, accidently hearing a lady complain to another about her nervous weak condition of headaches, immediately rushed forward and said: "Oh, dear Mrs. ——, won't you take Paine's Celery Compound for your sickness? Susie's mother has been using it, and now she is well and happy."

Mrs. —— was so impressed with the little girl's seriousness and manner, that enquiries were at once made about the matter, and every word was found true. Mrs. —— sent to her druggist for a bottle of Paine's Celery Compound and commenced its use. After using the first bottle she was convinced that she had found the proper remedy for her troubles, and decided to continue its use. In five week's time she was almost as strong as ever before, appetite good, slept well, and had increased in weight. Paine's Celery Compound accomplished all this in so short a time that her friends were truly amazed and surprised.

Ladies, if you suffer as did Mrs. ——, remember that Paine's Celery Compound is able to do the same great work for you.

Someone advertises for "a house girl to assist in washing of a small family" and someone else wants "a gentleman for breakfast and tea." There are wants that can, no doubt, be easily satisfied. It is only fair to assume that in having the gentleman for tea that an accompaniment of the meal will be a cup of Hawley Bros. superior flavored Teas. You provide the boiling water, Hawley does the rest. d76

Some Things About Canoes.

The canoe, to most Peterborough people, is something that they have had a friendly acquaintance with for the better part of their lives. Still there are thousands of folk who take an interest in canoes but who don't know much about the craft. It is for the information of those who desire to extend their knowledge in this direction that a handsome catalogue has been issued by the Wm. English Canoe Co. of this town, and which is now being mailed and distributed. The Wm. English Canoe Co. are the successors to the late Wm. English, and have bought the plant, good will of business, etc., Mr. S. W. English, manager. The new firm will sustain the world-wide reputation gained by Mr. English as a builder of canoes of the best and most serviceable class, and propose to extend the lines of manufacture, as announced in the catalogue. The handsome frontispiece is a plate made from a photograph of a hunting party and the burthen the canoes are carrying speaks well for the capacity of the English canoe. All interested in canoes or who propose buying one should write for a catalogue, which shows that wide range of style of build, finish and material is offered from which to select. The company will also build "war canoes" and skiffs, and as heretofore, supply paddles, oars, seats, sails and all canoe rigging. The catalogue has been printed at the REVIEW Job Room and is a neat piece of work.

March Weather.

Mr. Thomas Telford writes:—Our last winter month has gone, leaving many things to be remembered, but the most eventful for the Dominion is the great political struggle which we passed through on the 5th of the month, and as all bitter feelings will soon pass away let each party do their utmost to advance the welfare of our country. The three first days felt a little keen, after which to the 24th we had a good amount of snow and rain, both of which were above the average, rain falling on 12 days to the depth of 2 inches and 20-100 of an inch, the severest storm being on the 23rd, from 4 in the morning until 9 in the evening falling 1 inch and 15-100 of an inch. The snowfall for the month was also high, in 13 days reaching 32 2 inches, our severest storm being on the 20th and 21st, falling on the level 11 inches. We always take it for granted, being admitted by experts, that 10 inches of snow is equal to about 1 inch of water, which, if melted, would give 3 25-100 inches, which, if added to our 2.20, would give a grand total of water for the month of 5 45-100 inches. On only four mornings was the thermometer below zero—on the 1st at 8 degrees below, on the 2nd at 4 degrees, on the 6th at 2 degrees, and on the 17th at 6 degrees, leaving the mean temperature of the month at 40 12-31 degrees. We had two severe gales, on the 4th and 5th lasting two days, and on the 13th, 14th and 15th, lasting all the time, only there not being much new fallen snow it did little harm to the roads. There were haloes on 5 days, fog 2 days, and auroral lights on two nights, on the 1st and 11th. Our first crows appeared on the 1st and butterflies on the 20th. The following are the different points from which the wind was blowing at sunrise during the month, namely:—North-west 11 days, north-east 3 days, south 2 days, south-east 5 days, south-west 3 days, west 1 day, north 5 days, and east 1 day.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

TORONTO, April 7.—In the Ontario Legislature yesterday Mr. Tait's bill respecting the examination of stationary engineers and the inspection of stationary boilers was referred to a special committee.

Upon Mr. Waters' motion for the second reading of the bill to amend the Ditches and Watercourses Act Mr. Mowat said that a commission would be issued during recess to investigate the whole question of municipal drainage. In the meantime he had drafted a bill to simplify the assessment of costs under an arbitration. Mr. Waters' bill accordingly was dropped.

Among the bills introduced was one by G. B. Smith to amend the Insolvency Act in order to prevent a person about to become insolvent from making over property to anyone to the disadvantage of creditors.

Mr. Meredith introduced a bill to amend the Judicature Act by providing that in the case of anyone suing for compensation for injuries the judge or referee may order that the claimant shall submit to examination by medical or other experts.

Mr. Davis' bill "respecting the use of velocipedes on public highways," which was printed yesterday, is not so formidable as the bicyclists had feared. The first clause provides that in case any difficulty shall arise from any person using bicycles, etc., on any highway in passing any vehicle or mounted horseman, "it shall be the duty of such person to stop and in every reasonable way to assist such mounted horseman or the person in charge of such vehicle to pass him and proceed in safety." The second clause provides that bicycles, etc., running after dark over any highway shall carry a bright red light in a conspicuous place.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 6.—The 5-year-old daughter of Joseph Sceney was drowned today in an old uncovered well in which there were about 7 feet of water. Two children were out playing and all that is known is that the younger child came running and told her mother that the elder one had fallen in the well. Life was extinct when the body was recovered.

Poison in the Beans.

BUFFALO, April 6.—Mrs. Mary Wayland, who lived at No. 4 Mulberry-street, died from ptomaine poisoning at her house Saturday afternoon. The family had partaken of canned string beans Friday noon and shortly afterward they were all taken violently ill and the mother died before medical aid could be summoned. A post mortem examination showed ptomaine poisoning. Mrs. Wayland recently came to Buffalo with her family from Canada.

Fell from a Trapeze.

ORILLIA, April 6.—Edward Bowes fell from a trapeze in the high school gymnasium Saturday afternoon and fractured his skull.

Notes of Gentle Spring.

The water in the river is rising very rapidly and jams of ice are causing considerable damage. One of the piers at the locks dam had an end torn off it by the ice, and the same slide that was made last year carried away.

The ice on Rice Lake is still in good condition, wheat being drawn over it yesterday.

The swing pier at Wallace's Point bridge is in a very delapidated state and wants re-building.

Mr. Fowlds's logs have broken away, and about 14,000 have gone over the dam, and were caught at Trent Bridge. It is supposed they were let loose by some evil-designed person.

Do You Cough?

Don't delay. Take Kemp's Balsam, the best cough cure. It will cure coughs and colds. It will cure sore throat or a tickling in the throat. It will cure pains in the chest. It will cure influenza and bronchitis and all diseases pertaining to the lungs, because it is a pure balsam. Hold it to the light and see how clear and thick it is. You see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Large bottles 50c and $1.

The report was adopted.

THE HOSPITAL BOARD.

Councillor MOORE recalled the fact that notice of application to the Legislature to add three life members, Messrs. R. Hall, McGill and Jackson, to the Nicholls Hospital Board, had been given, and that the Council resolved to ask that the Town be given three additional representatives. The answer from the Trustee Board was that they would prefer to drop the bill. However, he had not changed his mind in regard to the matter. The Town was deeply interested in the hospital and he thought the Council's request was a reasonable one. Mrs. Nicholls had had no representative on the Board and he did not see why the estate should have three additional representatives.

Councillor DAVIDSON said that the application came from the Trustee Board, not from the gentlemen named in the application. One difficulty was to get a quorum at the meetings, and those gentlemen would always be present. The late Mrs. Nicholls did not know that Mr. McGill, who was Secretary of the Board, was not a member of it. Considering the proportion of the grants to the amount the town would pay the town had fair representation.

Councillor KENDRY said that the expenses of the institution might grow, and the town would have to provide the funds. He believed for that reason the town should have larger representation on the Board.

The MAYOR said he did not see why they should insist on larger representation, for he did not think they would be called on any longer to provide money for the hospital. Mr. McGill was a trustee of the estate of Mrs. Nicholls and Mr. Jackson was the heir at law. They had taken a deep interest in the hospital, had attended the Board meetings and did the work. If at any time the town should be called on for support for the hospital they could then apply for additional representation. It would only be right to place these men on the Board, because it had been a free grant to the town, they had assisted in getting it and had taken a deep interest in the management. He had every confidence in these three gentlemen, and they would do all they could to prevent the town being called on for further assistance to the hospital.

Councillor KENDRY said that no one had any idea of showing any disrespect to the gentlemen named, but while the Act was being amended they asked for larger representation, as the town had only one representative now.

Councillor MOORE said that the Council had not asked to have the constitution of the Board changed, but an application had been made to make a change by making Mr. Hall a life member and to add Messrs. McGill and Jackson as life members. He had nothing at all to say against these gentlemen, but he regretted that the Council had been answered as it was. He had moved his resolution for additional representation from the Council because Mr. McGill had told him it was difficult to get a quorum. He moved, seconded by Councillor DENNISTOUN,—That the Board of the Nicholls Hospital having refused to permit a clause to be added to the bill before the Legislature for representation by the Town as desired, the Town Solicitor be directed to repeal the former request of the Council for representation on the Board.

Councillor DENNISTOUN said that the grant to the hospital would not be part of estate of the late Mrs. Nicholls, and the executors would not be entitled to be on the Board on that account. The three gentlemen took a deep interest in the hospital, and on that ground alone were they entitled to be on the Board. He did not think they should have opposed the request of the town.

Councillor HALL said they should do nothing to discourage these gentlemen in the interest they took in the hospital. If the hospital ceased to be self-supporting they could apply for additional representation.

The MAYOR said, in reply to a remark, that he had attended the meetings of the Board regularly.

Councillor KENDRY said he did not oppose the gentlemen being placed on the Board, but he wished the town to have larger representation.

Councillor BRADBURN moved in amendment that a committee be appointed, consisting of Councillors Moore, Dennistoun, Meldrum, and the mover, to wait upon the members of the Hospital Trustee Board to endeavor to arrange the terms of the proposed bill for the appointment of additional members to the Hospital Board.

Councillor LANGFORD said that if it had been difficult for the Hospital Board to get a quorum, he did not think that the additional members the Council asked for would make too many to do the business.

Councillor DENNISTOUN moved in further amendment, seconded by Councillor LANGFORD,—That the words "from the members of this Council" be struck out of the resolution passed on Dec. 15th last, and the words "three representatives" inserted.

Councillor KELLY said he thought the Council would be doing an injustice to the citizens by opposing the bill or passing any of these resolutions.

The MAYOR said if the Council took no action he believed the Board itself would ask to give the town more representation on the Board.

Councillor CAHILL suggested that Councillor Moore withdraw his resolution, and that Councillor Bradburn's resolution be adopted, with the adition that the Council meet when a majority of the Committee wish it to meet. With a meeting with the Board he believed a satisfactory arrangement could be made.

After further discussion Councillor Moore withdrew his motion, Councillor Dennistoun's amendment was carried as a motion and Councillor Bradburn's amendment was also carried.

ARRANGEMENTS WITH THE C. P. R.

Councillor HALL introduced a by-law to lease the Canadian Pacific Railway a part of Wolfe-st., occupied by a portion of its freight shed, and part of a town lot on which its track ran. The by-law was read the first and second times.

Councillor HALL moved, seconded by Councillor KELLY,—That the Council request the Town Trust Commissioners to convey for a nominal consideration to the Canadian Pacific railway the north half of lot 11 south of Rink-st. and west of George-st. in order to carry out an arrangement made with the railway in regard to the Edison siding.—Carried.

A SCAVENGING GROUND.

Councillor MOORE moved, seconded by Councillor LANGFORD,—That the Chief of Police be authorized to make an arrangement with Mr. May for one or more years at $20 a year for a scavenging ground, Mr. May to open and close the trenches.

THE PEANUT STAND.

Councillor MOORE said that the smoke from the peanut stand at the corner of George and Hunter-sts. was a nuisance. He moved that the Chief of Police be directed to remove the stand to the market square.

The matter was referred to the Street and Bridge Committee.

G.T.R. AND BETHUNE-ST.

Councillor BRADBURN moved, seconded by Councillor KELLY,—That the Town Solicitor be instructed to take proceedings against the Grand Trunk or Midland railway for damages payable to property owners on Bethune-st.

The motion stood over as a notice.

A PURCHASE.

Councillor LANGFORD moved, seconded by Councillor KELLY,—That the Street Inspector be authorized to purchase a road scraper for the use of the town.—Carried.

ST. ANDREW'S PASTORATE.

A Call Extended to the Rev. A. McWilliams, of South Mountain.

A meeting of the congregation of St. Andrew's church was held last evening to consider the selection of a minister to succeed Rev. Alex. Bell, who resigned owing to ill-health. There was a large attendance, and after considering the matter it was unanimously decided to extend a call to Rev. Andrew McWilliams, B. A., of South Mountain. The call was laid on the table and was signed by all present, and as many more of the congregation as possible will be seen during the week to obtain their signatures. Dr. Bell and Messrs. John McClelland and George Paton were appointed commissioners to represent the congregation before the Brockville Presbytery to urge it to agree to Mr. McWilliams' translation to the Peterborough Presbytery.

Mr. McWilliams is a comparatively young man, being thirty-four years of age. He is a graduate of the Montreal Presbyterian College and of McGill College, Montreal. He was ordained on the 12th of June, 1888, and has labored very successfully on his present charge since that time, where he had previously spent two years as a student before being ordained, and has built up large congregations there. Mr. McWilliams preached in St. Andrew's five or six weeks ago, and was invited back again and preached two very able sermons on Sunday last. He is a good speaker, and is very much thought of on his present charge, and his sermons in St. Andrew's created a very favorable impression.

THE PRESENTMENT.

The Grand Jury made the following presentment this afternoon:—

"The Grand Jury of our Sovereign Lady the Queen present:—

"That they visited the gaol and found afflicted persons confined therein, two of whom are of unsound mind and should, as speedily as possible, be placed where they can receive treatment suitable to their wants. The state of the gaol reflects credit on the gaoler.

"The Jury availed themselves of the opportunity to visit the Nicholls and St. Joseph's Hospitals and they have much pleasure in bearing testimony to the great value of these institutions to the people of the town and county of Peterborough and to the commendable liberality of those who have, of their own free will, contributed to their erection, furnishing and maintenance in their present state of efficiency.

"Your Jurors desire to thank your Lordship for calling attention to the effect of recent changes in the criminal law, as they believe your Lordship's observations will prove of value not only to magistrates but to the public at large.

WORK!!

Only live fish swim up stream and only live seeds will grow.

My seeds are tested so that their vitality is assured.

And when you sow them you know what you are going to reap.

It requires about the same carefulness in a seed store as it does in a druggists establishment.

A TRUTH.—Good seed is never cheap, in the way that men look upon cheapness.

My prices are as reasonable as those engaged in same business in Toronto and Montreal.

My Seed Trade is increasing every year but I want every man, woman and child that has a bit of garden, to get a part of it, at least planted with my seed.

I know they will grow and come up without the aid of a flock of chickens to bring them to the surface, provided of course you do not put them too deep and to avoid this, look for instructions in my Seed and Plant Reporter. Get one at Seed Store, corner of Brock and Water-sts.

CASH HARDWARE STORE.

On and after 1st April we shall do business on a Cash Basis.

To cover the inevitable losses attendant upon a credit business, (which accrue from amount of time spent in keeping accounts, collecting, bad debts, interest account, and in numerous other ways, larger margins of profit must be asked.

In these times cash buyers ask, expect and are entitled to close prices. A careful consideration of the subject convinces us that the time has come for a cash business done on smaller profits.

The only customers who may be put to inconvenience are those who have had long credit. In more ways than one it will be to their advantage to pay cash.

For convenience of our old customers who consider their accounts due when presented, we will call 30 days cash and render all accounts the first of each month, and we wish to say that we will be happy to do business with them on these terms.

As the new departure is something of an experiment, what would be considered a close cash price will be made all through the stock. Not a few leaders only, but a general reduction in everything from the fourth flat to the cellar.

Our idea is to perform more than promised rather than promise more than can be fulfilled.

Our stock is large and varied, consisting of Builders', Contractors', Household, Mechanics', Painters', Shoemakers', Farm, Mill, Factory, Lumbermen's, Sporting, Threshers', Cabinetmakers', and other lines of Hardware.

Coughing

IS Nature's effort to expel foreign substances from the bronchial passages. Frequently, this causes inflammation and the need of an anodyne. No other expectorant or anodyne is equal to Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It assists Nature in ejecting the mucus, allays irritation, induces repose, and is the most popular of all cough cures.

"Of the many preparations before the public for the cure of colds, coughs, bronchitis, and kindred diseases, there is none, within the range of my experience, so reliable as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. For years I was subject to colds, followed by terrible coughs. About four years ago, when so afflicted, I was advised to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral and to lay all other remedies aside. I did so, and within a week was well of my cold and cough. Since then I have always kept this preparation in the house, and feel comparatively secure."—Mrs. L. L. Brown, Denmark, Miss.

"A few years ago I took a severe cold which affected my lungs. I had a terrible cough, and passed night after night without sleep. The doctors gave me up. I tried Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which relieved my lungs, induced sleep, and afforded the rest necessary for the recovery of my strength. By the continual use of the Pectoral, a permanent cure was effected."—Horace Fairbrother, Rockingham, Vt.

TUESDAY, APRIL 7, 1891.

BEATRIX RANDOLPH.

BY JULIAN HAWTHORNE.

He sauntered leisurely northward toward the park. Two or three times he passed some one he knew, and returned their greeting with a nod. But all the while he saw that lithe, erect figure, with that pale, lovely face, her eyes bright with pain or anger, her white hands twisting her handkerchief. Could it be that she was depraved, false, heartless? Every stern word he had spoken had been echoed, as it were by the exquisite sensitiveness of her beauty. If she were false would she not have been true at that last moment, when nothing more was to be gained by deception, when to be sincere was essential to the enjoyment of the triumph her falsehood had gained her.

He reached the park; there was still a vivid greenness in the grass, though the trees were rich with the splendor of autumn. He wandered along the curving paths, feeling no pleasure, but pain, in the quiet beauty that surrounded him. Keeping to the left, where there seemed to be fewer saunterers like himself, he found himself at last near the extreme northern limit. He ascended a little hill, and on its summit, beneath the golden shade of a group of trees, there was a space of leaf strewn turf on which he flung himself down. The rumble of the horse cars on the avenue came faintly to his ears, and now and then the voices of laughter of people passing at a distance; the shadow of passing clouds drifted over him, and ever and anon a golden leaf detached itself from a bough above his head and floated wavering earthward. But no one disturbed him, though he lay there all the afternoon, sometimes with his face buried on his arms, sometimes supporting his head upon his hand. He wondered what she had been doing since they parted. Had she been laughing over his discomfiture and planning fresh enterprises? It was not possible!

The sun went down and the shadows of twilight rose. Bellingham looked toward the east, and saw the disk of the moon mount above the horizon, until the whole round sphere swung aloft, orange against the violet background. The evening was mild and still, but the lethargy which had fallen upon Bellingham began to be dispelled: he became restless and anxious. He could no longer stay where he was; he descended the little hill, crossed over to the avenue, and still going northwestward came to the bank of the Hudson. The bank was high and steep; he clambered down it, and found the remains of a decayed wooden pier jutting out into the water. Upon the end of this he sat down, and the silent current swept and eddied past his feet. The sound of a clock striking somewhere caught his ear. This was the hour for her to arrive at the theatre. A little while longer and she would be upon the stage. Would she look toward his seat, expecting to see him there? No, she would never expect him again! Would she miss him?

More than another hour passed away, and Bellingham sat so still that one might have fancied he was asleep. But he was not asleep—he was thinking, and now his thoughts were becoming clearer and more consecutive than they had heretofore been. The moon had now soared high aloft, and stood silvery bright above the sliding reaches of the river.

All at once Bellingham sprang to his feet. He pulled out his watch; there was yet time. He began hurriedly to climb the bank.

It had been borne in upon him, he knew not how, with a sudden, overwhelming conviction, that she was not guilty, but pure and true: that the mystery was an innocent one, that all would be well, if he could but see her and speak to her. It was possible for him to reach the theatre before she left it, but he must use diligence. He was somewhat faint from lack of nourishment during the day, but he ran on until he came to a station of the elevated railway. He entered a train and was off. His heart was light and hopeful.

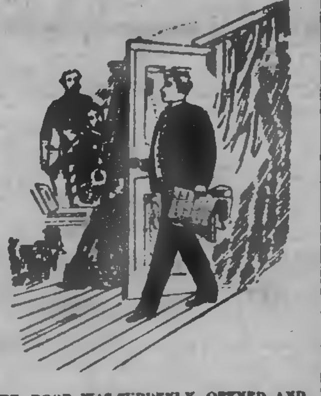
The train halted at a station near the rear of the theatre. As he got out he saw that the performance was over, and the audience had dispersed. But she would not have left yet. No; there was her carriage waiting for her at the stage door.

He ran down the iron staircase, but as he reached the bottom he stopped. Mlle. Marana came out of the stage door, leaning upon the arm of a man—of Mr. Randolph. Mrs. Bussax followed, but entered the carriage first. Randolph appeared to exchange a few words with the prima donna; then she turned and put her foot on the carriage step.

But, as if swayed by a sudden and incontrollable impulse, she turned again and threw her arms about Randolph's neck and kissed him again and again. Bellingham saw this, and then he faced about and mounted the iron stairs once more, while a mocking voice in his heart seemed to ask, "Are you satisfied now?"

CHAPTER X.

WHAT CONSEQUENCES ENSUED.



THE DOOR WAS SUDDENLY OPENED AND IN CAME YOUNG MR. EDWARDES.

A day or two afterward the architect of the new opera house, discovering that nothing in the way of business required his immediate attention in New York, came to the conclusion that he would do well to go away from it for a while. Since he began to practice his profession he had never had a deliberate vacation. But a man who had just designed and built a new opera house—the best in the world—could afford to take a rest, even were there no other ground for doing so. Bellingham, at all events, packed his trunk and took passage on the Arizona bound for the Old World, and betook himself to an ancient, abandoned, lovely little town on the southern coast of Ireland.

NORFOLK ASSIZES.

The Death of Mary Colville Still Unavenged—No Evidence Against Corydon Smith at Simcoe.

SIMCOE, April 6.—At the Norfolk Assizes to-day Corydon W. Smith, charged with the murder of Mary Colville, was discharged, the crown not having any evidence to offer in support of the charge.

On June 5, 1885, a young man named William Culver found the dead and terribly decomposed body of a young girl in Townsend swamp. By a shawl and cap found beside the body the remains were recognized as those of Mary Jane Colville, the daughter of a farmer in the neighborhood who had met her Faustus and fallen, and the post mortem on the body showed that she was enciente at the time of her death. She had been missing for about 6 months. A farmer named Lemuel Kitchen has been working on the case for 6 years and claimed to have secured evidence connecting the prisoner Smith, who was known to have kept company with the girl, with being the murderer, but the crown have now concluded that the evidence is insufficient to warrant his being held, and he has therefore been discharged.

What a debt of gratitude the world owes to such men as Drs. Ayer and Jenner—the latter for the great discovery of vaccination and the former for his Extract of Sarsaparilla—the best of blood-purifiers! Who can estimate how much these discoveries have benefitted the race!

TURNBULL'S Display.

The Spring Styles shown this season are such a decided change and unusually pretty. We want all to see them to the best advantage and naturally to leave the impression, that for decidedly New and Cheap Goods, Turnbull's is the right place to go for a large selection. Since our store has been thoroughly renovated, the first thing that strikes you on approaching the George-st. entrance is the white front and large show windows handsomely decorated with Fine Millinery Goods, Printed Challies, etc. too numerous to describe, which is but indicative of the clean stock within and our clean and straight-forward manner of doing business. While passing through the store, even when not intending to buy, you are compelled to stop and price some of the articles on display. Pretty Print Blouses from 50c. each, up to those of Figured Wool Delaine at $1.75. Neat Patterns in Light Prints, narrow, but warranted to wash at 5c. a yd. Novelties in Pearl Bead Frillings at 5c. a frill. White embroidered Apron Lawns at 20c. a yd. Cream and White Curtain Nets, Taped Edge at 15c. to 25c. a yd.

Fine Navy Serges for Boys' Wear at 35c., 40c., 50c. a yd.; Handsome Patterns in Tweed at 50c. a yd.; Nice Cream Damask Table Linen at 30c. a yd. Black and Brocaded Flannelette: just suitable for baby at 15c. a yard. You pass the Dress Goods counter in a hurry, but have to ask what that shimmering, shining material is that is hard to describe. Still everybody falls in love with it, and no wonder the manufacturers call it Gloriosia. On reaching the archway leading into the Simcoe-st. store you are struck with amazement and almost think you have got into midsummer and begin to look around for the bumble bees and humming birds among the flowers. Some of the leading colors are the New Shades in Heliotrope and Lavender, French Grey, Buttercup and Black combined. Most of the Bonnets are small toque shapes, flat, and trimmed at the back with pretty little forget-me-not flowers, jewelled ribbon and lace to match. There is something very pretty for children in Leghorn Hats, trimmed with ruchings of Silk and Lace. We have received late this week a Choice Lot of very pretty Shapes in Hats and Bonnets, also the latest in Flowers from Glasgow. These styles will not be shown elsewhere. Come early and select your patterns before they get picked over.

THE WAR RUMORS.

ALARMING REPORTS CONTINUE, BUT THE BOURSES ARE FIRM.

The Doubling of the Strength of the Russian Forces on the Polish Frontier and the Activity Among the Troops Garrisoning the Principal Fortified Places in France Regarded as Ominous.

LONDON, April 7.—Advices from the principal capitals of Europe show that the political situation is regarded as serious by leading statesmen and diplomats. Several significant moves have been made the past few days. The action of the Russian authorities in doubling the strength of the Russian forces in Volhynia is gravely discussed. The greatest activity prevails among the troops garrisoning the principal fortified places in France. The troops are being continually drilled in military tactics and have been subjected to a series of night alarms. The Pesther Lloyd states that according to semi-official news from Berlin the general European situation is regarded in the German capital as threatening.

The North German Gazette to-day, referring to the rumors current, denies that internal relations are not pacific, adding, "Everything justifies the hope of the permanence of peace. The whole strength of the nations of Europe ought to be devoted to economic developments."

The alarmist reports did not have much effect upon continental bourses to-day. At the opening the feeling was unsettled, but the markets closed firm.

Re-Cementing the Dreibund.

LONDON, April 7.—A Vienna despatch says the report that the Dreibund has been re-cemented is premature, though negotiations have been concluded for a five-year renewal on the original defensive basis without territorial changes, and the compact will be signed very shortly.

St. Petersburg and Jassy correspondence continue to report activity among the Russian troops, great numbers of which are being massed on the Austro-Hungarian frontier.

Will Not Recognize the Prince.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 7.—The Russian Government will take no diplomatic steps to prevent the reappointment of Prince Ferdinand to the vice-royalty of Eastern Roumania on the expiration of his present term of office, but will decline to recognize Prince Ferdinand in any capacity.

PLOT TO KILL THE CZAR.

THE ASSASSIN SUSPECTED AND CAUGHT.

Caught Within a Few Feet of the Czar Armed With a Revolver and Provided With a Globule Supposed to Contain Poison.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 8.—An attempt was made on the Czar's life Monday, but the attempt was cleverly frustrated. It was a Russian holiday and the Czar and Czarina went to review the Imperial Guards at their quarters opposite the palace of the Grand Duke Nicholas. Invitations to the ceremony had been sent to an extremely select and limited number of persons. A man with a sallow complexion and of a Southern type was among those admitted by ticket. He took a place five paces distant from the place where the Czar was to stand. As the man continued to wear his overcoat he was requested to remove it, but declined on the ground that he was afraid of draughts. His refusal excited suspicion and he was again requested to take his coat off. This time he consented and retired to an ante-room. He was immediately arrested and taken to prison, when a revolver and a globule, supposed to contain poison, were found in his pockets. His name is Shamelkin. He declares the globule simply contains medicine. The police affect to have known of a plot connected with Gunsberg's conspiracy and say they were watching for an assassin.

THE COUSIN OF THE CZAR,

Privately Marries a Daughter of the Duke of Nassau.

CANNES, April 7.—A great sensation has been caused here by the announcement that the Grand Duke Michael Michaelovitch, a cousin of the Czar, has been privately married to the Countess of Werenberg, daughter of the Duke of Nassau, at San Remo. The Duke of Nassau and the young couple left Cannes a few days ago ostensibly for a visit to Genoa.

TRAGEDY AT A WEDDING.

The Bridegroom Accidently Shot Dead by a Friend.

RAHWAY, N.J., March 7.—Anton Henry was married at East Rahway last evening. In the midst of the festivities the bride and groom started for their carriages to take the train for their honeymoon trip. There was cheering, and Henry Mentz, a friend of the groom, fired a salute with a revolver. He shot too low and the ball struck Henry in the head, killing him almost instantly. The bride fainted and the merry-makers stood for an instant stunned. Mentz was arrested.

THERE'S MILLIONS IN IT.

A Gold Mine of Inestimable Richness Found in Hastings.

MARMORA, Ont., March 7.—One of the richest mines that has ever been found has been opened up here by Marcus H. Powell. The property was formerly owned by Colonel Brown of Belleville. The lot was mined about 33 years ago by practical miners, but they gave up the search. M. H. Powell followed the formation until he has now arrived at one of the richest gold mines that has ever been discovered. Free gold as big as wheat can be found projecting through the rock. The vein is now 20 feet wide between the walls and is 15 feet deep, and is widening out as they go down.

Rioting in Hamburg.

HAMBURG, April 7.—The police to-day dispersed a socialist meeting held in a hall at Bergdorf, a town belonging to Hamburg. This action was taken in consequence of the anti-Semitic element in the meeting indulging in rioting. The fighting was continued in the street and a battle with stones took place between the opposing factions. All the windows in the vicinity, including those in the railway station, were broken by the flying missiles. Several rioters were arrested.

THE SEAL FISHERY.

Newfoundlanders Pleased Over the Best Results in Numbers for Many Years.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., April 7.—The steamship Neptune, the first of the fleet from the ice fields, brought with her 32,000 seals. In seven days she was loaded. The following was her report of the catch:

	Seals.		Seals.
Hector	28,000	Aurora	11,000
Esquimaux	26,000	Terra Nova	25,000
Wolf	26,000	Leopard	16,000
Ranger	12,000	Walrus	5,000
Falcon	15,000	Kite	1,000
Eagle	2,000	Vanguard	20,000
Iceland	12,000	Greenland	25,000

As far as numbers go this will be the largest seal fishery for many years. Whenever 260,000 were taken at such an early date the chances are the total number will be between 400,000 and 500,000. Arriving of early steamers will make second trips. There is, however, a serious drawback; the seals were taken before they had reached the proper age and were consequently not full grown. Had they been left to grow for another week or 10 days their value would have been increased 25 to 30 per cent. As it is, the average weight of fat yielded by each seal will not exceed 25 lbs., instead of 31 to 35 lbs. The season was very open and the steamers got among the seals by March 13. The young whitecoats are said to pile on fat at the rate of 4 lbs. a day. A number of old mother seals were killed—great injury to the fishery. A few more years like the present would reduce the seal fishery to small dimensions.

PRATED OF MIRACLES.

Mormon President Dilates Upon Alleged Miracles Performed by the Elders.

SALT LAKE, Utah, April 7.—In the Mormon conference to-day President Woodruff told of communing with God and of miracles wrought by elders through the power of God. They laid hands on the sick and they got well, touched the lame and they walked, put clay on the eyes of the blind and they saw, etc.

In the afternoon President Woodruff opened by scolding the women who brought squalling babies. George Q. Cannon urged marriage on the young people, altogether too many of whom were living single lives.

A Fairy in Flames.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 7.—At Tricaleona last night an amateur performance closed with a tableau representing the Goddess of Liberty on a throne, surrounded by 20 fairies impersonated by little girls. They were dressed in flimsy white material. A spark fell from a lighted torch held aloft by the goddess and fell on the dress of Leone Mays, who was fatally burned.

Nova Scotia Local Elections.

HALIFAX, N.S., April 7.—The indications are that the Government candidates were elected in all three counties in which local elections were held to-day. Owing to a heavy snowstorm in Cape Breton and Antigonish, a number of places have not been heard from, and in Hants county the contest is very close, but the belief is that the Liberal candidates were all returned.

AFFECTING SCENE

On Occasion of Retirement of J. F. Stephen From the Bench.

LONDON, April 7.—An affecting scene took place to-day in the Queen's Bench division of the High Court of Justice, when James Fitz James Stephen, the justice of the Queen's Bench, whose health is said to have become seriously impaired, as a result of the worry he was compelled to endure during and after the trial of the Maybrick poisoning case, retired from the bench. All of Justice Stephen's fellow-judges, including the lord chief justices of England, were present standing, when Justice Stephen, seated on the bench, replied in a broken voice to the tribute paid to his honor, integrity, ability and past services by the Attorney-General, Sir Richard Everard Webster, Q.C. All present were profoundly impressed by the sad scene, and considerable emotion was displayed, as Justice Stephen, in low tones, thanked his colleagues for the good feeling shown towards him, and the tears welling into his eyes, as well as into the eyes of many other there, wished them good-bye and left the bench for the last time. Justice Stephen's wife and the other members of his family who were present were also overcome with emotion as the veteran judge expressed his thanks for the kindness which cheered his retirement from the high position he had so long held.

A CELESTIAL DISPLAY.

Solar Halos Encircling the Heavens Accompany a Change of Temperature.

WATERLOO, Iowa, April 7.—A wonderful display of solar halos was witnessed here yesterday afternoon. About 4 o'clock a circle of white light, in the plane of which was the sun, appeared, encircling the heavens parallel with the horizon. At two points which, with the sun, divided this circle in three equal parts, were two other representations of suns, except that they had no brilliancy. Another circle surrounded the sun and extended nearly to the zenith. The portion of the circle which was nearest the zenith was a brilliant rainbow, and at its highest point a reverse circle, also displaying the prismatic colors, joined it. Inside the circle was another which was of a fainter light. Brilliant sun dogs were also visible on either side of the sun. This display lasted about an hour. The sky was clear at the time, but the temperature became noticeably cooler during the display, and the mercury registered 30 deg. above.

DROWNED HER GRIEF INDEED.

A Peculiar Poisoning Case Which Results in Three Deaths.

PARIS, April 8.—A correspondent telegraphs that Rainey, a town in the Department of the Seine-et-Oise, is in a state of great perturbation over a poisoning case. A few days ago a widow died of consumption, and on returning from the funeral to the house some of her neighbors espied a bottle of quinine wine. Some one suggested that the mourning friends might revive their spirits by emptying the bottle, and the proposition was accepted with alacrity. Three persons partook of the wine. The first to suffer was Madame Goualin, the wife of a railway employe, who was also present. A quarter of an hour after she had taken her glass she was seized with violent pains, and expired soon afterwards. Her husband, overcome with emotion, filled a large glass with the wine and drank it off. He was at once taken ill in his turn, and in the meantime a friend—also in the service of the railway company—and rushed upstairs to his room on the upper floor howling with anguish. The doctor, speedily recalled, saw at once that these poor people had taken poison and despatched a messenger to the police station. In spite, however, of all the efforts made to save them the two men died.

Yesterday morning the daughter of the poor woman, who had given her the bottle, was interrogated at Rainey by the judicial authorities, and said that after she had purchased it her husband had tasted its contents and had been taken ill, but her brother remembered that his mother had asked him to empty the powder into it. Where this powder had been procured he could not say. So far it would appear that the powder added to the bottle of quinine wine was the cause of the catastrophe.

INDEFINITELY POSTPONED.

NEW YORK, April 7.—The Canadian delegates arrived here last night and confirmed the statement that President Harrison is anxious to be in Washington when the negotiations are in progress. As he is about to take an extended trip west it has been decided to postpone the matter for the present. When the administration at Washington is ready to meet the Canadian delegates and discuss the proposition Secretary Blaine will notify the Dominion Government and negotiations will be resumed.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—The Post says: While the conferences will doubtless be characterized by more or less secrecy, their progress will be watched with interest. The whole question of the tariff will be thoroughly discussed and Sir John Macdonald has already given his promise that Canada will abolish the customs duty on coal, ores and lumber imported from the United States whenever Congress makes these articles free of duty. The Canadian Government some time ago authorized Sir Julian Pauncefote to state to the United States Government that it would be prepared to take off all import duty on logs whenever Canadian lumber is admitted into the United States market at a reduced rate.

P. T. BARNUM IS DEAD.

THE PRINCE OF SHOWMEN PASSES AWAY AT BRIDGEPORT.

His End Peaceful and Happy—Scenes at His Bedside—Directions as to the Funeral Arrangements—History of the Originator of the Greatest Show on Earth.

BRIDGEPORT, Ct., April 7.—Phineas T. Barnum, the prince of showmen, died last night. The immediate cause of his death was la grippe, from which he had been suffering for some days past. Mr. Barnum was born at Bethel, Conn., July 5, 1810, his father being an innkeeper. When 19 years of age Barnum became editor of The Herald of Freedom, published in Danbury, Conn. In 1835 he made his first venture in the show line by exhibiting a colored woman named Joyce Heath as the nurse of George Washington. The receipts soon amounted to $1500 a week. He continued in the show business with varying success until 1842, when his discovery and exhibition of Charles S. Stratton, known as "Tom Thumb," brought the great showman into world-wide repute. Barnum was the originator of the far-famed "woolly horse." He brought Jenny Lind to America in 1850 and the receipts for this venture amounted to $700,000. Since then he has been the best known showman in the world. He was a writer of no mean ability and contributed letters to the press as recently as last week. Among his published works are "The Humbugs of the World," among whom, he proudly boasted, he was the greatest. The American nation pointed to Phineas T. as one of the grandest products of the country. He leaves many imitators, but there never was but one Barnum.

Mr. Barnum died at 6.22 o'clock in the presence of his grief-stricken family. During Mr. Barnum's illness, which began 21 weeks ago last Friday, there were frequent fluctuations in his condition from each of which he rallied, although in each instance with slightly lower vitality. He seemed to realize he could not live much longer and spoke of the approaching end with calmness. Barnum wished his funeral to be private and unostentatious. He directed that the interment should be in the Mountain Grove Cemetery, where several years ago he erected a monument.

The doctors attending Mr. Barnum had been careful about administering sedatives through fear they might produce ulterior ill-effects. Last night Mr. Barnum said, when all hope was gone, he wished to be given sedatives, which would allay his pain and make his death as peaceful as possible. The first sedative was given at 10.10 o'clock this morning. It was understood by the patient and his family to mean that the end was near. Mrs. Barnum remained at her husband's side throughout the night. In alternate spells of dozing and in conversation, which showed his brain to be as clear as ever, Mr. Barnum passed the hours until about 4 o'clock this morning when he sank into a condition of stupor. To rouse him from this was difficult, a faint gleam of recognition alone indicated that he had knowledge of his surroundings or knew the faces about him. Thus matters went on until 10 o'clock this morning. He was again aroused and his mental faculties appeared brighter than at any time during the several hours previous. Among those in the room were: Mrs. Barnum, Rev. L. B. Fisher, pastor of the Universalist Church, Mrs. D. W. L. Thompson his daughter, Mrs. Clarke of New York, a granddaughter; Miss Ray Ried, his neice; Mrs. W. H. Bushtell of New York and daughter; Clinton H. Seeley, his grandson and principal heir; Benjamin Fish, Mrs. Barnum's brother, and Dr. Hubbard. Mr. Barnum was fully conscious, although his nearly exhausted powers made it impossible for him to talk. The messages he conveyed with his eyes were more expressive than words. With the exception of himself all were in tears.

The funeral will be conducted by the Rev. L. B. Fisher Friday afternoon in the North Congregational Church. Mr. Barnum had an intense horror of embalming or of having his body placed on ice after death. The remains will be therefore kept in a dark, cool room in the house. The body will then be enclosed in a hermetically sealed metallic casket.

Dyspepsia

Intense Suffering for 8 years—Restored to Perfect Health.

Few people have suffered more severely from dyspepsia than Mr. E. A. McMahon, a well known grocer of Staunton, Va. He says: "Before 1878 I was in excellent health, weighing over 200 pounds. In that year an ailment developed into acute dyspepsia, and soon I was reduced to 162 pounds, suffering burning Intense sensations in the stomach, palpitation of the heart, nausea, and indigestion. I could not sleep, lost all heart in my work, had fits of melancholia, and for days at a time I would have welcomed death. I became morose, sullen and irritable, and for eight years life was a burden. I tried many physicians and many remedies. One day a workman employed by me suggested that I take Hood's Suffering Sarsaparilla, as it had cured his wife of dyspepsia. I did so, and before taking the whole of a bottle I began to feel like a new man. The terrible pains to which I had been subjected, ceased, the palpitation of the heart subsided, my stomach became easier, nausea disappeared, and my entire system began to tone up. With returning strength came activity of 8 Years mind and body. Before the fifth bottle was taken I had regained my former weight and natural condition. I am today well and I ascribe it to taking Hood's Sarsaparilla."

N. B. If you decide to take Hood's Sarsaparilla do not be induced to buy any other.

THE TOWN'S LAW SUIT.

LEONARD VS. THE TOWN OF PETERBOROUGH.

Occupies Almost the Whole Sitting of the Spring Assizes and is Adjourned—A Little About the Case and Titles of the Land—The Assizes Closed—The Other Cases on the Docket.

The Assizes Court rose last evening the docket having been disposed of in short order. Two of the cases were laid over for another court, another was abandoned by the defence, leaving only the one, Leonard vs. the Town of Peterborough, on which evidence was taken.

The corporation suit of Leonard vs. the Town of Peterborough occupied the attention of the Court during its entire sitting almost and is still unconcluded, an adjournment being made to admit further evidence. The particulars of this case are familiar. Last year the Town Council passed a by-law to open up Water-st. south to Wolfe-st., and, according to requirements, a notice to such effect was served on Mrs. Leonard, who had fenced in the land behind her residence down to the water's edge. The Town claimed that there was a road allowance along this river bank, and the work of opening the street was proceeded with, the work being imperative as the town was anxious to have the new Government wharf built there during low water. Some ten days or so after work had been started, and a day before action was begun against the town the corporation was served with a notice by the plaintiffs. The question of title was fully gone into before the court here, documentary evidence having been collected and unearthed in different places.

The plaintiff claims that she was on the 19th day of November, 1890, and still is the owner and occupier of that certain parcel of land lying between lot 1, east of George and North of Wolfe-sts., and river Otonabee. The defendants claim that an original road or allowance for road known as Water-st. was laid out on the original survey of the Town of Peterborough, along and following the bank of the Otonabee river on part of the plaintiff's land as set out by plaintiff's statement of claim, and by a by-law of the corporation duly passed on the 5th day of November, 1890. In reply the plaintiff, for the purpose of this suit, admits that there was an original reservation along the bank of the river Otonabee, but that the land originally laid off for a road allowance was long before the trespass complained of largely washed away by the waters of the Otonabee, and the defendants ignoring this fact entered upon the plaintiff's land lying west of that original road allowance, and committed the said trespass.

The first survey of the old mill reservation appeared to have been made by Mr. John Hewson in the year 1821 and did not allow for a road allowance along the river bank. Mr. Birdsall, who made the general plan in 1825, laid out a street the course of which, according to the field notes, after giving metes and courses as far as Sherbrooke-st., was to "within one chain of the bank of the Otonabee river. This street was to be in these courses so as not to interfere with the present mill site." In 1832 this mill reservation property was patented to John Brown, part of the description in his patent being east along the southern limit of King-st. to the western limit of Water-st., then southerly along the western limit of Water-st. to the intersection by Wolfe-st., then west to place of beginning. In 1838 John Brown conveyed the property to James Wallis, according to a plan made by John Hewson and known as Brown's survey. In 1871 a plan was registered in the Registry office in accordance with the requirements of the Registry Act, founded upon this survey and showing Water-st. continued to Wolfe-st. The maps in the Crown Lands department, which was visited by Mr. Edwards and Mr. Dumble, all show the line of the same street although the words Water-st. are not written upon that part south of Sherbrook-st. The contention on the part of the town has always been that this was an original road allowance and that they were entitled to open it when necessary. The plaintiff, Mrs. Leonard, bought her land about 1874 and in the deed to her the land was described as being lots one and two in block C east of George-st. and north of Wolfe-st. in said town, according to the plan made by John Hewson, P. L. S., and certified to by Theodore Clementi, that is the plan already above mentioned. Notwithstanding that this plan showed Water-st. in the front of the land and along the river the plaintiff built her fences sometime afterwards down to the river bank, ignoring the street. The by-law to open the street was passed in the Council and the action resulted.

Expert evidence was given by several surveyors and witnesses were also called to show what the wash of the river would be upon the bank of the river at this point.

After part of the evidence for the defence had been given, Mr. Watson on behalf of the plaintiff moved for leave to amend the plaintiff's reply as given above, by striking out the admission that there was an original road allowance. Mr. Edwards, for the town, objected to this, pointing out that inasmuch as the admission had been formally made it would be unfair to the defendants. His Lordship decided to allow the amendment, but said that the defendant should be at liberty to give evidence confirming the points which had been admitted. An adjournment was accordingly made, when additional evidence from the Crown Lands Department will be put in by the defence and argument heard either at Toronto or Ottawa.

YEOMANS VS. YOUNG.—This case was allowed to stand for hearing at the Chancery Sittings, both parties agreeing.

ASKWITH VS. HENRY.—This action also given to the Chancery Sittings by mutual consent.

MCGEE VS. LYTLE.—An action for damages brought by John McGee, of Fenelon Falls, against George Lytle, to recover $576.80 damages. No defence was put in and a verdict was given for the plaintiff for $576.80 and full costs. E. B. Edwards for the plaintiff; Stratton & Hall for the defendant.

THE COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE.

Inspector's Seath's Report—The Teaching Good but the Building Found Fault With.

The following is the report of Inspector Seath regarding his visit to the Collegiate Institute on Feb. 10th, 11th and 12th. The grading under each head ranges as follows:—1, good; 2, fair; 3, poor; 4, bad:—

ACCOMMODATION.

Water closets 0, water supply 2, school grounds 0 school buildings 4, class rooms 4, waiting halls 3, rooms, 0, cap rooms, 0, teachers' private rooms 0, desks 2, blackboards 2, lighting 4, heating 1, and ventilation 4. Owing to the increase in the attendance an additional teacher and class room have been provided. The class room is in the basement of an adjacent public school building, and is quite unsuitable; its ventilation is exceedingly bad.

EQUIPMENT.

	Addit.	Pres. Val.	Rat'g.
Library	$617 90	$542.35	1
Apparatus	150.55	600.40	1
Maps, globes, etc.		150.00	1-4
Gymnasium		575.00
Gymnasium and equipment	60.00	175.00	1

About half a dozen microscopes are needed for the use of the pupils. No provision has been made for ventilating the gymnasium, and, as it is lower than part of the surrounding ground, water runs in upon the floor. In its present condition it is, I believe, unfit for the purpose of physical education, especially as it is now always occupied by classes while the school is in session. The equipment should all be catalogued; the present catalogue is in bad condition.

THE STAFF, ETC.

All legally qualified. Discipline—Excellent in the main building, and very fair in the outside class room. Organization—Subjects on the programme not taught, zoology and the optional subjects, except music and phonography. Provisions made for teaching—Writing and reading, the required provision for these subjects had not been made before my visit, but the Head Master has since complied with the regulations. This provision must be made all the year round. Drill, calisthenics and gymnastics—Scarcely the minimum required by the regulations, but in the present condition of the school and the accommodation all that can be expected for this half-year. Other subjects, generally satisfactory. I suggested some changes to the Head Master and other members of the staff, which changes were agreed to. Division of duties among teachers—As satisfactory as can be expected. After the midsummer holidays Mr. Rutherford will become a department master, a very desirable change. Ratio of pupils to teachers—The number of pupils in each form is in some subjects too large for the number of teachers. The day is not far distant when an additional master will be needed.

CHARACTER OF TEACHING.

English 1-2, Mathematics 2, Science 2, Classics 1-2, French and German 1-2, commercial 1-2, drawing 1, drill, calisthenics and gymnastics 1.

In the above grading I have considered the fact that the number of pupils in some of the forms is too large for effective work, as probably the number will be smaller after Easter and in the fall, nor have I taken into account the work done by Mr. Rutherford, who teaches at present in all the departments. I am happy, however, to report that, while he is unexperienced as yet, he bids fair to become a good teacher.

PUPILS' WORK.

Last Class of Entrants—Reading—Of 44 examined, I rank 23 grade 2, 17 grade 3, and 4 grade 4. The last grade might properly have been rejected. I report especially the fact that the boys from the separate schools are bad readers. The proper authorities should have their attention drawn to this serious defect. Writing—Some are fair writers, but too many are poorer. All require continued systematic instruction.

Other Pupils—Reading: Of 116 examined, I rank 6 grade 1, 23 grade 2, 87 grade 3, and 10 grade 4. This is a very poor record and shows the necessity for systematic and continued instruction. Writing—Generally very fair. Some are excellent writers and some are poor—an average class. Drawing, generally good; bookkeeping, generally good.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Attendance—All regularly admitted except four girls who had been taking advanced work in the convent before this work was discontinued there. Text books all authorized. Registers—Daily satisfactory; general not yet filled up. Supplementary reading in English literature—No provision. The library is simply one of reference. This defect should be remedied. Primary examination, June, 1891—Standard satisfactory except that of those in grade 3, all of whom might have been registered. Drawing, standard satisfactory. Reading—Three pupils present. Standard satisfactory.

GENERAL REMARKS.

The condition of this school has improved markedly since my last visit of inspection. Under its present management it will in a few years be one of the best so far as the staff is concerned. On the subject of the accommodations I have made a special report to the Minister.

THE SPECIAL REPORT.

Re. accommodations of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute.

The following are the defects of the existing accommodations:—

1. The public school is in the same building and public school pupils use the lower hall.
2. The play ground is a poor one and is used by the public school pupils as well. Practically there is no play ground for high school pupils.
3. The water closets are so poor and kept in such condition that they deserve no recognition in the grading.
4. Owing to the presence of public school pupils in the main building and the increase of the high school attendance one class of high school pupils is in a badly constructed and badly ventilated basement room of one of the town public schools. The air of the room was poisonous when I inspected it.
5. There are no cloak rooms for boys and girls and the room in which the library is kept is unsuitable for a teachers' private room.
6. Owing to there being no provision for ventilating the gymnasium and to its low situation in the grounds, as well as the fact that it is used also for public school classes, physical education is now taken up under conditions that cannot but injure the health of the pupils.
7. No assembly room had been provided so that it is not possible for the head Master to organize his school so as to utilize to the full the services of his staff and the time of the pupils.

All the foregoing defects except 4 and 6 have existed for some years but have been tolerated by the Department owing to the conditions under which the Collegiate Institute was established and the circumstances of the town, the result being that the accommodations of this Institute are now amongst the worst in the Province, although Peterborough is one of the richest towns.

In fact no high school would now be established if such accommodations were proposed for its occupation.

The growth of the Peterborough school and the consequent emphasis of its defects make it necessary for me to ask the Minister to bring the subject specially under the notice of the Board with an intimation that the time has come when it is the duty of the Board to provide suitable accommodations and of the Education Department to see that such provision is made.

BOUNDARY BRIDGES.

Dr. Willoughby's Bill Read a Second Time and Sent to Committee.

In the Legislature on Monday Dr. Willoughby moved the second reading of his bill to amend the Municipal Act so as to provide that bridges over streams of 100 feet in width within 80 chains of a county boundary line shall be a county bridge, and maintained at the joint expense of the two counties concerned. In the case of two county councils failing to agree on their shares of the expense the matter shall be settled by arbitration.

Mr. Blezard opposed the bill, as he said it was designed especially to compel the county of Peterborough to bear a portion of the expense of a bridge across the Trent river in Seymour township, Northumberland county.

Mr. Waters favored the passage of the bill.

Mr. Mackenzie referred to a difficulty in his own county in which the council was saddled with the cost of bridges over small streams which were never, now since the country had been cleared up, 100 feet in width, the judges having decided that the width of a stream was the distance between its well defined banks.

Mr. Meredith suggested that the matter be allowed to go to the committee, where it could be properly considered.

Mr. Hardy was of the opinion that in the case in question it was probably beyond the power of the township council to keep the particular bridge in repair. The question as outlined in the bill of his hon. friend was perhaps a more serious question than they might suppose. If they knew how it would operate in each locality, an opinion might possibly be formed of its merits.

The bill received it's second reading.

THE INSPECTOR'S REPORT.

The report of the High School Inspector was taken up.

Mr. STEVENSON said he was surprised at the report. Some two years ago the Inspector had reported that some changes were required and they had spent $1,800 or 1,900 to carry out his ideas. Now he comes along and is not satisfied. They seemed to be at the mercy of these men, and they would soon have the town poor. A new building seemed to be what was aimed at. The Inspector appeared to be prompted by somebody. There were some things that were defective, such as the closets, but he did not think they should be treated in this way. He did not know that the town was prepared to do the bidding of every inspector who came along. He supposed that the threat to withhold the grant would be held over them, and the Board should investigate the matter.

Mr. KENDRY said it seemed strange to him that although they spent money from year to year to meet the views of the inspectors the reports were worse.

Mr. DUMBLE thought they were under obligations to the inspectors who pointed out the defects in their building. The $1,800 that had formerly been expended was a splendid expenditure, and good work was done. There was no use trying to look to see who prompted the inspector, for they should give him credit with intelligence. He could not, however, understand the report regarding the grounds. That part was captious and ill-judged. They should deal with this matter sensibly and try to remedy the defects pointed out. Certainly no one would disagree with the report regarding the basement room. He suggested that rooms be got somewhere for some of the public school pupils and thus give more room for the Institute.

The Secretary, by request, read the Inspectors' reports for 1889 and 1890.

Dr. BOUCHER said there was certainly a great lack of accommodation for the Institute.

Mr. STEVENSON said that a number of ratepayers objected to the high expenditure on schools, and expenditure for singing was objected to. He thought the people would pay willingly for plenty of accommodation for the public schools, and more accommodation would be required. The Inspector should know that the basement room was adopted temporarily.

Dr. BOUCHER moved, seconded by Mr. DUMBLE,—That the Inspector's report be referred to a special committee consisting of Messrs. Hamilton, Burnham, Stevenson, Dumble and the mover, to report at the next meeting.

Mr. KENDRY moved in amendment, seconded by Mr. RUTHERFORD,—That the Committee on Appointments meet at an early date to enquire into the Inspector's report.

The amendment was carried.

THE LATE WM. ENGLISH.

Mr. DUMBLE moved, seconded by Dr. Boucher,—

"That this Board deeply laments the recent death of Mr. Wm. English who for some years was so faithful and efficient in discharging his duties as a member of the Board of Education.

"Mr. English, as Chairman of the Property Committee, had heavy and responsible duties. These he performed with much skill and painstaking care, and in everything entrusted to him the Board felt that he would do the best that could be done. His pleasant and courteous bearing, and his thorough honesty so endeared him to all that his loss will be felt.

"We enter our tribute to his worth upon our minutes, and direct the Secretary to transmit a copy of this resolution to his bereaved widow, with an expression of our heartfelt sympathy in her great bereavement."

THE COMMITTEES.

Mr. STEVENSON moved, seconded by Mr. HAMILTON,—That Mr. J. J. McBain be placed on all the committees of which the late Wm. English was a member and that Mr. R. Bradburn be placed on the Property Committee.—Carried.

THE CHAIRMANSHIP.

Mr. DUMBLE said that at the last meeting of the Board they elected their chairman and he was elected on the ground that he was the oldest member of the Board. Now, as a fact, he had not been on the Board the longest by thirteen years. He called to attention to this merely to show that their machinery for electing a chairman was not good, as he thought they had an excellent chairman. He moved that hereafter the chairman be elected by ballot without nomination, a majority of all the members being required to elect, and that the seal be attached to the resolution.

Dr. BURNHAM took exception to the statement that Mr. Wrighton was elected Chairman because he was the oldest member.

Mr. DUMBLE replied that it was stated at the time that he was the oldest member.

Mr. KENDRY did not see how they could get any better chairman by voting by ballot.

After further discussion the motion was allowed to stand as a notice.

TO MEET EXPENSES.

Dr. BURNHAM moved, seconded by Mr. FERGUSON,—That the Chairman and Treasurer be authorized to borrow not more than $20,000 for current expenses from the Ontario Bank, and to sign notes for the amount, and that the seal be attached to the motion to give it the effect of a by-law.—Carried.

SUGGESTIONS BY THE STAFF.

Dr. TILLEY, Public School Inspector, said he was engaged in inspecting schools and would be glad to have any of the trustees accompany him. He called attention to a recommendation he had made to give honor certificates in certain cases. He had arranged, he informed the Board, for grade conventions, for the teachers to visit each others' rooms to see the teaching and confer.

Mr. FESSENDEN, Principal of the Collegiate Institute, said that he had accompanied the Inspector through the building, and Mr. Seath had said that if the whole building were taken for the Institute it would serve the purpose.

HONOR CERTIFICATES.

Dr. BOUCHER moved that honor certificates be given to such pupils passing the entrance examinations as the examiners deemed were entitled to them, which was carried.

NEW LEGISLATION.

Mr. STEVENSON called attention to the new School Bill. One provision was that no member of the Town Council could be a member of the Board, and another was that a majority of either the High or the Public school trustees could dissolve the partnership as it existed here. These provisions he thought very objectionable. There were provisions that were commendable. He did not know of any locality other than Peterborough which would be affected by the first provision.

Mr. DUMBLE referred to an instance where it had been useful to have a member of the Board at the same time a member of the municipal Council. He moved, in accordance with a suggestion he had made to the Minister of Education, that it was the opinion of the Board that in a town or city it would be advantageous to have one member of the municipal council on the School Board.—Carried.

He pointed to a provision of the bill which would give the county representation on the Board and under which the county would have to pay a proportion of the cost of instruction in accordance with the number of pupils of the county.

Mr. STEVENSON thought it would be wrong to give the county members power to incur expenditure for buildings which they would not have to assist in meeting.

THE NORTHERN SCHOOL

Mr. KENDRY moved, seconded by Mr. RUTHERFORD,—That the Property Committee have power to put water in the North Ward school.—Carried.

The Board then adjourned.

THE SAILORS IN THE FRAIL BARK.

Annual Meeting of the Otonabee Canoe Club—Officers Elected and Some Good Suggestions Made.

With the whisperings of gentle spring come throbbings around the canoeist's heart when he thinks of his frail craft and the sport upon the waters blue. The annual meeting of the Otonabee Canoe Club was held last evening and this throbbing of enthusiastic joy at the approach of another season was visibly felt. Mr. A. Clegg presided in the absence of the Commodore and the vice.

Mr. A. E. Dixon presented the financial report showing that money matters were in a very satisfactory condition, all liabilities being met and a balance on hand.

OFFICERS FOR 1891.

The election of officers was proceeded with and resulted as follows:—

HON. COMMODORE.—W. H. Hill.
COMMODORE.—M. Stock.
VICE-COMMODORE.—Thos. Barrie.
SECRETARY.—Ed. Dawson.
ASSIST.-SECRETARY.—O. H. Allison.
TREASURER.—A. Clegg.
EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.—A. E. Scott, J. H. Smith, J. Tucker and A. E. Dixon.

A GOOD MOVE.

The question of lighting the club boat house was discussed and finally the Executive Committee was authorized to take steps if possible to have two electric lights placed at the boat house, one inside and one outside, to serve as a beacon for those coming in after dark. These lights would be a wise expenditure and are really needed.

The question of having a big "pow-wow" of some kind was also discussed. It was suggested that a joint meeting of the Bobcaygeon, Lindsay and Otonabee Clubs might be held at some convenient point and a day of good sport enjoyed. The Secretary was authorized to communicate with these clubs to ascertain their views on the suggestion.

The meeting then adjourned.

'Prentice Boys.

Thousands of Lives Lost.

Poets and novelists go into ecstacies over what they romantically call "beautiful spring," and "gentle spring," and while, no doubt, every one is glad to see winter release its icy grasp, "beautiful spring" is, after all, one of the most deadly seasons of the year. Sudden transitions from warmth to extreme cold, with piercing, chilling winds; from dry to sloppy, "muggy" weather, all combine to make the season a most trying one, even to the hardiest constitution, while to those with weak constitutions the season is one of positive danger. Undoubtedly the greatest danger at this season of the year is from cold in the head, which very few escape, and which, if not promptly and thoroughly treated, developes into catarrh, with all its disagreeable and loathsome effects. Catarrh, neglected, almost as certainly developes into consumption, annually destroying thousands of lives. At this trying season no household should be without a bottle of Nasal Balm. In cases of cold in the head it gives almost instant relief and effects a speedy cure, thus preventing the development of catarrh. Where the latter disease has already secured a hold it is equally efficacious, and with persistent use will cure the worst case. From the outset it sweetens the breath, stops the nauseous droppings into the throat and lungs, dispels those dull headaches that afflict the sufferer from catarrh. Nasal Balm is not advertised as a cure-all—it is an honest remedy which never fails to cure cold in the head or catarrh when the directions are faithfully followed, and thousands throughout the country have reason to bless its discovery. Nasal Balm may be had from all dealers or will be sent post-paid on receipt of price (50 cents, small, or $1, large size bottles,) by addressing Fulford & Co. Brockville, Ont.

What a Cough.

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease consumption. Ask yourself if you can afford for the sake of saving 50cts., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. d16w4 6m

---

At no season in the year is cold in the head and catarrh more prevalent than during April. To neglect either means misery and perhaps fatal results. Nasal Balm is the only certain remedy for these dangerous diseases, and as a precautionary remedy should be kept in every household. Nasal Balm has cured thousands of sufferers—it will cure you. Try it.

The Old Stage Coach and the Railway.

"I am compelled to go to town thirty miles from where I reside, and have to choose between two modes of conveyance—one the old-fashioned stage coach with all its draw-backs, and the other a fast railway train. I find that with a stoppage for dinner, the stage coach will cost me as much as the fare charged by the Railway Company, and that I must be the whole day on the road. Taking the train I reach my destination in an hour. Surely I cannot hesitate long about a decision. In like manner when I have dyes to buy for my home dyeing, I at once select those that operate quickly, and give the best results and greatest satisfaction, and my choice is at all times the 'Diamond Dyes.' I have seen sufficient of many of the crude dyes to cause me to pass them by and leave them for others, who do not know the value of Diamond Dyes."

WORK!!

Only live fish swim up stream and only live seeds will grow.

My seeds are tested so that their vitality is assured.

And when you sow them you know what you are going to reap.

It requires about the same carefulness in a seed store as it does in a druggists establishment.

A TRUTH.—Good seed is never cheap, in the way that men look upon cheapness.

My prices are as reasonable as those engaged in same business in Toronto and Montreal.

My Seed Trade is increasing every year but I want every man, woman and child that has a bit of garden, to get a part of it, at least planted with my seed.

I know they will grow and come up without the aid of a flock of chickens to bring them to the surface, provided of course you do not put them too deep and to avoid this, look for instructions in my Seed and Plant Reporter. Get one at Seed Store, corner of Brock and Water-sts.

A BAD HUMOR CURED.

$5,000 Expended on Doctors and Medicine Without avail. Gave Himself up to Die.

Good Wife Suggests Cuticura Remedies. Uses them 7 Months, and is entirely Cured

I was in the war during 1862-64, and took a heavy cold at Gettysburg, from which I never fully recovered. In 1878 I broke out in sores all over my chest and shoulder, which seemed impossible to cure. I tried all the famed doctors I could find, and to no avail. I expended some five thousand dollars trying to find a cure, but could not, and finally giving myself up to die, my good wife suggested to me, one day, to try the CUTICURA REMEDIES which were so extensively advertised and used. I followed her suggestion, and am happy to say by diligent application of your CUTICURA REMEDIES for seven months I was entirely cured, after spending five years of time and money without avail, and am a sound and well man to-day. You may refer to me if you wish, as I will tell any one who may call on me my experience.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 8, 1891.

BEATRIX RANDOLPH.

BY JULIAN HAWTHORNE.

It was one of the loveliest, least known and most secluded retreats in Europe. The gray and ruinous houses were overgrown with soft green moss, the steep and narrow streets were made beautiful with tender rims of grass. The warm breezes brought thither by the Gulf stream gave to December and January the gentle geniality of an English spring. The sparse inhabitants were a far descended race of fishermen, still bearing in their dark complexions and vigorous forms the traces of their handsome Spanish ancestry.

At the inn, in addition to a most engaging landlady and a couple of extremely pretty daughters, Bellingham encountered to his agreeable surprise an American artist, Helwise by name, whom he had known years ago in New York. This lonely man of genius was, it appeared, in the habit of spending the winter months here, transferring to canvas the matchless wealth of color and character which met him at every turn. He was of a grave, kindly, meditative nature, but brimming over in certain moods with wit and philosophy and the fruits of years of penetrating and amused observation of human character and life. Bellingham and he suited each other well and were soon conversing with the frankness and cordiality of a friendship long in abeyance but never forgotten. Bellingham inquired whether there were any other countrymen of theirs in the town.

"It is like the region Irving tells of in 'The Adalantado of the Seven Cities,'" Helwise replied; "It has been lost for ages, and nobody knows were it is except myself. That is, such was the case until about three weeks ago. But last month two mysterious strangers made their appearance, and have betrayed some symtoms of intending to stay. I should have them expelled, for I consider this place to be my peculiar and inalienable property, had I not found them entertaining as a study, and admirably disposed to keep themselves to themselves. I have never spoken to the lady at all."

"Oh! Husband and wife, are they?"

"Apparently that is just what they are not. No, I don't mean to insinuate—and I don't believe—that they ought to be. I should suppose they might be brother and sister, only they are of different nationalities. The man is evidently an American, and the lady, though she speaks English perfectly well, evidently is not. She is probably four or five years older than he, and has a certain air of experience. She is decidedly handsome, and has what they call distinguished manners; that is, she makes you perceive that they are manners though very good ones. She has rented that large house on the top of the hill."

"She or they?"

"She. He has his room here, and turns up every night at 10 o'clock. They spend the day together; he is undoubtedly in love with her, and she seems to be anything but indifferent to him. You see it isn't an ordinary affair. Here they are, buried from the world beyond discovery, and they might live as they liked; and yet they—or she at any rate—prefer to conduct themselves in this anomalous fashion. There is some mystery in it, my dear Geoffrey—some deep, dark, inscrutable mystery! They are known respectively as Mr. Edwardes and Mrs. Peters, but I have an idea they call each other something else. One theory of mine about them was that she was a younger sister of his mother; his father, you know, might have married a foreign woman. In that case she would be his aunt and the mystery would be solved; but, as I said before, they are plainly in love, and nephews and aunts neither fall in love nor marry, so far as my experience goes. Come, you are fresh from the States; can you guess?"

"I guess not," said Bellingham; and the conversation took another turn.

Suddenly Helwise, who had been looking toward the southern approach to the terrace on which they were standing, said in a low voice: "There come the mysteries. Now you can judge for yourself."

Bellingham turned his eyes in the direction indicated and saw a man and woman approaching slowly, side by side. They seemed to be conversing intermittently, and as they walked her shoulder occasionally brushed his arm and their glances constantly met. The man seemed to be under 23 years of age; he was tall and active and of rather slender build, and as he approached Bellingham noticed that his features were of a bold and striking cast, with bright and somewhat intolerant eyes. His expression at the present moment was troubled and gloomy. He frequently looked on the ground and struck the pebbles from his path with a stick. He would speak a few sentences at a time, energetically and rapidly; then relapse into a moody silence, responding by a shake of the head or other brief gesture to the discourse of his companion.

The latter was a woman whose aspect (if the distinction be permissible) was younger than her looks. Her face and figure were youthful, but her bearing and gestures were mature. Her features were of a clear paleness, regular in outline and of remarkable beauty. Something in her aspect enchained Bellingham's regard; she did not resemble any woman he had seen, and yet she reminded him in some intangible, elusive way of a woman whom he wished to forget. She was different—different at every point; and yet if he turned away and glanced at her from the corner of his eye there was an indescribable likeness. Was it the way she had of slowly lifting her chin? Was it the slope of her shoulders? Was it in the way the soft hair grew on the nape of her white neck? Was it in the smile that lighted her eyes before it touched her lips? It was all of these things—it was none of them! After a minute Bellingham forcibly dismissed the question from his mind. Of what earthly consequence was it?

Coughing

IS Nature's effort to expel foreign substances from the bronchial passages. Frequently, this causes inflammation and the need of an anodyne. No other expectorant or anodyne is equal to Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It assists Nature in ejecting the mucus, allays irritation, induces repose, and is the most popular of all cough cures.

"Of the many preparations before the public for the cure of colds, coughs, bronchitis, and kindred diseases, there is none, within the range of my experience, so reliable as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. For years I was subject to colds, followed by terrible coughs. About four years ago, when so afflicted, I was advised to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral and to lay all other remedies aside. I did so, and within a week was well of my cold and cough. Since then I have always kept this preparation in the house, and feel comparatively secure."—Mrs L. L. Brown, Denmark, Miss.

"A few years ago I took a severe cold which affected my lungs. I had a terrible cough, and passed night after night without sleep. The doctors gave me up. I tried Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which relieved my lungs, induced sleep, and afforded the rest necessary for the recovery of my strength. By the continual use of the Pectoral, a permanent cure was effected."—Horace Fairbrother, Rockingham, Vt.

HER LIFE FOR HER LOVE.

A Pretty Actress Was the Victim of Her Jealousy.

BERLIN, April 8.—Royalty played a leading role in the romantic suicide of Anna Hagimann, the most beautiful actress in the Empire, which occurred yesterday in Munich. She had been driven from the Berlin stage by the brutality of her husband and had been wooed and won by a well-known actor named Boun. They lived at the same hotel, were engaged to be married and seemed happy. The other day after dinner Anna walked to her room and, drawing a revolver, sent a bullet through her heart. The facts developed since her death are interesting. A royal duchess, grandmother of the royal princes and princesses, was also in love with Boun. She used all her artfulness to draw Boun away from his pretty actress. After awhile he listened to her so faithfully that he grew cold towards Miss Hagimann, and in her remorse she ended her life.

READABLE IRISH NOTES.

Captain O'Shea Denies an Assertion of Parnell About His Family Expenses.

LONDON, April 7.—Letters from Captain O'Shea are published relative to the assertion made by Parnell, in Committee room 15 of the House of Commons, to the effect that Captain O'Shea did not pay the expenses of his family while the latter were residing at Elsham. The captain declares that the late Mrs. Wood, Mrs. O'Shea's aunt, under a family arrangement, paid £3000 yearly.

DUBLIN, April 7.—The tide of Irish emigration is unabated. Six liners during the past week took 1246 emigrants, mostly of the farming class, but including a few mechanics or tradesmen from Munster and Connaught. The prospect is that for the next three months the number of emigrants will fully equal that of 1890.

LONDON, April 7.—The lady to whom Mr Parnell is said to have been privately married since the O'Shea divorce suit is the eldest daughter of Mrs. O'Shea. The extreme privacy with which the ceremony was performed is attributed to the fact that the young lady is a ward in chancery. Although she is 21 years of age the marriage could not be lawfully solemnized without the assent of the court, and by his action Mr. Parnell lays himself open to prosecution. Captain O'Shea's friends treat the story as a stupid canard.

The Countess of Zetland, wife of the Viceroy of Ireland, and Miss Balfour, sister of the Chief Secretary for Ireland, have started on a tour of the distressed districts of the western part of the country. Both ladies have been very active in the collection and distribution of funds for the relief of the suffering poor.

At a meeting of the Cork leadership committee the Mayor announced that Mr. Parnell had expressed his willingness to resign his seat in Parliament, but that he (the Mayor) had taken the responsibility of dissuading him from doing so.

Mr. Parnell visited Mr. Kenny at the offices of the National League, Dublin, yesterday, and afterwards returned to London. His next speech in Ireland will be delivered April 19.

The first public meeting of the National Federation was held yesterday in Dublin. Mr. Sexton, who presided, made a speech in which he dwelt upon the rapid and enormous growth of the federation which, he said would soon embody the political strength of Ireland. Michael Davitt, who was appointed secretary of the council, said they must gird themselves for a hard fight with the Tory-Parnellite alliance. T. M. Healy said Mr. Parnell had been reckless enough to stand amid smouldering ruins of his country in order to satisfy his ambition, and that it was impossible to suppose that the extremists, who had always hated him, could continue to support him now unless he was potent enough to drop the constitutional movement.

Wants Money for His Monkey.

LONDON, April 7.—A peculiar international question has arisen at a place called Hofen on the Swiss-German frontier. An Italian who had traversed Switzerland with a performing monkey and a barrel organ crossed the line into Germany. He was arrested for the want of a passport. While he was in prison his monkey, not being properly confined, got loose and injured a child by biting. The monkey was killed. The Italian was released, but now demands compensation for his monkey.

Shouted "Let Her Go Gallagher" and Perished.

SAULT STE. MARIE, April 7.—An unknown Canadian attempted to cross the ice in the channel. There were four men on this side of the open water in the act of putting a boat in the river, and they called to the young man to go back or he would go through. He answered back and said, "Let her go Gallagher." At that instant he went through and was swept under the ice. The body has not been recovered.

Married on a Gallop.

MILAN, Tenn., April 7.—Henry Norton stole Mabel Carr out of the room in which her uncle had locked her at Mortin and, jumping into a carriage, fled before the irate uncle, who was in pursuit. A minister was in the carriage and while the horses were galloping at a 10-mile-an-hour speed the young elopers were joined in holy wedlock.

Shot by a 13-Year Old Boy.

MONTREAL, April 7.—A lad named Lachapelle, 13 years old, shot a playmate named Blais in the thigh. The bullet has not yet been found and Blais is in a serious condition. The boy who did the shooting says it was accidental.

Preference Showed U.S. Fishermen.

HALIFAX, April 7.—The Newfoundland Government has instructed officials to refuse licenses for bait to all Canadian vessels and give them to Americans free. The Legislature was not consulted in the matter. Public sentiment condemns this policy.

Fire at Leamington.

LEAMINGTON, April 7.—A defective chimney to-day caused the destruction of a building owned by A. R. Wiard of Windsor and occupied by J. W. Somers as a dwelling and barber shop. Loss $1000; insured for $800.

Hotel Burned at Listowel.

LISTOWEL, April 7.—The Grand Central Hotel was burned with its contents this morning. Proprietor Rolls and his wife were on a visit to Toronto. The inmates escaped in their nightclothes, and boarders and guests lost their effects. The total loss will exceed $20,000; insurance $15,000.

Imperial Parliament.

LONDON, April 7.—Parliament reconvened to-day. In reply to a question as to the purchase of French rights in Newfoundland, W. H. Smith said that the Government had not received satisfactory communications from France regarding Egyptian occupation; it could not yet make a statement on the Newfoundland question.

Tasted and Died.

MEDICINE HAT, Assa., April 7.—Miss Clara Sanderson tasted the contents of a bottle on a shelf in the pantry. It was strychnine. She lived 15 minutes.

Carling to Remain in the Cabinet.

OTTAWA, April 7.—Cabinet Ministers deny the report that Hon. John Carling is to be made Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario and that Mr. Peter White is to be made Minister of Agriculture. Mr. Carling is to continue in the Cabinet.

Electric Cars for Winnipeg.

WINNIPEG, April 7.—An agreement has been consummated with the Austin Street Car Company to introduce electric cars here.

TURNBULL'S Display.

The Spring Styles shown this season are such a decided change and unusually pretty. We want all to see them to the best advantage and naturally to leave the impression, that for decidedly New and Cheap Goods, Turnbull's is the right place to go for a large selection. Since our store has been thoroughly renovated, the first thing that strikes you on approaching the George-st. entrance is the white front and large show windows handsomely decorated with Fine Millinery Goods, Printed Challies, etc. too numerous to describe, which is but indicative of the clean stock within and our clean and straight-forward manner of doing business. While passing through the stores, even when not intending to buy, you are compelled to stop and price some of the articles on display. Pretty Print Blouses from 50c. each, up to those of Figured Wool Delaine at $1.75. Neat Patterns in Light Prints, narrow, but warranted to wash at 5c. a yd. Novelties in Pearl Bead Frillings at 5c. a frill. White embroidered Apron Lawns at 20c. a yd. Cream and White Curtain Nets, Taped Edge at 15c. to 25c. a yd.

Fine Navy Serges for Boys' Wear at 35c., 40c., 50c. a yd.; Handsome Patterns in Tweed at 50c. a yd.; Nice Cream Damask Table Linen at 20c. a yd. Black and Brocaded Flannelettes just suitable for baby at 15c. a yard. You pass the Dress Goods counter in a hurry, but have to ask what that shimmering, shining material is that is hard to describe. Still everybody falls in love with it, and no wonder the manufacturers call it Gloriosia. On reaching the archway leading into the Simcoe-st. store you are struck with amazement and almost think you have got into midsummer and begin to look around for the bumble bees and humming birds among the flowers. Some of the leading colors are the New Shades in Heliotrope and Lavender, French Grey, Buttercup and Black combined. Most of the Bonnets are small toque shapes, flat, and trimmed at the back with pretty little forget-me-not flowers, jewelled ribbon and lace to match. There is something very pretty for children in Leghorn Hats, trimmed with ruchings of Silk and Lace. We have received late this week a Choice Lot of very pretty Shapes in Hats and Bonnets, also the latest in Flowers from Glasgow. These styles will not be shown elsewhere. Come early and select your patterns before they get picked over.

HORROR AT PETROLEA.

A NITRO-GLYCERINE FACTORY BLOWN UP.

All the Workmen Killed and Their Remains Scattered Over a Five-Acre Field—A Hole in the Ground Marks the Site of the Factory.

PETROLEA, April 8.—About 6.15 this evening an explosion occurred in Bradley's glycerine works, which are situated about half a mile from town towards Martnaville. How the explosion occurred will never be known, as the three workmen, named Albert Bradley, James Chambers and D. McDermant, were instantly killed. Sufficient of their remains have been found to positively identify them. The side of the head and part of the legs of one of them were found about 300 yards from the scene of the accident. How many more were in the building at the time is at present unknown. The five acres on which the building is situated is literally covered with small pieces of bones and flesh and the remains of the three killed, already identified, could be put in a bushel basket. Such an accident has never occurred in Petrolia before, and the scene of the accident is covered with people rendering all assistance possible. Where the building stood is marked by a hole about 15 feet deep and 30 feet across, caused by the force of the explosion of 80 quarts of glycerine. Dr Longheed, the coroner, was summoned and will hold an inquest on the remains to-morrow morning.

Seven Years for His Crime.

LONDON, April 8.—Judge Falconbridge has pronounced sentence of seven years in the penitentiary upon Robert Murray, the murderer of W. A. Rowe of Strathroy.

The Federal Parliament to Fix and Control the Customs.

SYDNEY, N.S.W., April 8.—The Federation Convention have adopted resolutions that the Federal Parliament shall fix and control the customs and that the present tariffs shall remain unchanged pending adoption of a uniform tariff with free trade throughout the federation. A proposal to define the consolidation of the public debt on the basis of £40 per head of the population was rejected, and it was decided to leave that matter to be dealt with by Parliament. The local powers of the Colonial Parliaments have not been touched, but there is a provision that in the event of laws clashing the Federal Parliament shall prevail.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

DISCUSSION IN THE HOUSE ON MINING REGULATIONS.

An Act Which Provides for the Establishment of a Department of Mines—The Scheme Which It is Proposed to Adopt The License Question.

TORONTO, April 9.—Mr. Hardy introduced to the Assembly yesterday the amendments to the acts concerning the mining lands. In doing so, he said, he would not go into particulars of the bills but would indicate the general direction of the Government policy. Their principles were:

1. That the Government shall not readily part with the ownership of their public lands without receiving some adequate consideration for the general uses of the Province, and that when sold it shall be for the bona fide purpose of mining rather than for speculative purposes.

2. To secure as early and rapid a development of the lands as may be possible.

3. To secure a revenue to the province, 1st, by the sale or rental of the lands; 2nd, from the actual workings of the mines by way of royalty. It is sought to secure these ends: (a) by fixing a higher price for the land when sold, and (b) by requiring development within a limited time.

4. To introduce the option of leasehold at an annual rent instead of a grant in fee simple, thus retaining the fee in the crown.

5. In making grants of lands for agricultural purposes to retain the ownership of the minerals in the Crown.

6. The establishment of a bureau of mines and the appointment of a director of mines.

With regard to the last point the Government had considered carefully the representations of the mining convention. It was not probable that the Government would at present be increased by an additional member. There might be arguments in favor of it, but the convention had considered less the general question than the single one of developing the mining interests. The question was too serious a one to rush into. But if the bureau is established the officer in charge would have a position similar to that of Mr. Blue of the Bureau of Statistics. There would also be a mining inspector thoroughly conversant with mining matters and who would eventually become a permanent officer. The director and inspector would have salaries equal to that of a deputy head.

The administration of the license laws was thoroughly ventilated upon the motion of Mr. Willoughby for a return giving minute details by license districts of the amounts collected and expended and the proportion of the license fund to which the municipalities were entitled and the amounts which were actually paid them, all for each year from 1876 to 1890.

Mr. Awrey's bill to amend the Municipal Act by allowing cities, towns or villages to place lands actually used for farm purposes, outside of the limits of such municipalities, met with cruel treatment in spite of his three speeches in its favor. First Mr. Meredith opposed it. Then Mr. Fraser said, in his chilling tones, that Mr. Awrey did not know how far-reaching his bill was. Mr. Awrey said he did. Mr. Fraser replied, still more coldly, that Mr. Awrey in that case comprehended the importance of the bill from the House. Next Mr. Hardy remarked that the bill required a thorough overhauling. The motion for a second reading was greeted with shouts of "lost," but was declared carried on division.

The Speaker entertained at dinner last night these M.P.P.'s: Hon. C. F. Fraser, Mr. McCleary, Mr. Dack, Mr. Conmee, Dr. McKay, Mr. Glendinning, Mr. Kerns, Mr. Carpenter, Mr. Hudson, Mr. Guthrie, Mr. Hammell, Mr. H. Mackenzie, Mr. Tooley Mr. Biezard, Mr. Mack, Dr. Barr, Mr. O'Connor, and also Mr. Tully, Mr. Cameron, Mr. Carlisle, Mr. W. F. Maclean and Dr Chamberlain.

HIS REASON MAY COST HIS LIFE.

From a Maniac's Cell to a Prison Dock

CAYUGA, April 8.—Joseph Locia, an Italian, will be placed on trial at the assizes here to-morrow under circumstances without a parallel in the annals of crime. Three years ago Locia was in the employ of a farmer near this town, and during the absence of the farmer his house was set on fire and the farmer's wife and two children were burned to death. Locia was arrested, but went violently insane and made several attempts to beat his brains out on the cell walls. Finally he was sent to Hamilton asylum. Under the treatment he has received Locia has improved, until a few weeks ago he was pronounced by the resident surgeon as completely cured. He was brought here today heavily handcuffed, and will be placed on trial to-morrow. The trial of Locia will be an interesting one, because it is seldom that a prisoner who commits a crime and is sent to the asylum because of insanity recovers and is put on trial. Locia does not realize that he is to be tried for a terrible crime. He is about 35 years old, swarthy like all Italians. There are three charges of arson and one of murder against Locia.

HARRISON OPPOSED TO IT.

The Reason Why the Reciprocity Negotiations Were Postponed.

NEW YORK, April 8.—A Washington despatch to The Herald says: There will be no reciprocity with Canada under this administration. That much is certain, and the certainty of it is just as well appreciated by one side as the other. Last Thursday Mr. Blaine told Sir Charles Tupper that he would be ready yesterday to open an informal discussion of the matter with Sir Charles and his colleagues. The three gentlemen promptly appeared at the appointed time, only to hear that the President had laid an interdiction to any present consideration of the subject, either formal or informal. The Canadians thereupon left town as promptly as they came, and in high dudgeon. Their return is neither expected nor desired by the President. The action of the President was based upon the consideration that, as there was not the remotest chance of an agreement, nothing was to be gained by the administration of the country by carrying on the semblance of negotiations. Apart from his own reasons for not letting down the McKinley barriers against the introduction here of Canadian live stock and farm and dairy produce, the President had excellent grounds for believing that the Senate would not ratify any reciprocity treaty made with Canada. As soon, therefore, as he learned that Mr. Blaine had agreed to enter upon the discussion of the basis of a treaty he put a veto on the whole business and left Mr. Blaine to invent whatever explanation he deemed proper for postponing the affair indefinitely.

At no season in the year is cold in the head and catarrh more prevalent than during April. To neglect either means misery and perhaps fatal results. Nasal Balm is the only certain remedy for these dangerous diseases, and as a precautionary remedy should be kept in every household. Nasal Balm has cured thousands of sufferers—it will cure you. Try it.

THE PLOT ON THE CZAR'S LIFE.

Further Particulars of the Affair from St. Petersburg.

LONDON, April 8.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of The Daily Telegraph wires from St. Petersburg the following additional particulars of the attempt on the life of the Czar:

"On this Tuesday morning a fresh attempt on the life of the Czar was frustrated, whether by mere accident or by the cleverness of the police is uncertain. To-day is the 25th of March in the Russian calendar and one of the greatest holidays of the year. It is also a great feast day with the Imperial Horse Guards and the Cavalier Guards, which it is customary for the Czar and Czarina, their respective chiefs, to review in the riding-school opposite the palace of the Grand Duke Nicholas. Except the members of the Imperial family no one is admitted to this review without a special invitation issued personally and by name by an aide-de-camp of either regiment. The number is limited to people known to the aides-de-camp or the officers of the regiment. All the military appear in gala uniform and civilians in evening dress.

"There are two small stands erected on either side of the portal through which the Czar and Czarina enter. They are occupied by the guests in the order of their arrival. Those who stand at the end near the door are in very close proximity to His Majesty as he walks into the riding school, and he approaches this entrance twice during the review.

"At 10.30 o'clock this morning a man of middle height and sallow complexion, of Southern type, presented a ticket and took a seat at the extreme end, where the distance between the Czar and himself would not be more than five paces.

"The fact that this man was the first to arrive, that he took this particular stand and did not divest himself of his greatcoat, aroused suspicion. His card of invitation was examined, and doubts arose as to whether a ticket had been issued to any person of his name.

"He was then requested to remove his greatcoat. At first he begged to be excused on the ground that there were very strong draughts in the riding-school, which was true, but immediately afterwards he consented and retired to an ante-room for the purpose of taking it off.

"Here he was arrested by a detective police officer in plain clothes and conducted quietly to prison, where a Smith & Wesson revolver was found in his pocket, together with a globule containing what was supposed to be some powerful poison which the prisoner, whose name, real or assumed, is Skeamsikin, declared to be merely a well-known medicine.

"About three-quarters of an hour after the arrest of Skeamsikin the Czar made his appearance walking slowly up the passage between the stands where, had not the would-be assassin been removed in time, His Majesty must surely have been killed."

"The correspondent goes on to say: "I have just heard, but do not know whether the statement is worthy of credence or not, that the police expected the arrival of Skeamsikin, although his whereabouts was unknown. He is said to have come from some provincial city for the special purpose of attempting the life of the Czar, and the plot is believed to be a continuation of the conspiracy founded by Sophia Gunsberg."

In the foregoing instance history has been almost on the point of repeating itself as to time and place in a Czar's assassination, for it was on March 1 (13), 1881, that the Czar Alexander II., the father of the present Czar of All the Russias, was assassinated near the Manege or riding school. A bomb was thrown, which exploded in the rear of the carriage, injuring several soldiers. The Czar alighted, when a second bomb was thrown, which inflicted frightful and fatal wounds, he living only about two hours after his removal to the palace. One of the assassins was arrested and he and several accomplices were hanged, and the second, who threw the last bomb, was himself wounded by its explosion and died in the hospital without declaring his name.

Sophia Gunsberg, who is credited with being the originator of recent attempts on the present Czar's life, was tried in November, 1889, together with several others, she being charged with being the chief actor in a plot to murder the Czar. She was sentenced to be hanged, but the sentence was not carried out. She is now said to be lingering in a cell in St. Petersburg. It has also been stated that she has died in prison, but of course nothing definite can be known on this head by the outside world.

ELECTION OF BENCHERS.

It Was a Strong Fight; and the Result Contains Certain Surprises—Some "Eminents" Shelved.

TORONTO, April 9.—The lawyers' war between Insiders and Outsiders in the Benchers' election is over and the verdict favors the latter. Seventeen outsiders are elected out of thirty. Mr. Charles Moss, Q.C., who holds second place, is the only Toronto man in the first six. In 1886 the Outsiders numbered 13. 1000 barristers throughout the province, of a possible 1200, voted, and with 30 votes per ballot the total was about 30,000. A Preacher Insults the Queen at a Banquet—The Italian Press on America's God—Interesting Irish Home—Death of a Hero—General Foreign News.

SIMLA, India, April 8.—A letter has been received here from the leader of the Manipuris, declaring that Chief Commissioner J. W. Quinton and all his colleagues, who were taken prisoners at the time of the attack upon the British residency at Manipur, have been murdered. This news is believed here. There has been further fighting near Manipur, and another British officer has been killed. It is presumed this officer is either Lieutenant Grant, who commanded the British force, which recently captured Fort Thaba, or Captain Presgrave, who commanded the detachment of British troops sent to Grant's relief.

Anxiety in Afghanistan.

CALCUTTA, April 8.—The Miranzai disorders are spreading and the Afghans are becoming excited. The conduct of the Ameer of Afghanistan is considered suspicious.

HER MAJESTY'S HEALTH.

Remarkable Scene at an English Banquet—The Queen and the Dissenters.

LONDON, April 8.—At a dinner given last evening by the Devon Congregational Union at Tavistock a sensation was caused by the presiding minister, Mr. R. Davis, who said he could not propose the toast of "The Queen" and that he would, therefore, call upon Rev. Mr. Johnson to perform this task. Mr. Davis added that Johnson might also toast the Prince of Wales and all the gamblers if he chose to do so. Mr. Johnson consequently proposed the toast "The Queen," saying Her Majesty had no more loyal subjects than the dissenters. Thereupon the assemblage, with the exception of the Rev. Mr. Davis and his wife, rose to their feet and sang the National Anthem

FAVA'S RECALL.

The Reason Italy Proposes to Attack America's Strong Box—King Humbert Approves of Fava's Recall.

ROME, April 8.—In the Chamber of Deputies to-day King Humbert said he entirely approved of the conduct of the Italian Government in the matter of the recall of Baron de Fava, adding at the same time that he hoped and desired that an agreement should be arrived at.

Contrary to the foregoing many well-informed people here declare that the Fava recall incident was precipitated on account of the New Orleans affair, in order to afford the Italian Ministry reasons for its failure to effect the promised reductions in the army, navy and other national expenditures.

The Italie expresses the opinion that Americans have but one god—their strong box. It says further: "In this strong box we must strike them, demanding the largest possible indemnity. On their tongues there is but one word, 'dollars.' Let us take advantage of it."

A Model for the Masses.

LONDON, April 8.—The German Socialists are highly indignant over the fact that their great leader Bebel is living in high luxury in Berlin. It is said that Bebel, not satisfied with a house grandly furnished and a select and abundant larder, has one of the finest wine cellars in Berlin and indulges with his friends in the choicest champagnes, tokay and other beverages, while he makes a business of denouncing the luxury and extravagance of capitalists and holding himself forth as a model for the masses.

NEWFOUNDLAND TRADE.

What the Treaty Between the Colony and the United States Contemplated—Reciprocity in Various Products.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—The full text of the treaty between the United States and Newfoundland for the improvement of commercial relations, which was all ready for signature and ratification when the suspension of negotiations was ordered from Great Britain owing to the protest of Canada, is made public. It gives American fishing vessels the same privileges of purchasing bait, trading and procuring supplies as are enjoyed by Newfoundland vessels, and allows the products of Newfoundland fisheries, with the barrels, boxes and cans, etc., in which they are carried, to be admitted into the United States free of duty: "Green" codfish, however, is not included in these products. Under this treaty the duties levied upon the following merchandise imported into Newfoundland from the United States shall not exceed the following amounts, viz.: Flour, 25c. per bbl.; pork, 1½c per lb.; bacon and hams, tongues, smoked beef and sausages, 2½c. per lb. or $2.50 per 112 lbs.; beef, pig's heads, hocks and feet, salted and cured, ½c. per lb.; Indian meal, 25c. per bbl.; peas, 30c. per bbl.; oatmeal, 30c. per bbl. of 200 lbs.; bran, Indian corn and rice, 12½ p.c. ad valorem; salt in bulk, 20c. per ton of 2240 lbs.; kerosene, 6c. per gallon.

Newfoundland is to admit the following articles imported from the United States free of duty: Agricultural implements and machinery imported by agricultural societies for the promotion of agriculture; crushing mills for mining purposes; raw cotton, corn for the manufacture of brooms, gas engines protected by patent, plows and harrows, reaping, raking, plowing, potato-digging and seed-sowing machines to be used in the colony, printing presses and printing types. The treaty provides that if Newfoundland reduces the rates of duty upon the articles named above as dutiable the reduction shall apply to the United States. The treaty is to take effect as soon as the laws required to carry it into operation have been passed by Congress, the Imperial Parliament and the Legislature of Newfoundland. It is to remain in full force for five years from the date at which it comes into operation, and further until 12 months after either contracting party gives notice of its wish to terminate the same. It is provided that ratifications of treaty shall be exchanged on Feb. 1, 1891, or as soon thereafter as practicable.

Newfoundland has appointed Mr. Francis H. Evans, M.P. for Southampton, special commissioner with unlimited power to negotiate with Her Majesty's Government a settlement of the differences between them in regard to the French fishery claims. Mr. Evans has been advised by the Newfoundland authorities that it is necessary to secure an immediate concession of some kind to allay the public feeling in the colony

Capt. Hubley Drowned.

HALIFAX, April 8.—Captain Hubley of the schooner British Queen, lying at Bain & Bennett's wharf, stayed on board the E. W. Forrest until midnight, when he left to go to his own schooner. This morning the captain's body was found floating in the dock.

YOUNG'S POINT.

The Water High—Going to the Northwest—Very Good Roads.

Correspondence of the Review.

THE ROADS.—The roads from here to Peterborough, considering the quantity of snow that lay all winter, are very good to travel over this spring.

HIGH WATER.—The water is going to be very high this spring and no doubt Mr. R. B. Rogers, the superintendent, is having his weather eye open in case of accidents. The grist, saw and shingle mills have had to shut down for too much water, both fore and aft.

THE NORTHWEST.—One of the sons of Mr. Richard Darling, Dummer, accompanied Mr. W. Reid, formerly of this section, to Manitoba a few weeks ago to prospect, and he returned on Saturday last to take out some horses, being so delighted with the country they have taken land and intend to settle down. The farmers were sowing their grain when he was there, in fact he says it is a glorious country. It must be so when people are flocking to it from Uncle Sam's domains also.

BENSFORT BRIEFS.

A Branch of the Patrons of Industry Organized—Other Notes.

Correspondence of the Review.

THE SEASON.—Spring has come, and the farmers are anxiously waiting for the land to dry up so as to get to work putting in the spring crop.

PATRONS OF INDUSTRY.—A farmers' club was organized in Bensfort last week under the name of the Patrons of Industry. The club starts with sixteen members. The officers elected were W. R. Morrison, President, Joseph Wood, Vice-President, John Emberson, Secretary, Freeman Thompson, Treasurer.

THE SHIP COMING.—It is said there are two or three barrels of money coming across the Atlantic ocean heading for Bensfort in which quite a few people in this vicinity are greatly interested. Well, it is to be sincerely hoped that the ship will not get wrecked.

CHEESE FACTORY.—Mr. J. T. Pue, of the Bensfort cheese factory, is busily engaged putting things into shape, laying out milk routes, etc., preparing to commence operations on the first of May.

QUIET.—Everything in our hamlet is very quiet. Business is fair. The prospects of better prices in farm produce is very encouraging.

There is danger in impure blood. There is safety in taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier. 100 doses one dollar.

COLD SPRINGS—OTONABEE.

The Sunday School Hall Project Assuming Form—Other Notes.

Correspondence of the Review.

ROLL OF HONOR.—The following are the names of the pupils of S. S. No. 14, Otonabee, deserving of special mention for the month of March:

Fourth Class.—Charlie Stewart, Willie Welsh, Nettie Stewart.

Senior Third.—Annie Guthrie, Ada Rose, Alex. Huston.

Junior Third.—Henry Rose, Herbert Mitchell, Jennie Huston.

Second Class.—Bert Huston, Ossie Mitchell, Gordon Douglas.

Part Second.—Stephen Rose, Ettie Guthrie, Audrey Spears.

Senior First.—Frank Stewart, Richard Fawcett, Walter Stewart.

Junior First.—Roy Spears, Willie Huston, John Graham.

All those mentioned above, except the first class, and the following deserve special mention for good conduct: Roy Spears, Fred Kennedy, Ernie Welsh, Lorne Brooks, Frank Downer, Marvin Kennedy, Mary Dayell, and Mary Brooks.

SUNDAY SCHOOL HALL.—Everything seems favorable to the erection of the proposed building for Sunday school purposes before very long. Mr. John Burnham, M.P., has generously offered a choice of two free sites, quite a sum of money has been subscribed, and trustees have been appointed to attend to the necessary business connected with its construction. We hope to see it built soon, as it has been a long felt want in this neighborhood.

WEATHER NOTES.—The roads a drying up fast, although of course, the snow and ice still remain in some places. The frosty nights and sunny days may be all very good for maple sugar making, but it is not calculated to help the fall wheat very much, at least so the farmers say.

MEASLES.—This disease has been making itself felt and seen too around here. Several have been trying its effects, but are all agreed that they are not very pleasant. Some have had a very severe attack.

Nearly All Done by the Ladies.

One of the best known, and most experienced advertisers on this continent asserts, that the ladies buy 85 per cent of all goods used and consumed in the home. This is an indication of better judgment, and superior knowledge of the articles bought by them for home consumption. Ladies are much quicker than men in detecting faults and weak points in any household article. It is owing to this care, good judgment, and close scrutiny, that Diamond Dyes now hold such an exalted position. They have been tested and tried year after year, and have never failed; they are always as sure and certain, as night follows day. Other makers vainly attempt to imitate, but their efforts prove futile and barren.

The Nicholls Hospital Trust.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—I have read of the report of the proceedings of the Council with regard to the life trusteeship of certain gentlemen for which special legislation is invoked. Who suggested that these gentlemen should be placed in such an anomalous position and from whom does this application really emanate? I proceed on the assumption that this cannot have originated with the gentlemen themselves, as the mere fact that they are the executors and heirs-at-law of the estate does not indicate any necessity for this way of securing the proper transfer and application of this generous bequest.

I understood as a ratepayer that the requirements from the town on this particular had been complied with before we got the money and therefore a great many thinking men are surprised that any post hoc legislation should have been proposed. It does not appear from the stand the Mayor took in the debate that he was actuated by any consuming desire to represent the town, but rather by what I should call a most absurd as well as ultra-refined and poetic regard for the extremely sensitive feelings of these proposed trustees. One of these gentlemen is, I believe, a salaried treasurer of the Trust and I understand the town helps to pay him. He is also town treasurer. Would not our Mayor be surprised to read a notice in the Gazette of an application for a life seat in the Council for him? And yet the cases are parallel. One of the only two reasons assigned for this extraordinary move is the inability to get a quorum of the trustees. This can be corrected by the Council's appointing a committee. At any rate it is manifestly no reason at all.

Yours, &c.
TAX-PAYER

Re Trent Valley Canal.

To the Editor of the Review.

DEAR SIR,—At the large and influential meeting of the Trent Valley Canal Association held yesterday in the Council Chamber, the delegates present and representatives of all the counties and towns along the route from the Bay of Quinte to the Georgian Bay by their voice and votes, expressed the unanimous opinion that the Government should in addition to putting a promised grant in the estimates at the forthcoming session, be urged to put the whole work under contract and carry it to completion in its entirety at the earliest day possible. But, as you are all aware, the Trent Valley Canal is not the only desirable public work in the Dominion, the claims of which will be presented for Government aid. It is most important that the good work the Association has done in the past should be continued and the claims of Trent Valley Canal be continually to the fore and that the Association should carry all the weight possible. It is most desirable that the whole community they represent should back them up, which they can only do with an intelligent knowledge of the merits of the scheme. To that end I would humbly suggest that Mr. Carnegie, the able and energetic secretary of the Association, should get up a report in concise and convenient form, founded entirely upon the evidence given before the royal commission, for general circulation, somewhat in the style of the verbal address he delivered before the Association yesterday on the subject, and which I know was highly appreciated by others present as well as myself. And I trust, Mr. Editor, that the importance of this matter will be accepted as a sufficient excuse for taking up so much valuable space in your paper.

Yours truly,
H. T. STRICKLAND.

Prompt Measures Question.

To the Editor of the Review

SIR,—I ask the use of your columns to call the attention of our municipal authorities to a well-known public danger which has thrust itself upon me so urgently and so repeatedly that I can no longer keep silent. I refer to the drainage of the town. The urgent need of this has been so long felt and privately spoken of on all sides, and in public we have heard of schemes, deputations, and vague indications that sometime in the future something will be done. And yet, what is the sanitary condition of Peterborough to-day? It is well for the town's good name that the answer cannot come from unnumbered deposits of liquid and solid impurities festering with disease-germs, and now being quickened into destructive life and action by the warm rays of spring sunlight.

But if our people will persist in keeping these unpleasant things out of sight and out of mind, another answer will yet make itself heard—yes it is making itself heard this week—from beds of suffering and from open graves. Standing by one of those graves yesterday a leading physician remarked: "The day is quickly coming when this town will suddenly awake to the fact that some people have terribly neglected their responsibilities."

I don't intend this letter as any sweeping criticism of our civic legislators. Greatly do they deserve our gratitude for the enterprising steps which they have taken to increase the town's resources and population, but I would respectfully suggest that they have also an immediate duty in providing for the health of present citizens. It may be that they are preparing to take steps in this matter. If so, cannot these steps be hastened? There are such words as "too late." England found this out after taking carefully-considered steps towards the rescue of General Gordon. I am,

Yours, etc.,
J. C. DAVIDSON.

A Pleasant Herb Drink—A Spring Medicine.

The druggists tell us that the people call daily for the new cure for constipation and sick-headache discovered by Dr. Silas Lane. It is said to be Oregon grape root (a great remedy in the far west for those complaints) combined with simple herbs, and is made for use by pouring on boiling water to draw out the strength. It sell at 50c and $1 a package and is called Lane's Family Medicine.

Gorton's Minstrels.

Of the entertainment to be given by the above company at the opera house Tuesday evening, the Helena, Mont., Daily Independent says:—"The biggest audience of the season greeted Gorton's New Orleans Minstrels at Ming's last evening and for two hours and a half enjoyed good fun. It is the best minstrel troupe seen in Helena in a long time. While small in numbers, compared with some mastodonic affairs, it is made up of good comedians and clever musicians. The brass band is particularly good and the open air concert was well worth hearing. The programme consisted of the usual first part and several excellent features, the best of which was the clog dancing. It was the best ever seen in Helena." 1d

HAVELOCK HAPPENINGS.

To the Editor of the Review.

A PICTORIAL TREAT.—On the evening of Tuesday, the 21st inst., will be given in the school house, Havelock, under the auspices of the Church of England, a very interesting pictorial entertainment by Mr. R. M. Roy. This will include a series of pictures illuminated by a powerful light, and will form an interesting and instructive lecture covering points of interest in many lands. The admission fee is reasonable and there should be a good attendance.

Why go about hawking and spitting when Nasal Balm will remove every vestige of your catarrh, and thus relieve you of this disagreeable habit? In cases of cold in the head, Nasal Balm gives instant relief, and there is no case of catarrh it will not cure if used according to directions. A single bottle will convince you of its merit.

FITZSIMMONS ARRAIGNED.

The Murderer Firm and Pleasant, While His Wife Was Haggard and Worn.

PITTSBURG, April 7.—That accomplished Canadian crook and desperado, Fred C. Fitzsimmons, was out of jail to-day long enough to hear Detective Murphy tell Coroner McDowell's jury how Fitzsimmons had murdered Detective Gilkinson a fortnight ago.

Fitzsimmons' face was pale, but he met the gaze of the crowd unflinchingly. He was dressed in a neat black suit, sack coat, wore a stand-up collar, black tie and black Derby hat wound with a band of crape, an emblem of mourning for his father, who recently died. His wife presented a strange contrast as she limped along on a heavy cane. She wore a dress of very plain faded black, a cheap black sailor hat, with scanty black trimmings, and a faded shawl of uncertain hue. As they were seated Fitzsimmons looked the dapper gentleman, with his well-combed hair slightly tinged with grey, and his closely cropped brown mustache. He is unmistakably intelligent, and after a few moments assumed a pleasant cast of countenance and frequently indulged in faint smiles. His wife was a weary, worn and faded old woman after she had calmed herself, and often leaned her head against the wall with her hands over her eyes as if to shut out the scene and fortify herself against dark misgivings. Near Fitzsimmons stood a neatly-dressed young man with fine face and jet-black mustache, who wore his hair pompadour. This proved to be the prisoner's brother, who had just arrived from Brockville, Canada. He remained during the hearing, and left with his identity known to only three or four persons in the room.

When Fitzsimmons stood up to hear the verdict it was plain that it required a great effort for him to maintain his composure. While the commitments were being made out he was the pleasantest person in the party of five prisoners, and chatted freely.

Again on Fire.

Mr. Michel Levecque's house on Louis-st., which was damaged by fire some time ago and was being rebuilt, was again on fire this morning. The fire commenced in the wall and did considerable damage, but the prompt work of the brigade subdued the flames.

The Only Strictly Cash House in Town.

W. J. Morrow's great cash sale is meeting with unbounded success owing to the great drop in prices. No bad debts to cause us to add a certain percentage on the cost of goods, we are sure of every dollar's worth sold. We are making it rather warm for other houses, but we can't help it. We must sell cheap and secure the trade of the town. d63-w15

Two Eggs that Were Laid as One.

Quite a curiosity in hen fruit is on exhibition in the window of Messrs. Stapleton & Elcombe's store, in the shape of two good-sized eggs which are joined together and were laid by an enterprising hen owned by Mr. E. J. Hopkins, of Chamberlain-st. The eggs are soft-shelled, and the joining link is of the same substance as the egg.

Burglary at Norwood.

Mr. J. B. Pearce's store in Norwood, was entered by burglars one night last week, says the Star, but fortunately they were disappointed in getting very much cash, as there was but a small amount, some $16 or $20, principally in scrip, in the drawers. The marauders, however, made free with the goods in the store, the quantity carried away being difficult to particularize or estimate the value of.

Y.M.C.A. Notes.

The monthly meeting of the Board of Directors was held Tuesday evening. Mr. Early, President, occupied the chair. The attendance was large. Interesting reports of the work for the past month were read from the Devotional, Finance, Reception, and Invitation Committees, also from Rescue Brigade and General Secretary. Several new members were elected and a large amount of important business transacted. A committee was appointed to arrange for the coming of Mr. T. S. Cole, Travelling Secretary, to push the canvass for the new building during this month. We hope to be able to secure enough to put up and equip our new "home" free from debt. A local architect is now preparing plans for adoption. We know He who put it into Mrs. Nicholls' heart to give her munificent bequest can supply the balance to complete it. Our trust is in God.

TRENT VALLEY CANAL.

A LARGE DEPUTATION TO PROCEED TO OTTAWA.

The People of the Midland District United for Securing the Whole Canal—Asking to Have Contracts Let at Once.

A meeting called by the Trent Valley Canal Association was held in the Town Council Chamber yesterday afternoon to consider matters connected with that undertaking. There was a large attendance and the meeting was a unit in favor of pressing for the completion of the Canal from Georgian Bay to the Bay of Quinte. Copies of the report of the commissioners were distributed before the opening of the meeting.

Mr. Jas. Stevenson, M.P., President of the Association, presided. Among those present were: Messrs. John Carnegie, Secretary of the Association, John Burnham, M.P., F. Madill, M. P. of Beaverton, J. A. Barron, M.P., Lindsay, A. Stabback, Warden of Victoria, F. Elmhirst, Warden of Peterborough, Col. Deacon, P. Fisher, Reeve, and Kylie, of Lindsay, Geo. Stewart, Reeve of Otonabee, Geo. Hilliard, ex-M.P., Col. R. Z. Rogers, Grafton, John Moloney, Reeve of Douro, J. B. Horrell, Mayor of Midland, A. W. Hawley, Mayor, G. W. Ostrom, ex-M.P.P., D. R. Murphy and Jas. H. Peck, of Trenton, T. S. Graham, Bradford, M. J. Frauley, Barrie, W. H. Casement, Reeve of Lakefield, A. R. Kidd, Reeve of Dummer, W. H. Meldrum, President, and J. H. Burnham, Secretary of the Peterborough Board of Trade, Councillors W. H. Moore, Thos. Cahill, Thos. Kelly, R. H. D. Hall and T. E. Bradburn, of Peterborough, Edg. Pearse, County Clerk of Peterborough, A. P. Poussette, Q.C., R. C. Strickland, of Lakefield, J. E. Belcher, C.E., Geo. Ramsey, C.E., R. B. Rogers, C.E., of Peterborough, Capt. Bottom, Reeve of Bobcaygeon, F. W. Fowlds, Hastings, J. P. Strickland, Lakefield, J. M. Irwin, H. T. Strickland, John Green, E. Phelan, Macfarlane Wilson, E. A. Peck, H. Phelan, R. Fair, W. H. Law, F. H. Dobbin, W. H. Robertson, D. W. Dumble, R. Mulholland, T. Cavanagh, E. Green, W. Henderson, E. B. Edwards, C. Wynne, of Peterborough, Bulmer, of Smith, and others.

A letter regretting his inability to be present was read from Mr. Chas. Fairbairn, M.P., in which he reiterated his interest in the canal scheme.

THE PROSPECTS.

The CHAIRMAN, in opening the meeting, said they had got the matter in such a shape that they would secure more work being done. The Government was alive to the importance of the work, and undoubtedly the estimates at the coming session would contain an appropriation for the work. They wanted the entire work, the whole canal, completed, and they wanted the assistance of all in obtaining that. If they were true to their own interests the work would be carried out. They had Government supporters now in the House along the line of the canal, and had the assurance of an important number of the Government that an appropriation would be made, and they were in a good position. The Secretary, Mr. Carnegie, had taken an active part in forwarding the canal, had gathered evidence and had attended the sessions of the commission, and he deserved their heartiest thanks.

BENEFITS OF THE CANAL.

Mr. CARNEGIE, the Secretary, then read the notice calling the meeting. He referred to the evidence first taken by the Commission, from opponents of the canal, and the blue lookout for the canal in the beginning, but notwithstanding that they had a unanimous report which was very satisfactory and was actually in favor of the whole scheme. While the report was favorable, the evidence, which would make quite a volume, would be valuable. He pointed out the gain the canal would give in freight rates as shown by the evidence. The Erie canal boats went out as far as Seabright along the ocean, and when that was done there would surely be no difficulty in barges on this canal bringing coal across the lake. A calculation based on the census of 1881 showed that the population of the district directly interested in the canal was larger than the population of either Prince Edward Island or New Brunswick, and it produced more and paid more revenue into the public treasury than either of these Provinces. The Government would not be doing its duty if it had not all the sections under contract before a year.

Col. DEACON assured the meeting that the county of Victoria would co-operate with them and give all the moral support it could. The western men should thoroughly understand that it was the whole canal they wanted.

Mr. J. A. BARRON, M.P., said he believed his action in the House had shown the Government that there were some members of the Opposition who would support them in completing this work if they carried it forward. He was heartily in favor of the completion of the canal. The work must be looked upon, as it was, a great national work, and no sectional feeling should be permitted to interfere with the completion of the whole work. He suggested a committee to select the section first to be proceeded with.

Mr. GEO. HILLIARD said they should not speculate as to whether the Government would complete the work, for it was committed to the whole scheme.

Mr. D. R. MURPHY, of Trenton, expressed his confidence in the canal and the benefits it would give, and his pleasure with the report of the commissioners. He believed it was their duty to go to the Government and ask for an appropriation of $1,000,000, $250,000 for the western section and $375,000 each for the central and eastern sections. If the Trenton-Frankford section was completed it would ensure the completion of the whole work. There was no use of mincing matters in regard to the canal, and they should insist firmly on the Government going on with the work.

Mr. D. W. DUMBLE said he interpreted the commissioners' report by reading between the lines. It was guardedly written, and he believed was framed in order to best serve the purpose by getting the work begun, when time would bring the completion. His view was that in asking in the line of the report they would be strengthened, and would disarm opposition, by treating it as a local work for the present. The report had skilfully referred to the extensive lake shore line that would be opened by the completion of the central section and they would have a strong case in asking for that section to be built and the others would come.

Mr. CARNEGIE said that the report recommended strongly much more than the central section, and he saw no reason why they should abandon the grip that gave them for merely one section. Besides they wanted an opening to Lake Ontario. He stood by the whole canal; for the completion of the canal from Balsam Lake down would not enable the millers to bring down wheat from the West, or their manufacturers to send machinery by barge to the Georgian Bay. This was the route for the grain trade from the West. What they wanted was to get the three sections under contract.

Mr. MURPHY said that the Hurontario ship railway scheme had been revived because they had not pushed forward their scheme as they should. He contrasted the two schemes, showing the advantages of the Trent scheme.

Mr. HILLIARD dwelt upon some of the benefits of the canal.

TO PRESS FOR THE ENTIRE CANAL.

Mr. JOHN BURNHAM, M.P., advocated the canal, not for local reasons, but because it would benefit the whole Dominion. He moved, seconded by Mr. W. H. CASEMENT,—That this meeting is of the opinion that the Trent Valley Canal from Georgian Bay to the Bay of Quinte should be constructed and that the construction of the whole work should be pressed upon the Government.

Mr. FRAULEY, of Barrie, said that Barrie was earnestly in favor of the completion of the canal. He pointed out that the building of the section from Balsam Lake to Lake Simcoe, seventeen miles, would open up over 180 miles. They wanted the whole canal, and were not much concerned about what sections were built first. They would send a large deputation to Ottawa. Whether the canal would have its outlet at Nottawasaga Bay or Matchedash Bay they would give it their undivided support.

The resolution was carried.

A DEPUTATION TO OTTAWA.

Col. DEACON moved, seconded by Mr. W. H. MELDRUM,—That the Chairman and Secretary request by circular that Wardens of the counties of Simcoe, Ontario, Victoria, Peterborough, Prince Edward, York, Northumberland and Hastings, the Reeves the several municipalities, and Presidents of the Boards of Trade in the said counties to form a deputation to proceed to Ottawa for the purpose of urging upon the Minister of Railways and Canals the expediency and necessity of placing under contract the portions of the Trent Valley Canal, as recommended by the report of the commissioners, including the Balsam Lake section, and arrange for a day for the deputation to go to Ottawa.

After some discussion this resolution was also carried, and the meeting adjourned.

ASHBURNHAM SCHOOL BOARD.

A Regular Meeting of the Village Trustees—The Business Transacted.

The Ashburnham School Board held the regular monthly meeting in the school house on Tuesday evening, 7th inst.

Present: Chairman E. A. Peck, and Trustees Gieyer, Ingram, Wright and Adams. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

The following report of attendance for the last three months was submitted. The comparatively small attendance during March is accounted for by the fact that children have been detained at home afflicted with an enormity of complaints now very prevalent.

BRIGHTNESS AND PLENTY.

The Golden Lion's Complete Stock and Cheery Quarters.

The Golden Lion—Mr. Robert Fair's store—never looked brighter and never had a more complete stock than at present. The store has been known as as a pleasant one to do business in, but the changes some time ago made in the premises have increased the comfort of it. Attracted by the fine display a reporter entered the store and found that the alterations referred to served to increase the fineness of the spring display. The large hall that formerly served as an entrance to the upper parts of the building have been taken away, which has added considerably to the width of the store and has improved the light in the centre very much, making it more cheerful and more convenient for customers. The ceilings have received attention and have been beautifully whitened. The millinery room, brightly lighted by a well light, has received a fine new linoleum and has been repapered, making it cheery and attractive, especially with the fine display in it. The former mantle order department on the second floor has been given up to the ready made mantles. The room is provided with cosy rocking chairs and the wall adorned with pictures, making it very attractive. In the mantle cloth room, which is brightly lighted, the shelves have been removed and replaced by tables, which is an improvement that is at once noticed, as it gives the room a more striking appearance. Evidence of Mr. Fair's increasing trade in carpets is seen in the enlarged carpet department, with the large stock of tapestry, velvet, Brussels and other handsome carpets. Large mirrors in these rooms add greatly to the attractive appearance of them. The mantle order department occupies cheery quarters in the front of the second floor, where the efficient staff make up the fine articles sent out from this department. The office in the store, occupied by Miss Thompson, the bookkeeper, has also been brightened up and a handsome chandelier added. The roof of the building, strained probably by the attraction of the fine displays below it, has been strengthened by a trestle.

The store is now a very complete one—spacious, convenient, well lighted and cheerful. The stock in all the departments is large, well selected and most complete. The members of the staff are pleasant, courteous and efficient, and with such a capable head as Mr. Fair, and such thorough accessories, it is no wonder that the Golden Lion is doing a large and increasing business.

LAKEFIELD LOCALS.

A Young Author's First Work—The Cruiser Rechristened—A New Factory.

Correspondence of the Review.

HIS FIRST WORK.—Master Percy F. Johnston, son of Rev. F. Johnston of our village, has developed an ability in the way of literary composition that is remarkable in a boy of his years, his age being only 12. He has written, as a first effort, a tale entitled "The Earl's Son, A Tale of the Crusades," which is now in press and will be issued in a short time. As a boy's view of the stirring times depicted, the story is well conceived and written, and Master Johnston is combining the commercial interest with literary work for the little book will be offered for sale as soon as published. He has already taken many orders for copies and will doubtless readily dispose of the edition. His boy friends are anxiously awaiting its appearance, remembering that Lakefield has already, through gifted writers, contributed to Canadian literary work a right good portion.

CHANGE OF NAME.—Capt. Reynolds has received permission from the Minister of Marine to change the name of the "Cruiser" to "The Golden City," by which name it will in future be known. "The Golden City" has had a thorough over-hauling and has had twenty feet added to her length, and when completed she will be in first-class shape for the passenger service of the Lakefield and Stony Lake route. The Captain is sparing no pains to make her comfortable and complete in every respect.

MILLINERY OPENING.—R. Graham & Son's millinery opening was a grand success, a great many having visited their establishment to inspect their millinery opening, which is always an event with the ladies. The show rooms were nicely decorated, and their display of trimmed millinery was greatly admired, and many words of approval were heard as to the good taste and obliging manner of the milliner, Miss Coburn, who is kept busy showing the latest hats, bonnets, etc. To those who have not visited their show rooms, we would advise you to make an effort to visit them. You will be pleased.

NEW FACTORY.—It is rumored that a new factory is to be started here for the manufacture of oiled clothing. We hope it is correct and shall wish it every success.

PERSONAL.—After spending the Easter holidays at home Mr. Bert. Sherin, Misses Minnie Finney and Minnie Graham have returned to school again at Norwood and Peterborough......Mr. D. M. Hunter has been appointed teacher at Stockdale's school, Harvey, for the balance of the year.......Mr. W. R. Montgomery, of Norwood, spent his short Easter vacation at home.......Mr. H. Aunt Jack.

Opera House, Thursday, April 16th. It would be difficult to find a more enjoyable attraction than "Aunt Jack" the famous comedy which had such a prosperous run at the Madison Square Theatre last season. The story is interesting and humorous and the plot develops some very ludicrous situations in which the various characters are placed. The counsel for the defendant in a breach of promise suit makes love to the plaintiff without knowing her connection with the case. The plaintiff's nephew is secretly married to the defendant's niece and many amusing complications are the result of the entanglement. "Aunt Jack" may be described as a farcial comedy of the refined order, full of mirth and unrestrained jollity. It is presented by a company of excellent comedians, including Charles Bowser as "Berkeley Brue," Mr. Chas. W. Butler as "Jullis," and Miss Ffolliott Paget as "Aunt Jack." The engagement at the Opera House is limited to one night, Thursday, April 16th. The sale of seats opens at Greatrex Drug Store, Saturday, April 11th. There will no doubt be a crowded house to welcome "Aunt Jack" to Peterborough. 1d88

THURSDAY, APRIL 9, 1891.

BEATRIX RANDOLPH.

BY JULIAN HAWTHORNE.

Here were a good-looking woman and an enamored young man, a common sight enough. They seemed to be in love with each other, as Helwise had said; but while the gentleman had evidently lost his head the lady was entirely self possessed. She seemed to be amused superficially at some extravagance or perversity in her companion, but there was an underlying sadness or anxiety perceptible when her face was at rest. She had the air of trying to make him take some step or comprehend something which he refused to do or understand. As they passed the young man glanced for a moment toward Helwise and nodded recognition. The lady did not turn, nor evince consciousness of the presence of any third party. They slowly traversed the length of the terrace and disappeared through the gateway at the farther end.

"She knows how to dress," remarked Bellingham.

"And how to walk," added Helwise. "She must have learned that on the stage."

"An actress, then, you think?"

"Yes; or an opera singer, perhaps. Well, what do you think is the matter?"

"He hasn't money enough, may be," said Bellingham; "or perhaps she likes him too well to marry him. A woman like that knows that an ounce of imagination is worth a pound of reality—both to her and to him!"

"You have studied women since I knew you last," remarked Helwise with a smile.

"If I have," replied Geoffrey, "they have only taught me to disbelieve the little I ever thought I knew. Come, let us be moving."

That night Bellingham dreamt vividly of Mlle. Marana, and his dream awakened him before dawn in great distress of mind. He imagined that he was walking across the Brooklyn bridge, which on this occasion extended from the roof of the opera house in New York to the parapet of the terrace where he had sat with Helwise that afternoon. The bridge was unfinished, and he was obliged to make the transit on a series of precarious planks irregularly disposed. When midway across the Atlantic, whose angry roar reached his ears from the immeasurable depth beneath, he saw walking before him the figure of a woman, in whom he at once recognized Mlle. Marana. He hastened to overtake her, for she seemed in imminent danger of falling.

Just as he was on the point of reaching her, however, the plank on which he stood gave way, and at the same moment she whom he had meant to save tottered and fell. He closed his eyes for an instant; then he felt his arm seized by some one from behind, and, looking round, he found himself standing on the stage of the opera house, with Marana herself before him in the costume of Marguerite, with a bunch of daisies in her girdle. He heard the applause of the audience, like the roar of the sea, and perceived that the performance was going forward, and that he, instead of being properly attired, was in his every day dress. It came across his mind also that the figure he had mistaken for Marana was Mephistopheles, disguised to mislead him. He looked at Marguerite; her face was deathly pale. She said below her breath, "You did not believe in me; do you know who"— Her voice died away, the lights were suddenly extinguished, and in the silence and darkness Bellingham awoke.

Too much disturbed to sleep again—for the dream, grotesquely extravagant though it was, had seemed absolutely real to him—he got up, lit a pipe, and sat smoking at his window watching the dawn slowly illuminate the eastern sky.

He took an early breakfast and went for a solitary walk along the coast, and from the summit of a lofty headland saw a great ocean steamer pass westward through the gray sea. She was bound for New York. As he watched her diminish and vanish in the distance, till only a faint plume of smoke remained on the far horizon, for the first time since his journey began he was conscious of an urgent longing to return—to return at once. The unfinished question in his dream kept ringing in his ears, it assumed a momentous importance; he must know what it meant. He laughed at his own absurdity, but the longing remained. At last he returned to the inn.

He found Helwise painting in the room he used as a studio; he was in his shirt sleeves, slippers down at the heel were on his feet, and he wore an old straw hat to shade his eyes from the light. He was whistling softly to himself, and would turn his head on one side after putting a touch on the canvas.

"Did you hear any noise last night?" he asked after they had chatted for a while.

"I had a bad dream. What was it?"

"That young fellow who calls himself Edwardes. His room is next to mine. He came in a little later than usual last night, and by and by I fancied I heard him crying. I was debating whether I ought to go in and see what was the matter, when he knocked at my door. He looked badly cut up. I made him sit down and gave him some whiskey and a cigarette. He seems to be in a scrape."

"Did he explain the mystery?"

"Well, he talked somewhat. He fell in love with this woman in Moscow. From what he said I judge she is an actress or a singer, as we were saying yesterday. She is a public character of some kind, and has had adventures before this. She took a great fancy to him, so he says, and I believe him. But it seems to have been somewhat as you suggested; she liked him too well to let him have his way. She wouldn't risk a disillusionment; perhaps her heart had never been touched before. She would not marry him, either: for that matter, I suppose the one thing is about the same to her as the other. But she did an odd thing—she offered to suspend her career, whatever it is, and be with him as long as he wished. And she appears to have given up some important pecuniary advantage to do so. He accepted her offer, thinking no doubt that she would capitulate in due time, in the meanwhile taking care that she should lose nothing in the way of money. He represented himself to her as inexhaustibly wealthy, and she took him at his word. But the fact is, after he had spent a hundred thousand or so, and ruined his father and sister, as he tells me, there was no more left. He was ashamed to confess this to her, and it is only within the last few days, when he had got down to his last fifty pound note, that she found it out."

G. W. Porter Deserts His Wife, Elopes With a Belle and Makes Oronhyatekha Mourn.

TORONTO, April 9.—The members of the Independent Order of Foresters were pretty well excited yesterday, and all on account of the manœuvres of a gay young man in Kansas City, G. W. Porter by name, who has been a moving spirit in the organization of courts in the Western States. The chief strength of the order is in Canada, the headquarters being in this city, but it has been gradually spreading westward owing greatly to Porter's zeal. He induced a large number of young men to join and was always on the lookout for proselytes. His labors were rewarded by his being elected High Chief Ranger of the court in Missouri, but the tempter came in the person of Pearl Johnson, a veritable belle, who, a few days ago, induced Porter to leave his home and his wife and to follow her to the east. He appropriated considerable of the court's funds, and the pair have not since been heard from. The matter was reported to Dr. Oronhyatekha, supreme chief ranger of the order, whose offices are in the Dominion Bank chambers. A telegram was sent ordering Porter's arrest for embezzlement, and every effort is being made to capture him. Dr. Oronhyatekha was seen yesterday in connection with the affair. He seemed very troubled over the downfall of such a high officer in the order. "You see," said the Doctor, "Porter has been marrying on the European plan, and this is not allowed by the laws of the land, much less by the rules of our order. His defalcations can't amount to very much, for the financial department of the whole order is managed here in my office. We, of course, feel keenly the stigma which results from his action. There is no question about his immorality, and he will be expelled from the order at the first meeting of the executive."

Mrs. Porter is now seeking to find whether her husband has applied for a divorce from her.

He is Now a Happy Man.

It is astonishing with what rapidity the troubles of men and women are removed, and the dregs of old maladies effectually eradicated. A gentleman well known in Allandale, Ont., and a Grand Trunk Railway Fuel Inspector, writes strongly in favor of Paine's Celery Compound.

Mr. R. Sullivan David says:—"I duly received the two bottles of Paine's Celery Compound, and I cannot speak too highly of its efficacy. At time of their receipt I was very much troubled with my right kidney—the remains of "La Grippe" a year ago, and before I completed one bottle I was completely free from all ills, I am pleased to say. I still now and then take a dose or two for "Auld Lang Syne" solely. I sincerely trust that you may have success with this grand medicine."

The drug trade of Canada positively assert that Paine's Celery Compound is the leading remedy of the times, and that its value is so firmly established that it has become the great remedy in every home.

Indigestion

IS not only a distressing complaint, of itself, but, by causing the blood to become depraved and the system enfeebled, is the parent of innumerable maladies. That Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the best cure for Indigestion, even when complicated with Liver Complaint, is proved by the following testimony from Mrs. Joseph Lake, of Brockway Centre, Mich.:—

"Liver complaint and indigestion made my life a burden and came near ending my existence. For more than four years I suffered untold agony, was reduced almost to a skeleton, and hardly had strength to drag myself about. All kinds of food distressed me, and only the most delicate could be digested at all. Within the time mentioned several physicians treated me without giving relief. Nothing that I took seemed to do any permanent good until I commenced the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which has produced wonderful results. Soon after commencing to take the Sarsaparilla I could see an improvement in my condition. My appetite began to return and with it came the ability to digest all the food taken, my strength improved each day, and after a few months of faithful attention to your directions, I found myself a well woman, able to attend to all household duties. The medicine has given me a new lease of life."
